RAWDON

Mr., Mrs. Andrew Hay Mark 50 Years of Married Life

RAWDON — A delightful surprise party was held on the evening of March 7 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hay, 4th concession Rawdon, when friends station, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The party was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth R. Parr, and Mr. Parr, Seymour East, in the Burnhrese district.

The rooms were a flower of beauty with baskets of white snapdragons and yellow daffodils. The dining room was decorated in a color scheme of white and gold crepe streamers, with the tiered wedding cake, decorated and lettered in gold as a central theme on the lace covered table, flanked by white and gold candelabra.

The evening was a delightful surprise to the honored couple and guests were in attendance from Peterborough, Port Hope, Brougham, Ontario and nearby points.

The guests played euchre and other games while others reminisced of bygone days. Flash pictures were taken during the evening as a lasting memento of the happy occasion.

Bertha Thompson and Andrew Hay were married March 7, 1906 at the home of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Allan's Mills, with the late Rev. J. E. Smith, of Burnbrae Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Andrew Hay was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hay, 7th concession of Seymour township.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Everton Wagar, Napanee, the former Edith Thompson, sister of the bride. The groomsman was Mr. Thomas Hay, brother of the bridegroom. They are both deceased.

SUCCESSFUL FARMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Hay have resided on the fourth concession of Rawdon ever since their marriage, where they have farmed successfully and have a host of friends, who extend congratulations at this time.

They have two sons, Clarence Hay, who resides with his parents on the homestead, and Earl Hay, of Percy township, in Northumberland county; one daughter (Florence), Mrs. Kenneth E. Parr of Seymour East. They have eight grandchildren, and two great granddaughters. Mrs. Hay has a brother, Mr. Wilson Thompson, of Marmora

Mr. Hay has two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Watson, Vantage, Sask.; Mrs. Garnet Grills, English line, in Seymour township., and two brothers, John Hay, Peterborough and Lorne Hay, English line.

During the evening the jubilarians were the recipients of a lazy boy chair from their family and an electric floor lamp from their grandchildren. They also received numerous gifts from relatives and friends.

A delicious luncheon was served which included a special bride's cake. Following the anniversary cake ceremony this was also cut and shared by the guests.

Among those in attendance from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. John Hay, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McKnight and family, Fort Hope; Miss Ruth Gillman, of Brougham, Ontario, and Mr. Bill Hay, Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Finch, of Springbrook, called on his brother, Lindsay, Mrs. Finch and boys on Sunday evening.

Weather is always a good subject of conversation, but lately, it has given a bit more to talk about than usual, with a baby hurricane and an all-night sleet storm, as well as snow, an almost steady diet, for the past week. All are hoping this is the clean-up of all the bad weather for this winter. Crows have been seen here all during the winter, whenever a mild day came along. The ninth-line woodchuck still counts out on the nicer days, too. The storm in the middle of the week closed the school and stopped the high school bus for a day.

EDEN WINS

In Greece, Archbishop Spyridon, the Greek primate, called for a "nation-wide half hour of silence" next Friday morning as a protest against the deportation of the Greek Orthodox archbishop.

Eden said the exiled archbishop not only refused to restrain the terrorists, but by his silence he was taken to approve assassination and murder.

ARRIVES IN EXILE

The archbishop, spiritual and political leader of 400,000 Greek-speaking Cypriots, was ousted from Cyprus with three aides last weekend. They arrived Wednesday at their place of exile—the remote Seychelles islands in the Indian ocean.

Labor critics, led by left-winger Aneurin Bevan, argued in the Commons debate that Eden's government should have made new efforts to continue negotiations with the archbishop.

Eden replied his government had done all it could to establish self-government on Cyprus, but that the archbishop had continually made fresh demands. He had concluded that "the archbishop would only in the end agree to terms which gave him virtual control of the island."

Eden's remarks were also obviously aimed at the United States, whose ambassador to Greece, Cavendish Cannon, infuriated Britons by voicing the U.S. government's "sympathetic concern" to the Greek government and praising what he called "the dignity and statesmanship" of Greek authorities.

PROTEST TO U. S.

This brought a British protest to Washington. There, the state department hurriedly announced the U. S. was taking neither side, and offered to help find a "fair and just solution."

"If Americans really want to help," The Daily Mail says, "we suggest that the best thing for them is to steer clear of Cyprus and keep their mouths shut. The British are quite capable of handling this affair themselves."

The Daily Telegraph says it was "almost inconceivable" that Cannon should have made his statement "entirely on his own responsibility."

Farmers Caught in Big Squeeze Says Official of Federation

TORONTO (CP)—An official of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said Tuesday farmers are caught in a big squeeze between organized labor and industry.

Both are forcing prices up, said Jack Brodrick, CFA policy chairman, while the farmer takes less for what he sells.

Mr. Brodrick was addressing a two - day marketing conference sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture. About 1,000 delegates were on hand to hear opening-day reports of dropping prices, rising costs, surpluses and unwanted imports.

OFA president Lloyd Jasper said the conferences was intended to make clear to the farmers themselves what the economic position of agriculture is today. Between 1951 and 1953 agricultural income had dropped 23 per cent. It dropped another 11 per cent in 1954.

Mr. Brodrick said the farmer is often prone to dump his problems into the government's lap.

"I am afraid we must claim the problem child as our own and through self-help, go forward," he said.

OPPOSES SUGGESTION

He opposed any suggestion that a substantial part of Canada's grain surplus be used as livestock feed, with a resultant increase in livestock output.

It would be foolish, he said, to trade an exportable surplus of a long-term storage product like wheat for a surplus in meat products which have a short storage term and a limited market.

Sharp criticism of both the CFA and OFA came from Jan Shokking of Napanee, who accused OFA president H. H. Hannam of apathy from being in office too long.

Lobbying at Ottawa is inadequate, Mr. Shokking claimed. "Our representations to the government are not good enough, or the minister of agriculture would never have said some of the things we've heard."

ONE BRIGHT SPOT

The one bright spot of the day was a report by Carl Nicholson of the Ontario vegetable marketing board that hog prices were getting higher prices than in 1951.

"But let me warn you that we got our higher prices by yowing to our power," he added. He suggested the farmer needed the same sort of legislation provided for organized labor, with the right to strike for what he wanted.

Among other demands heard Tuesday were one from cream producers for maintenance of government price supports, from processed milk producers for a tariff boost of from one to 3½ cents and from cheese producers for more import protection.

Fingers so Painful She Couldn't Sew

Your peace of mind, happiness, your very livelihood can be wrecked by the misery of arthritic or rheumatic pain. This is what Mrs. Catherine MacKinnon, 348 Gladstone Ave., Windsor, Ont., has to say: "For some time I was bothered by arthritic pain in my right hand. The fingers were so painful and swollen I was very much afraid I'd be unable to use my hands for sewing. Fortunately, I learned of Templeton's T-R-C's in time! They gave such satisfactory relief from the pain and suffering that I was able to continue my work. Without T-R-C's I would have been no good for anything, and I now sell my friends it! T-R-C's that keep me young. If in pain 701)" Start using T-R-C's regularly for the same welcome relief. Only 75c and $1.50 at drug counters. 9-19

CURLERS CONFAB

Bill Gault, president of Belleville's newly-formed curling club, is anything but pessimistic over the organization's chances to operate in its own rink next season.

"The interest in curling that has developed in the past few weeks, in fact since the idea of having our own club was mooted, is nothing short of amazing," Bill said today. "Every curler in the city is showing interest and there has been plenty of talk about the new set-up and that indicates more than passing interest."

"If there are no unforeseen setbacks," he added, "I cannot see why Belleville and district curlers will not be in their own "sporting home" next season. We have nearly one hundred members on the dotted line and I am told a lot more will join. This augurs well for the success of the club, and I am sure we shall be away to a good start after tonight's meeting."

The club is holding forth in the city hall council chambers tonight, starting at eight o'clock. All curlers past, present and future, regardless of where they get their mail, are cordially invited to attend.

FISH STORIES!

Chick (Stratford Beacon-Herald) Appel, who shares a fifty-year lease television seat with us at the annual Grey Cup fiesta, came up with a story the other day about a giant sturgeon caught some years ago. Says Chick: "The sturgeon is a remarkably slow-growing species which does not reach maturity until about 25 years of age and may live to a very old age. The oldest on record is the 315-pound, 91-inch beauty taken in Lake of the Woods. It was aged at 152 years."

Whittling the subject down to our size, it won't be long now before those succulent silvery slivers, the smelt, begin making their annual spawning runs up the Moira and other streams.

Even now some of the boys are concocting dented tennis racquets, screen-bottom buckets, false-bottomed wash tubs, window screen nets and other smelt-gathering paraphernalia in preparation for the spring fish-fries.

Old habits, like spouses and mothers-in-law, are hard to shake. Lots of the smelt-gatherers will cling to their home-brewed catching gadgets. Others will take advantage of a new regulation of the Lands and Forests Department which permits residents to use a three-bulli net.

That's right. Now if you want smelt you can use this net and carry on a weather, taxes, or sports conversation with any conservation bloke who happens to drop by and inquire about the health of the family cat, or whatever else best is used to lead up to the story about what you're doing and why—and doncha know it's agin the law.

Under the new regulation you can use a dip net three feet by three feet without a licence in the months of April and May.

If you want to catch enough to "feed the threshers," the communicative cuss at a conversation, you can die a seine net up to 30 feet by six feet, or a dip net up to six feet by six feet under the authority of a "resident licence." This will cost you one buck.

This permits the possession and use of one net. But the foresighted sportsman hasn't let you down. You can take the family or neighbors along to help you drag in the catch. These, if residents of Ontario, do not require licences to assist in the seining. Since they are not in possession of the net.

But it is different if you are a non-resident. The licence costs you a five-spot, and those who help you, if non-residents, must likewise have a five-buck licence.

You can operate nets day or night under these licences. There are no waters in which a licence is not required but the smelt streams and fish ways are not to be used in streams of the counties of Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham, Trent River, Lake Scugog, Crow Lake, Crow River or Beaver Creek in Hastings county.

Smelt may be taken in Lake Ontario fronting Northumberland and Durham counties.

And remember, the government considers all these queer gadgets used to haul in smelt as small dip-nets, and as such, the resident sportsman does not require a licence if the size does not exceed three feet by three feet. Smelt restless, it points out, should be made with a mesh not less than one and one-quarter inches extension measure, but no mesh size restrictions apply to dip nets.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jabbing Johnny Saxton held the world welterweight boxing title again today. But there was a hue and cry for a rematch with dethroned champion Carmen Basilio.

Saxton won a unanimous 15-round decision over Basilio Wednesday night at Chicago Stadium in a verdict that left many of 11,372 paying patrons and a host of television fans hollering that Carmen was short-changed.

The International Boxing Club said there is no contract for a rematch but said another meeting is "definitely possible." June may be the month and Chicago is the logical site, despite Basilio's protests.

CARDS STACKED

Basilio married that the deck is stacked against him in Chicago after three defeats in as many starts here.

The referee, Frank Gilmer, called it for Saxton, 144-142, while Judge Jeff Black voted for Johnny 145-138, and judge James McManus 147-140. The AP had Saxton ahead, 145 to 142.

On the other hand, a ringside poll of sports writers favored a 13-7 preference for Basilio.

Unquestionably, Basilio forced the pace, but Saxton's speedy counter attack that won him the 147-round crown from Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano in June 10 and flattened DeMarco again in a Nov. 30 rematch was missing.

Saxton was an effective, if retreating, sharpshooter. Using a stiff left jab all the way, Saxton opened a nick over Basilio's right eye and had the champ's nose bleeding in the fourth.

"I won the title," protested Basilio, "hold and run, hold and run, that's all he did."

Saxton first won the welter crown with an equally-disputed 15-round decision over Basilio's stablemate Philadelphia, Oct. 20, 1954. He lost it in his first defense to DeMarco on a 14th-round technical knockout at Boston last April 1.

One of the troubles of Saxton's win is that while the New York state athletic commission has agreed to recognize him as welter champ, he cannot fight in his home state.

BANNED IN NEW YORK

His manager, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, is banned in New York. Palermo's license was lifted on Wednesday night's fight. The federal government served a notice of levy for $17,677.75 on Saxton to take up $39,302 for income tax owed by Palermo.

The principals split 30-30 on a net gate of $52,008 and radio-TV receipts of $50,000.

Basilio's best round was the second. Carmen waded into Saxton with a whistling left-right combination to the head that banged him into the ropes. Saxton was in trouble, but Basilio let him get off the hook.

Saxton weighed 146½ against 146 for Basilio.

Canadian Stars Advance in British Badminton

LONDON (CP)—Two Canadian stars shook off the effects of a plane journey Wednesday night to advance into the third round of the all-England badminton championships.

Beverley Wetzott, 30-year-old veteran from Toronto, scored easy victories in both the first and second rounds of the men's singles championship, while Marjorie Shedd, also of Toronto, performed the same feat in the women's singles.

Most Canadian men's champion Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, played only the lower half of the draw, lost 18-15, 17-14 in a gruelling second - round match against B. Brinkstedt of Sweden.

Also dropping out in the opening day's play of the four-day tournament was 18-year-old Jean Wardle of Calgary. She lost 11-3, 11-0 to defending champion Margaret Verner of the U.S.

Wetzott slipped P. E. Myhre of Norway 15-12, 15-2 in the first round and had an easy 15-3, 15-4 win over C. Darnell of England in the second.

UPSET WIN

Miss Shedd won a surprise victory over Kay Thorndahl of Denmark when the seeded Dane was forced to withdraw because of a pulled leg muscle early in the first set. The Canadian was leading 5-4 at the time.

The Canadian doubles team of Shedd and Wetzott lost to the fine Malayan couple of Mr. and Mrs. Choong Hua 15-10, 12-15, 15-4, 15-5.

Joan Warren of Toronto, fifth member of the Canadian squad, teamed up with B. T. Brownlee of Africa for an extra set to win over Scotland's J. C. Mackay and Miss Ann Smart in the mixed doubles event. The score was 10-15, 15-8, 15-10.

The five Canadians go to Scotland next week for the world badminton championships.

Napanee Bowler Still in Running

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Mabel Wilson of Napanee was up 12 pins on Mrs. Vera Ward of Hamilton after the first game Wednesday in what promises to be the hottest match in singles quadrangle play in the Canadian bowling championships.

The eight surviving contestants in both men's and women's divisions are matched in second-round elimination play. Games are rolled Wednesday and a 10-game block for the semi-finals. Then will be four men and four women winners continuing on to semi-final matches.

There was a man and a woman representative from each of 12 Ontario regions to start. The four lowest scores in both men's and women's divisions were dropped after an initial 10-game round robin series.

In the men's division Bob Taylor of London recorded the day's highest score with 1,601. He carried a 309-pin lead into today's play over his opponent, George Miller of Welland.

The widest margin in women's play belonged to Marion Robillard of Barrie who had a 300-pin lead over Millie McCabe of Toronto, and Marion Pusey of Sarnia led Irene Atkinson of Oshawa by 281 pins.

The other three match matches were close. Doreen Linton of Oshawa led Bill Strong of Toronto by 61 points; Reuben Wilcox of Brockville led Steve Wiggins of Barrie by 43 pins; and Gerry Robinson of Niagara led Gordon Hinton of Toronto by 61 pins.

WAR DIVING CHAMP

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lieut. David Greig (Skippy) Browning, Jr., three-metre Olympic diving champion in 1952, was killed in a jet plane crash near Bastoul, Kan., his family and naval authorities disclosed Wednesday.

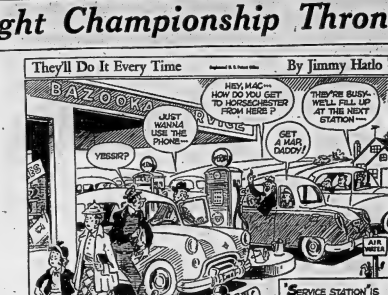
Maroons Have Dutchies at 'Out' Spot Score 6 in Third Period to Win 7-4

KITCHENER (CP) — Chatham Maroons have gone wild in a goal-scoring way in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Maroons pushed Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to the brink of elimination Wednesday night by exploding for six goals in the last period and a 7-4 victory. It gave Chatham a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven finals.

Maroons, who just managed to squeeze into the fourth and last playoff berth, have scored 18 goals in the three games. Dutchmen, who finished first during the regular season, have nine goals.

It was an embarrassing loss for Dutchmen—before 4,131 Kitchener fans. They had a 3-0 lead early in the second period and led 3-1 going into the final 20 minutes.



Lloyd Ferguson started Maroons on their way back with their first goal. That was in the second period. Then Ed Busch, Alex Vukelic, Ted Powers, Marty Zorica, Ernie Dick and Ferguson scored successive goals in the last period. Bob Forhan closed the scoring with Dutchmen's fourth goal.

Maroons drew six of the 10 minor penalties. Dutchmen's first three goals were scored while Chatham had a man in the penalty box. Only one Maroons goal was scored while Kitchener-Waterloo was a man short.

What could be the last game in the series is scheduled for Friday night at Chatham.

Each NHL Coach to His Own Six Called, Four Are Chosen

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Before the 1955-56 campaign started just about every club official figured his team would make the Stanley Cup playoff position. Somebody had to be wrong, of course. Only four of the six teams get into post-season play.

Lynn Patrick, general manager of Boston Bruins: "I'd say New York Rangers will make the playoffs. They're a better team than they were last year."

He was right. Rangers are third, assured of a playoff spot and with a chance to grab second place before the regular schedule winds up next Sunday. Patrick wouldn't do any guessing on his Bruins.

SKINNER WRONG

Jim Skinner, coach of Detroit Red Wings: "I keep looking for a weak link, the spot where things aren't going as they should, and it simply isn't showing up."

Wrong. A bit of weakness showed later. The Wings failed for the first time in eight seasons to win the league crown. They now are second, 19 points behind Montreal Canadiens.

Wrong, unless the other teams are that much stronger.

ALMOST CALLED IT

Clancy got more than 60. But all three haven't hit the 20-goal mark. Sloan has 37, Armstrong 15 and Duff 16.

Canadiens have two games left and the Montreal trio has amassed 107 goals. Even Blake couldn't be unhappy about that, though.

Milt Schmidt, coach of Boston Bruins: "Every winter we have to break our backs to make the Stanley Cup playoffs. This year I hope we can do some winning in those early games and have the pleasant experience of watching some of the other teams trying to catch us."

It's still the same old story. Bruins now are in fourth place, with one game to play. Leafs are one point behind and have two games left.

Although Hawks are out of the playoffs, they can cause a lot of grief. They have games against Canadiens tonight, Leafs Saturday and Bruins Sunday. Leafs' other game is against Wings.

In the other engagement tonight, the Wings meet Rangers at New York. Saturday, it's Chicago at Toronto and New York at Montreal. Leafs are at Detroit, Canadiens are at New York and Hawks are at Boston Sunday.

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — The man with the most pencils can make more headway settling final placings in the National Hockey League scramble than the players themselves.

Half of the players won't know until around 10:30 p.m. Sunday—last date of the schedule—where they're going next. The other half won't know until then whether to head for some place or other for the Stanley Cup big-money series or go home.

Only two places are settled. Montreal Canadiens are already the NHL champs. Chicago Black Hawks are buried in the cellar. With the other teams it's all turmoil.

Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers are tangling for second place; Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs for fourth.

The team finishing fourth catches the last ride on the Stanley Cup gravy train. Players on the second-place team get $100 more each than those in the third-place finisher and also open on home ice in one of the cup semi-finals against the fourth-place team.

Statistically, here's the second-place situation, including games to play:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Detroit	30	23	15	181	144	75
New York	29	25	13	178	161	71

The fourth-place situation looks like this:

Boston	23	33	13	145	182	59
Toronto	23	33	13	150	180	58

Remaining games:

Thursday: Chicago at Montreal; Detroit at New York.

If New York beats Detroit Thursday: New York would need one win or two ties in the remaining two games to snatch second place. Even if Detroit won its home game Sunday, New York would take second place because of the greater number of games won during the season.

If Detroit beats New York Thursday: New York could get second place—again by the games-won margin—only by winning the remaining two games while Detroit loses its last.

If Detroit and New York tie Thursday: New York would need two wins to clinch second, assuming Detroit wins its last game. Should Detroit lose its last game, one win or two ties would be good enough for New York. In each instance the most-wins regulation would govern.

Here's the Boston-Toronto fi situation:

If Toronto defeats Chicago Saturday: Toronto would need only a tie with Detroit Sunday to gain fourth place even if Boston defeats Chicago Sunday, assuming Toronto would finish the season with more goals than Boston. The margin now is five in the Leafs' favor and they have two games to Boston's one. The teams would have the same number of wins and losses for the season and would be tied on total points. Goals-for then decides.

If Toronto and Chicago tie Saturday: Everything would depend on the Toronto-Detroit and Chicago-Boston games Sunday. Toronto and Boston would then be all mixed up on the ties again—after the Saturday game. If each team tied its Sunday game, goals-for would decide. If the Bruins overcame the goals deficit and created a tie there also, then the three-way tie on total goals-against would get the nod.

If Toronto loses to Chicago Saturday: Boston could take fourth place by beating Chicago Sunday, regardless of the Detroit-Toronto game.

Finally, if Toronto loses to Chicago Saturday and Boston ties Chicago Sunday: Toronto would have to defeat Detroit Sunday to take fourth place on most games won.

Barrie Flyers Oust Canucks; Gain Semi-Finals

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers moved into the semi-finals in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league Wednesday night by defeating Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks 6-2.

Flyers won the best-of-seven quarter final 4-3 with one game tied. They now will meet Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in a best-of-seven semi-final.

Flyers took a 3-0 lead in the first period. It was 4-1 at the end of the second.

George Ranieri paced the winners with three goals. Bob Beckett, Harry Furhan and Jim Josephson added singles. Walt Bradley scored both Canuck goals.

RENEW CONTRACT

CHICAGO (AP) — The International Boxing Club and a brewing company Wednesday announced extension of the Wednesday night TV-radio fight series for another year, beginning June 1.

Terms will be the same as in the current agreement, calling for 22 contests at $18,500 per show.

Main event contestants again will be paid $8,000, IBC president Jim Norris said.

A shaving company again will be a co-sponsor of the series.

POOR HAWKS

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens will ice a full team against Chicago Black Hawks tonight with the return of defenceman Tom Johnson and penalty-killing forward Don Marshall.

Russ Athletes Civil Servants Says Alexander

MONTREAL (CP)—Earl Alexander has a tag for Russia's dedicated, highly-successful athletes—civil servants.

Canada's former governor-general, later British defence minister, let his hair down Wednesday in a sports fan.

The best athletes aren't competing in modern-day Olympics because generally, the best are professional, Lord Alexander said in an interview. Eventually, the Games will have to be thrown open to pros and amateurs.

Times have changed, said the peer who was a better than average miler in his school days. The old athletic standards don't apply.

GENUINE AMATEURS?

"You take the Russians. They aren't amateurs and they aren't professionals. They are actually civil servants.

"Canada's last Olympic hockey team, the Kitchener-Waterloo club, was called an amateur one but I think there is serious doubt that it was entirely an amateur."

Lord Alexander, who developed quite a hockey habit in his days in Canada, fired some pertinent questions on that subject. He inquired whether Maurice (Rocket) Richard and his brother, Henri (Pocket Rocket), were members of Montreal Canadiens.

NASHUA FAVORED

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Seven probable starters and a maximum of nine is the prospect for Saturday's $100,000 Gulfstream Park Handicap, with Nashua the early favorite at 4-5.

Since the earlier estimate that seven would go in the 1¼-mile St. Patrick's Day feature, it was reported that Hasty House farm may start Sea O Erin as a running mate with Mister Black, and there is a possibility that High Tide Stable will start Fabulist.

With nine starters, the race will have a gross value of $114,000 and the winning owner will receive $85,300. If seven start, the gross will be $112,900 and the net $83,300.

Sudbury Wallops Iroquois Falls

SUDBURY (CP)—It was a repeat performance for Sudbury Wolves Wednesday night with another player in the starring role.

Wolves, led by Bill Watson's three-goal feat, defeated Iroquois Falls Abitibi Eskimos 5-3 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven finals of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

Tuesday night, Wolves defeated Eskimos 4-2, and captain Nick Tomiuk fired three goals.

Watson scored a goal in each period and assisted on Wolves' fourth score. Sudbury went ahead 3-0 during the first period and held a 4-1 lead after the second.

Frank O'Grady and Armand Lemieux scored Sudbury's other goals, Jerry Labelle, Syl Apps and Doug Towers were the Abitibi marksmen.

Third and fourth games in the series, provided it's cold enough, are scheduled for Iroquois Falls Friday and Saturday.

The weather enters the picture because the Iroquois Falls rink has natural ice. If the weather is too warm the games will be played in McIntyre Arena at South Porcupine.

Russ Observers Think Highly Of John Landy

MELBOURNE (AP)—Three Russian observers who arrived Wednesday to look over Olympic preparations gave out with some familiar Soviet doctrine, but on one subject they were plain-spoken. The subject was John Landy.

"Landy can win the 1,500 metres and can set a new world record in the 1,000 metres," said Leonid Khomenkov, rated Russia's top track and field coach.

Accompanying Khomenkov were Mikhail Pesilak, vice-chairman of the Russian Olympic committee, and Vladimir Smirnov, an official of the committee.

The visiting said Russia planned to send 450 athletes and 150 officials to the Games.

Smirnov said unlike in the 1952 Games at Helsinki, where the Iron Curtain countries had their own camp, Soviet athletes would be anxious to mix with athletes from other nations at Olympic Village.

AAU Structure Hangs on Santee Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—The fourth round of the legal skirmish between marine lieutenant Wes Santee and the Amateur Athletic Union comes up in the New York State Supreme Court today with the whole structure of U.S. amateur athletics hinging on the outcome.

The Kansas miler, considered the No. 1 U.S. hope for the 1500-metre title in this year's Olympic Games at Melbourne, seeks a permanent writ against the enforcement of the lifetime suspension handed him by the AAU.

The 23-year-old runner was suspended Feb. 19 on a charge of receiving excessive expenses for a number of meets in which he competed in last year. Twice he was successful in obtaining temporary stays in Supreme Court and in an appellate division hearing he managed to block an AAU move to vacate the injunction.

As the result of the temporary injunctions, Santee ran in New York March 3 and again last Saturday in Milwaukee, although his scheduled opponents skied away from facing him for fear of jeopardizing their Olympic eligibility. Santee said he plans to run at Cleveland Friday night and in Chicago March 24 if the result of today's trial is favorable

Queen Mother's Horse Favored Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth's Devon Loch and Sundew were made the betting favourites Wednesday night for the Grand National Steeplechase.

Britain's top bookies made the royal-owned Devon Loch and Sundew joint 10-to-1 favorites for the gruelling March 24 chase over four miles, 856 yards of Aintree's 30-jump course and relegated Irish-trained Quare Times, last year's winner, to 100 to 8.

The Queen Mother's second National entry—M'as-Tu-Vu—won the three-mile Sussex Stake at Lingfield Wednesday by 15 lengths and was quoted for the first time at 8 betting call-over. He was made a 50-to-1 shot.

Withdraw Fme On Doug Ford

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Tournament director Ray O'Brien of the Professional Golfers' Association Wednesday withdrew a $100 fine he imposed on golfer Doug Ford after members of the PGA players committee agreed the fine was out of order.

"I'm perfectly agreeable," said Ford, a member of the committee," commented O'Brien, "so I withdraw the fine."

The rhubarb developed after Ford complained that Mike Fetchick was delaying play in the third round of the Pensacola Open last Saturday. Ford contended O'Brien should have penalized Fetchick two strokes, as PGA rules prescribe, for undue delay of play.

O'Brien declined to penalize Fetchick and later fined Ford for unbecoming conduct, saying Ford had demonstrated unnecessarily at O'Brien's decision.

WAS FORMER LEAF

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—William Greaves (Lena) Slyde, 58, former major league catcher who once played for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, died in hospital Wednesday following a lengthy illness.

Styles played with Philadelphia Athletics and Cincinnati Reds in the majors, and with Baltimore, Newark and Toronto of the International League.

TONEGUSSO SOLD

KITCHENER (CP) —Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Rugby-Football Union Wednesday announced the sale of halfback Billy Toneguzzo to Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

Toneguzzo, who lives in Guelph, was with Dutchmen during the last two seasons. He had been sought by at least three major professional clubs in Canada. Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four were among bidders for his services.

Johnny Podres Call Follows Williams Blast

NEW YORK (AP)—World series star Johnny Podres has been ordered to report for military service next Monday in a selective service move that came within 24 hours of a blast at draft boards by Ted Williams.

The induction order was released Wednesday. Podres, who southpawed Brooklyn Dodgers to the world championship last fall, was taken by surprise.

"I guess this is it," he said at the Brooks' Vero Beach, Fla., training camp. "I'll fly home (Wilkerbee, N.Y.) and spend a few days with my family before I go.

"I thought I had at least 30 days."

Podres originally had been ordered by his draft board to report for induction today. But it was expected he would receive a month's grace when he obtained a transfer to a New York City board.

LEVELS BLAST

Tuesday, Williams, the Boston Red Sox slugger who twice served as a marine pilot, swung from the heels, declaring Podres was called up because "he's a pitcher." He's beating the Yankees in the world series."

Williams, supported in his sound-off against the draft boards by teammates Dave Sisler, Frank Baumann and Frank Sullivan, all former servicemen, blamed Podres' call on "gutless politicians, gutless draft boards and gutless sportswriters."

Podres, 23, had been classified 4-F because of a bad back. He was reclassified 1-A Dec. 27 but may yet be rejected when he takes his induction physical.

It's Hot Stove League Time and—
They called Leo Durocher one of the most daring of all Major League managers. Leo's gambles paid off plenty for he led the New York Giants to two pennants and one world's championship.
Is the following situation, Durocher's strategy helped the Giants beat the Cubs in a game last season. Would you have done the same thing?
Question:
Would you
a. Have Hofman sacrifice?
b. Let Hofman swing away?
c. Put in a runner for Giel and try a steal of third?
Answer:
Result: B—Hofman hit away and singled to center, scoring Giel. The Giants picked up four more runs, won 7-4 [sic].

By BOB THOMAS

Actually she resembles the sultry Dietrich little. She has been compared to Ingrid Bergman, and indeed she is similar to the noted Swedish actress, both in beauty and bearing.

Like Bergman, Cornell is statuesque (five feet seven) with an ample figure which seems refreshing when stacked up against some of Hollywood's stars. Her skin has that healthy glow of Nordic beauties, and she seldom uses makeup.

Cornell appears to be set for a successful Hollywood career. She was well received in her debut, Never Say Goodbye, opposite Rock Hudson. Now she's back for a co-starring role with Errol Flynn in a romantic intrigue titled Istanbul.

She plans to come here for one or two pictures a year and spend the rest of the time in Europe. She has both German and British passports, since she was married to an Englishman, Bruce Cuningham. They had a son, Christian, now 3, and now are divorced.

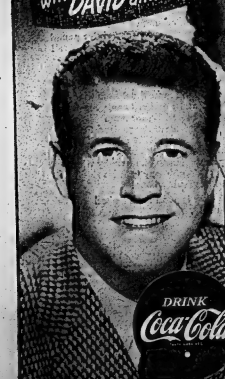
"We had a scene the other day in which she had to cry," the actor remarked. "She turned on the tears right on cue. I asked her how she did it and she said she merely thought about the scene.



"But then she said, 'You had a scene the other day in which you had to cry. How did you do it?'

"I told her I just thought about my former wife's lawyer."

The Kibitzer

A hand that looks improbable to make may not necessarily be so. If it is makeable, some principle of play will help do it. All that is necessary is to find the right plan.

The deal we are discussing is shown here:

NORTH
♠A K 10 8 5
♥A K 6
♦Q
♣A 8 7 3

WEST
♠Q 9 8
♥Q 9 8 7 5 2
♦J 10 9
♣10

EAST
♠J 2
♥10 3
♦K 8 7 5 4 3 2
♣5 2

SOUTH
♥J 4
♣K Q J 9 6 4

South was declarer at a grand slam contract of seven clubs. When north lifted it there he announced that it should stop at six and bid seven only to see if some star for 13 tricks could be found.

Opening lead from west was the diamond jack, top of his sequence in that suit. With dummy's hand exposed it quickly becomes obvious that a spade loser is the only worry. But it was a serious worry.

Declarer reviewed the various principles of play by which tricks could be saved. Only one of the methods held any hopes for success. This was a squeeze. So, the squeeze was tried.

The east diamond king covered the queen that dummy had to play on the first trick and south ace won it. The remaining south diamond was ruffed with the dummy ace of trump.

A trump return to let south cash two trump tricks and a spade from south let dummy cash two top spades. Dummy returned a trump and south took this. On two more trumps dummy shifted two spades.

This left south with a trump, a spade, and his two hearts. Dummy held a spade and his three hearts. West was down to his good queen of spades and three hearts, one of which was the queen.

Right here south led his final trump and could shuff the spade from dummy without waiting for west to play. Because there was no card left west could fire to save himself.

If west let go of the spade queen, south's small spade is good. If west gives up a heart, dummy has the last three heart tricks.

A squeeze will kill like nothing else will.

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The other night I tuned in the TV set and there was my old pal Kong from the of the flaming eyes and monstrous ape-like breed. It gave me quite a turn.

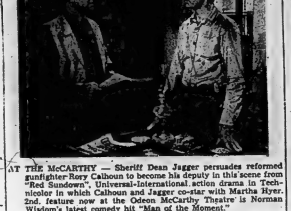
There was a somewhat younger Bruce Cabot running around in pants, tees, and my old flame Fay Wray, whom Kong coveted, I stuck right with it to that climactic scene, you remember, where Kong climbs the Empire State Building and those old First World War biplane Curtiss Hawks come slanting with that ah-ah-ah-ah of machine guns.

It took me back to 1933, before Hollywood ever had heard of television and King Kong stalked the neighborhood movie houses, fascinating or horrifying us adolescents according to our natures.

To be honest about it, I didn't just happen to tune my set to King Kong. I heard people talking about it during its week's run on TV. The grass-roots comment I heard on Kong took two turns.

First, many oldsters were interested that youngsters who weren't alive to see Kong in his original movie were just as excited by him as the oldsters were when they were young. It was heartwarming to some to find that kids are still kids after all—despite the complaints of some adults that they're an entirely different breed these days.

I also heard one or two adults express the view that King Kong just ain't fittin' fun for young folk. One advanced thinker delivered the opinion that it's wrong for children to watch the monstrous Kong. They should be shielded from such horrors, said he.



Looking back through nostalgic haze, I remember the first night I saw Kong with mild amusement rather than horror. I'm sure it didn't hurt me. And I'm sure it won't hurt any youngsters.

Marlene Second In North-South Amateur Tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, birdied four of the last seven holes Wednesday for a 38-34—72, two under, yesterday par, to win the qualifying medal in the 54th North and South Amateur golf tournament by one stroke from Canadian champ Marlene. Stewart of Fonthill, Ont.

The day's play was wrapped up in the three finishing holes. Twenty-two-year-old Marlene, a lefty little five-foot-one senior at the Florida school, played the last three holes 6-4-6 against Barbara's 4-3-4 one under par finish.

Barbara, a 21-year-old Rollins sophomore, came in two twosomes later with her closing 36 to snatch medal honors from Marlene, who had been accepting congratulations on her fine performance. Her 72 was only two shots off the qualifying record for the championship course.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, March 16, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A so-so day unless you come along with that added "something." Do not wait for others to provide it. Results will be contingent on the effort expended. Watch out for get-rich-quick schemes.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Plan your day so you will wind up the week with little unfinished business. It will generate peace of mind and allow the mental processes to relax for new jobs ahead. Romance favored.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Some inauspicious aspects. Though the Moon is your planet, reaching for it comes under the classification of wishful thinking. Keep feet on ground, plans within reason.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't log through the day. Keep smooth, well-planned and executed program is a forerunner to success. Be alert to opportunities. Do not saddle yourself with unreasonable desires, goals.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — You have a keen appreciation of talent and a job well done; you like to be among the successful there. More power to you. Recognize your capabilities, and shortcomings, too. Work for a record day.

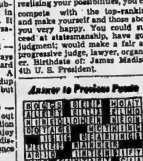
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Don't be misled by the glitter of the ladder to success demands concentration, coordinated action, an attainable goal. Advance!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — motion, unessential details. Climbing

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Ironically you are a determined individual. That is fine so long as you don't become stubborn. Use your best judgment in planning the course to follow. It will pay well to use your versatility, too.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — This day's rays suggest that you be on guard against schemers, charlatans. Disregard wordy may sell a bulldog to let you down. Be alert, but tactful, too.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Think things out before acting. A cheery disposition is half the battle. Others enjoy working with you when you display the real you. Persistence overcomes obstacles.



January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Neutral rays have not much to offer. So step out on your own and perhaps give day a novel twist. Be practical as well as theoretical.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Every gain, no matter how small, is a gain — and a step forward. We don't stand still, remember? It's either backwards or forwards. Dexterity, tact can help greatly in home matters.

You born today have a versatile mind and many unusual talents, but often scatter your energies. Once settled down to business, and realising your possibilities, you can compete with the top-ranking, and make yourself and those about you very happy. You could succeed at statesmanship, have good judgment; would make a fair and progressive judge, lawyer, organizer. Birthdate of: James Madison, 4th U. S. President.

planet, says: "Watch your step in heart affairs, investments, tackling untried ventures." Greater precision in your work can be the herald of genuine gains.

Mustang Trainer Crashes, Burns, Pilot Unhurt

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A Mustang jet training aircraft from 420 Squadron, City of London, crashed and burned on the farm of William Cooper on the old 22 Highway west of Strathroy today. The pilot bailed out and was reported unhurt.

Group Captain A. M. Cameron, officer commanding RCAF station Centralia said a distress call was received shortly after 11 a. m. that a pilot was in trouble and was bailing out.

A search by aircraft from the station failed to find the crashed plane shortly after.

Group-Captain A. D. Hayleit, commanding officer of the auxiliary wing, said he was grounding all Mustangs of the unit pending an investigation.

On March 4 a Mustang from the city of London, 420 Squadron caught fire near Woodstock and the pilot FO George Storey crash-landed safely.

Napanee Ousts Marmora 4-1; Flyers Win

Napanee handed Marmora a 7-3 defeat on the latter's home ice last night in an Ontario OHA Intermediate "C" series four games to one. The victory gave Napanee the group championship and they will meet the winners of the Trenton RCAF - Kingston Vimy series in the next playdowns.

Meanwhile in Kingston, Trenton downed Vimy 11-3 to take the similar series at two games each. Vimy captured the first two games of the series but the RCAF have surged back to even the round.

Pete Pelletier of Trenton's attack, scoring three goals and assisting on another trio, and Mac Keown tallied three for Vimy.

Claims 151 Acres Worth $65,000

MORRISBURG (CP) — Counsel for a seaway valley farmer said Wednesday in Ottawa the Hydro Electric Power Commission has offered only $23,150 for a 151-acre property he owns near here.

R. H. Armstrong, representing farmer Hiram Cramer, told the St. Lawrence board of review Mr. Cramer's property is worth $65,000 because similar land is for sale in St. Lawrence river.

The board, appointed by the Ontario government, is attempting to get the two parties to agree on a figure. Board members later looked at the Cramer farm and reserved decision.

Hydro wants the property about a half-mile east of here, for part of the St. Lawrence power power and rescue hospital records.

NOTE TO GREECE FROM U.S. ENVOY ANGERS BRITTEN

A statement by U. S. ambassador to Greece C. W. Cavendish above, to the Greek government has caused a storm of protest from Britain. The statement expressed "sympathetic concern of the U.S. government over recent developments in Cyprus." In the burst of anger that followed publication of his remarks, little attention was paid to a note from the U.S. state department that the U.S. was not taking sides but was offering its services to find a just and fair solution. (Central Press Canadian).

Court Says Man Truly 'Fleeced' In Poker Game

TORONTO (CP) — The Appeal Court of Ontario Wednesday decided Harold John, 26, of Peterborough was truly "fleeced" during his life savings in a crooked poker game.

The court dismissed an appeal for a new trial for Walter Chorney and Joseph Broddy, both of Toronto, now serving two-year and six-month jail terms respectively for theft.

J. W. Corkery, counsel for Broddy, told the court there was no evidence of theft. It was an honest game and an honest bet, he said.

At the Chonomas-Broddy trial Mr. John testified he met the two men Oct. 5, 1955, in Peterborough and joined them in a friendly poker game. He said he had nevery played poker before and never gambles.

Mr. John, advised by Broddy in the game with Chonomas, soon had his wallet contents, $15. He mentioned he had $1,200 in the bank and soon after Chonomas lent $1,200 on a hand. Broddy advised Mr. John his hand was nearperfect and urged him to take the bet. Mr. John lost.

Mother Says Statement Made To Police False

HAMILTON (CP) — A young mother of four testified Wednesday she made the erroneous statements to police earlier this month about being raped by her father.

Mrs. Rosalita White, 30, pleaded guilty to a charge of public mischief. She was to be sentenced today.

Police said she told them she had made the false complaint to avoid angering her husband. After a week of intensive police investigation, Mrs. White had made a fresh statement denying her first allegations. She said further police action was "not necessary."

Mrs. White had burst into tears at her original appearance Monday, complaining she was alleged to being beaten, raped, and left lying in a field.

Chimp Gives Bar Patrons A Real Scare

NEW YORK (AP)—The gentle art of boosing received a shocking setback Wednesday when a 6-foot Side gimmill. A 90-pound chimpanzee came in the front door, about the length of the bar without pause for libation and went out the back door.

It was one of many calls the chimp paid throughout hours of pandemonium after he escaped from the apartment of Frank Quinn, a night club entertainer.

The chimp scaled up and down buildings, swung from television aerials, scampered from one fire escape to another and chinned himself on ledges high in the air.

It took more than 10 hours to capture him. He finally was corrected in an unoccupied ladies room on the seventh floor of a commercial building.

Writer Convinced Britain's Policy In Cyprus Wrong

TORONTO (CP)—Monroe Johnston, Toronto Star staff correspondent now in Cyprus, writing today he has been convinced that British's policy in the Mediterranean island is "wrong, dead wrong."

His front-page story from Nicosia, dated March 4, says that when he arrived in Cyprus about a week ago he felt Britain had an unassailable case.

His conversion to the Cypriot cause came from talking to street scenes "that must have been a throwback to the sorry days of the 'Black and Tans' in Ireland and from hearing the "reasonable case put forward by intelligent Cypriots."

"Fixed bayonets and levelled guns cannot intimidate an idea," he writes. ". . . and 'Enosis'—union with Greece—is a passionate and compelling idea in Cyprus today.

"Have no doubt about it. Cyprus is Greek-speaking, Greek-thinking and Greek-feeling. Britain can be more bold back this outcome than she can hold back the summer wind. What a shameful blot on the British escutcheon that she should be trying to?"

Accused Claims Brother Shot Accidentally

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — Tension gripped this farming community on the Saskatchewan plain as the murder trial of 34-year-old farmer John Petlock neared its end.

The defence would in its case Wednesday with dramatic sudden-death testimony and crown accusations and the judge's charge to the jury were to be delivered today. The case is expected to go to the jury tonight or early Friday.

Petlock is charged with the slaying of his brother, Michael. He was charged following his arrest for the shooting Labor Day after discovery Aug. 29 of five bodies, including Michael's, in the male doctor's farm.

The others were those of his mother, Mrs. Mary Petlock, 72, Michael's wife Angeline, 21, and their daughter Angeline, 3, and Michalene, 11 months. All were shot.

The town hall, where the trial is being held under Mr. Justice H. P. Wimbourne of Regina, resumed Wednesday for the cross examination of Petlock, a powerful man stand in his own defence.

Under cross-examination, Petlock maintained that the first bullet which struck his brother Blike as they fired simultaneously at him fought in a farm yard at Fenwood, Sask. He testified he would not aware until he read about it in a newspaper in Edmonton that the other victims had been found.

Petlock said he had fired at his brother Michael in self-defence.

Child Is Slain, Mother Found Dead in Kitchen

SOREL, Que. (CP)—A two-year-old girl was slain in her home Wednesday and the girl's 29-year-old mother was found dead in the kitchen. Police said she committed suicide.

Police said the girl, Danielle Gauthier, apparently was killed with a knife. Her brother, Alain, 4, was found seriously wounded in the upstairs room beside her.

Police said a note was found on the kitchen table and Mrs. Roland Gauthier's body was sprawled on the floor. She was believed to have swallowed a liquid detergent.

The bodies were found by Mr. Gauthier when he came home from work.

State Mental Hospital Burns, 700 Evacuated

FULTON, Mo. (AP)—A spectacular fire destroyed most of the 105-year-old administration building of the state mental hospital here early today, doing millions of dollars worth of damage.

More than 700 patients were evacuated from patient wings, many of which also went up in flames. There were no injuries.

At the height of the blaze it could be seen for 10 miles, and the glow was visible in Jefferson City, Columbia and Mexico, Mo., helped battle the blaze. Some 100 students from nearby Westminster College in Fulton helped evacuate patients.

Mr. Tweedy by Ned Riddle

University Body Fate at Stake

OTTAWA (CP) — Peter Martin, president of the National Federation of Canadian University Students, said today the future of the 29,000-member national student organization hinges on a vote of University of British Columbia students.

The Vancouver students are to vote this afternoon on whether to withdraw from NFCUS. Martin, a University of Toronto student on leave from his studies for a year to serve as full-time president, said the federation may have to consider disbanding within two weeks' time if British Columbia withdraws.

B.C.'s withdrawal would leave five of Canada's largest universities as non-members. Loss of revenue—NFCUS gets 50 cents for each student of member universities—would force the 29-year-old body to disband, Martin said at his Ottawa home.

25 Railway Cars Are Derailed

NORTH BAY (CP) — Twenty-five boxcars of an eastbound Canadian National Railways freight train were derailed late Wednesday, 15 miles west of Capreol.

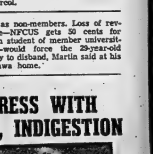
East-west telegraphic service has been disrupted as well.



No injuries were reported in the accident. Train crew was from Capreol.

HAD GREAT DISTRESS WITH GAS, PAINS, INDIGESTION

Felt Sick, Nauseated. Tells How Syntona Helped Him. Also Relieved Rheumatic Pains.

When the stomach is out of order and food fails to digest properly, but ferments causing gas, sourness and a full-bloated sensation many symptoms may often follow. Often appetite is impaired, nerves are on edge, or you may suffer from headaches, constipation, and feel tired, sluggish and rundown. Syntona has proved a blessing to thousands of men and women and may be just what you need.

MR. JOHN MAY

A Recent Example

Mr. John May, 11 Woodcroft Ave., St. Thomas, Ont., told of this experience with Syntona as follows:

"After suffering with a delicate, upset stomach for the past two years I have found great relief by taking Syntona. The gassy pains, bloating, and sourness took me feeling quite ill and I was constipated. Now, to-day I would say I'm troubled very little constipated and headaches and couldn't seem to get my proper appetite.

"My wife had used Syntona before and finally insisted that I try it. To my surprise my food soon began digesting better. The gas pains and sour indigestion were cleared up and I could enjoy my meals. Now I feel better, sleep well at night and I am relieved of constipation and headache. At the same time I have noticed that my rheumatic pains in my shoulders and shoulders that had been troubling me for a long time."

Think Big Three Agreed On Course In Palestine War

Eden's Cryptic Reference Seen Hint Accord Reached

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France apparently have reached basic understanding on the military measures they may take if an Israeli-Arab war breaks out.

That was the interpretation diplomatic quarters here put on Prime Minister Eden's cryptic reference Thursday to his inability to make public any Big Three military decisions because of constitutional differences between them.

The big difference is between the British government's ability to take decisive military steps on its own authority and the power President Eisenhower may have for action in a crisis.

The American president is commander - in - chief of the armed forces, but Congress has the constitutional responsibility to declare war. Eisenhower has said frequently he has no intention of enlarging U. S. forces by military operations abroad without consulting Congress. Precisely how this would apply in the event of an extreme Middle East crisis has never been explained.

FEAR SUDDEN ACTION

Some officials say they privately foresee the possibility of war developing so quickly that the president might be given a mere necessity of almost instant action.

Well in advance of an emergency, the three Western powers would have to decide on what they might do in the initial hours of conflict.

Officials here are reluctant to talk about military planning, but they tend to confirm that plans actually have been worked out.

State department informants stress, however, that the main concern of Washington, London and Paris is to prevent war from breaking out.

TWO MAJOR AIMS

In the next few days, it now seems certain, they will propose a resolution to the United Nations Security Council designed to achieve two major purposes—If the Soviet Union does not veto it:

1. To put the Arab states and Israel alike on notice that the UN will react swiftly if either sin bins.

2. To strengthen the UN truce machinery headed by Canadian Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns. His force now totals about 40 officers

German Senate Approves Bills To Set up Army

BERLIN (AP)—West Germany's senate today unanimously approved measures to build a German army within the Western Defence Alliance. The house in quick order approved legislation providing a strong civilian controls over Bonn's military arm and then enacted the basic measure authorizing the recruiting of 150,000 volunteers, starting in two weeks. Both measures completed parliamentary action on the rearmament program previously by Chancellor Adenauer's government.

Says Khrushchev Secretly Asserted Stalin 'Not Himself' in Latter Years

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says Nikita S. Khrushchev gave the recent Soviet Communist party congress a secret explanation of the downgrading of Joseph Stalin that made public criticisms of the late dictator during the congress sound "like milk and water."

The Times report was written by the paper's former Moscow correspondent, Harrison Salisbury. It says his information came from diplomatic reports from capitals in the West and from Moscow. He says the Moscow correspondents of Communist newspapers there from cabling rumors about the Khrushchev speech circulating in the Soviet capital.

According to Salisbury:

Khrushchev pictured his predecessor as "not himself" in his latter years. Stalin, he said, suffered from fits of suspicion and was subject to phobias about the supposed treachery of his associates.

Khrushchev described Moscow in the late Stalin years as a capital of violence, fear, intrigue, and intrigue, in which no one knew who might be the next victim.

Most of Stalin's closest associates were unaware of the fate of intimate friends and colleagues.

Even the members of Stalin's politburo (the party command) sometimes often kept in ignorance of what was happening.

Khrushchev asserted that the treason charges on which Marshal Tukhachevsky and seven other top Red army leaders were executed in 1937 were fabricated and a "terrible mistake" because this deprived Russia of its top military leadership.

Tom Whitney, former Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, reported earlier this week that Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin had said a high-ranking party dignitary some months ago that Tukhachevsky and his associates

COMMONS BATTLE LINES DRAWN ON GAS PIPELINE

No Element of Subsidy, Handout Says Howe

OTTAWA (CP) — Battle lines have been drawn in what promises to be a long, hot Commons fight on the government's plan for public treasury help in a cross-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Progressive Conservative and CCF leaders Thursday assailed the plan for the federal and Ontario governments to join in building part of the $275,000,000 line from Alberta to the East.

Trade Minister Howe defended it as the best of any known proposals and said there is "no element of subsidy or handout" to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. which would build the rest of the line and lease the government-built facilities to it for operation.

OPENED DISCUSSION

Those were the party positions as the House opened discussion on a resolution preliminary to a bill setting up a government corporation to build the $118,000,000 stretch east from the Manitoba border to Kapuskasing, Ont.

Ontario would put up one-third the cost to build the eastern line and the link would be leased, with a purchase option, to Trans-Canada, Howe said Mr. Howe termed the longest pipeline in the world.

The CCF took the rare step of forcing a formal vote on the routine procedural motion to refer the preliminary resolution for consideration by committee of the whole House. The motion was adopted 156 to 20, with the CCF group voting against all other parties and their members.

CCF informants said they forced the division as a demonstration of all-out opposition to the government's proposal.

CONSERVATIVE STAND

Conservative leader Drew said his party supported the procedural motion because it wanted a chance to outline its opposition to the bill.

He said that if it is to be handled—for government construction of part of the line, for government financing of part of it all and lease it for operation by private interests.

But there was no evidence it could not be wholly financed by private investment under the present control. The government should insist that Trans-Canada be required to build an all-Canadian line immediately, under Canadian control. If Trans-Canada could not proceed now—it was incorporated five years ago—let the job—the whole matter should be reopened and new contracts permitted to make proposals.

CCF leader Coldwell joined Mr. Drew in saying that what was described as American domination of Trans-Canada.

He reiterated his party's main stand for public ownership and control. Canada should co-operate fully with the United States in the U.S. Mid-west recruiting of 150,000 volunteers, starting in two weeks. Both measures completed parliamentary action on the rearmament program previously by Chancellor Adenauer's government.

Algerian Strike Threatened Unless 85 Terrorists Hanged

PARIS (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet's government got a final go-ahead from the French parliament early today for an all-out fight to smash rebellion in Algeria.

But French colonists in the stormy north African area posed the more-immediate problem with a demand that death sentences hanging over some 85 Moslem terrorists be carried out by next Wednesday. A complete "paralysis" of virtually every major group among the million-odd European residents of Algeria said they would shut down all municipal offices and stop co-operating with authorities if their ultimatum was not met.

One veteran observer of the 16-month-old revolt warned in Algiers: "Now the thing could blow up in our faces in a minute," and hundreds of Algiers agreed with his grim appraisal.

Four attacks on Frenchmen or pro-French Moslems were reported from the city of Algiers itself while the Council of the Republic of France's senate, was meeting in Paris to endorse Mollet's program for stamping out the revolt. The reports listed no casualties, but said property damage was considerable.

Authorities said French forces killed 37 rebels in 15 scattered actions Thursday in central and eastern Algeria. Only one French soldier was killed and two were wounded.

The senate gave an overwhelming 29-to-7 vote of approval to the Mollet grant the government emergency powers for military, economic and administrative decisions. The measure was approved by the National Assembly earlier this week. Mollet has promised the Algerians that elections will be held within three months after violence is ended.

BANNED NEGRO

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A man and wife, operators of a private school, were convicted Thursday of violating Brazil's anti-segregation law and sentenced to a year in jail. Johnan Peter Theodore van Lunteren and his wife Sylvia, who operated "The Happy School-Brazil-Canada," were found guilty of refusing to accept a Negro child.

BELIEVE THEY HOLD GIFT FROM HEAVENS

Alice Monture, 10, and Carol Hill, 10, believe they are holding a meteorite which plunged from the sky into the ground at the Six Nations reserve near Brantford, Ont. Carol says the saw a ball of fire in the sky and then something hit the ground. In points further east, including Belleville, residents report a brilliant light, believed caused by a meteor. Winter's Dying Kick Trips Traffic in Terrible Tangle

TORONTO (CP) — Motorists lurched through an unseasonal March snow storm today as old winter aimed a dying kick at this city's sprawling transportation network.

A powdery snow that began falling before dawn left streets and highways an icy glaze. Earl commuters felt the first blow as city urban police worked to relieve traffic knots all along the city's main traffic arteries.

With weather forecasters betting on an unseasonal three-inch snowfall before the day is out, one police official predicted the worst tie-up in several years when commuters hit the roads tonight to return home.

In suburban Leaside traffic squad members climbed down the slippery sides of the Don river ravine to search for a car reported to have skidded through guard rails and plunged into the valley.

Ontario Provincial Police reported about 30 property-damage accidents on the Queen Elizabeth Way between Clarkson, west of Toronto, and the suburban Humber river.

PREMIER FROST HINTS ONTARIO MAY RAISE TAXES

Dodges Definite Reply To Question by Oliver

TORONTO (CP)—A suggestion of increased taxes was sounded in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

Opposition financial critic J. J. Wintermeyer (L—Waterloo North) charged the Progressive Conservative government will not live up to a 1944 promise to reduce the provincial debt. The debt has increased 40 per cent while in the same period revenue had jumped 400 per cent to $400,000,000.

Premier Frost said that despite increased revenue the province faces growing education and highway costs. The possibility of a hospital-insurance plan meant Ontario would have to get more money somewhere.

Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver asked whether this meant taxes would have to be increased.

REFUSED TO SAY

The premier refused to say yes or no. But, he said, it is common sense that money will have to be found somewhere. If the federal government cuts back subsidies to hospitals' grants, the province will have to look elsewhere.

The debt rebate was one of two major wrangles which developed during the sitting.

CCF leader MacDonald said large mining companies in Ontario contributed nothing behind the skirts of smaller mines making "tremendous profits" have to pay high wages.

The large mines are trying to import Italian laborers at cheap wages, said Mr. MacDonald amid heckling by government members.

New Time Limit On Speeches Catches Howe

OTTAWA (CP) — A new time limit on Commons speeches caught Trade Minister Howe Thursday half-way through a major speech on gas pipeline policy.

The limit, which went into effect this session, puts a half-hour limit on speeches when the whole House is in committee.

Mr. Howe was introducing a preliminary resolution to a bill to build a cross-owned northern Ontario link in the trans-Canada gas pipeline project when committee chairman W. A. Robinson interrupted to say the half-hour had expired.

Members agreed to let him continue, with Mr. Howe commenting he thought a minister introducing a measure was given enough time to make a statement.

"They changed the rules this year," an opposition member added.

"Did they?" Mr. Howe asked. "I was never very strong on rules."

He ended his speech 22 minutes later.

Greeks Stage 4-Hour Strike On Cyprus Issue

ATHENS (Reuters)—A four-hour general strike in Greece in protest at Britain's banishment of Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus began at 8 a.m. today.

The strike, called by the General Confederation of Labor, was strictly obeyed by all workers throughout the country. Factories and shops remained closed, and bus and rail traffic was suspended. Departures of Greek civil planes and ships were also postponed.

Answering the appeal of Archbishop Spyridon, Greek Orthodox primate, for a half-hour silence in protest against the "gangster-like" abduction and exile of Archbishop Makarios, Greeks suspended all activities and remained silent wherever they were at 9:30 this morning (local time).

Church bells tolling mournfully gave the signal for the beginning and end of the protest silence. All radio stations in Greece went off the air and telecommunication stopped. Lessons were suspended in schools, and teachers addressed pupils praising Archbishop Makarios' "heroism."

Issue 3 Permits To Ship Military Goods To Israel

St. Laurent Tells Commons Of Decision by Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has issued three permits for the shipment of military material to Israel, Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today.

Mr. St. Laurent told the Commons the cabinet Thursday approved permits for 25-pounder artillery shells, a small amount of wireless equipment and some spare parts for tanks.

Earlier this month, he had announced no further export permits to the Middle East for arms would be issued until the situation had eased.

"Today, he said it is felt there has been some "easing of apprehension" concerning that area.

While the basic rules remain, he said, the apprehensions felt at the time of British General Glubb's removal from command of Jordan's Arab Legion have eased.

Mr. St. Laurent said the permits covered these orders:

1. The 25-pounder shells, 1,754 of them.

2. About $1,200 worth of electronic equipment used for transforming wireless sets from direct to alternating current.

3. Spare parts for Sherman tanks valued at $136,360.

The prime minister, replying to a question by opposition leader George Drew, said two other applications for approval of arms shipments came before the cabinet but no decision was deferred.

"If and when a decision is made, an immediate announcement will be made," Mr. St. Laurent said.

The tank parts shipment represents the undelivered part of a $565,000 shipment of tanks and armored cars which was authorized in 1954. The original permit expired July 31, 1955, and a further six-month permit issued July 25 to cover the balance of the order which, on Jan. 26 without shipment being made.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian National Railways is budgeting for a $2,600,000 surplus for 1956 after reporting a $10,717,000 profit last year.

Transport Minister Marler, who tabled the publicly-owned company's budget in the Commons, said Thursday that the paper surplus does not take into account any pay increases which might be obtained by employees now seeking contract concessions.

The company estimated, in its annual report made public Wednesday, that these demands could amount to $34,000,000 a year if obtained fully by non - operating unions and extended to other employees.

In its budget, the CNR forecast its 1956 operating income as $685,-000,000, up slightly from $653,085,-000 in 1955.

Brahma Bull Makes a Mess Of Dress Shop

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A husky traffic policeman captured a young Brahma bull Thursday after it escaped from a truck and plunged into a women's dress shop.

The animal charged through the front door, the only entrance, ran back and forth knocking over dress racks, then jumped into the show window, drawing a laughing crowd.

Mrs. Blanche Ellzey, operator of Ellzey's Shoppe, in the heart of the business district, said she was away at the moment.

Officer J. L. Ott, six feet three and weighing 210, ran into the shop, grabbed the bull by the horn, then threw it down until helpers arrived with a rope.

Today's Chuckle

Since ignorance is supposed to be bliss, why aren't more people jumping with joy?

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A low pressure area over Kentucky is moving rapidly along the international border and not much the same track as one set of "weekend" whiter gave about two inches of snow to the areas adjacent to Lake Erie and Lake Ontario and a similar performance is expected today. The snow will stop by evening in southwestern Ontario and by midnight tonight in eastern Ontario.

Another weak centre near Winnipeg will move to near Sault Ste. Marie by Saturday morning, bringing light snow to the Kenora and Lake areas. Temperatures are moderating as warm air moves in from the Pacific and St. Patrick's Day will be mild throughout the province.

Tough Curfew Clamped Upon Cypriot Port

By L. S. CHAKALES

NICOSIA (AP)—British troops isolated the major Cypriot port of Limassol last evening as the toughest curfew yet seen on this violence-riddled east Mediterranean island.

The curfew confining Limassol's 25,000 citizens to their homes said the curfew would continue until "further notice."

British officials said the port 38 miles southwest of Nicosia "has always been a bad trouble spot," and that terrorist incidents had increased there.

Communist leaders of the biggest labor union called for an end to the general strike protesting the deportation to the Seychelles Islands of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the island's movement for union with Greece. But Greek shopkeepers, laborers and clerks so far ignored the union appeal and continued their shutdown, now in its fifth day. Gasoline and food oil shortages were reported from some sections of the island.

MAY END TUESDAY

Labor leaders said the walkout may end by Tuesday, Sunday and Monday are religious holidays.

Pro-Greek terrorists continued their bitter fight against British control. An Royal Air Force aircraftsman wounded outside an army barracks here. Two policemen were injured in an explosion at Famagusta.

A British army officer's wife and six-year-old child were cut by flying glass when a bomb was thrown into their home.

Fifty homemade pipe bombs were found in a shop near the spot where a British army sergeant was killed Wednesday.

A military vehicle was set afire by a bomb at Famagusta. Another bomb was tossed at a military patrol in the village of Drousha, near Paphos. No injuries were reported in those two incidents.

REWARDS OFFERED

Police trucks equipped with loudspeakers toured central Nicosia announcing a reward of £5,000 ($14,000) for information concerning guerrilla activities.

Thieves Should Get Together To Pair Shoes

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — These two fellows could get together, they could really shine up to each other.

On March 3, a thief stole 120 sample shoes in Columbus. They were valued at $800.

All were left shoes.

Today in this city, a thief stole 100 sample shoes valued at $700. All were right shoes.

Sprig of Old Shamrock, Green Tie Will Be Sported Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The records show about 1,500,000 Canadians are of Irish descent, but there'll probably be more than that wearing a sprig of the old shamrock and a green tie on Saturday, St. Patrick's Day.

Television screens have been tinted green and radio programs will be filled with songs and Irish ballads all week, but Saturday is really the day for the Irish, when they'll be joined by others in celebrating the feast day of the patron saint who became Ireland's patron saint.

Parades and dances Saturday night are mere trimmings following religious observances in churches. Actually March 17 marks the presumed anniversary of his death in 461 AD. Legend has it that the actual date was either March 8 or 9, and that a wise Irish priest combined the two dates to get March 17.

It's many centuries since anyone quibbled over the date, although scholars here and there are still debating the validity of many legends surrounding the life of St. Patrick. There is some evidence that he was buried at Down Cathedral, at Dublin in County Down, from where the BBC annually broadcasts a service on March 17. St. Patrick was probably born in England in 389 AD, and was educated as a Christian. But he was captured by Irish raiders and sold into slavery. In his youth in Ireland he became deeply religious, and went to France and Britain to study for the priesthood and education.

On returning to Ireland about 433 AD St. Patrick preached his first sermon on the spot where Down Cathedral now stands. Modern observances in Ireland—and in many places around the world where Irish gather—are a lot quieter than the old days, when a head was broken with a shillelagh. Time has mellowed the ancient revelries.

Ireland itself is still divided between north and south, and there are more people of Irish descent abroad than there are on the Emerald Isle. But March 17 remains the one day in the year when all are one in the memory of the saint.

HAVELOCK HOTEL DAMAGED BY FIRE

The Havelock Hotel at Havelock, owned by Jim Yeates of Belleville, was damaged by smoke and water when fire guited the rear of a vacant store. The store was part of the hotel building.

At present the hotel is vacant but plans were being made for its renovation if a beer-vote by the village goes through on April 11.

NEWSY QUOTE FROM BULLETIN

One of the quotable quotes of the week comes from the news bulletin of the Belleville Rotary Club.

It goes something like this: "... Jamie Bone (a Rotarian of long standing) says Spring must be around the corner because last Wednesday, in the midst of the blizzard on Front street, he saw a blue-jay towing a black squirrel to get it started."

Quinte District Curling Club Officially Formed at Meeting

The Quinte district Curling Club came into existence Thursday evening at a well-attended meeting in the members' lounge at the Hall. Sufficient membership has been reported to proceed with the formation and a board of directors including Judge J. C. Anderson, J. C. "Pat" Houston, William C. Gault, A. F. E. Jarrett, J. E. McArthur, J. N. Yeomyer, Don Shanton, John W. Deacon, William N. Hurst, R. Varquharson, Jr., L. Sheppard, Clive B. Colling, and Don L. MacKinnon were named to carry out the good work. When the club begins operations a new board will be nominated and elected from which the officers will be chosen by the board named.

Approximately fifty members were present at last night's meeting and the enthusiasm for the new club was just as strong as it was when the project was first approached. Mr. Jarrett, who has assumed the chairmanship of the section, told the assembly that over one hundred members were assured without any organized campaign and he believed a limited membership would be more appreciated. "It is necessary to have $20,000 to pay our obligations to the Parks Board for the building," said the speaker, "and I am sure the membership can be underwritten but at the present time I cannot say how."

Mr. Houston again went over the detailed plans for those members who, up till now had not heard of the arrangements to secure the rink. The Fair Board through grants are arranging for 75 per cent of the cost of the building with the Curling Club putting up the remainder and for which under the agreement the latter receives free occupancy for a period of ten years with the option to renew for ten-year periods and that the best of set by the both parties. If agreement cannot be reached the rental will be negotiated with the county judge as the third party.

Mr. Houston also told the meeting that the insurance must be paid for by the club and the club must also put in the artificial ice plant, buy the stones and put in a heating plant for the clubhouse and provide the furnishings. The clubhouse will always be available to the Fair Board under the Farmer-activities in an agreement to be arranged. The speaker showed that the obligation of the Curling Club would be approximately $30,000 and he believed that it would be self sustaining and in a very few years show a profit on operations. "This effort will not push itself," said Mr. Houston, "and it will require a lot of work by a lot of people but it can be done and it will be done."

William Gault, the president, told the meeting that the only proposition to ensure success was one of membership. "Every member must be a missionary," he said, "and it is your duty and mine to speak to everyone you know with respect to the club, explain it fully and then get his cheque." In a question period from prospecting membership from the district, the president said: "This is not a Belleville club. This is a district curling club and the club will be open to members in the outlying district and when the new board is formed the district should be representative. We want members from Tweed, Trenton, Madoc, Picton, Bloomfield and all intermediate points, and the board you have here tonight will carry the message to those outside points.

It was also pointed out that everything possible will be done to assist the club in securing promoting junior boys' and girls' work in the district through the new facilities and that the best of co-operation will always exist between the two bodies.

Ald. Effie McCabe To Head Women On Blitz Night

An appeal for residents to be as generous as possible when canvassers call during the forthcoming Red Cross campaign, was made today by Alderman Effie McCabe, chairman of the residential blitz scheduled for next Monday evening.

Plans for the residential blitz are fast being completed with over 300 women ready to make their rounds seeking donations to the Red Cross. It is hoped that the entire residential section of the city can be covered in the one night.

The residential campaign will commence Monday evening but the real push will take place in the evening when the 300 women canvassers will go to work. Mrs. McCabe asked that porch lights be left on to assist the canvassers and for residents to make their donations as large as possible.

Kelso Roberts Grateful As Accidents Cut

The sharp reduction in highway fatalities in Ontario so far in March has resulted in a compliment for Ontario Provincial Police from Attorney General Kelso Roberts, who has urged force members to make every possible effort to maintain the record.

As of Tuesday of this week there had been but five auto fatalities investigated by the O.P.P. in Ontario, a sharp decrease in fatal accidents in comparison to February.

The stepped-up highway patrol on the part of Provincial Police was given a big share of the credit for the reduction of fatal accidents by Mr. Roberts, who said he realized the tremendous task of the force if a goal of reducing accidents by 50 per cent was to be reached.

He said that statistics so far in March have been most gratifying but only by a continued and unlisted effort on the part of all members of the force could a 50 per cent reduction in accidents be achieved.

The expression of gratitude by the Attorney General was conveyed to E. V. Bothwell, commissioner of police for Ontario, who passed it along to district inspectors following which it was circularized by district headquarters.

Huge Meteor Seen in Sky On Thursday

A huge meteor, seen across the province from Brantford to Ottawa, startled a Belleville couple from their sleep in the early hours of Thursday morning.

About 3 a.m. Thursday, J. A. Blackburn was suddenly wakened from sleep by a strong, bright glare filling his home at 372 Charles street.

He called his wife, who described the glow like "the white light of a ground flare." Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn thought it was the flashes of an electric storm, but the light continued travelling across the sky. Then she realized the weather was too cold to expect a thunder storm.

She counted mentally up to twenty when suddenly she heard a distant muffled explosion.

A check with district police showed no patrols had seen the meteor while there were no other reports of its being observed in this area.

A resident of Bayside also saw the flash, or three flashes. He described it as a brilliant blue-white glare much like the flash from a break in a high tension wire. The time was approximately 3.20 a.m.

Belleville Man Dies in Hamilton

Death of a Belleville man in hospital in Hamilton after he was found unconscious on a flight of a church is being investigated by Hamilton city police.

The man was identified as Ross Richards, 60, of Belleville. He was found yesterday lying unconscious behind the Philpott Tabernacle in Hamilton. He died in hospital shortly after admittance.

No foul play is suspected.

The deceased lay in state at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 37 Campbell St. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Kiwanis World Travel Series Film Enjoyed

There may be some doubt that "The Beautiful Blue Danube" is blue, but after the Nagel-Moore colorlogue at B.C.I. auditorium Thursday night there was no doubt whatever that it is beautiful.

"The Beautiful Blue Danube," produced by Curtis Nagel and William Moore, and the last of the third annual Kiwanis World Travel Series, was a colorful feast and satisfying an evening's entertainment as the series has afforded to date.

Mr. Nagel, who narrated last Thursday's film in his own German accent, said in a preamble that the Danube is "lovingly fashioned" by himself and Mr. Moore. The evidence was conclusive.

From the plunging cataract and whirlpool rapids of Niagara in West Germany's Black Forrest to its lowest expanse as it slides under old Vienna and the Iron Curtain, the Danube is a river of wondrous natural beauty as well as a stream of history.

Medieval castles perched like storks on the brows of river cliffs looked like illustrations for fairy tale. Ancient towns and villages, great cathedrals, colorful pageants, river cafes, wine cellars, vineyards and more castles presented an ever-changing, ever-moving color movie of the delightful tour. The customs and character of the people of the Danube were lovingly displayed against their art, architecture and ancient history.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE

Highlights of the picture were special performances in West Germany's Black Forrest to its lowest expanse as it slides under old Vienna and the Iron Curtain, the Danube is a river of wondrous natural beauty as well as a stream of history.

Medieval castles perched like storks on the brows of river cliffs looked like illustrations for fairy tale. Ancient towns and villages, great cathedrals, colorful pageants, river cafes, wine cellars, vineyards and more castles presented an ever-changing, ever-moving color movie of the delightful tour. The customs and character of the people of the Danube were lovingly displayed against their art, architecture and ancient history.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE

Highlights of the picture were special performances in the Salzburg marionettes, the Vienna Boys' choir and scenes of the magnificent, gay, colorful and exciting city of Vienna.

Enjoyment of last night's film was greatly enhanced by on-the-spot comments of music festivals, an opera, a night club show and the Vienna boys' choir. A recording of Strauss' Blue Danube Waltz from which the film took its name provided acceptable background music.

"The Beautiful Blue Danube," like Nagel-Moore's "Rhine Journey" and "Portrait of Paris" was another outstanding film on a fascinating European subject.

Snipers Fire In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Snipers in the Jordan-held old city of Jerusalem fired from the wall across "no-man's-land" into the Israeli new city early this morning, an Israeli military spokesman reported.

It was the first time for two years that such sniping had occurred. The shots were fired from the wall at homes of several Israeli families in the new city, and there were no casualties, the military spokesman said.

Capt. H. Hunter, Wife Visited City Shortly After First War

Although a telephone check yesterday failed to obtain results from local families of the same name, a number of older residents in the city now remember Captain Howard Hunter whose French - born wife has been awarded nearly three million dollars under the will of a French plantation owner.

Captain Hunter served in World War I as a veterinarian in the artillery and after marrying overseas returned only briefly to Belleville.

Yesterday after receipt of the news item regarding Mrs. Hunter's legacy an hour - long check by a battery of reporters failed to locate anyone in the city who remembered the former Belleville man.

But today it was a different story.

After the article appeared in last evening's paper quite a few Belleville people remembered Captain Hunter.

Even the 1915 edition of the B. C. I. Elevator had reference to the soldier and his bride-to-be. The picture caption reveals he was born in 1892 and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter and entered the local high school in 1906. The former school mate of the favorite high school today recalled an incident which might account for the sudden Captain Hunter's army career before it started.

He was in the classroom one morning during prayers as the school day got underway when there occurred a loud explosion from one of the seats. Howard Hunter jumped to his feet, nothing his wife with blood spurting over the desk and floor.

The young student during prayers had been dissecting a blasting cap with his pen knife and the thing exploded blasting away part of Howard Hunter's left hand.

The description in the Elevator revealed the then Lieut. A. H. Hunter, B. Vt. BSc. had joined the Canadian Army Veterinary Corps and was a member of the 4th Artillery Brigade.

Previously he had been assistant bacteriologist in the provincial department of health and served as food inspector in the artillery. He had been Sergeant-Major of the 5th Field Battery at the time of the Coronation of King George V, being present in London for the ceremony representing the Canadian branch of His Majesty's Artillery.

Three or four Belleville residents called the Ontario Intelligencer stating they remembered the Hunter family.

Mr. John Hunter, father of Captain Hunter, was an engineer with the old G.T.R. and lived at 316 Foster Avenue. This home was purchased by Richard Carruthers.

Following World War I Captain Hunter married in London and brought his wife to Belleville where they stayed with his father and mother for some months. The weather apparently disagreed with Mrs. Hunter and they returned to France, where Captain Hunter took a position as veterinarian in the French government.

After Mr. Hunter's death Captain Hunter sent for his mother in 1923 and she went to France, where she lived with her son and his wife for six months. She then returned to Belleville and took an apartment on Front street, where she lived until her death about 12 years ago.

As far as is known Captain and Mrs. Hunter have no relatives in the immediate Belleville area, although Mrs. Mel Taylor, Thomas Street East, in Napanee, is a half-sister. Mrs. Lavonia Stockelbach whose travel advertising appears regularly in the Ontario Intelligencer is also a half-sister.

Mrs. Stockelbach, who married a wealthy Norwegian engineer, is a world traveller and is internationally recognized as one of the world's best painters of birds. She is at present in the United States.

Calls for Tenders For New Church Will Be Made

Eastminster United church last Sunday afternoon declared not D-Day but C-Day (Christians' Day) in the installation of their new church.

Members who had already pledged $30,000, through sacrificial giving, called on all members and adherents seeking their support. The results were very gratifying. Eighty cards were over a four-year period, promised $50,000. The approximate cost of the first unit of the church is $55,000. On this basis, calls for tenders will be made, and it is hoped the church will be ready to serve the needs of the community by fall.

Further financial assessment still remain an obstacle, but effort in this regard is continuing. The devotion of thought to an honest achievement, makes that achievement possible."

THIRSTY, NOT DIRTY

DETROIT (AP)—Two men were held for investigation today before police said they found two 600-gallon stills running in a chicken coop outside a home in suburban Sumpter township. Serving as a "cover" they said was a pipe leading through sub-freezing weather to a kitchen tap.

Warm, Friendly Smile Can Help Tourist Trade

TORONTO (CP) — A warm, friendly smile given at the right time can mean $1,000,000 to Ontario's tourist industry, Travel Bureau officials told a tourist and C. O. Dalton, president of Carling Breweries Ltd., said Thursday before the annual convention of the Ontario Outfitters Association.

Mr. Cathcart said members of his staff who deal with American tourists are asked to give a warm smile of welcome. All Ontario citizens should have the same attitude. Good hospitality could mean one tourist dollar in every 10 spent in the province. The converse was also true.

UNLIMITED POTENTIAL

Mr. Cathcart said there is almost unlimited tourist potential in the United States. A total of 30,000,000 Americans cross the border each year. This could be boosted to 40,000,000.

Mr. Dalton warned of airline travel that puts southern climates within the scope of tourists, especially as travellers could fly now and pay for the flight later.

Persons who wintered in the South were not available for summer holidays, Southern tourists had lost much of its tourist industry. This could happen to northern Ontario unless tourists were kept content.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and base metals advanced to further record levels in a busy first hour's trading on the stock exchange today. The 1 p. m. volume was above average for the mark.

Papers, foods, steels, construction and refining oils edged higher though mines signs showed to all groups. Price changes seldom went beyond a point.

Eureka dipped eight cents at $2.10 among the coppers after an early climb to $2.35. Seniors were strong with Hudson Bay and Labrador each up $1.

In uranium, Greyhawk, which has announced it is seeking a government sales contract, gained seven cents at 77 cents.

Western oils were scarce.

PRODUCE MARKET

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in flare cases, graded: A large 45; A medium 44; A small 40; B 38 - 35. Wholesale to retail: A large 50; A medium 49; A small 45; B 43; C 40.

Butter solids: Canada, first grade, Ontario 58½; western 58½ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 99 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80¾, unchanged.

Heavy Snowfall Blankets District, Milder Saturday

With Spring only four days away from its official birth Belleville's streets today do not give the impression the weather is two-timing the calendar.

A drop in temperature was felt throughout the city late yesterday evening, first intimation that a colder wave was on the way. The low during the night was 13 degrees.

Snow started to fall this morning over the district and is expected by the weatherman to continue until late this evening. Milder weather is forecast for Saturday with the low tonight in this district an expected 25 degrees.

Irish Premier Reads Wrong Talk To Newspapermen

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Prime Minister John Costello of the Republic of Ireland aroused uproarious laughter at the National Press Club luncheon here Thursday by confusing in the middle of an address that he was reading from the wrong speech.

Costello, who was due to address the United States Senate later in the day, suddenly interrupted his eloquent portrayal of United States links with Ireland by turning to the Irish ambassador at his side and saying indignantly: "This is the wrong speech."

He then turned to his audience and said: "I am afraid I have committed a great gaff. This is the wrong speech." He added that the speech he had been reading had been prepared for delivery to the Senate.

After joining in the laughter, Costello was handed the speech for delivery to the Press Club by an embassy official and, amid renewed laughter at his denunciation of the partition of Ireland.

Warm Invitation Given Nehru To Visit Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—A "very warm" invitation to visit Canada was extended to Prime Minister Nehru last fall when External Affairs Minister Pearson was visiting India, the minister said Thursday.

He was asked in the Commons by Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) whether Canada had sent the Indian leader an invitation to visit this country in view of a United States invitation, reported from Washington Thursday, for Mr. Nehru to visit that country.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were fully steady to 50 cents a hundredweight and higher at the Toronto stockyards this week. Hogs were generally unchanged. Sheep and lambs were steady.

Receipts of cattle were 200 head more than last week and 100 head more than the same week in 1955. Receipts from western Canada were 74 as compared with 279 last week.

The western steers were mostly replacements. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were heavier at 29 carloads than in any other weekly period in the past 16 months. There were no exports to the United States.

Feature of the week was fast action by both local and eastern interests on the liberal showing of slaughter steers and heifers. These two classes registered gains of 25-50 cents and closed strong.

Cow receipts continued light resulting in a broad demand at prices fully 50 cents higher, and more in spots. Bulls were also in good demand, particularly the good heavy bologna kind.

Prices

Choice Steers $18-18.25, some sales to $18.50, one straight carload of fancy-choice-1020 pound barefoot steers at $.818; good steers $17-18; mediums at $15-17; common steers $13-15; canner heifers $15-15.10, some choice lightweight butcher heifers to $16; mediums $13.50-15.50; commons at $12-13.50; boner steers and heifers $8-12; fed yearlings $18-18, with choice baby steers $20; good fed yearlings $17-18; mediums at $15-17; good cows closing at around $12, some sales to $12.50; good light heifery bologna bulls; canner and cutter cows down to $8; good heavy bologna bulls $13-14; common and medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement cattle: This class continued to show strong demand at steady prices. Good stockers were $16-17. Mediums were $14-16; with commons a $12-14; there were no stock calves offered.

Calves in broad demand at firm prices throughout the week. Top vealers were $25-27 with choice to $28 and a few extreme tops to $29. Mediums were $17-23, with commons at $12-17. Grass calves sold for slaughter were $9-12.

Grade A Hogs were generally unchanged to sell at $22.50. There were some sales to $24. Sows were $16 dressed and steady were $13.

Sheep and lambs were steady with good Ontario feedlot lambs selling at $23. Common and medium lambs ranged from $19-20. The few good spring lambs offered sold at $27 and weighed about 70 pounds. Good light sheep sold up to $10 with culls selling as low as $3.

Trade Your Home Just Like Auto Editor Urges

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Change your home, just like a car, was advice handed out Thursday at the 13th annual convention of the National Home Builders' Association.

Edward G. Gavin of Chicago, editor of the American Builder Magazine, said the tremendous house development programs embarked on in recent years were normal expansion.

"There is a change in trends today and people should not have a fixation about living in the same home," he said. "Trade in the house just as you would your car."

He told the builders to urge the people to buy a home and when they outgrow it or get into a higher financial bracket, buy another.

Stray Kingston Dogs Will Be Inoculated

KINGSTON (CP)—Police chief John Trunisch announced Thursday that dogs running loose in the city will be rounded up and inoculated with anti-rabies serum. Owners of strays would be prosecuted.

"We have no cases of rabies yet but we are not taking any chances," the chief said. "There'll be no exceptions and no excuses."

Gypsy Royal Families United By Marriage

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Gypsy royal families of Canada and the United States were united here Thursday night in a colorful wedding ceremony featuring an ancient blood rituals.

The groom, Prince Joseph Stanton, 30, of Louisville, Ky., arrived in Windsor 10 days ago, prepared to accept his bride, Princess Mary Miller, 20. Their marriage had been planned by their parents almost immediately after birth.

Prince Joseph, a husky six-footer, is the son of Edward Stanton, king of the U. S. Gypsies, and of Serbian descent. The princess is the youngest daughter of Frank Miller of Windsor, king of the Canadian Gypsies. King Frank's tribe is of Russian descent.

The skin on the hand of the bride and groom is pierced and drops of blood from each are mixed to symbolize the matrimonial bond. The blood ceremony was heldin privacy, with only the minister attending.

Machine-Gunners Fire Big Garage In Algiers' Heart

ALGIERS (AP) — Masked machine-gunners set fire to a huge French garage in a terrorist raid in the heart of the Algerian metropolis today.

The French put a midnight-to-5 a. m. curfew in Algiers and sent troops scurrying over the countryside in search of the saboteurs.

The machine-gunners seized the garage just before 2 a. m., held off watchmen, poured gasoline over the floor and set it ablaze.

The raiders made their escape as the blaze swept through the garage, located below a big French apartment house. The fire destroyed more than 100 cars.

Police assumed the raiders were rebels, but did not exclude the possibility they might have been French counter - terrorists seeking to provoke stronger government action against the nationalists.

NEARLY 300 VICTIMS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bernard Schreiber, 19, Thursday night became the 299th victim of the penitentiary's electric chair. The youth was executed for the rape-slaying of a 17-year-old Toledo girl. Schreiber, 10th teen-ager executed for murder in Ohio since 1887, supported calm until the end, his eyes closed almost constantly and his lips moving slightly as he whispered a prayer.

Mother, Children Burned in Beds

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) A mother and two young daughters died early today in a fire which destroyed their five-room frame home.

The father, Steve, 44, returning from work about 5 a. m., tried to rescue his family but was overcome by smoke. He suffered minor burns.

Canadians Most Careless People, Fire Loss High

TORONTO (CP)—A fire prevention official said Thursday night Canadians are the most careless people on earth.

And, he added, fire insurance companies are paying them to be that way.

Inspector Neis Rathbun of the Brantford fire prevention bureau told a convention of the Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association of Ontario that Canada has the world's highest per capita annual fire loss.

The Canadian average was $3.88 per person, compared with $4.50 in the United States and $1.10 in the United Kingdom.

"What are insurance companies doing about it?" he asked. "They are just encouraging people to be careless."

Inspector Rathbun proposed a solution which he described as "education by fire prevention."

Last year in Brantford there were 1,200 insurance claims filed. Most were for cigaret burns to furniture. With a deductible policy people would be more careful.

New York Storm Likely to Leave 6 Inches of Snow

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A new snowstorm flashed into New York state today, and was expected to add up to six inches to the thick blanket laid down Wednesday.

Striking in the midst of temperatures ranging down to four below zero, the storm moved northeastward from the southwestern and southeastern parts of the state.

Six to nine inches covered most of the state Wednesday.

Planning to Use Prisoners for Conservation Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—Reforms Minister Foole said Thursday his department is planning to train prisoners from various institutions for special construction work this summer on provincial parks and conservation projects.

He said the work would give prisoners a chance to work out-of-doors during the summer in pleasant and interesting surroundings. In no event, however, would they be used to reduce the number of workers usually hired by government departments.

His department was considering opening a special conservation prison farm to train prisoners in various phases of conservation work and to grow saplings for transplanting in parks and forests.

PERHAPS SIMCOE COUNTY

Site of the new farm, first of its kind in Ontario, might be in Simcoe county.

Mr. Foole said trying to keep prisoners employed presents a problem. Some industries have been offered work to only a limited number of prisoners, and if manufacturing industries were established, outside labor and management groups complained.

By turning the prisoners to conservation work, they would be serving a useful purpose and also be doing interesting work.

The Bath farm at "Fort William also would be used to start growth of tree saplings.

PLANS TO RETIRE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador V. K.Wellington Koo, veteran Chinese diplomat and envoy to the United States for almost 10 years, is planning to retire. Close associates said Wednesday that Koo has submitted his resignation to President Chiang Kai-shek, but it has not yet been accepted.

Stock Racket Case Adjourned

TORONTO (CP)—Two men, arrested Thursday night in connection with an extensive stock-manipulating racket, today were remanded in custody to March 21. Bail was set at $50,000 each. In property or cash.

Police said a racket is believed operating in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa and that further arrests are expected.

ASK AID

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The Argentine health ministry appealed to the United States Anti-Polio Foundation Wednesday for an urgent consignment of gamma globulin to stem an epidemic of poliomyelitis. The epidemic has reached a peak, with 75 cases reported in the last 24 hours.

Auditor Critical Of Federal Govt. Reserves Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Watson Sellar suggested hereThur that Finance Minister Harris ought to supply more information on the build-up of reserves to meet future losses in federal reserves.

He told the Commons accounts committee it just wasn't "logical" that $50,000,000 should be added to the reserves year after year without some full explanation.

He noted, however, that no allocation was made by Mr. Harris to the reserves in the 1954-55 fiscal year and concluded that perhaps the finance department is analyzing its assets more carefully.

The issue came up as the committee began questioning on Mr. Sellar's latest "blue book" commenting on the government's bookkeeping for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

HYDRO NETWORK GROWS

The full significance of this statement may be lost unless one notes that it is only within comparatively recent years that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario has achieved integration of its own varied sources of power.

It was not until 1950 that the southern Ontario power system was tied into that of northern Ontario, completing the integration of the southern and northern systems with the exception of the Thunder Bay system, which is still not linked with the remainder of the HEPC lines.

In the early days of Hydro, of course, local plants served communities. It was not until after the signing of contracts with private Quebec power firms in the thirties that the integration procedure was started in earnest. First provision was made for delivering Quebec power to the Niagara system. It also made possible for the Niagara system to return power to Eastern Ontario communities when needed. This net was gradually extended. It was not until after the end of the war, however, that a 110,000 volt line was built from Scarborough to Barrie, making it possible for Eastern Ontario power to be delivered to the Georgian Bay district. The circuit was completed by the construction of a line from Barrie to Hanover, where the Niagara and Georgian Bay systems exchange power, and the integration of the southern Ontario system was thus completed. There followed the 1950 link between the southern and northern systems.

Now Premier Frost says that he and Premier Maurice Duplessis have discussed plans for the conversion of Hydro's present power into 60-cycle power, making it possible for Hydro Quebec and Ontario Hydro to support each other. Ontario Hydro's Thunder Bay system, while not linked with the remainder of the HEPC systems, is joined with the Manitoba Hydro. The remaining link yet to be forged in Premier Frost's predicted network across half of a continent is therefore the connection between the northern and Thunder Bay systems of HEPC.

This, though, is only part of the story. Premier Frost said that Ontario has connections with the Detroit Edison system, while he does not appear to have mentioned three other connections between the HEPC and power companies in the United States, at Sarnia, at Niagara Falls and at Massena, N.Y. Since the United States companies with which Hydro is connected also have extensive networks with other firms in the U.S., this means that the Ontario Hydro system is tied in with a vast web of power lines throughout much of the eastern U.S. Here, surely, is a striking example of co-operation between neighboring nations.

SPRING CHEER

Cheer up.
Only six weeks to the start of the fishing season.
Of course, if you insist on catching pickerel, you must wait another two weeks.
And if it is bass or muskies that you are after, your fun doesn't start for over three months.
So, if you are a bass fisherman, here is heartening news for you. There are lakes in this district which have too many bass.
Oh, yes there are - - - or were. Hon. Clare E. Mapledoram, Minister of Lands and Forests of the Province of Ontario, says so in his annual report, newly arrived on the editorial desk.
The district lakes in question are Bradley Lake, Island Lake and Maple Lake, all in Hastings. To improve the fishing there, 3,884 bass were taken out last year. Another 940 smallmouths were taken out of Island Lake this year.
How does the elimination of 4,824 bass improve the fishing? Well, as Mr. Mapledoram explains it, "when a smallmouth bass population becomes excessive, the fishing for the species is generally poor. If overpopulated, the fish often become stunted as a result of crowding and/or an inadequate food supply which usually results in undersized fish."
To remedy this situation, the department nets fish. Last year 13,274 bass were taken out of thirteen lakes in this program.
What happened to the fish? They were planted in other lakes where there was adequate space and food. Hastings and Prince Edward counties were two of these. 13,274 bass were Baptiste Lake, Bow Lake, the Mississippi River and the York River.
The department also removes coarse fish from waters in which they are too plentiful. Last year ling were removed from three lakes in the Quinte district, Crow Lake, First Depot Lake and Fourteen Island Lake.
Fishing more cheerful now? Better hurry down to the basement and look over that outboard motor. Open the tackle box. You almost certainly need some new lures. Go out and buy them. After all, isn't the Little Woman looking at Easter hats? And what is more moral-building, a hunk of felt, ribbon and lace, or a good solid chunk of bright plastic, with an alluring built-in wiggle?

An article in the Gulf Reporter dealt with the proposed Carribean Federation of British possessions in the West Indies. The heading read: "A New Matron is Taking Form." Typographical error? Or an inspired way to attract attention to an article on the coming birth of a nation?

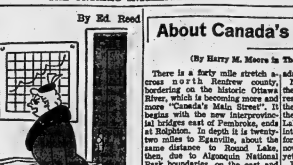
LAGGARD

Something must be wrong with me.
I am sharp of eye, and yet
Wherever'e I've chanced to be
I've not seen a robin yet.



Spring is on the way I know,
But outside my living room
All I see is ice and snow.
I've no daffodils in bloom.

There are signs that others boast
Proving winter will be short,
But unluckier than most
I've seen nothing to report.

Though alert I know I've been,
Watchful of them, hour by hour
Not one robin have I seen.
Not one daffodil in flower.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 16, 1936

Mrs. W. E. Peacock of Windsor, Ontario, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McGie, Bridge Street east.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sexsmith and family of Kingston will come to this city shortly to reside.

In the final game in the Centre Hockey League the West Huntingdon fast skating hockey team defeated the plucky green shirts of Rednersville in a match played in the Stirling rink before a record crowd of spectators on Tuesday night. The final score was 3 to 1. The following composed the team: West Huntingdon, — Saries, George McGowan, Judd McGowan, Mott, Ralph and Rodgers; subs — Wright, Cook, Thompson and Reid; Bethel, — Dickey, Miller, Culhane, Simms, Ray Dickey, Lupinette, and C. Dickey; subs — Calvert. The referee was Ross Burt of Trenton.

The Rev. Robert Hall, pastor of John Street United Church, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Kinsmen's Club in the Quinte Hotel and the members heard a fine address on Germany. Bill McIntosh introduced the speaker and the appreciation of the members was extended to Mr. Hall by Jack Haig. Jack Norris capably acted as song leader and Bob Graham was a vigilant sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. J. W. Van Dusen of Tilsale, Sask., is home on a visit to her mother, Mrs. W. E. Vandervoort, Church Street.

Mr. W. B. Deacon has returned to the city after a business trip to London and other places in Western Ontario.

Mr. Robert Wilson has returned to his home here from Picton where he was engaged on a special job for several months.

Two rinks representing in the "colts" of the Belleville Curling Club went to Napanee yesterday and defeated the "colts" of that town. The following composed the Belleville rinks: Scott, Sprague, Frank Bloor, C. E. Burke and W. E. Schuster, skip; J. A. Kerr, Herb. A. Fish, Walter Belair, J. E. Harte, skip.

Scotland Laughs

(By Duncan Gillespie, Windsor Star correspondent in Scotland)

The is a worldwide popular belief that there is a joke factory up here in Aberdeen. Built of the local imperishable gray granite. It employs a staff of professional jokers who week in and week out produce these endless jokes about the Aberdonian's meanness, which are fed, magazines, to go under cartoons, which are sold at newsstands and is even one small department for producing the jokes used on comic postcards.

What more appropriate city in which to read "Scotland Laughing" by W. B. Burnett?

Reading through it (for the second time within a matter of months) I was struck again by the number of Scots jokes that deal with the subject of death. One joking Scot greets the grave with an easy familiarity. The book is divided into sections, and the one I have chosen from. "The Independent Scot" is one of the graveyard quips:

The village joiner was nearing his end. His family were all in attendance, and it seemed clear to all that the old man was finally breathing his last. Continuing the vocation, his wife ventured to mention the question of funeral arrangements to her eldest son. "We'd better just get Archie Morrison for everything. Your father and him were/on very friendly but ... " She was interrupted by a voice from the bed. Raising himself on his elbow, stubborn to the last, he managed to say "Get that cratur Morrison to make the coffin if ye like. But if he dae, I'll no' pit a foot in't."

Inevitably there are plenty of jokes about the "Thrifty Scot." We are still in Aberdeen. A tramp who had been wearily trudging the streets all day struggled to the door of a tenement and begged the lady there if she could spare something to eat. "I'm hungry," he said, after considering the situation for a minute "bring it up and we'll eat what we have."

The "Practical Scot" is well represented in these pages. (I live in hope). There was, for instance, the Fifer who was shown St. Paul's Cathedral in the city and commented "Man, it wad haud a terrible lot o' coal."

When it comes to "The Loyal Scot — well, as Mr. Burnett says, his patriotic zeal is even strong enough to shake him out of his native caution. Witness the Glasgow burn blacksmith who had, shown his English visitors over the battlefield and who, for his services and his graphic descriptions, of the events of that great day, had been offered half-a-crown. "No, na, keep your money," he replied with great self-denial, "this affair has cost ye enough already."

* * *

The second part of the book consists of short stories, verses, examples, of which I think the best (and possible the pick of the book) is this: It was Sunday morning and Sandy — considering the operation to be one of decency and mercy — was hammering away at his dinnae ken what he was making. Before Sandy could explain himself the minister had opened the attack. "Man, Sandy, that's a terrible clatter to be making," he said severely. "Dae ye no ken by this time it's wrong to carry on like that on the Sabbath Day, Ye sould use screws!"

About Canada's 'Main Street'

(By Barry M. Moore in The Eganville Leader)

There is a forty mile stretch across north Renfrew county, bordering on the historic Ottawa River, which is known as many more "Canada's Main Street". It begins with the new interprovincial bridges at Ste Pantheonie, ends at Rolphton. In depth it is twenty-five miles. Eganville, about the same distance to Round Lake, then, due to Algonquin National Park boundary, due east and north, narrows westward. In this area, and in the past, we have found the big town of Pembroke, Petawawa village, Petawawa Military Camp, Chalk River, the atomic energy plant, Deep River, a second smaller town Rolphton and the Ontario Hydro's big electrical development at Des Joachims.

Within this area are approximately five or six hundred square miles of farm land, numerous hydro investments running into billions of dollars, the military camp alone will take at least sixteen million dollars before all its permanent buildings are completed, the new federal forestry building and the many other additions and improvements will run into much money. What the atomic plants will eventually bring to the population at this time.

The way is a long mile stretch, except for military camp and atomic energy requirements, steady building is connected, one small village, village and hamlet, in one big town, Pembroke, the eastern terminus of the Trans-Canada Highway passes.

Nor is there any end in sight. As the area fills up, as more and more residences and business places fill the gaps and population increases, the district to Eganville and Round Lake must eventually be brought into use, must house the workmen for the many new and industries now along the main line, the many yet to come.

For, after all, this particular stretch of country is the focal point of the province, the Dominion. This is one part of the dominion which is in the limelight, a part in which property values will soar, and where those who own property have some will and desire to intensely ripe banana. This is tolerated perfectly, and herein lies the crux of the entire matter. Heretofore it has been impossible in severe cases to give any carbohydrate without damage, whereas banana is not only well tolerated but rapidly changes the entire picture of the disease to one of well-being."

The quantity of banana the infant or young child consumes varies from a teaspoonful or two of mashed banana, perhaps mixed with a little of whatever liquid the baby takes, then increasing day by day until the daily banana ration reaches the maximum the baby will take, which is generally anywhere from two to a banana and a half.

Dr. Haas pointed out the importance of feeding only thoroughly ripe bananas, for in the green state when harvested bananas are largely starch and good to eat only when cooked. Banana sufficiently ripened to be suitable for feeding to infants is of a uniformly yellow, flecked with brown (not black bruise) spots, should peel easily, and the pulp should be quite soft. If the pulp is still green at the tip, if the banana peel is not readily removed and the pulp is at all hard, the raw starch has not yet been converted into digestible sugar.

TONI'S BANANAS WERE SO GOOD

I do little marketing nowadays, being in a conference on the bowling green, but judging by the on second thought the comparison may not be fair. After all, Tony peddled bananas on Chapel Street in Canadagua only in the dog-days, whereas in mid-winter there were no bananas within a thousand miles of the place. Here we are in midwinter. The trees, flowers, grass 'n' everything growing like mad, the sun blazing down and the blue sky, birds nesting and singing are just crazy. I was going to compare the big hand of well-ripened bananas Tony gave us for 10c with the one I bought in the dock of it, 10 or 12c in those days would be the equivalent of $1 today, and for a dollar you can buy several pounds of bananas.

Once, in the Gunnison-Crist-Kalienborn era of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, I was asked something I said about bananas and gave a banana to each of the choicest, packed in a barrel. But the gentleman made a grave mistake. He sent them to the cars of the Eagle. I learned about it months later when I visited the Eagle plant. They told me: "Doc, they were the best bananas we ever had."

I wouldn't know about that. The best I ever et were Tony's.

Make Traffic Work Easier

(Pittsburgh Post-Gazette)

Europeans discovered long ago that their traffic policemen were more effective, and infinitely more picturesque, directing traffic from a small enclosure mounted on a platform.

Would it, for example, in the great square in front of the railroad station in Milan, Italy, be an officer who for sheer artistry rivals any of the renowned conductors who appear at the Scala opera house.

Now the Germans are adding comfort to showmanship. The traffic officer's platform is being heated, so that he is not suffering hours on end in the frozen streets of Cologne or Hamburg.

Why don't American cities make better provision for the convenience and efficiency of their traffic officers? We can hardly look George, Gyp, Constantine or Jerome in the eye these mornings as we pass him in the shuft and hurry into a steam-heated office.

The Europeans have shown that better and more entertaining traffic vision can be made for traffic officers. With very little expense, we could and should follow their example.

Bonnie Braes Of Igloonik

(Vancouver Province)

Three Eskimos from Churchill recently went up South to Winnipeg to entre the Manitoba Curling Association's bonspiel, and naturally this fills us with a peculiar delight.

Here are two fine cultures meeting in what appears to be a really gerrated melting pot, and we are all in favor of more of it.

Let them eat haggis in Pangnirtung.

Those brawn old Scots who gave this country its North would have liked to live to see it. And Canada will be a better place for it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WITH WHAT YOU HAVE

Everyone of us has far more with us, unrevealed, than we have revealed. We have to do something we have never attempted before—and surprising ourselves! But it is what we have been worth while, and which has inspired others to do.

It is the spirit behind the spiritless that counts. America did it. It made the nation great. Our forefathers did with what tools they could get or make. Most of them were very crude. They had mostly their hands to work, supported by the muscles of their backs, legs and arms. There were no restrictions as to time then. Work was from dawn to dusk—with fifteen minutes for breakfast and the ending of day.

Robert Frost waited twenty years before he felt he should decide to devote his life to the writing of poetry. Then—with what poems he had that he thought would make up a small book, he called upon an English publisher and offered them. They were immediately rejected as worthless. His book (now very scarce and rare) under the title of "A Boy's Will," was immediately acclaimed. Frost made his start with what he had.

The Editor's Digest has a most inspiring article about John D. Rockefeller, the pioneer in the building and selling of sewing machines and cash registers. Rockefeller were those first machines, but before that genius arrived he had made one of the most useful businesses in the world! He started with what he had—which was nothing but a dream and a will to do.

If you begin with what you have —and feel you have something—you will have something. How big and successful will depend upon how high you determine to climb! Most people are willing to be more prosperous it is—the greater will be the numbers of those to fill new jobs.

Too Adventurous

(London Free Press)

A Colorado girl was robbed of her wallet in a matinee dress. No sort of a man to be going around with.

March Really Boy's Month

(Christian Science Monitor)

March is a boy's month. It spreads before him as always exciting man's world — in manageable dimensions.

The boy may bring puzzy willows home from the river bank (and the puzzle may be how to keep on the yellow mud he has tracked in into the kitchen). He is looking for something else down there by the stream. Strange people, he knows, are found in strategic secret.

When he is not looking over the meadow he is a Cortez. March has pushed back the illimitable seas of the imagination. Instead of islands, mountain ranges (the range of the Rockies, for example) and better-beaten bedge, now just emerging from white oblivion).

When he kneels on the curbstone he is a shipper sending his fleets down a long river. It is the gutter ous where it divides at the foot of the street. Or he is a builder with the street corner where one branch of the little gutter stream veers off to the right.

After months of trekking over frozen fields it is quite natural to have a change, to come into lands fit to pioneer, and even to settle down for a while on the state routes. Later he can move on again, perhaps, in a westward ward into summer, toward semi-equatorial "bush" (a half-acre of overgrown woods) and toward tropical beaches (reached by family car).

But for now this is good enough for him. The vigorous part in the doings of an almost settled but still highly competitive world — man's world, boy-size.

Trees and Concrete

(New York Times)

To people who think of New York as a city of concrete and steel, the number of trees in it may be a surprise. For on city-owned property alone, along streets and in the parks, there are estimated to be 2,300,000 trees. Of the trees the city owns, about 30,000 are dead, by Parks Department estimates.

Personal Health Talks

Bananas are Much too Scarce

In his famous monograph on the treatment of celiac disease (otherwise known as marasmus, infantile atrophy, athrepsia, chronic intestinal indigestion and even gastro-intestinal catarrh) Dr. Sidney V. Haas said (A. J. Dis. of Children, Oct., '34):

Carbohydrates should be a wedded except as they occur in ... fat-free dry milk, lactic acid milk, protein milk prepared with calcium caseinate, etc. There is one exception, i.e., mucose as it occurs in extremely ripe banana. This is tolerated perfectly, and herein lies the crux of the entire matter. Heretofore it has been impossible in severe cases to give any carbohydrate without damage, whereas banana is not only well tolerated but rapidly changes the entire picture of the disease to one of well-being."

The quantity of banana the infant or young child consumes varies from a teaspoonful or two of mashed banana, perhaps mixed with a little of whatever liquid the baby takes, then increasing day by day until the daily banana ration reaches the maximum the baby will take, which is generally anywhere from two to a banana and a half.

Dr. Haas pointed out the importance of feeding only thoroughly ripe bananas, for in the green state when harvested bananas are largely starch and good to eat only when cooked. Banana sufficiently ripened to be suitable for feeding to infants is of a uniformly yellow, flecked with brown (not black bruise) spots, should peel easily, and the pulp should be quite soft. If the pulp is still green at the tip, if the banana peel is not readily removed and the pulp is at all hard, the raw starch has not yet been converted into digestible sugar.

TONI'S BANANAS WERE SO GOOD

I do little marketing nowadays, being in a conference on the bowling green, but judging by the on second thought the comparison may not be fair. After all, Tony peddled bananas on Chapel Street in Canadagua only in the dog-days, whereas in mid-winter there were no bananas within a thousand miles of the place. Here we are in midwinter. The trees, flowers, grass 'n' everything growing like mad, the sun blazing down and the blue sky, birds nesting and singing are just crazy. I was going to compare the big hand of well-ripened bananas Tony gave us for 10c with the one I bought in the dock of it, 10 or 12c in those days would be the equivalent of $1 today, and for a dollar you can buy several pounds of bananas.

Once, in the Gunnison-Crist-Kalienborn era of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, I was asked something I said about bananas and gave a banana to each of the choicest, packed in a barrel. But the gentleman made a grave mistake. He sent them to the cars of the Eagle. I learned about it months later when I visited the Eagle plant. They told me: "Doc, they were the best bananas we ever had."

I wouldn't know about that. The best I ever et were Tony's.

GUILT AND CHARITY

The Apostle Paul thrust a sword through the hearts of many of us when he wrote: "Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, whosoever thou that judgest them that do such things, that thou shalt escape?"

One of the most subtle perils of the soul is the condition of all of us to condemn others when all the time we should have been condemning ourselves to judge the motives of his brother. Furthermore, the very evils he condemns in others are either latent or revealed in his everyday conduct.

It is not be content to judge ourselves and leave the judgment of men when he starts out to walk in the pathway of light when we walk in the pathway of charity.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

I can always tell when my neighbor across the street arrives home in his car.

Our street is a busy thoroughfare with traffic from 4.30 p.m. until 6.

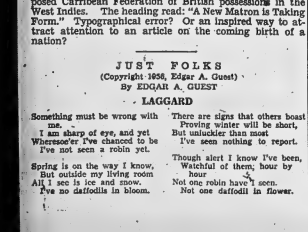
No need to look out the window. All of a sudden, there is a furious outburst of car horns blowing. That's my neighbor in a hurry to get home.

To turn into his garage, he has to make a left-hand turn across oncoming traffic thus holding up the cars behind him. The instant he sees a break in the traffic he is to his side drive, there are a couple of small tools between the cars back of him. As he starts to edge leftish, across the path of oncoming traffic, the car behind should stop and let him in, gives a split percentage of a second. But he stops. Then the cars in the oncoming stream, following their leader and not the situation, honk each in turn gives a less indignant, but none the less determined toot, just to keep the guy in this place.

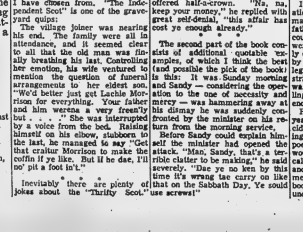
By this time, several cars are stopped behind him in his own traffic line. And three or four of them, instead of using the car garage upon being held up, start snorting and hooting their horns.

It usually takes him from thirty seconds to a minute to find a sufficient break in the oncoming traffic; or until some one, seeing the holdup, goes to the trouble ter his own side drive. And for that period of time, the air is filled with the din of angry horns.

You would suppose the poor fellow would be arrested in book, and so approach his side drive on the right. But unhappily this is very discouraging to the motoring public which does not allow of arounding block anywhere as much as six blocks. So he offers himself as a living demonstration of the heartlessness which characterizes an extraordinary proportion of the motoring public.



Night before last, I came home about 11 p.m. I got to walk in at 2 p.m. I turn right into my garage, which has a gate on it that necessitates a reverse movement while I jump out and open the gate. My car, part way across the sidwalk, obstructs traffic behind for that moment.



There was a furious blast of a horn on my tail.

I glanced behind. It was my poor friend from across the street. And he was glaring, too.

Stories from Life of Jesus

By April Oursler Armstrong

JESUS AND CHILDREN

"The kingdom of heaven" said John slowly. He lay under the cold and gray shadows of the fig tree, his eyes closed in a day dream.

Around him the others of the twelve apostles sat, some leaning against the trunk, tailor-fashion, some with bearded chins in their hands. This day they were to take the road again, walking back to Jerusalem with the Master. They were only waiting for Jesus Himself to be ready. Till then, they sat in Peter's front yard, grateful for a moment's idleness.

"I wonder what His Kingdom will be like," said John. "Will there be crowns? And thrones?"

"Don't you remember?" asked Nathanael Bartholomew. "He told us His Kingdom was not of this world."

"He doesn't want to be a king," said Judas Iscariot bitterly, "or even sway the time the crowd tried to make Him."

"Well, whatever it's like," said John smugly, "I guess I'll have an important place in it."

"Could be," said John, opening his eyes.

James sat up. "If anybody will, I will!"

Jude Thaddeus laughed. "I guess since the other James and Simon and I are His own cousins, we should come before you!"

SQUABBLING

And in no time at all, Peter's front yard was as full of quabbling and wrestling as a beehouse. Grown men these were, and the closest followers of Jesus, yet they argued and grew red in the face, and snapped at each other, each insisting he would be the most important one in the kingdom of God.

Finally Peter stood up and raised his hand for silence. "Look here!" he said. "None of us know what Jesus means by His kingdom. How can we know where we will stand in it? At the right time, we will ask Him."

When the Master came out of the house they followed Him in silence as He led the way out of the gate and into the street.

"Master—" began John, but he did not finish. From every doorway men and women of Capernaum came running to see Jesus, to wave to Him, to call to Him, and bid Him a good journey.

"Lord!" began James, but he too was interrupted. People swarmed around the Master, asking His blessing, and shouting farewells.

Slowly smilingly Jesus made His way through the throngs. At one street corner the crowd was thinner for an instant and the disciples could keep silent no longer. Tugging at His sleeve they asked:

"Master! Who do You think will be the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? Which one of us?"

DID NOT UNDERSTAND

Jesus stopped and looked at His apostles, and sadness darkened His eyes. He seemed to say: Do you still not understand? ⁂

Then bending down He singled out one child from the crowd, a little fellow of six years, with twinkling brown eyes and thick unruly hair.

"Come to Me!" He said, and held out His arms. The boy ran to Him, and Jesus cleared a space for Him in the crowd, and held him where all could see.

"In truth I say to you—unless you become as little children, you shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven!" said Jesus.

"And he that receives one such a little child in My name," Jesus continued, "receives Me. But he that shall scandalize one of these little ones that believe in Me, it were better for him that a millstone should be hung around his neck and that he should be drowned in the depth of the sea!"

The apostles looked at each other with dismay. Children were wonderful, that is true, they thought to themselves. But to become like a little child! It sounded ridiculous. They were grown men, proud of their wisdom and their knowledge. And His chubby-cheeked boy—what could he know what they did not? Jesus read their thoughts, and a warning flashed in His eyes.

"See that you despise not one of these little ones! For I say to you that their angels in heaven always see the face of My Father, who is in heaven."

Then Jesus rose, His hand still caressing the boy's shock of unruly hair. Sadly but firmly He answered His apostles' question.

"If any man desires to be first—he shall be the last of all!"

SPELLBOUND

The mothers and fathers of Capernaum had listened spellbound to His words. True, they had always seen that the Master enjoyed children. They had seen Him swing them up to His shoulder, seen Him whittle whistles and doll beds for them, watched Him as He gathered them round Him at twilight to hear His stories of the secret ways of God.

But He loved them! Hear what He said—that you must become like a child to enter His kingdom. No man in history, plain teacher or prophet, ever spoke so wonderfully! And still the crowd pressed.

And mothers and fathers pressed toward Him now, bringing their children to Christ. Sons and daughters, ragamuffins and those dressed in finest woollens, fat ones, thin ones, the sunny-nosed and the pimple-faced too, freckled and tow-headed, dark eyes and babies in their mothers' arms, plain ones and pretty ones, tall and gangly or cute and sized. Jesus welcomed them all. He stood and carried the little ones. "Stand back! This is no way to treat the Master! He is in a hurry, and He has no time—"

But Jesus said: "Let the little children come to Me, and forbid them not! For the kingdom of heaven is for such as these."

And tenderly He laid His hands on the head of each and every child there, and smiled upon and blessed them all. And not until He had blessed them all separately, been passed by the last hysterical of that state, whose governor now is considering whether he should sign it into law.

It is understood legislation also is proposed in New York, Arizona, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island to prevent entry into those states of beer from any state or country unless the brewery producing it is American-controlled.

Canadian brewing officials have charged that the proposed legislation is aimed at Carling Brewing Co. Inc. of Cleveland, a subsidiary of Canadian Breweries Ltd.

Govt. Concerned Over Legislation On Breweries

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has expressed to Washington its concern over proposed legislation in several U.S. states which would shut Canadian controlled breweries and their products out of those states, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday.

Speaking, he said, he knew this concern had been in touch with the states concerned.

"It is therefore hoped that no further formal action on our part will be required," Mr. Pearson said in the Commons.

The Canadian government had acted on information that efforts were being made in certain states to enact legislation which would "discriminate against and, indeed, would put out of business" brewing companies which controlling interest was held by persons not citizens of the U.S.

"In this case, in effect, that meant Canadians," Mr. Pearson said.

CONVEYED CONCERN

Accordingly, Ottawa had conveyed its concern to the U.S. government over the "undesirable consequences" that would follow legislation of this kind if it were put into effect.

The concern was based wholly on the principle involved and not merely on the situation of any particular industry, he said.

Legislation for the building of a brewery in Maryland unless it is 51-per-cent controlled by U.S. citizens has been passed by the legislature of that state, whose governor now is considering whether he should sign it into law.

It is understood legislation also is proposed in New York, Arizona, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island to prevent entry into those states of beer from any state or country unless the brewery producing it is American-controlled.

Canadian brewing officials have charged that the proposed legislation is aimed at Carling Brewing Co. Inc. of Cleveland, a subsidiary of Canadian Breweries Ltd.

Rare Black Swan Given Sanctuary But Bird Is Sad

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—A rare black swan has been given food and sanctuary in Waukegan, but the bird is sad.

Matthew Kyritsis, a restaurant owner and fisherman, asked help Thursday in locating the bird's owner. He fears it will die if it is not reunited with its mate.

The swan arrived at the harbor of this city, just north of Chicago, about three weeks ago. Saturday night employees of Kyritsis' restaurant found it huddled at the front door, its feathers drenched with oil.

They dried the bird alongside the restaurant stove and fed it bread and corn.

Kyritsis said an ornithologist identified it as one of only 118 Australian black swans that still survive. He said the expert told him the bird will not live in captivity without its mate.

"It's very valuable," Kyritsis said. "It must have escaped from the home of some rich man and flown here."

NATURAL DEATH

MONTREAL (CP)—Diane Lynn Leisen, 2½-year-old girl found dead in her cot Wednesday at a foster home in Montreal North, died from natural causes, authorities said.

Early Opening Of Navigation Not Likely

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Lake Carriers Association's ice committee reported Thursday that ice conditions on the upper Great Lakes do not appear favorable at this time for an early opening of the navigation season.

At a meeting attended by 16 vessel operators, U.S. coast guard representatives and weather bureau men, it was decided that no definite plans could be made now. Another meeting was set for Friday, March 23.

Most ice in the upper lake regions is about four inches thick, and an unusually heavy blanket of snow will slow the melting process, the committee said.

Operators at the Soo locks expect to have one lock open around April 1, the committee was told. It also learned that the port of Calcite on Lake Huron may be in operation by March 31 and that passage through the Straits of Mackinac may begin about March 30.

Columnist Alternately Raps And Praises Duke of Edinburgh

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Columnist Rannen Swaffer alternately raps and praises the Duke of Edinburgh in the third of a series of articles.

The 76-year-old columnist, writing in The Daily Herald, cites two examples of royal extravagance which he implies were encouraged by the duke, and commends:

"Someone . . . should advise Prince Philip about the many blunders he makes over royal publicity."

In the same article, Swaffer discusses such matters as the duke's alleged lack of musical appreciation—"a musical comedy . . . is about his level"—his enthusiasm for welfare work and his ability to support the Queen during royal appearances. Swaffer concludes:

"Just as Albert's conduct (Prince Albert was consort to Queen Victoria) greatly strengthened the roots of the throne, so Philip's personality has done much to increase its present popularity. The British nation owes him much."

PUBLICITY BLUNDERS

In the article published today, Swaffer starts off by saying somebody should advise the duke on publicity "blunders." He then praises the duke as saying the royal lounge at London airport is "not good enough for the Queen."

As a result, Swaffer asserts, £40,000 is to be spent on making the lounge a "bit prettier" at a time when the country is facing what Swaffer calls national bankruptcy.

"Philip may not know, but every time there is an instance of royal extravagance of this kind, letters of complaint pour into newspaper offices."

Swaffer also criticizes alleged extravagance on the royal yacht Britannia, and indirectly links the duke's name with this. He says the duke disliked the Britannia's fittings and ordered other furniture to replace it.

CONSORTS COMPARED

The columnist also says that the duke sometimes uses the Britannia when a service plane would do. "How many more millions will Philip's passion for the sea cost the nation."

In the next breath, Swaffer praises the duke for showing "much common sense" in many palace problems, and mentions the economy moves he has initiated, including modern labor-saving appliances.

The underlying theme of the article is a comparison of the duke with Prince Albert. Swaffer's statement is that the duke is "infinitely more popular."

Manhattan Chase Bank Has Not Found Big Bill

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chase Manhattan Bank still hasn't found its missing $1,000,000 United States treasury note but it isn't giving up the search.

"It's a giant task to try to find it," a bank spokesman said, "because there are some 45,000 documents in our vault and that means going through 45,000 folders."

Bank employees have been engaged in the search since March 7. The bank doesn't think, and does not want to think, that the note was stolen. It was just mislaid. The short-term notes are bought by banks as a means of simplifying the keeping of their assets.

Because the note was due to mature Thursday, the bank notified various state and federal agencies, plus its insuring agencies, that the note is still missing.

WAS IN DRAWER

The series A note, maturing at 1¼ per cent, became missing last Wednesday. It had been turned over to Chase Manhattan by a smaller bank for safekeeping. It had been in a drawer in the bank's vaults far below street level.

"Just human frailty," said one bank official. "A team of two men who have been filling millions and millions of papers, bonds, notes, securities and stuff like that must have put it in the wrong drawer. It will turn up. Anyway, it is insured."

Federal reserve officials say the bank is negotiable, but try to cash it. It is pure green in color, size 7⅛ by 6 inches.

PRESENTATION

On Sunday, 'Baby Village Day,' Margy Meagher, on behalf of the Women of the Moose, made the presentation of a baby cup to Mrs. Joan Wilson, 308 Coleman Street, on the occasion of the birth of a baby daughter, born Sunday morning, at 1.37 a.m.—the first baby born in the city on this special day.

'Family Night' Sponsored By H-S Assoc.

* * *

Last Thursday evening was "Family Night," sponsored by the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association and held in Prince Charles auditorium.

In spite of the snow and wind and the chance of the family car getting stuck in a snow-drift a large number of parents and children came to enjoy a truly fine program.

INTERMISSION TREATS

During intermission parents and children enjoyed soft drinks, ice cream, doughnuts and home-made candy. The home cooking table had a tempting display of cakes and cookies for sale. Those in charge of these departments were as follows: soft drinks and ice cream, N. M. Hales, K. Parks; doughnuts and home made candy, Mrs. Frank Clarke, Mrs. Frank Lang; home-cooking, Mrs. F. Galeithrone, Mrs. A. Skinner, Mrs. F. Douglas, Miss M. Galesthrone.

After having satisfied their thirst and filled up with all the goodies, everyone enjoyed several movies, which concluded the program.

Mr. Frank Lang extended a vote of thanks to the Barbara Diment School of Dancing and Esther-Lillian School of Dancing, and to all the others taking part in the concert.

The quality of the dancing showed that much time and effort are spent with the pupils and the colorful costumes were a joy to behold.

Volunteer workers of the Canadian Red Cross Society processed more than three million surgical dressings for distribution in Canada last year.

Holy Rosary P.T. Association Sponsors Children's Fashion Show

Against an attractive and familiar St. Patrick Day setting, Holy Rosary Parent-Teacher Association sponsored its first "Children's Fashion Show" in the church hall on Wednesday evening, under the show committee direction of Mrs. H. Brown, chairman; Reverend Sister Mary Evelyn, Reverend Sister Mary Lawrence, Mrs. Jack Darlington, Mrs. Marie Bell and Mrs. Jack Barrett.

Mr. James Colligan opened the fashion show by welcoming the fine audience, and introducing the commentator for the evening, Miss Edna Lalonde, who, with her charming and delightful comments added much interest to a most colorful event.

Among the many fashions for the "young try" were those for playtime; school and birthday party and social times, and for the first Communion. The first to appear for the playtime togs was little Marguerite Loveless, clothahis in Black Watch plaid jims, white cotton blouse with matching Black Watch trim. The "jim-jims" were fashioned from a washable Domil fabric with a tom's spin feature, and of especial interest was the guarantee that the material carried against wear and tear.

PLAY TIME TOGS

Another interesting feature of "Playtime Togs" was the brother and sister outfits. These were colorful and gay, made from the newest fabric on the market, and also guaranteed to be tubfast. Mary Catherine Tugnett and Sandy Hay did a fine job of modelling these.

Little Joanne Tugnett was a dream in a yellow cotton sun dress with tiny bolero. The bolero in the back was cut to a low V permitting it to hang free to play, and thus promote good health. Larry Doran was a real "westerner in his playtime outfit.

"School Days, School Days, Dear, Old Golden Rule Days" were ushered in by a school scene in which the teacher, Brenda Fox, ruled her small domain, attired in an all wool green skirt with matching pullover and cardigan, fashioned in the "Little Lady Anne" style, and made with circle skirt which holds its shape through many washings. Among the pupils were Gail McCauley, wearing a "Dan River" cotton plaid; Joanne Colligan, in a cotton screen print skirt with full crinoline and matching burnt orange blouse with gathering trim; Terry McGuigan was natty in his brown corduroy jacket with matching trousers and striped jersey which sported a collar, just like dad's; Bobbeth Smith was in charcoal and pink, with water repellent gabardine windbreaker, with instructors of nylon and orlon and striped matching jersey.

PARTY TIME

Party time was enhanced by its delightful little garments and a birthday party scene with a real honest-to-goodness birthday cake with all the pretty trimmings. Here seven little people were all aglow in their special wearing apparels. Georgina Bell as celebrant wore an all nylon dress and slip, sold by "Tot 'N' Teens', and selected by a TV feature in "Fashions on Deck". Paul Barrett wore trim in his charcoal and pink suit, with pink nylon stitching detail. Donna Morrison sweet in an aqua colored crystalette frock; Frank Farrell, natty in wool and rayon splash suit; Lorainne Brown was quite dressed up in her blue taffeta dress; Ruth Bannon was in a polished matching blouse and skirt, both of cotton and Helen Huffman, as hostess, wore a navy taffeta dress, washable, with crinoline underskirt.

The last scene was that of "Communion" in which Cathy Doran and Kenneth Smith held the spotlight in their communion attire; the little girl in white with her flowing veil, and the little lad in his spic and span suit and white blouse.

In the Easter Parade all the little tots took part, making of this final round-up a most beautiful spectacle: Mary Catherine Tugnett, in colon blue suit; Joanne Tugnett in a nylon flecked dress; Sandy Hall in an all wool coat with matching linen shirt and splash pants; Larry Doran, in brown watch plaid suit; Cathy Doran in her rain and shine coat; Paul Barrett wearing a tweed jacket and splash pants; Terry McGuigan in a grey, all wool flannel coat; Lorainne Brown, in navy linen; Kenneth Smith, in navy blazer and grey flannels; Georgina Bell in a navy wool sailor coat and hat; Frank Farrell, wearing an all-weather coat in navy; Joanne Colligan in yellow coat, with yellow straw hat; Donna Morrison, in a blue flecked wool coat with pink accessories; Gail McCauley, wearing a blue shortie coat with matching plaid skirt; Mary Catherine Darlington, in grey flannel coat with red accessories; Louise Brown, chic in her English style tailored coat; Ruth Bannon, wearing a 'rain 'n' shine' coat in corduroy with hood; Marguerite Loveless, lovely in deep coral coat with navy accessories; Brenda Fox in her camel hair coat and Ellen Huffman in natural color wool coat with red hat and gloves.

ATTRACTIVE FEATURES

Other attractive features were the sword dance by the three Belair sisters; the vocal selections by Paul Huffman and Messrs. Jack Darlington and Gordon Tugnett; the quintet by the boys' group, which included Jim Haley, Bob Nolan, Joel Trudeau, Leonard Harvey and Gerald Mullin, as well as the musical background provided by Sister Mary Wilhelmina.

Appreciative thanks are tendered to the following merchants, who assisted in the display: Tots 'N' Teens; Leslie's Shoe Store; O'Connor's Jewel Box; Templer's; Adams Furniture Co. Limited; F. M. Barrett Company; to Leonard Farrell, for stage construction; to Gordon Lee for stage decor; to Frederick's Bakery for the lovely birthday cake; to the Northern Electric for the P.A. system, and to the Wardhaugh Signs and Displays.

The door prizes were won by Mrs. McCauley and Mr. Doran; the draws by Doris Lupenette, Lesdiver Street., pop-up toaster; by Wade Trudeau, junior mixer; Mr. Stuart, Carrying Place, electric steam iron.

Mrs. A. Runnals Of Springbrook 93 Years Old

Birthday congratulations on achieving her 93rd milestone were received Wednesday night by Mrs. Abram Runnals of Springbrook, when about 40 members of her immediate family and friends enjoyed a social gathering at her home.

Still active despite her advanced years, Mrs. Runnals does all her own housework. Her hearing is excellent and she can carry on a telephone conversation with ease.

Born on a farm in Rawdon township, she was formerly Miss Emily Cooney and is the aunt of Theodore Cooney, present reeve of the township. She has been twice married, her first husband being the late James Fleming. After marrying for the second time about 45 years ago, Mrs. Runnals and her husband lived on a farm in the 8th concession of Rawdon, until they retired and moved to Springbrook, some years ago.

Her two children, Mrs. Mabel Dafoe, of Springbrook, and Nicholas Fleming of New York City, returned to visit their mother on her birthday.

Women's Activities

ROSLIN W.A.

The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" following which the Rev. F. W. T. Middleton led in prayer. The responsive reading was the Psalm selection 726.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Walter Chisholm and the treasurer, Mrs. Harold Colden gave the financial report. Roll call showed 14 members present.

There will be a pot-luck dinner at noon on March 28th at the Anglican hall.

Mrs. Harry Sayers had charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Stafford Colden read the Scripture which was taken from St. Luke, 23:39-43.

Readings "Give Me Thine Heart" by Mrs. Doc Chisholm; "A Noble Life" by Mrs. John Chisholm, the story of an English lady, who trained to take care of the sick and needy; and the story "An Easter Eventide" by Mrs. Sayers, were enjoyed.

The hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

PRESIDENT SEES FILM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower stayed up past his usual bedtime Tuesday night at a benefit showing of the motion picture "Richard III." For almost three hours, until past 11:30 p. m., he and his family were part of the full-house audience watching the Washington premiere of the British-made picture at a theatre a few blocks from the White House. It was a benefit for the heart fund, and Eisenhower's appearance was his first of this kind since his September heart attack.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

SWEATERS FOR SPRING WEAR

Maybe you thought fall and winter were the so-called Sweater Seasons—well, guess again. For now apparently has come forward as the real sweater season. It makes sense, too, because a sweater is just the right wrap for coolish days and nights. And come summer, with air-conditioning everywhere, some kind of cover-up is essential.

To make you a prettier girl, the sweater designers are having a field day. The sweater-coat with no buttons, the waist-length cardigan, the bulky knit top are all prime favorites. They go round the clock, from pool to patio to nightclub—or for just plain driving around in the family car. Style notes you'll see being played up in new sweater collections are the scoop neckline, the dyed-to-match sweater to go with dress or skirt, the raglan sleeve, delicate lacy lags, metallic thread touches.

There's nothing smarter looking than a sweater that exactly matches the color of a daytime or evening dress, and it does make the most satisfactory wrap. With the wonderful color range you have to choose from in sweaters these days, it usually isn't necessary to go in for any matching. Spring flow. You can usually find just what you want, all ready to wear.

If you're going in for sweaters made of the synthetic fibers, you'll have no blocking problems, of course. Just wash them in soap or detergent suds, rinse, let them dry, and they spring right back to shape. If a sweater does need blocking, make your own drying frame out of cardboard, tracing its outline onto the cardboard while the sweater is new. Then you'll be sure it will always dry to its original shape.

TRIM BUDGET

BELGRADE (AP) — The Yugoslav government Wednesday submitted a 1956 budget cutting sharply on military spending by $68,000,000. The cut were interpreted as reflecting Yugoslavia's improved relations with Russia. The total for defence was set at $320,000,000.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

COME OUT OF YOUR DAY-DREAMS, GINGER!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 22 and deeply in love with a young man of 21. Both of us are very self-conscious, and find it hard to mingle with people. We have dated only twice, and that was five years ago.

Although at present he is working in a distant city, I see him occasionally, and I'm certain that he doesn't date any one. So I'm not surprised that he doesn't ask me for a date. He has, however, given me reason to believe that he likes me very much.

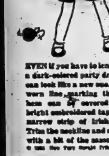
How can I get him to ask me for a date, and how can I convince him that I love him, without appearing bold or forward? — Ginger.

Dear Ginger:

You had just two dates with this young man, nearly five years ago, and you believe yourself to be "deeply in love" with him! I'm sorry, but I can't think you are anything of the kind.

What I think is that because you are, as you tell me, very self-conscious, and find it hard to make social contacts, you've built up, for yourself, for lack of other men friends, to fasten all your attention and your daydreams on this chap who once dated you twice. If you had been going out on dates with others, during this past five years, I would practically guarantee that this particular chap would long since have passed out of your mind, or at least remained only as someone who passed pleasantly, and briefly, through your life.

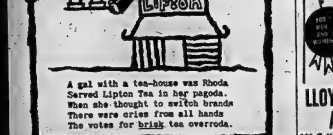
What you need to do is to come out of that cloud of daydreams, get acquainted with reality, face your problem of self-consciousness and inferiority complex, and do something practical about it.



By doing something practical, I mean making a definite decision, and a definite plan, to find yourself some real interests that will take you out of the shell of yourself and into normal life. If you will just look around you, and find what activities other young women of your age are pursuing in your home town, then join and put your energy into going along with whatever they do. I am sure that you'll be far too busy and happy to have either the time or the desire to indulge in imaginary romances. Maybe you'll even find some real romance coming your way.

Naturally, I don't mean you should attempt to force it on or use it as a means to end groups. But there must be community activities which are open to everybody, and if you start with one or two of these, and throw yourself unduly friendly and always ready for either work or fun, the first thing you know you'll see all sorts of other new projects opening up for you. Not only that but you'll be constantly making new friends among both young women and young men.

And, who knows? Maybe that young man on whom you're now concentrating so hard will notice all the things you're doing, decide that he's missing a real worthwhile friend with whom he could have many good times and move around looking for a date. For, chances are, you're really not self-conscious as you think he is. The reason he hasn't looked you up in all this time may just be that you weren't interesting enough to hold him. But you can remedy that if you'll follow my advice. So start now to do it. Then, even if this young man never does come out of the past again, you'll almost certainly find another — even others—in what is far better —the present.



SWALLOWED LAXATIVE PILLS

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A four-year-old girl died Wednesday night of poisoning said by authorities at Pottstown hospital to have resulted from swallowing the entire contents of a bottle of laxative pills. The girl, Patricia Dudley, was given the pills a week before by an eight-year-old aunt, Rose Marx, while the two children were playing at the Marx' home. Authorities said the girls thought the bottle contained candy.

EVEN if you have to lengthen a dark-colored party dress, it can look like a new one. That's even the—darning the old hem and if covered with bright embroidered tape or a narrow strip of trim here. Trim the neckline and sleeves with a bit of the same stuff.

SPRING TWEEDS

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Spring tweed suits were never nicer and so this is a good season to add one to the wardrobe, since a good choice should do duty for many seasons. This one is in tan tweed flecked in black and is soft and casually pliable. Black braid-edged tabs add interest. There is a tab beneath the stand-away-from-the-neck collar and it slips through slit and button on the contoned tabs on the pockets. Skirt is gored for easy walking. Black buttons.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The March meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute met at the YMCA, with a good number of members and visitors present. This was "Grandmother's Meeting" and proved most entertaining. Mrs. C. Reid welcomed all.

After the business, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. J. Carbutt, Community singing was enjoyed. Mrs. Insley leading and Mrs. Jos. Rolof at the piano.

Mrs. Shelly Anderson gave a paper on the motto "You Are Only as Old as the Tune You Whistle."

Mrs. Insley favored with solo "Danny Boy", followed by "Come Back to Erin". These were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Norman Montgomery and Mrs. Jim Garbutt entertained by each giving a reading, later joining in a short one-act play, dressing in rags to portray their parts.

Mrs. Garbutt was the first president at the Quinte W.I. and has always done all that she could to make it a success. She is a most valued member.

Prizes were given to the youngest and oldest grandmothers. These were given to Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Wensley held her audience with a delightful piano solo.

After the meeting, closed a social half hour was enjoyed with refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. L. Rolof, Mrs. N. Montgomery, Mrs. S. Anderson, Mrs. William Insley and Mrs. M. B. Weese.

The next meeting will be held at the YMCA on the regular day.

NEW TRANSIT SYSTEM

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A series of non-stop conveyor belts carrying six-passenger cars some 15 feet above street level is proposed as a solution to this city's transportation problem in congested downtown areas. The system (Carveyor) was described Wednesday by architect Saumuel London. A moving belt would carry cars at 15 miles an hour between stations and would allow to 1½ miles an hour at each station, where passengers could alight on a side-walk moving at the same speed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

WHO HOSTESS TELLS MEN GUESTS WHAT TO WEAR . . . "WHITE TIE" TO "BLACK TIE" OR "BUSINESS SUIT"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please settle a problem for us, and for several of our friends. A says that when a hostess wants the men guests to wear tuxedos (not business suits) to her dinner party she tells them it is "formal." B says that tuxedos are not formal attire, and that the hostess should make it really clear what she wants the men guests to wear. Who is right? — A and B

B is right. The knowing hostess tells the men guests what type of attire they are to wear to the dinner — which is much more helpful to them than being told what type of dinner she is to give.

If her dinner is really to be "formal" (for example, a dinner in honor of a V.I.P., an embassador, say), she informs the men guests, "white tie, please" (or "tails, please.") And of course today the formal attire is what they would seldom, very seldom, be called for. The point is (referring to what A says): the hostess does not know what's what wouldn't tell a man guest who knows what's what that her dinner is to be "formal" unless she really wants him to wear formal evening attire — usually referred to as "white tie."

If the hostess wants the men guests to wear tuxedos (correctly called "dinner jackets"), she says (or writes) "black tie." Definite information immediately (1) that he is not wearing a tail-jacket, and (2) that a woman guest is to wear a dinner dress, not a formal evening dress.

If the hostess wants a man guest to wear a business suit, she doesn't tell him so. She shouldn't vaguely say that her dinner is to be "informal," and leave him trying to read her mind as to what she wants him to wear, whether "black tie" or business suit.

IT SHOULD BE SPELLED "HONOUR"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The local engraver whom I consulted about engraving my wedding invitations assures me that definitely that nowadays honor is not spelled with the "u" in formal wedding invitations. In other words, that it is "the honor of your presence." Is this right? — Rosemary

N . . . No! Correctly, traditionally, in formal wedding invitations and announcements, "honour" is spelled with the "u." I don't know this engraver to spell it "honor," your invitations will look cheap — no matter how expensive they are! And those who know what's what will criticize this detail . . . and their criticism will be entirely justified. Don't be sweru off from "honour"!

COMBINING BRIDE'S TABLE AND PARENTS' TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

At the wedding reception there will be one long table for the wedding party, Bride and groom. Matron of honor and best man. Two ushers. Mother and father of the bride. Mother and father of the groom. (1) Do the two ushers sit at this table? Also the priest (bride's cousin) who performs the ceremony? Would it be suitable for the bride's godmother and her husband to sit at this table? (2) And at the bride's table should we have place cards? — Reader

(2) Yes, have place cards for this table . . . proper, customary, extremely convenient.

"NAPKIN OR "SERVIETTE"?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My sister thinks it's quite the stylish thing to call a napkin a "serviette." I think it's better form, more sensible, to call a napkin a napkin. Who's right?—R.

You are. Calling a napkin a "serviette" is a bit of an affectation . . . a pretentious detail like crooking the little finger while holding a cup!

Empire Silhouette

By TRACY ADRIAN

The Empire silhouette is beautifully interpreted in this new spring coat created by famous American designer, Arthur Jablow. It is cleverly cut and flattering to any type of figure so is a good choice for young and old.

The lines are accented by the subtle shaping, emphasized by curving panels placed high on the front. The interesting day weave of the imported fabric holds its shape precisely from neck to hemline. The colors are taupe and navy.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . my scalloped potatoes have taken to curdling lately . . . can you tell me the cure? . . . George likes date filled oatmeal cookies rolled . . . I am fond of jelly roll—could you send me a "tried and true" recipe . . . also some new and different ideas for Saturday night lunches . . . after eating sandwiches five days a week for lunches we are not too happy with them again on Saturday.—Grayce B.

ANSWER:

It was good to hear from you again Grayce.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

(I always find myself wanting to duck this issue of curdling in scalloped potatoes for rightly the milk should curdle, but an long baking the whey part evaporates and the curdling is masked. Some potatoes from certain soils cause milk to curdle more obviously than others. Either bake the scrols of potatoes longer to dry them more or use a thin white sauce.) Wash, pare, slice 1-2 inch thick and rinse potatoes in cold water. Put in deep buttered baking dish; sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with a little flour and dot over with small pieces of butter. (A little chopped onion may be added if desired.) Repeat until dish is 3-4 full. Pour over enough hot milk until it barely covers slices. Bake a little more than 1 hour at 375 deg. Fahr. Note—These will not curdle if half-and-half mixture of evaporated milk and water are used instead of regular milk. Note 2—Omit flour and make white sauce instead of milk—proportions —1 tablespoon each flour and butter to each cup of hot milk.

DATE-FILLED OATMEAL COOKIES

Cookie Dough— Mix together 2 cups rolled oats, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups rolled oats (these may be run through food grinder if desired); Cut in until fixture is well-blended 1 cup shortening which is part butter, then stir in 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1-2 cup sour cream or milk, and 1 1-2 cups brown sugar. Chill. Roll out to 1-8 inch thickness. Cut into 1 1-2-inch circle cookies. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 deg. 10 to 12 minutes. When cold put together in pairs with Date Filling (recipe): 1 1-2 cups chopped dates, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook, stirring, until thick—about 5 minutes. Cool.

JELLY ROLL

Beat with rotary beater until very thick three large eggs, then at gradually add 1 cup sugar and till very thick. Beat in 5 level tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift together and beat in all at once 1 cup sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Beat just until smooth. Line a 13 by 10-inch pan with greased paper to within 1-4 inch of long sides. Pour in batter. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes—do not overbake. Immediately turn upside down on icing-sugar-sprinkled towel, quickly tear off paper, quickly trim off 1-4 inch of crust from long sides, spread cake with jelly and roll up in towel until cold. I will send Saturday night lunches later.

The regular semi-weekly Youth for Christ rally, was held in Wesleyan Methodist church, with an excellent audience present.

The service opened with the Y.F.C. choir rendering "Are You In On", under the direction of the Rev. E. Strain. Prayer was offered by Mr. J. Blackwood, who then turned the service over to Mr. Ernie Main to lead the congregational singing.

The popular "quiz time" came next on the program with keen competition between Quinte and Stirling high schools. The visitors led Quinte by ten points—it pays to bring a delegation for morale.

A new contest was announced by the director, with Bob Alexander; Bob Anderson, Lois Wright and Carol Rowland competing for a red YFC Bible.

Soloists for the evening were, Mrs. George Ellery, who sang, "Oh How I Love Him," and Mr. Elwood Vardy, who rendered a trumpet selection, "The Stranger of Galilee".

Before the showing of the film, "Cry of the Orient", the choir sang "God Leads Us Along" and prayer was offered by the Rev. J. S. Spearman.

PLEA FOR MISSIONARIES

Filmed by a YFC team on an evangelistic tour, the first country visited in the travelogue was Japan. After the close of World War II, the Emperor of Japan disclaimed personal deity, thus the national religion was abolished as such. General McArthur's plea for an immediate influx of Christian missionaries; a plea which, while adhered to by many did not fill in quantity, the requirements of the millions. Christianity through a lack of personnel on the field, is failing to meet the need, leaving a vacuum which Shintoism is again endeavoring to fill. In Tokyo alone there are 56 universities where YFC is carrying on an extensive campaign of Bible distribution.

The next country toured, was Formosa, a country teeming with poinsettias—and monkeys. This small country is only one half as large as Lake Michigan, but is swarming with hungry hearts, whose gods have failed them.

Although one quarter of the world's population is behind the iron curtain in China, an estimated three million refugees have escaped to Formosa. These people are responsive to the gospel and in one boys' school, a Christian teacher has led 150 out of a student body of 900 to accept Jesus Christ as Saviour.

LAND OF HEARTBREAKS

India has been named the "Land of 400 Million Heartbreaks." While there is only one evangelical Christian per million Indians, there are a total of 400 million sacred cows. It is estimated that there are 500 thousand persons who eat, sleep, work and die on the sidewalks. An Indian has an average life expectancy of 27 years with a per capita income of approximately $47 per year. The people live in ignorance, superstition and want, while beggars break their children's limbs in order to awaken sympathy for their plight. Approximately two people die per second, three out of four children have never heard of their redemption bought by Jesus Christ. Many of them could, should and would have been saved had they known. This is the largest remaining free nation and the reds are out to capture it. The sands of time are running out, the commentator said, will India be for Christ or Communism—where there is no vision the people perish.'

Rev. H. Smith closed with prayer.

FIRST SINGSPIRATION

Tuesday evening a "Singspiration" for teen-agers and their friends was held in King George school auditorium. Mr. Jim Blackwood introduced Mr. Wes. Aarum, Bible club director of Buffalo, N.Y., and his fiancee, Miss Marjorie Stevens.

Mr. Aarum, who is a talented song leader and pianist, opened with "Hallelu', Hallelu'." "Everyday With Jesus" and other lively choruses.

Describing his first Bible club with six members, he said it was called the "Mizpah Club", because through the conversion and witness of these six original members, over 100 young people were won to the Lord Jesus Christ and are serving Him effectively in the high schools today.

He challenged those present by asking, "Can anyone raise their hand here tonight and say that they will be alive tomorrow?" No one of course, because we have no guarantee of life from one day to the next. The Bible says that "today is the day of salvation". "Unless we take Christ as our personal Saviour, we are damned. 1 John 5:10 says 'He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself; He that believeth God hath made him a liar because he believeth not the record that God gave His Son. And this is the record that God hath gave to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son.'"

The service closed with singing "All to Jesus I Surrender".

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

On Tuesday afternoon, members of Christ Church Parish Guild met in the Parish Hall for their monthly meeting, with visitors present from the other organizations of Christ Church.

Mrs. F. Beeby extended a gracious welcome to all.

After the opening hymn and prayer, the minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. E. Colbourne and a financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. A. Watkin.

Mrs. E. Follwell reported on work to be done at the rectory.

The guild will cater to three banquets in April and plans were made for a Spring Tea to take place in May, with Mrs. A. Wonacott as convener.

After the close of the business meeting, Archdeacon J. J. Creegan, gave an inspiring talk, his subject being "The True Meaning of Lent". Mrs. G. Nix thanked Archdeacon Creegan for his talk.

Everyone enjoyed the film "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps" which is about the Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Beeby then thanked Mr. C. Fuzzen for his help in running the projector.

The hostesses for the afternoon Mrs. A. Jordan, Mrs. J. Noakes, Mrs. A. Rodgers and Mrs. A. Chaplin served tea and fruit bread.

If you feel ALL-IN
These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. The strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. MADOC

St. Peter's WMS Reviews World's Diverse Needs

MADOC — St. Peter's Mission-ary Society met for its March meeting in the home of Mrs. Rob-ert McCoy. Owing to the ab-sence of the president, Miss Van Kleek, the vice-president, Mrs. John Bailey presided.

Mrs. D. Blakely read the sec-retary's report and roll call which showed 19 present. Scripture was read by Mrs. F. Allen and prayer was given by Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Cecil Woods' topic was "What Is Our Task as Christians in the World in Which We Live?" Through the past years missionar-ies of the gospel have taken the Christian message around the world; to teach the worth of the individual and the dignity of man-kind, for whom Christ died.

Mrs. C. Spencer gave a look at the world in general, the wonder-ful developments in recent years and its effect on the minds of men.

Mrs. D. Blakely's subject "Bri-tish Guiana," which in 1831 be-came a British colony. One great question today is how to prepare the people for democratic self government without falling into the hands of the Communists.

Mrs. Donahoe spoke on "India." Much depends on India for what she does will influence other A-sian nations. India helps keep the balance between East and West.

"Formosa," was Mrs. J. Arm-strong's country; here they grow two crops of rice a year. It is the last stronghold of the Nation-alist Chinese government, and thereby plays an important part in the strife between East and West.

Mrs. Kilpatrick gave a review of "Africa," with its distrust; its desire for independence; its great need is for more missionaries. "Are we doing our best to send the gospel to these people?" All hearts were touched as Mrs. Woods told of the refugees in the Far Eastern countries, their sad plight, the innocent victims of war, the hungry eyes of the east looking into the eyes of the world for food and shelter and Christian teaching. Jesus alone makes all the good things in life possible."

After the meeting closed an enjoyable social hour was spent, refreshments being served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Donahue and Mrs. Bailey.

Two Provinces Plan Equal Pay Laws for Women

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia and Manitoba Thursday introduced bills providing equal pay for the sexes in moves that will bring to five the number of provinces with this type of legislation.

Both bills are based on existing laws in Ontario, British Columbia and Saskatchewan that men and women in similar jobs shall receive the same reward.

Nova Scotia, however, has added a new measure ensuring protection from firing for any person filing a complaint against an employer for breach of the act. Nova Scotia labor department officials say this provision is unique in North America.

COULD BE FINED

The Atlantic province's Liberal government proposed appointment of a director and commission to consider disputes. Employers now following the commission orders could be prosecuted and fined up to $100.

The Alberta legislature gave first reading to a bill authorizing the province's entry into a federal-provincial health-insurance scheme. The bill provides that the Social Credit government may enter into agreements with the federal government for the "purpose of securing for the people of Alberta benefits of any health service grants that may be available from the government of Canada."

The Prince Edward Island legislature voted down a resolution that daylight time be permitted for urban centres. It was introduced by R. Earle MacDonald, provincial treasurer in the Liberal government.

A uniform time act now makes standard time the only legal time in the province but urban centres changed to daylight during the last three summers without government objection. Several Liberal members from rural districts spoke against the resolution.

Frost Against Public Ownership Of Gas Pipeline

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario Thursday told a 100-strong Ontario Federation of Labor delegation he does not think public ownership of the proposed pipeline for natural gas across Canada is feasible.

In a brief presented to the premier, the OFL called on the Ontario government to establish a crown corporation to operate a distribution network in the province and to support public financing and ownership of the trans-Canada gas pipe line.

It said the corporation could be modelled on the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

The OFL said it was opposed to a scheme which would use public funds to guarantee profits to a privately-owned corporation. It was opposed also to a plan that would give monopoly control of a "vital national utility" to private interests.

NORTHERN LINK

The province has agreed to construct the northern Ontario link of the pipeline in co-operation with the federal government. The remainder of the proposed line is to be built by the privately-owned Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Premier Frost told delegates "we are not afraid of public ownership." He said, however, the cost of acquiring retail distribution centres would be "enormously complex and expensive."

For that reason, and because of limited jurisdiction over the entire length of the line, he said he did not think government ownership was the answer.

The brief also urged remedial measures to stem a fall in farm income. It said:

"Today's problems of the farmer will be our problems tomorrow. Labor is the farmer's largest consumer and the farmer is an important consumer of the goods which labor produces."

G. Malenkov, Smiling and Gay, Enjoys Londoners' Rush Hour

By EDDY GILMORE

From the Soviet embassy he was driven through jam-packed streets past Hyde Park and Marble Arch to Oxford street, London's busiest shopping area. He even made a slight detour past the United States embassy in Grosvenor square.

Malenkov, now Soviet minister of power stations, ended up at the offices of the central electricity authority, hosts for the three-week tour of British power installations by the party of Soviet power experts.

POSES WILLINGLY

The Russians themselves broke down the security curtain Scotland Yard threw around Malenkov on his arrival Thursday to prevent anti - Communist demonstrations against him. Before the sightseeing started, a Russian official called photographers into the embassy grounds in Kensington's "millionaires' row." Malenkov, wearing a lightweight grey overcoat, posed cheerfully for a 10-minute picture session.

Then the Russian press attache, normally an uncommunicative person, handed round signed pictures of all Malenkov's 14-man delegation so reporters could recognize them easily.

Malenkov, according to his chauffeur, has been surprised by the English weather. He expected to find the place continually fogbound. Instead, he was greeted by bright spring sun.

PREACH TO REDS

MOSCOW (AP) — American churchmen preached in Moscow's Baptist Church Thursday night and more than 2,500 Russians crowded in to hear them. The Russians wiped tears from their eyes as the American spoke. They chorused "amen" repeatedly and nodded their heads vigorously as the words were translated. The 10-man American delegation arrived Sunday.

Two More Hull Children Die As Flames Sweep Dwelling While Mother Goes to Store

HULL, Que. (CP)—A father left for his night shift job. A mother slipped out to a neighborhood grocery store. During the few minutes the two-storey frame house on Garnet street was unattended, the Hull - Ottawa district's 13th multiple-fatality fire since mid-November broke out.

Thursday's late afternoon tragedy claimed the lives of nine-month-old Diane Fournel and her two-year-old brother Denis who were asleep in an upstairs bedroom. It raised to 40 the number of district fire fatalities since Nov. 17.

Twenty-seven of the district fire victims were children, 17 of them under five years of age. Three were infants of less than a year. The oldest was 12.

Thursday's tragedy came on the heels of a Wednesday fire in which two other Hull children died when flames swept through a frame apartment building across the street from the new federal printing bureau. This was an area Hull firemen expected to reach Thursday in a current house-to-house examination of fire hazards.

FOUND ALIVE

Diane and Denis were still alive when they were carried out of the blazing, two - family dwelling. Diane died en route to Sacred Heart Hospital here. Denis died two hours after he was admitted.

A doctor treated Mrs. Fournel for shock at a neighbor's home after she had tried in vain to enter her burning house. A family living in the front section escaped unhurt as firemen extinguished the fire in 20 minutes. Its cause was unknown.

The district blazes resulted in an investigation by the Ontario fire marshal's office and a week-long Inquest that began Feb. 27.

The jury found main causes of the blazes to be faulty electric wiring, careless smoking habits, panic and failure to call the fire department immediately.

ASSAULTED NEGRO

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A suspended police patrolman was sentenced Thursday to two years in state prison for aggravated assault on a Negro woman. Judge Ernest E. Mason imposed sentence on George McLarty, 25.

Shot-Both-Sides, Alberta Chief, Dies in Hospital

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP) — Chief Shot-Both-Sides, 82, one of the last links with the West's free-wheeling days of raiding, buffalo hunting and fighting, died Thursday in the Indian Hospital in this southwestern Alberta town.

He was chief of the Bloods, main tribe of the Blackfoot Confederacy, in his boyhood the tribe still roamed the prairies in search of buffalo and raided the enemy Crees for horses and women.

In his lifetime he saw the buffalo vanish and watched his father and grandfather lead the Bloods while they became accustomed to the reluctant life on Canada's largest Indian reservation.

Chief Shot-Both-Sides was born four years before the Bloods, the Blackfeet and the Piegans signed a treaty with the white men in 1877 and 22 years before Alberta became a province.

RELATED TO SIGNERS

He was a son of Crop-Eared-Wolf and grandson of Mekeisis who, with Chief Crowfoot of the Blackfeet, signed the treaty which committed their followers and descendants to life on 353,000 acres in southwestern Alberta.

Starvation, a constant companion of the tribesmen for years after they moved on to the reservation, now is a thing of the past. The 2,281 Bloods now earn large sums leasing out reservation land to white farmers and ranchers and selling petroleum and natural gas rights.

Massey Given Two New Suits For Arctic Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey has two new suits.

One was tailored from caribou skins and the other from grenfell and wooden duffle cloths.

The governor-general will wear the outfits on his 10,000-mile Arctic tour which begins Tuesday and ends April 3.

One outfit included a parka and hood trimmed Siberian husky puppy fur, a duffle cloth underparka, duffle stockings and water-proof skin boots.

The clothing was piece-made by Eskimo women at Payne bay, in the Ungava region of northern Quebec.

Change Tax Plan For Diesel Fuel

TORONTO (CP)—A bill to collect taxes on diesel fuel when it is sold instead of later when it is used Thursday in the Ontario legislature.

Under present regulations, rebates of sales tax to owners of diesel-powered vehicles are sent into the Ontario gasoline tax branch each month by the distributors. Fuel users are then taxed.

Ontario Treasurer Porter, introducing the bill, said complaints have been received that diesel-truck operators have told distributors not to send in the gallonage purchased, or they would buy elsewhere.

The bill also would exclude from gasoline taxes aviation and jet fuel, fuel oil and liquid petroleum gas.

REFUSE PERMISSION

THE HAGUE (AP) — Russia and Czechoslovakia have refused to let the International Court of Justice rule on two U.S. complaints on the shooting down of American planes. The court announced this Thursday in explaining the disposal of the complaints. It said the two Communist countries declined to accept the court's jurisdiction and the cases were dropped.

Question Whether Marriages Legal

WINDSOR (CP)—And so they were married on the international bridge—and were they? The verdict seems to hinge on where the contracting couple stood.

Mrs. Violet Stephenson, head of the marriage-licence office here, said Wednesday that weddings performed on the nearby Ambassador bridge from opposite sides of the border line are illegal. The bridge spans the Detroit river between Canada and the United States.

U.S. immigration officials Thursday agreed the ceremonies would be illegal if performed between two people standing on opposite sides of a yellow border-demarkation line. But the marriage would be legal if the Canadian-sided man "married" the bride to the wedding by stepping across the line into Michigan.

There are all kinds of people walking back and forth at the centre of the bridge all the time," said one official. "We don't bother them."

Reason for the bridge weddings? An alien in Canada has difficulty getting U.S. entry visa's but for an American makes it fairly simple to get an entry visa.

Mrs. Stephenson said the marriages may be legal in Michigan—but not in Ontario because there's crossing without permission is illegal.

Will Limit Power Of Councils After Election Is Held

TORONTO (CP)—A bill to limit the power of a municipal council in the interval between an election and the time a newly-elected council takes office was introduced Thursday in the Ontario legislature.

The bill would prevent municipal councils from taking any action during the interval unless approved by a pre-election by-law or by an order from the Ontario municipal board. Another bill introduced would allow persons in hospital on the day of a provincial election to use advance-polling facilities.

Plan Safety Standards For Use of Propane Gas

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Porter of Ontario Thursday introduced a bill to allow the province to set up safety standards for the installation of propane gas facilities in buildings.

He said there now is no way the province can force persons to follow safety procedures in installing marshalls had complained that lack of regulations endangered many lives.

MUST HAVE SIGNS

OTTAWA (CP) — All vehicles carrying more than 50 pounds of explosives must be placarded on front, rear and sides with the word "explosives," the mines department announced Thursday. The word must be in luminous letters six inches high on a contrasting background. The new regulation under the Explosives Act came into effect Wednesday.

Makes Canal Tour

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, Thursday inspected progress on construction of deepening of the Welland ship canal.

The canal is being altered to conform to St. Lawrence seaway standards. Mr. Chevrier toured the canal from Port Weller to Port Colborne.

Plan Annexation

TORONTO (CP) — A bill permitting Hamilton to annex nearby Burlington Beach Jan. 1, 1957, was introduced Thursday in the Ontario Legislature.

BUY 'COPTERS

PARIS (Reuters) — The French armed forces technical planning committee decided Thursday to buy at once more than 100 helicopters to increase the striking power of French troops fighting rebels in the mountains of Algeria.

COMMONS BATTLE

Rev. E. C. Hansell, acting Social Credit leader, said government aid was necessary because of policies which did not encourage Canadian sharing in resource development. Since Trans-Canada could not finance its plan from Canadian funds, the next best thing was government assistance.

Mr. Howe, opening the debate, anticipated the charge of American domination of Trans-Canada now sponsored largely by U.S. money in the pre-construction staging. He said control of the company is open to Canadians when its voting stock goes on the market.

EVES HAD REASON

Sponsors of Trans - Canada "never had any reason to expect any sympathy from his government unless they were prepared to meet the national policy of serving the Canadian market first, and unless they were prepared to share ownership and management with Canadians."

"Prove the ontset," he added, "the sponsors of Trans-Canada have agreed with that view."

The federal and Ontario governments had made their decision because the northern Ontario section posed a special problem in geography calling for a unique solution. There was no precedent for such collaboration in a crown company.

"The government is convinced that the solution now offered has a better chance of working than any solution that has yet been suggested," Mr. Howe said. The plan would speed construction of the pipeline.

He rejected public ownership—for a transcontinental gas pipeline all arguments favored private ownership. As for another suggestion that western gas move south to the U.S. while the East imported American gas, the government could not commit gas for export until domestic requirements were met.

Mr. Drew said the minister's statement that Canadians will be offered control of Trans-Canada is "a shallow pretence that has no meaning and is not borne out by the facts."

Trans-Canada's plan hinged on export of gas to the U.S. Midwest. That required approval by the U.S. Federal Power Commission, where it faced a long fight.

VOTE WET

KINCARDINE (CP)—This little Lake Huron town, bare of beer and liquor outlets for 44 years, went wet Wednesday. Residents voted in favor of a liquor store and a brewer's retail store.

Miss Ruth Linn and her mother, Mrs. Gordon Linn, entertained 13 ladies recently at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wright-man entertained on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wrightman of Trenton.

Mount Pleasant W.A. catered for an oyster supper at Hoard's Sales Barns on Monday evening and Mount Pleasant Baby Band sold candy. The ladies furnished the food and candy for the sale.

The electric storm on Tuesday evening of last week is probably the forerunner of colder weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson also Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, Mount Pleasant, and a large number of Carmel folk attended the funeral of Mrs. S. Holden in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott and Mrs. Thomas Andrews attended the funeral of Mrs. Fred Holland at Marmora Anglican Church on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ryan and family, Tweed, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, fourth concession on Sunday evening.

Madoc Legion To Present $300 Annual Bursary

MADOC — Madoc Legion is again leading the community in service. A bursary is being offered annually to an ex-service man's dependent graduating from Grade 13 in Madoc high school. This bursary will be $300, which will pay tuition at most Canadian universities for the winner. This will be a good goal for ex-servicemen's children in Madoc high school for which to strive.

The branch is also presenting a trophy to the boy or girl with the highest standing in Grade 9 in Madoc public school on graduation.

The branch is also sending a bus load of Grade 7 and 8 public school children to Toronto on their annual educational tour. Plans are under way for Ladies' Night, which will be held on March 29th.

POLIO STRIKES

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The mortality rate in Argentina's worst ever polio epidemic steadily climbed to reach 19 per cent over the weekend. From the beginning of the year to noon Monday, 1,256 polio cases were officially reported, half of them among children under four. The actual figures are believed to be much higher.

Sunday School Lesson

A Man Carrying a Jar

By ROY L. SMITH

It was a strange sight that greeted the eyes of the disciples as they entered the city of Jerusalem that Thursday evening—a man was carrying a jar of water on his head! This was a task usually performed by the women of a household. For a man to be seen doing a woman's work was as unusual as if a modern man should be discovered baking the bread or running the vacuum cleaner. No man carrying a water jar could possibly be overlooked in Jerusalem.

Arranged With Friends

No one knew better than Jesus did the terrible dangers to which He was exposed. Either by some natural means, or by divine revelation, He had been warned that the authorities were using every possible device to lay hands on Him in some secret way that would not arouse the populace. And He also most probably knew that He had a traitor inside His little band of disciples. No traitor has ever been able to hide from God.

As the story is told in the Gospel of Luke there seems to be very good reason to believe that the master of the house who provided the upper room was some unnamed, and perhaps otherwise unknown, friend. At any rate the place selected for the last supper was kept a secret, even from the disciples (perhaps because of Judas) up to the last minute.

Fortunate Householder

What a fortunate householder he was who was given the opportunity to furnish an upper room for the eating of a meal which has become a sacred memorial for Christians throughout nearly two thousand years!

And what a fortunate thing it is that we do not know his name. Otherwise we might have made a saint out of him, built churches, chapels, hospitals and perhaps even eating houses in his memory, thus losing all the significance of the holy occasion inaugurated within his home.

One can easily imagine the satisfaction the householder took, in the later years, in the memory of the fact that he had furnished the room in which the Master had eaten His last meal.

We Can Furnish Room

There is a vast section of our Christian theology which centres about that upper room and the ceremony there instituted, all of which is important. But there is a very practical aspect of the matter which comes very much nearer to our hearts and our own lives.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 18: "Jesus Institutes The Lord's Supper," Luke 22: 1-71.

Each one of us can furnish a room in our own heart wherein the memorial can be observed. As a matter of fact unless it is observed within our hearts it is not observed. The form in which the ceremony is administered is of far less importance than the spirit in which it is shared.

It is, perhaps the crowning shame of Christendom that there is no form in which the Lord's Supper can be observed in which all Christians can join. The barriers that have been raised by the creedalists, formalists, ritualists, and ecclesiastics, have become dividing lines across which we are unable to pass.

It must call for a great deal of patience on the part of God if He is to overlook our conceits at this point. We all think we are so right, and that all others are so wrong.

GIRLS BOOST RHEE

SEOUL (AP)—Dance-hall girls led parades through the South Korean capital today in another demonstration, to show that the "will of the people" wants President Syngman Rhee to run for a third term. Bands and thousands of demonstrators followed the partners-for-pay through the streets. The 80-year-old president said last week, after his Liberal party nominated him for office again, that he wants to step aside for a younger man.

WHY SUFFER? YOU CAN BE FREE OF THE CONSTIPATION HABIT

MILLIONS FIND WAY—WHY NOT YOU?
Try All-Bran with Milk nature's great food combination for fitness and regularity
Good food bulk and nutritional benefits

Common constipation due to lack of dietary bulk is often caused by nothing more than careless eating habits. We eat what we want and forget those foods so abundant in nature that were intended to keep us regular.

Yet many people suffer for years with the constipating habit. Suffer and try remedy after remedy that cannot correct this irregularity because the remedy does not get at the cause of the irregularity.

But there is an answer. Millions have found it—so can you. And it is no farther away than your grocers' shelf.

You simply enjoy a bowl of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk, morning or night. This delicious nut-like cereal is inexpensive, pleasant to eat and highly nutritious. And it supplies all the good food bulk you need daily to avoid constipation.

All-Bran contains no miracle ingredients. It is simply a natural food remedy. It gets right at the cause of constipation due to insufficient bulk in the diet. Other means that do not supply bulk cannot overcome this condition.

Kellogg's All-Bran is also a good, wholesome food. It is made from the outer layers of whole wheat grain. A daily bowl of All-Bran with milk provides valuable food essentials.

W. K. Kellogg originated All-Bran over 40 years ago. He aimed to improve the flavor and eating qualities of whole bran without taking away any of its effectiveness. This he accomplished. All-Bran is the most widely accepted and used of all bran cereals. And many prefer All-Bran on taste alone to any other cereal.

So why suffer one day longer with the constipation habit? Kellogg's All-Bran has literally helped millions. It can do the same for you.

Enjoy Kellogg's All-Bran with milk for 10 days. Eat an average serving (half a cup of All-Bran). See if it doesn't bring you gentle, natural regularity—with no distressing after-effects. If not fully satisfied, return the empty carton and get double your money back. That's a promise from Kellogg's, London, Ont.

MARMORA

Roman Catholic Union School Officially Opened

MARMORA. — The official opening of the Roman Catholic Union school No. 1, Marmora, and Marmora village, was held on Sunday afternoon. The school was open to the general public from 2 to 3.30 p.m. and tea was served by Catholic Women's League.

Following benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at 4 p.m. the Very Reverend Dean Shannon of Tweed, blessed the school. The Reverend J. Hanley of Madoc, said the Rosary and the Reverend B. Walsh, principal of Cathedral School, Kingston, preached the sermon.

Present in the sanctuary were the Reverend T. Rabby of Kingston, the Reverend F. D. Hyland, Madoc, and the Reverend J. La Marche, Stirling.

Supper was served at 5 p.m. by the Catholic Women's League to about 75 guests. Grace was said by the Reverend Dean Shannon and the toast to The Queen was given by the Reverend W. F. Healey.

Following supper the Reverend W. F. Healey, as chairman, briefly outlined the history of the school from the founding to the present.

Mr. Ed. O'Connor introduced the guest speaker, Mr. J. Doyle, Inspector for Separate Schools, who was thanked by Mr. Vincent Lynch.

Honorable George S. White, M.P., of Madoc, was the next speaker and extended congratulations to Father Healey and the school board. Others extending congratulations were, Reeve Ritchie Wells of Marmora; Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro; Mr. Elmer Woods, Warden of Hastings County; Mr. Kelsey, contractor for the school building.

Miss Florence Auger, teacher in Marmora Separate school for 28 years, spoke briefly.

The Reverend Father Farrell of Perth, a former priest for many years was unable to be present.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Mrs. Isabella Crawford, who has been visiting friends in Toronto, has returned to her home here.

Residents of the district, many from some distance, gathered at Mr. T. White's garage recently, in order to have their cats and dogs inoculated against rabies. Considering the number of pets, about 150, the affair passed off quite peacefully, except for a few minor scratches and a lost cat or two, which returned home later. The pets in bags, boxes, on leashes, or in the arms of the owners began arriving before 1 p.m. and the steady line continued until around 4 p.m. The rapporse here, as in most other centres, was gratifying to those in charge.

The storm, which hit most of the county on Wednesday afternoon and night did little damage locally, except making the road through the village, as well as the sideroads almost impassable. However, March, the unpredictable as far as weather goes, is nearly half gone and everyone sincerely hopes spring is just around the corner and the corner not too far away.

Mrs. Ella Way, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Houston, Belleville, for some time, returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Adams spent the weekend in Syracuse, N.Y.

Divine service took place in the Anglican church at 2.30 p.m., and in the United Church at 7.30 p.m. on Sunday, March 11.

Read and weather conditions prevented many from being present at church services.

Mr. Lewis Adams was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Elliott.

The regular meeting of Crescent Rebekah lodge took place in the lodgeroom of the IOOF hall on Monday evening, March 12.

In the public hall of the IOOF building the regular meeting of Hungerford Junior Farmers was held on Monday evening.

Rare, Medium, Well-Done

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

EYE TO THE FUTURE:

Maestro Wren Blair, the Whitby Boswell to the Dunlopian Johnson, is a persistent cuss to say the least.

After a few weeks' respite he is back on the Senior "A" for-Whitby-next-year topic. In addition to painting a colossus picture about the drawing power of the Dunlops in their hometown ballwick, Blair admits he has made application for senior "A" status next season.

At a meeting of group representatives in Belleville not too long ago OHA president Frank Buckland issued stern warning to all in general and Whitby in particular that it costs much more money to operate a club in senior "A" than in senior "B".

This gave M'slen Blair plenty of food for thought and he stated that he would not enter the higher ranks if the OHA went through with a proposal to operate an interlocking schedule with the Northern Ontario senior "A" group next season. He admitted spectator facilities in Whitby would not permit of the additional expense, but in a later column adds the Whitby arena management would make some necessary changes.

"In addition to fans from Whitby, Oshawa, Ajax and district it's reported that a bus load of fans from Lindsay will journey down to tonight's Whitby-Brockville playoff game. People are also reported to be driving in from Orillia, Stouffville, Peterborough and Bowmanville. Interest in these playoffs, and the Whitby Dunlops, is mighty high around these parts, and attendance plus the team's showing in the Ontario Senior "B" playdowns could be a deciding factor in the Dunlops' current application to gain entry in OHA senior "A" ranks next season.

"It's known that the Whitby Arena Commission has already discussed several improvements for the arena, aimed at the accommodation of a Senior "A" club. The rest is up to the public support at the gate, and we feel that all three of the aforementioned parties, will stage an all-out effort towards the ultimate goal of bringing top flight Senior "A" hockey to this area."

So it appears that Blair, despite the financial problems involved, does not intend keeping his powerful Dunlops machine in senior "B" company. There is no doubt that the Dunnies with their present roster would give the current senior A" clubs plenty of argument, and if we know the ebullient Blair he won't hesitate to strengthen the club if and when he gets the senior "A" green light. In fact, according to reports Western Ontario he has already taken steps along that line.

However, next year is another year. Pessimistic reports from some parts of the senior "B" circuit would have one believe that, with the seasonal demise of the Brockville Maroons and the possible exit of the Dunlops to higher brackets, the death-knell of senior "B" hockey in eastern Ontario has been sounded.

We are not in the market for that one. Manager Del McMullen of the Brockville Marcdonas, has stated publicly that the Maggies will be back next year, only on a different basis. A strong team will be assembled at the start of the season, one that will remain intact and be of sufficient calibre to equal that of the rest of the clubs.

Pessimist rumors along Belleville's hockey rialtoes have it that the Old Lady of the Moira will be back again next year, under "sponsored" arrangements.

An ad in the Peterborough Examiner calling for the services of a manager to superintend the new Community Centre, "during the start in May," would indicate that the town looked for hockey-and-otherwise edifice may be in operation this fall. Sports columns in the Littlock City paper have been urging the organization, or rather the groundbreaking, of next year's senior "B" club, and it is likely the Pete' bosses will confab on the matter in the near future.

Kingston will, in all likelihood be back. Cornwall has no other hockey stable in which to house its puck-chasing Colts unless the Ottawa Valley District League resurrects its senior classification from the grave it has occupied for the past few years.

So we cannot see any immediate reason to shed crocodile tears over the fate of the senior "B" group merely because Brockville decided to curtail seasonal operations and Whitby is making renewed efforts to crash the senior "A" society.

And in passing here's an item from Chick Appel's Stratford Beacon Herald sports column. "Ducky" Skinner, pilot of Hamilton Cubs is said to have been offered several other coaching jobs next season, and if he accepts, another candidate for the Hamilton position being mentioned is Bob Goldham of the Detroit Red Wings if and when he retires from an active role. Wonder what Wren Blair, boseman of the Whitby Dunlops, has to say about the Goldham rumor, because he is known to be dickering for the husky defenceman as playing-coach for his team."

The Big Seven

Barring some phenomenal sniping elsewhere, Jean Beliveau of Montreal has wrapped up his first National Hockey League scoring title. By the same token he has the top goal production in his pocket, too.

The big Montreal centreman bore down Thursday against Chicago for a goal and an assist—his 45th and 40th respectively—for 85 pulpits and a six-point lead over Detroit's Gordie Howe, Canadiens have two games left.

Howe, meanwhile, went point-less.

Beliveau Sets Goal-Get Mark Olmstead Ties Assist Record; Wings, Leafs Tilt Key Battle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After 250 games — nearly six months — three National Hockey League playoff positions will be decided in a matter of hours.

Thursday night's games didn't relieve the situation much. Montreal Canadiens defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-0 in a game that had no bearing on the standings. In the big battle for second place, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers tied 2-2. About all it did was make the Rangers' job of overhauling Wings for the runner-up spot a bit more difficult.

There are five games left to play in the schedule. Two are Saturday and the other three Sunday.

Here's the way the second-place struggle stands:

	W	L	T	A	Pts.
Detroit	30	23	16	183	146
New York	32	26	10	204	141

TOUGH ONE SATURDAY

Rangers have two games left—both with Canadiens. They play at Montreal Saturday, where they haven't won this season and have only one win in five games. The teams are at New York Sunday.

Leafs are batting with Boston Bruins for fourth place, the last playoff position.

This is the situation between Toronto and Boston:

	W	L	T	A	Pts.
Boston	29	33	13	145	152
Toronto	23	23	12	150	130

Chicago visits Toronto Saturday then plays at Boston Sunday. Should Rangers and Leafs lose their games Saturday, New York would need a win Sunday while Leafs defend Detroit to take over second place.

Leafs would need only a tie at Detroit while Boston was losing to Chicago to ensure themselves of fourth place. A couple of wins by Rangers and Toronto would straighten matters, too.

RECORD SHATTERED

Wings took a 1-0 lead midway through the second period at New York Thursday but Rangers bounced back with two before the period was over. Wings tied it up midway through the third.

Bill Dineen and rookie Norm Ullman scored for Detroit. Danny Lewicki and Dean Prentice were the New York marksmen.

Jean Beliveau scored Canadiens' final goal against Hawks to break the record for most goals by a centre in one season. It was his 45th tally and erased the former mark which Joe Malone set in the 1917-18 season with Canadiens.

Left winger Bert Olmstead assisted on Beliveau's goal. It was his second assist of the night and tied the league mark of 53, set by Ted Lindsay of Detroit in 1950-51.

The other Montreal scorers were Dickie Moore, Don Marshall, Bernie Geoffrion and Olmstead. Eddie Litzenberger scored both Chicago goals.

Canadiens lost Maurice Richard late in the first period when he tumbled into the Chicago net and had to be assisted from the ice. Five stitches were taken in a cut in his head, back of the left ear, and the Rocket was taken to hospital for x-rays.

Hebert Leads First Round Florida Tourney

By MERCER BAILEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A tight-lipped Hebert, field of pacebusters, with Lionel Hebert nursing a lead of one lone stroke, swung today into the second round of the St. Petersburg open golf tournament.

And from the way they manhandled the Lakewood Country Club course Thursday, par golf or better will be required to qualify for the final 36 holes and a shot at the $12,500 prize money.

Fifty-three pros and one amateur bettered the par of 36-36—72 over the 6,492-yard course. Another 24 matched par. The field will be cut to the low 60 pros and 10 amateurs, plus ties, for the final two rounds.

Hebert fattened the sandy layout in 31-34—65, seven under par. The short, husky 28-year-old from Erie, Pa., was one of the early starters and he posted his brilliant score with more than 100 rivals still on the course.

Try as they might, no one could overhaul him. And until late in the day, when Frank Stranahan and Art Wall Jr., came cruising in with 68s, it appeared no one was coming close. Stranahan, former amateur sensation from Toledo, Ohio, and Wall, a pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., are a hard under-par 32s on the back nine.

Hans Merrell of Mogadore, Ohio and Dow Finsterwald of Casey, Ill., winner of last week's Pensacola Open, fired identical 33-34—67s to tie for fourth.

Nine others—among them Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont.,—were within three strokes of first place with 68s. Others on the 68 bracket included Hebert's brother Jay, who registered with Sanford, Fla., Ted Kroll of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., winner of two tournaments this year, and Jack Peck of Davenport, Iowa, the U.S. Open champion.

Three former winners of this annual event—Cary Middlecoff of Dallas, Tex., the first week and defending champion; Jack Burke Jr., and Jimmy Demaret, both gallery idol of Klamesha Lake, N.Y.,—were among 13 tied at 69.

UPSETS SEIXAS

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Eddie Moylan, Trenton, N.J., advanced Thursday to finals of the Everglades Club invitational tennis tournament in a 6-8, 6-4, 6-4 upset of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, in the semi-finals.

Giants, Pirates Back Rookie Managers Both Clubs Show Surprising Strength

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Rigney of the New York Giants and Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh, the only managers making their debuts in the major leagues this year, haven't yet had a chance to develop an ulcer. And the way their teams have been playing, they're liable to wind up among the healthiest big league pilots.

Rigney, up from Minneapolis, has seen his team win five of six exhibition games while Bragan, brought in from Hollywood, has led his Pirates to three triumphs in five games.

Thursday, Rigney got neat five-hit pitching from Allan Worthington, Johnny Antonelli and Hoyt Wilhelm as the Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 5-1. New York collected 15 hits, including a home run by Daryl Spencer, a service returnee who is trying for a regular infield berth.

The Pirates, a poor last in 1955, continued to show surprising strength in downing Washington Senators 4-3 on Dale Long's three-run home run in the fifth inning.

Herm Wehmeier, Bob Miller and Saul Rogovin limited the St. Louis Cardinals to five hits as Philadelphia Phillies came away with a 3-1 victory. Willie Jones' solo homer in the fourth inning off Ellis Kinder was the big blow.

GOOSE EGG FOR SOX

The Kansas City As, behind the fireball shucking of Art Ceccarelli Chuck Kowalski and Dutch Romberger, whitewashed the Chicago White Sox 1-0. The Athletics got the winning run in the fifth inning when Minnie Minoso dropped an easy fly ball, enabling Jim Finigan to score from third.

Gene Conley, making his first start since suffering an injury last August, fired three-hit hurling as the Milwaukee Braves sent the Brooklyn Dodgers down to their fifth setback in six games 6-2. Ed Mathews hit a pair of homers for the Braves.

Detroit was held to four hits by Johnny Kucks, Rip Coleman and Ralph Terry as New York Yankees clobbered the Tigers 9-4. Bill Skowron drove in three runs for the Yanks with a single and a homer.

Nashua Eyes Gulfstream Gold Millionaire Nag Carries Big Impost

By GENE FLOWDEN

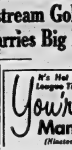
Jimmy Fitzsimmons, who conditions Nashua, sent his four-year-old star over the Hialeah track Thursday and Nashua did the half mile in 48 2-5 seconds and the five furlongs in a blistering :59.

Nashua will carry a crushing 129 pounds — heaviest impost of his career—and will spot his opponents from four to 19 pounds in the 1¼-mile handicap.

Just the same, handicappers have made the Leslie Combs II thoroughbred a 6-to-5 favorite to take the $83,300 winner's share and push his total earnings to $1,321,315. That would surpass Citation's world record of $1,085,760. Eddie Arcaro, Nashua's regular rider, will be aboard.

JET ACTION SECOND

Second choice in the early line is Maine Chance farm's Jet Action, who set a track record of 1:09 for six furlongs at Hialeah last month and gets in the race Saturday under 125 pounds.



That is a spread of nine pounds from the Syzonby, when Jet Action finished second and Nashua third to High Gun. It was the only time in his career Nashua ran third. Willie Shoemaker will ride Jet Action.

Brookmeade stable's Sailor, third behind Nashua and Social Outcast in the recent Widener, will carry 119 pounds, one off of Willie Shoemack, the champion rider last year with 485 winners.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find gets in under only 116 pounds and will have Eric Guerin up.

The race is also expected to attract Hasty House farm's Mister Black, Sam Tufano's Wise Margin, and Admiral, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Markus.

Gross value of the race, if seven start, will be $113,300.

AP Newsfeatures

The Kansas City A's enjoyed a successful season in 1955, finishing in sixth place instead of the cellar where most of the experts picked them to wind up.

Much of the credit for their good showing has been given to Lou Boudreau, the A's veteran skipper.

Here's an example of a successful bit of strategy by Boudreau which enabled Kansas City to defeat the Yankees.

What would you have done?

Choose pinch-hitters for a right-handed batter or pitcher and (1.) for a left-handed batter or pitcher.

The Athletics and Yankees are tied 1-1 in the ninth of the seventh at Kansas City with Tom Sturdivant (R) as the second of five Yankee hurlers. There's one out when Bauer leads off with a single and races to third on Jim Domenico's outburger. So far-stock (R) is the next scheduled batter with pitcher Vic Raschi (R) to follow.

BOUDREAU

Would you:

a. Put in a lefty pinch-hitter for Astorth?

b. Let Astorth swing away?

c. Double on a double steal?

d. Order a sacrifice bunt with Astorth at bat?

Result: D—Astorth bunted and sacrificed home Lopez. The A's added an insurance run in the eighth and won 3-1 (Italy 2%).

Peggers Thump Ottawa 125-75 In Hoop Splurge

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Buffaloes exploded Thursday night in the greatest scoring splurge ever seen in Canadian basketball playoffs here, thumping Ottawa Shaffers 125-75 to take a one-game lead in their best-of-five Olympic zone playoff.

The winner of the series advances into a four-team, double-knockout tournament in Vancouver next week to decide Canada's Olympic representative. Further games are scheduled for tonight, Saturday and Monday and Tuesday if necessary.

The Buffaloes, winners of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan zone playoff, set an all-time record locally for both league and playoff scoring. It is also a Canadian record for playoffs.

The Buffs never gave the shorter Shaffers a chance to get used to the different court. It was 45-20 after just 10 minutes of play and 71-37 at the intermission.

Herb Olafson scored 19 points on four shots and added seven free shots for 33 points, tops for Buffaloes. Carl Ridd was close behind at 23 while veteran Ernie Spack hooped 18. University of Saskatchewan star, Windy Hudon, added 16 more.

For the Shaffers, Glen Pettinger and Tom Holmes shouldered most of the scoring. Holmes fired 20 points while Pettinger, a standout defensively, hooped 19. Guard Mike Sharpe had 12.

Doc Lowers Clancy Boom

The club's health-helper, Dr. Jim Murray, advised Brian Cullen Wednesday to hold his stick thus and so overcome a screwed-up disadvantage in forthcoming National Hockey League action.

Clancy staggered to his feet breathless but unInjured.

"What's the matter, Doc?" he gasped, "business so bad you've got to provide your own patients?"

Winnipeg Holds All-Indian Hockey Tourney

By RICHARD ANCO

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Seventy tiny youngsters who learned their hockey on residential school rinks invade Winnipeg Saturday for an all-Indian hockey tournament.

In the inaugural of what is hoped will be an annual event, four midget teams will battle in a round-robin knockout affair for a gold-plated trophy. A more-experienced juvenile crew from Kenora, Ont., will take on the all-white juvenile Winnipeg Monarchs.

Out of all the excitement a long-limbed Indian youth from Pine Creek, Man., 15-year-old George Nepinak, will be presented with the Tom Longboat medal as the outstanding Indian athlete in Manitoba in 1955.

Carrying National League names such as Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, the midgets, 15 and under, represent Indian residential schools at Fort Alexander, Sandy Bay, Pine Creek and Portage la Prairie.

NOT NEW

The all-Indian tournament is not new in Canada. Sioux Lookout held a similar tourney for Indians in northwestern Ontario about five years ago. New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia have had all-Indian competitions in various years.

Bernard White of the Manitoba branch of the Indian affairs department, sponsors of the tournament, said Thursday one aim is to give Indian athletes a chance to perform before a crowd.

The Tom Longboat Trophy and medals honoring the great Indian runner are donated annually in an effort to stimulate athletic interest among Indians. The trophy, to the top all-round Indian athlete in Canada, went last year to Paul Goulais, 17, of the Nipissing band, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., for baseball, hockey and track. One medal went to Betty Goulais, Sturgeon Falls, swimming.

Marlene Strokes Way to Second Round

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Favorites slashed unscathed through a rain-shortened, none-chilling first round in the North and South women's amateur golf tournament Thursday, though several of them had close calls.

Barbara McIntire, the medalist from Toledo, Ohio, won fairly easily, taking Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., 4 and 3. The Rollins College sophomore won two of the first three holes and closed out the match with a 15-ft. putt to finish in a comfortable two over par.

MAY PLAY WITH CATS

HAMILTON (CP)—Ken Foster, a linebacker dropped by Toronto Argonauts last year after a disagreement with the team's coaching staff, may play Big Four football with Hamilton Tiger-Cats this season.

Tiger-Cats' general manager Jake Gaudaur said Thursday he has been approached by a team manager Bill Earley about the possibility of a trade for Foster. Gaudaur said he hadn't talked with Foster but was interested in making the trade.

SAXTON REGAINS WELTERWEIGHT CROWN IN UNANIMOUS, BUT UNPOPULAR DECISION

Challenger Johnny Saxton, at left, and defending champion Carmen Basilio, appear to be seeing eye-to-eye during eighth round of their 15-round welterweight title bout at Chicago which went to the former in an unanimous decision. Entering the ring as the underdog, the 25-year-old New Yorker kept on the move throughout the fight which was Basilio's second title defence and his first loss in nearly 3½ years. The 28-year-old lumberjack from Canastota, N.Y., had compiled an unbeaten streak of 15 victories, including two 12th round knockouts of Tony DeMarco, from whom he won the title on Dec. 10. Basilio stopped DeMarco November 30 in his first title defence. (Central Press Canadian.)

Western Ontario Keglers Lead Bowling Singles

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Taylor of London and Mabel Wilks of Woodstock were the favorites at the half-way mark Thursday in weeklong Ontario single five-pin bowling championships.

Taylor's 10-game total of 2,866 in quarter-finals which ended on Thursday was the highest ever recorded in tournament play. He eliminated George Miller of Welland by a margin of 454 pins.

Mrs. Wilks' match against Vera Ward of Hamilton, 1955 eastern Canada champion, was close. Mrs. Wilks led Mrs. Ward by only 12 pins Wednesday after five games. Her edge in Thursday's five games was five pins. Her 10-game total of 2,334 was the highest in the women's division.

There was a man and woman entry from each of 12 Ontario regions originally. Four were eliminated from each division in the first round Monday and Tuesday. Four more were dropped Thursday. The remaining four will pair off today for 10-game semi-finals with the two men and two women finalists battling it out in championships Saturday.

ENTERS SEMIS

Gordon Hinton of Toronto with 2,848 eliminated Ron Robinson of Napanee by a 13-pin edge to enter today's semi-finals. Hal Rebiel of Kitchener played in when he rolled 2,477 over Steve Wiggins of Barrie who had 2,364. Dennis Linton of Oshawa stands as a top contender after scoring 2,510 to defeat Bill Strong of Toronto who had 2,359.

In the women's division, Marion Robillard of Barrie beat Hilda Carpenter with 2,222 eliminated Millie McCabe of Toronto who had 1,996. Marion Pusey of Sarnia defeated Irene Atkinson of Sudbury who scored 1,911 against Marion's 2,130.

Cornwall Edges Kingston 5-3 In Overtime

Mort Belmore's goal with 54 seconds left in the overtime period gave the Cornwall Colts a "must" victory over the Kingston Goodyears in Cornwall last night to tie their four-of-seven OHA senior "B" playoff series at two games each. The score was 5-3.

Belmore's goal climaxed an uphill fight and put the Colts in front 4-3 at 3.06 of the ten-minute overtime period. The same player added another on Kingston's open net with ten seconds remaining when netminder Brooks was benched in favor of an extra forward.

The series continues to be a "home-ice" affair with each team having won both their games before the home crowd. The attendance last night was 1193.

The fifth game is scheduled for Kingston's Community Centre on Saturday night at 8.30 p.m. with the sixth in Cornwall on Sunday afternoon. If a seventh and final game is necessary, it will be played in Kingston next Wednesday night, March 21st.

Cornwall's star centre, Moe Savard, shared the hero's role with Belmore. Savard tallied one goal himself and added three assists, including the two on Belmore's overtime markers. Don Batten and Pete Payette were the other goal scorers for the victors.

George MacGregor, Don Senior and Hub Macey were the Kingston marksmen. They scored in that order in a matter of three minutes and 32 seconds in the middle session after Savard had put Cornwall ahead 1-0 in the first. Cornwall roared back in the third for two goals, Batten from Belmore and Savard at 12.14 —sending the game into overtime.

The referees were Shore and Franchuk of Ottawa. Only two minor penalties were assessed, both to Kingston in the second period.

Regina Pats Nip Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Regina Pats roared from behind with two goals in overtime Thursday night to defeat Lethbridge Native Sons 6-5 and take the best-of-seven western Junior Hockey League final 4-1. Pats won the first two games in Regina and the third here before losing the fourth.

Down 5-4 after Lethbridge had taken the lead in the first minute of the overtime, Pats rallied to tie the score at 2:28 when Brian Whittal scored and then Joe Lunghamer slammed in the winner at 9:18.

TENLEY LEADS

The spirited battle of the two lee queens will be decided tonight when they dance, jump and twirl on their blades — separately—to four minutes of music. Young Carol, 16-year-old New Yorker, is considered the flashier skater, and more daring, though Tenley often shows greater form and finesse.

QUITS BASEBALL

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y. (AP)—Stan Rojek, 36 - year - old shortstop with Brooklyn Dodgers, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals, said Thursday he had asked for and received his release from the Dodger organization, and is quitting baseball.

He operates a dairy with his brothers.

STREET DESTROYED

SIMMIE, Sask. (CP)—Fire that roared uncontrolled for five hours Wednesday night destroyed most of the main street of this isolated southwestern Saskatchewan village. The blaze destroyed three stores, a theatre, a hotel, a cafe and a residence on the main street. There was no immediate damage estimate and origin of the fire was undetermined.

At The McCarthy

Rory Spurns His Lita in Their First Film

Rory Calhoun and his pretty brunette wife, former night-club entertainer Lita Baron, are finally getting together on the screen — but with a typically Hollywood switch. They are in Universal-International's Technicolor adventure film, "Red Sundown," currently at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre with Calhoun, Martha Hyer and Dean Jagger in the starring roles.

In the film, Calhoun is an exprofessional gunman who tries to change his way of life by becoming a sheriff's deputy. He succeeds, but only with the help of the girl who loves him, Marta—Lita Baron.

The switch?

AT THE CAPITOL — Jungle action star Johnny Weissmuller and his chimpanzee companion Kimba are shown as they appear in Columbia Pictures' "Devil Goddess" at the Capitol theatre today and Saturday. On the same program is Technicolor Lawton Mackall production "Bengazi," with the two first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL — Marshal of Medicine Bend, Randolph Scott, cleans up the West's toughest two-gun town in Columbia's "A Lawless Street," in color by Technicolor at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program "Devil Goddess" starring Johnny Weissmuller in Cinecolor film. Both hits are first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four teams staged a preview of the Quebec Hockey League playoffs Thursday night and the underdogs came out on top in both games.

At Chicoutimi, the third-place Saguenerns downed the league-champion Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 4-2 and at Quebec, the fourth-place Aces edged second-place Montreal 1-0.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

Saturday, March 17, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Think before you speak, and don't speak if you may get into any unpleasant discussion. But sound debate and reviewing are in order. That sensible middle road, eh?

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — There is more than one way to achieve as the great St. Patrick proved, so "if at first you don't succeed . . . " Keep good humor, pleasantness up. Others will react quicker, better.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Stay tuned with true progress and, at the same time, be solicitous of others' feelings, desires. Advance, keep your incentive, don't be stymied by opposition.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Forget yourself and pitch into the business of moving forward, even if only with little daily chores, humdrum matters. Be interesting yourself in others' goals, you will forget worries.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Achievement can be had, but must be sought in reasonable doses and through thoroughly honorable routes. Don't succumb to questionable ethics. And do keep smiling.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Where there is congeniality and cooperation there is quicker, more lasting success, happiness. This day may present difficulties or unusual work, but it can also be very satisfying.

September 24 to October 24 — (Libra) — Study problems, affairs before making decisions. You may need to change tactics or a plan or two. A little reviewing will show you how. But don't strain.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Spend more time on interests essentially yours, less on assisting others — which does not mean not to be cooperative, but rather to protect your affairs better. Forget others' criticisms.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Give where you can, but be discriminating. Be careful, too, that you do not become involved in anything overexciting or questionable today. Mind the temperature.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — You are not naturally one to complain or fuss, but may be led astray in this respect at times, like many others. Avoid overindulgence.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius)—Get chores over with quickly and during leisure time really enjoy diversion, good friends (happy ones), and family associations. Do something with your hobby perhaps. Laugh often.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Don't be tempted by unsure or complaining people. You be determined to do what you should, and when. And, in free hours, relax, refresh mind and body with healthy exercise.

You born today are artistic and innately a lover of God's true blessings: the beauty of the outdoors, animals, color, change of seasons, travel. You can be practical, too: are suited to many fields, but will advance faster when associated with more aggressive people. Don't be oversensitive. Do not be hurt at others' lack of understanding or seeming ingratitude. You err, too, when you don't mean to. Enjoy music, children. They are tonics.

Little Benny's Notebook

Shorty Judge's grandfather Mr. Peevy was smoking his short pipe on the front porch in his sailor hat and his blue coat with brass buttons, and I said, Will you please tell me a story, Mr. Peevy?——

What about? Mr. Peevy said, and I told, Tell me another one about the heart of Africa.

Being his best kind, and he said, Well, it was in the heart of Africa that I operated on myself for appendicreedas.

I were you a docter? I said, and he said, Well, I was a surgeon I made one voyage, and I knit my eyes open. Well sir, I was collecting wild elefants for zoological gardens when I felt my appendix acting funny. I knew the only thing to do was remove it, so when I came to a tribe of wild natives I asked their witch docter to lend me a sharp knife, he said.

Did he? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, On the contrary, he was shocked at my ignorance and insisted on curing me by witchcraft. So he painted my body all the colors of the African rainbow and ordered the natives to do a spear dance, and while they cercled around me making mumbo jumbo noises and poking their spears tords me, I did a kind of rumba dance myself, letting a long thumnick graze against their spears in just the right time until I by sharp points made the neetest surgical incision you ever saw, he said.

Was the operation successful? I said, and Mr. Peevy said, It couldn't of been successfuller. I was up and around again the next day, as good as new. Of course the witch docter claimed all the credit, and I was smart enough not to argue about it. Well, come and talk to me again some time, he said.

BY-LAW NO. 2931

A BY-LAW UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF R. S. O. 1937, CHAPTER 166, FOR PROHIBITING AND REGULATING THE RUNNING AT LARGE OF DOGS

BE IT ENACTED by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, as follows:

1. In this by-law the word "dog" shall mean any dog, male or female.

2. No person shall keep or permit any dog of which he is the owner, possessor or harbourer, at any time in the City of Belleville.

3. For the purposes of this by-law a dog shall be deemed to be running at large when found in a highway or other public place, within the City of Belleville, and not under the control of any person.

4. Any police constable or other person authorized for that purpose by the Mayor, Police Magistrate, or Chief Constable may take any dog found running at large contrary to the provisions of this by-law and it shall be the duty of the Police Constable or other person so authorized aforesaid, so to do, and every such Police Constable or other person shall forthwith, after making such seizure, deliver such dog to the pound-keeper of the City and if it shall be the duty of the pound-keeper to whom the same is delivered to keep the same safely and to supply it with food and water, and when demanded and in case it shall not be reclaimed as hereinafter provided, within seventy-two hours after it shall have been delivered to the pound-keeper, it shall be the duty of the pound-keeper to kill such dog.

5. Immediately upon receipt of a dog wearing a licensing tag or a metallic plate hereinafter referred to, the pound-keeper shall make immediate from the Tax Collector's record the name and address of such dog's owner, possessor or harborer of such dog and the pound-keeper shall forthwith notify such person by registered post, notifying such owner, possessor or harborer that such dog has been impounded and state the time within which it may be claimed.

6. The owner, possessor, or harborer of any dog impounded as provided for by the next succeeding section of this by-law within seventy-two hours after such dog shall have been delivered to the pound-keeper, may be allowed to claim the same upon application to the pound-keeper, on proof of his ownership and upon payment of the sum of one dollar.

An amendment in by-law 2931, passed by the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville, March 12, 1956 follows: ¹

"That the City Solicitor prepares the necessary amendment to by-law 2931 governing dogs, that within seventy-two hours after a dog is impounded, one can against Rabies for said animal or animals when applying for a license."

At Least 112 Die, Lebanon Quakes Wreck 50 Villages

100,000 Gather at Seaside Others Flee to Mountains

GERMANY SENDS ENVOY TO USSR

The first ambassador to represent the West German republic in Soviet Russia, Wilhelm Haas, presented his credentials to Marshal Kliementi Voroshilov, titular chief of the Soviet state in Moscow. Dr. Haas expressed conviction that establishment of diplomatic relations between Bonn and Moscow would contribute to restoration of German unity.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters) — At least 112 persons were killed in earthquakes which ripped across Lebanon Friday night and today, the ministry of information announced here today.

(Reports to The Associated Press set the death toll at more than 125, with 200 more injured. In one village alone, The AP said, at least 30 perished and many others were believed buried alive in their shattered homes.

More than 50 villages were reported partly destroyed by the series of quakes, and damage was estimated at close to $2,000,000. The damage was most severe in southern Lebanon.

Four earthquakes hit this Middle Eastern country. Another shock was felt here this morning, but it was slight.

The quakes sent frightened people pouring from their homes Friday night into the streets and public parks.

As one shock followed another, each lasting several seconds, panic spread through Beirut. Mothers hurried from the town carrying their babies. Even the men scurried what they could snatch up from their homes.

Villages in all parts of the country were damaged, and ambulances were carrying away the wounded all night.

Damage in Beirut itself was slight. Beirut radio stopped all programs to broadcast only official communiques.

ANTI-STALIN MOVE CAUSES RIOTING IN HOME STATE

Anniversary of Death Not Mentioned in Press

LONDON (AP)—Reports of a mounting Kremlin campaign to denigrate Stalin are said to have sparked rioting in the dictator's home republic of Georgia.

Information reaching London is that student groups paraded through the Georgian capital of Tiflis carrying banners and portraits of the once-revered leader and touching off disturbances. The riots were reported to have erupted March 7, two days after the third anniversary of Stalin's death went unsung in the Soviet press.

United States officials in Washington said they had unconfirmed reports that a number of persons were killed in rioting in Georgia March 7.

Diplomats leaving the Soviet Union say the country is seething with suppressed excitement over the reported savage attack on Stalin by the Soviet Communist party chief, Nikita Khrushchev.

TOLD OF BUTCHERY

Khrushchev is said to have told the Communist party congress that Stalin butchered his comrades and committed blunders both in politics and war.

Tight Russian censorship has been clamped on the story.

First hint the Kremlin leaders were planning to discredit the late dictator was a speech by Communist Premier A. I. Mikoyan at the opening of the congress. Mikoyan lauded the late Stalin's political works as behind the times and not keeping with the Marxist-Leninist line.

Since then, the destruction of the Stalin myth has increased in tempo.

London newspapers splashed the Khrushchev story across their front pages in bold type. Early editions were rushed to the Soviet embassy and translated for former premier Georgi Malenkov, now touring Britain as Soviet minister of power stations.

Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik stayed up much of the night translating the London newspaper stories for Malenkov, who was reportedly angered by Khrushchev's remarks.

The Daily Mail quotes Khrushchev as saying that during the early days of the Second World War Stalin refused to make plans for more guns for the Ukraine but left the Red Army high command to see that Stalin was not available. Khrushchev was also quoted as saying that Stalin ordered Red Malenkov when Malenkov denied the charge.

The embassy had no comment.

The Daily Telegraph declares editorially that Khrushchev "has stabbed Stalin to the heart with a dagger of vituperation unparalleled since . . . Hitler called the-Russian dictator the 'scum of the earth.'"

It says it "something pretty nauseating in this tearing of the flesh of a dead man as Stalin was . . . a benefactor to him, whatever he may have been to others."

SYMPATHY STRIKE

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — All air traffic between Sweden and Finland ceased at midnight Wednesday as pilots struck in sympathy with port workers stopped refuelling and servicing Finland bound planes in sympathy with a general strike in Finland. The sympathy strike, called by the Swedish Transport Workers Union, will continue indefinitely.

At Least Two Persons Dead As Result of Ontario Storm

TORONTO (CP) — Irishmen's hopes of a green St. Patrick's day were dashed today following a heavy snowstorm throughout southern Ontario Friday.

At least two persons died as a result of the storm.

Hundreds of traffic accidents were reported as more than seven inches of snow fell on Niagara Falls, Ont., five inches on Kingston, four inches on Hamilton and Toronto. Light falls also were recorded at Windsor.

The Dominion weather bureau at Toronto's Malton airport said the storm stretched from the gulf of Mexico to Georgian bay with rain in the south and snow in the north.

David George Smith, 64, died when his father's car went out of control on the road between Elizabeth Town and Lyndhurst, Leeds county, 20 miles west of Toronto, and buried him out on the pavement. Mr. Smith was uninjured.

Hilton W. Love, 30, father of five children, died early today when his car skidded into a tree at Markham, near Toronto.

Snow- and slush-covered highways made driving dangerous. Highway 401 south of Lindsay, 76 miles west of Peterborough, was closed for up to six inches.

Toronto's rush-hour traffic was almost completely tied up except in the city centre, where more than an hour for many suburban drivers to complete runs usually made in 15 minutes.

Most of the worst accidents was on Highway 401 in North York where nine cars piled into one another.

Throughout the day Toronto had more than 150 tandem, plows and snow-removal vehicles clearing streets.

In Niagara Falls, a high wind made it impossible for road crews to clear the city streets. They continued service and several public meetings scheduled for Friday night were cancelled.

FINANCE MINISTER CONSERVATIVE IN BUDGET ESTIMATE

New Figures Show Govt. Will Nearly Break Even

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament has a strong clue that Finance Minister Harris was being conservative when he forecast a budget deficit for the current financial year.

In his first annual prediction of government financial operations a year ago, he looked for a $160,000,000 budget deficit, but new figures he tabled Thursday indicate he will just about break even.

The final supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31, which Mr. Harris tabled in the Commons, show he wants authority to spend a total of $5,500,513,000. The supplementaries amounted to only $26,213,000.

SMALL AMOUNT

The small amount of the supplementaries was not enough to disturb general expectations here that the government's budget bookkeeping for 1955-56 will be just above or below the line of balancing the books.

Mr. Harris will present his second budget to the Commons Tuesday night covering the fiscal year starting April 1 and the expectations are he will produce largely the same estimates as this year with some minor tax reductions.

Most of the Commons' day was spent in dealing with Transport Minister Marler's 1956-57 departmental estimates. Opposition members heard from the minister that the government's long-term program of the transport department's fleet of ships is to be carried out in the next four years.

Mr. Marler said between 12 and 15 new transcontinental ships—used for supply purposes and icebreaking—will be replaced and additional vessels built. Departmental officials estimated the cost of the new ships will be between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000.

In tabling his 1955-56 estimates, Mr. Harris let it be known that the government wants authority to regard $50,000,000 as having been disbursed in a peacetime year.

However, not all will necessarily be spent. A closer approximation of what the outlay will be appears in a white paper covering the year's financial operations he tabled in the Commons Monday.

Snow, Rain, Sleet Storm Sweeps U.S., Claims 26 Lives

Many Communities Report Up to 16 Inches of Snow

NEW YORK (AP)—Snow, rain, sleet and gales played havoc Friday and today in the northwest and mid - Atlantic states, and ranged westward to Ohio and north into Canada.

At least 26 deaths were attributed to the storm, coming just four days before spring.

All sections reported improved weather conditions today, but communities were digging out under heavy blankets of snow, trying to unscramble transportation snarls.

A freak electrical storm latched salt an hour over eastern Pennsylvania. Thunder rumbled over New York City while snowflakes fell late in the evening.

Six ships became victims of high seas and winds — at Scituate, Mass., off Montauk point on Long Island, at Norfolk, Va., and off Atlantic City, N. J.

Some 30 persons were safely evacuated by the coast guard when their homes were flooded by exceptionally high tides on Nantucket island, 30 miles off Cape Cod.

Northern and central Ohio were buried under more than 10 inches of snow in some areas. Sixteen inches fell at Utica, N. Y.

Some other New England sections reported more than a foot of snow Friday.

The police chief of New Haven, Conn., ordered all police cars off treacherous highways late Friday night. He said they would go out only in emergencies.

Many storm deaths were attributed to over-exertion or to slippery going. In Ithaca, N. Y., the fall caused a suspension of city bus service. The Red Cross offered to find shelter for persons stranded in the city.

The Italian freighter Etruceo, off Scituate, Mass., was reported early today in no danger. The ship, with 30 aboard, had threatened to break up Friday night in the heavy seas. But, the coast guard said, seas were subsiding and the men would be taken off the vessel "in due course."

A shift in the wind early today saved the rudderless tanker Sylvia, foundering off the south shore of Long Island. The coast guard planned to get the 13-man crew to safety later today.

The coast guard reported it was escorting an unidentified fishing vessel to a New Bedford port with it got in trouble. At Norfolk, Va., another 11-man freighter, the Lagra Lauro, buffeted by high winds, rammed a naval pier.

Cypriot Gunmen's Mountain Ambush Wounds 5 Britons

NICOSIA (AP) — Guerrilla gunmen wounded five British soldiers early today in an ambush in the towering Troodos mountains southwest of this capital of Cyprus.

An official report said one Cypriot was killed in the pitched battle that followed. The attack occurred on the Khanria-Agros road, eight miles east of the village of Troodos.

Reinforcements took off the defenders after a short pitched skirmish. Then the British troops fanned out and ringed seven villages in the area. They launched a house-to-house search for the guerrillas.

Cypriot extremists demanding union of this British island colony with Greece have touched off bloody outbreaks which have cost the lives of 18 British soldiers since October. The anti-British campaign is intensified by the Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement, was exiled by Britain last week.

A week long protest strike against the Makarios deportation continued today, but indications were that it would end Tuesday. The government announced that it would take legal action against shopkeepers who deprived their communities of normal supplies and services.

Red-berated paratroopers rushed the evacuation today of 30 houses and shops in Nicosia's "terror area," where six British soldiers and a police sergeant have been killed by bullets in the back..

Pickering Fire Being Probed By Fire Marshal

PICKERING (CP)—The Ontario fire marshal's office today investigated a house fire which took the life of a middle-aged maid.

Mrs. Jessie Clarke was in withheld by police pending positive identification of the body when fire swept through the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clarke near this village 15 miles east of Toronto.

Mrs. Clarke and the maid were alone in the house when fire broke out in the kitchen. Unable to reach the front door, Mrs. Clarke ran amid smoke and flames, Mrs. Clarke drove a hatchet to turn in the alarm.

The maid was found in a bedroom in another part of the house from which she had been awakened. Firemen said it is presumed she was blinded by smoke and unable to find the stairs leading to safety.

Damage to the house was estimated at $10,000.

EXCLUDES REDS

BONN (AP) — West Germany's Bundestag Thursday passed a law excluding Reds and Communists of Parliament for years. Valerian Zorin, Russia's first ambassador to Germany, warned as the lower house voted overwhelmingly to exclude from the next parliament all parties polling less than five per cent of the votes.

Find Russian Rumor Mill Is at Work Grinding out Anti-Stalin Stories

Editor's Note: Tom Whitney, author of the following article, is a former Associated Press correspondent in Moscow. He now is assigned to the AP foreign desk in New York.

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Startling news has been seeping out of the Soviet Union during the last few days—reports telling of bitter debunking of Joseph Stalin, and stories of riots protesting the anti-Stalin attacks.

This news has not come from American or other Western correspondents in Moscow. The censor still works on them 24 hours a day. It's leaking out from Moscow diplomatic missions to foreign offices abroad and from there to the press. So far the Soviet press and the Soviet radio have been practically silent about it all.

But it seems certain that soon they're going to have to say something.

Obviously the Russian rumor mill is at work, all over the country people are passing on to other people versions of what Khrushchev said in his secret speech to the Soviet Union foreign broadcasts in many languages are trumpeting back to those Russians who can hear them through the jamming, stories of what the Western press is printing.

So perhaps part of the story of Stalin's crimes is about to come out of the Soviet Union.

If it does, it should it would be a sensation—but a brief one. Most Westerners have long understood that Stalin had a diabolical and mistrusted everyone around him.

4 Ships Overdue at Halifax, Four U.S. Destroyers Aground

HALIFAX (CP) — Four ships were reported overdue this morning after an overnight storm left one blanketed Halifax with seven inches of snow and stopped by 40-mile-an-hour gale winds.

The weather office said a total of eight to 14 inches will hit the southern Nova Scotia coast.

City traffic barely moved this morning. Throughout the province the lashing winds piled up huge drifts.

Bus schedules and nearly all airline flights in Nova Scotia were cancelled.

John Dunn, 16, was killed today in Pendfield in southwestern New Brunswick when the car in which he was riding collided with a department of public works snowplow at the height of the storm.

A total of 6.6 inches of snow fell in New Brunswick but bus and other motor vehicle traffic was not halted. Train service was operating as usual.

Conditions were about the same on Prince Edward Island.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The navy announced today that four American destroyers went aground during a blizzard and high winds last midnight at Narragansett bay, Mass.

A preliminary report received at naval headquarters said the vessels were forced aground in the midst of a blinding snowstorm and hurricane winds.

The four destroyers, which were moored at the time to a pier, were the Fox, Fiske, Lyman and Coolbaugh.

Mollet Is Ready to Launch Big Drive to Pacify Algeria

PARIS (AP — Premier Guy Mollet called his cabinet into special session today to launch France's big new drive to pacify Moslem Algeria as he sharply clashes continued in the seething North African territory.

The cabinet was expected to issue in quick order its first decrees under Mollet's special powers bill for smashing the Moslem nationalist rebellion. The decrees would bring metal law to part of Algeria.

Thousands troops already are on the way to swell France's 200,000-man fighting force in the area.

Resident Minister Robert Lacoste waited only the cabinet's signal for his extraordinary powers bill with broad new military, economic and administrative powers.

He came to Paris to help push Mollet's bill through Parliament. That job was completed Friday when the Senate approved the measure by a thumping majority. The National Assembly had passed the bill earlier.

Mollet has promised Algeria a larger voice in its affairs, but insists that peace must be restored before any talks and negotiations on the territory's future. Algeria has 8,500,000 Moslems and 1,000,000 Europeans.

French troops in Algeria already are pushing their drive mechanized units smabbled a big rebel force 150 miles east of Algiers Friday. The rebels reported 107 rebels killed in the first stages of a skirmish that swirled into the night.

Admits Shooting Brother, Given 17½-Year Term

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP) — A Saskatchewan farmer who admitted shooting his brother—but denied knowledge of the massacre of four other members of the clan —was sentenced Friday to a 17½ year term for manslaughter.

The June shooting came during a court trial of John Petlock, 32, brought in the multi-murder investigation into the dirt after deliberating four hours. Petlock was charged only in the death of his brother Michael.

Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson in sentencing Petlock said he was taking into consideration the six months Petlock had spent in custody, the fact he had no previous record, and the history of family strife that was a prelude to the shooting.

Defence counsel Emmett Hall of Saskatoon said he is considering an appeal on the grounds that the sentence is extraordinary.

Five bullet-riddled bodies—two of them children—were found last Aug. 28 on the Petlock farm near Melville, Sask. The victims were Michael Petlock, his mother, Mrs. Mary Petlock, 72, Michael's wife, Angeline, 28, and their two children, three-year-old Dianne and Michalene, 11 months.

How Criticized By Ontario CCF Leader

Hansard, the official record, quoted Mr. Howe as saying the Ontario legislature had unanimously passed the 1954 resolution which the federal and Ontario governments would construct a line from Alberta to Toronto. The line would be leased to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which would construct the line from Alberta to the Manitoba-Ontario border.

Mr. MacDonald said that Mr. Howe's statement was a misrepresentation. He was trying to use the Ontario legislature vote to "whitewash" the CCF's action in accepting the government's policy by representing that the Ontario Liberal party had done the legislation."

The Ontario legislature unanimously passed the second reading of the bill Feb. 22. The two CCF members, including Mr. MacDonald, voted for the bill.

Mr. MacDonald Friday, however stressed that he supported the bill only because it seemed the sole opportunity to get natural Alberta natural gas to Ontario by a pipline wholly within Canada.

$4,000 Disappears From Windsor Tourist Office

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram said Friday a quantity of Ontario's tourist office at Windsor has disappeared with $4,000 believed college-aid to the province's tourist and other licences.

The newspaper says auditors of both the travel and publicity and the lands and forests departments are checking for the missing official's records. No warrant for his arrest has been issued.

The Toronto office is reported to have left the authorities before the official disappearance was held up his pay.

More than $3,000 of the missing money was said covered by withheld pay and pension credits and bonds.

'Courtesy Courses' for Operators Of Tourist Resorts, Cafes Planned

TORONTO (CP' — The Ontario government is considering setting up "courtesy courses" for operators of restaurants and tourist resorts to help them make a better impression on travellers, Travel Minister Cathcart said Friday.

He told the Ontario legislature the plan is one of several being considered to improve facilities in popular tourist centre.

Speaking during the debate on the estimated expenditures of his department of the forthcoming fiscal year, Mr. Cathcart said hundreds of dollars—especially American—are being spent here.

Some other New England secmade to give visitors the best possible impression when they stopped in Ontario.

"The 'front-man' for the whole province can often be the waitress in the restaurant, the clerk at the gas station or the accommodation host," he said. "Courtesy and politeness are always appreciated everywhere but a personal service is rendered.

"And the impression they make ment of mines.

Safety Rules Said Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — CCF leader MacDonald of Ontario charged Friday there is evidence of "collusion" between the government's mining inspectors and mine managers to hold the Ontario legislature during debate on mines department estimates that recent accidents in northern Ontario mines indicate inspectors are "winking at safety rules."

Premier Frost replied Mr. MacDonald may withdraw "if you care our statement." Mining inspectors have produced the best safety records for mines in the world."

He advised the CCF leader to be less hasty about making such charges in future.

HEAVY SNOWFALL BLANKETS DISTRICT

Yesterday's heavy snowfall dropped a 2.8-inch blanket on the city and district.

Temperatures also fell to the lowest for some time, lowest point during the night being 2.5 degrees above zero.

RED-WING BLACKBIRD SEEN IN MARSH

Spring has reached as far north as Mikel Ave.

On Thursday, Ken Jones, 11, of 194 Pine St., and Douglas Lane, 8, of Bridge St. E., saw a red-winged blackbird in the marsh near the CNR tracks north of Pine St. near Mikel Ave.

Wintry blizzards, which have confused too many humans, apparently have failed to stop the northward advance of birds for the boys report another red robbin in the past 10 days as well.

Rev. A. McDowell Accepts Call to Belleville Church

It is with pleasure Eastminster United church congregation announce that Rev. Alexander McDowell of Prince Edward Island has accepted a call to be their pastor.

Mr. McDowell is a young man, a family man, and comes highly recommended. For the past two years he has been pastor in Elmsdale, P.E.I. Already he is gaining the reputation as a worker for a United church paper, and is recognized as a powerful preacher.

He will arrive in Belleville some time in July and his duties will commence officially August first.

Guild Branch May Be Formed In This City

The National Ballet Guild of Canada will organize a Belleville branch next Monday evening it support warrants it.

Guild branches, organized in Toronto, Calgary, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Montreal and Quebec City are voluntary associations which assume responsibility for the Guild's appearance in the cities in which they are formed.

Miss Mildred Wickson, director of the National Ballet Co. and Miss Vida Peene, branch liaison officer, will address the open meeting in Queen Alexandra Public school Monday at 8 p.m.

Those interested in the National Ballet Company's success are invited to attend. Belleville is the smallest city in Canada in which an attempt has been made to form a branch of the ballet guild.

St. Patrick Fair Held in Queen Victoria School Glowingly Successful

Swirling snow and biting winds failed to deter the crowds from attending the St. Patrick Fair last evening held in Queen Victoria School, Pine Street, under the auspices of the combined Winston Churchill and Queen Victoria schools.

Gay St. Patrick decorations added the accented motif to the various rooms, while multi-coloured garlands of green and white, green arrows, made by the pupils of grade six (Mr. Carswell's room) decked the hall, while green ties, adorned with clay pipes, tall hats, and the "harp that once through Tara's Hall," were in the homemade cooking room, with its U-shaped tables flaunting their shamrock valances centred by a shamrock tree.

These tables were replete with an abundance of delectable pies, cakes, loaves, and tempting layer cakes centred by shamrock candles. Fluffy cakes; Chinese chews; nut-topped chocolate cakes, and lemon-white cakes deep with boiled icing; long loaf cakes with salmon pink icing; macaroons; date and nut loaves; meringues that melt in the mouth; jellies; fruit tamales, and candies of every type, shape and size. These were conveyed by Mrs. R. Bowen and Mrs. F. Scott, and Mrs. R. Woodcock, assisted by Messdames Chaplin, W. McBride, Meinicke, Williamson, Gulls, Randell and Keegan.

WHITE ELEPHANT

In another room the white elephant table or display counter was extended from one side to the other, and across the end and down the opposite side. These were conveyed by Mrs. Hayman and her assistants, and had for sale all sorts of jig-saw puzzles; dolls and peppers; African violets; gold chains and bead necklaces; beaded sandals; waxed centre pieces; rolling pin; handbags; many toys; articles of children's clothing; jewellery; dishes of all kinds; cups and saucers; framed pictures; cake tins, and many books and magazines.

The coffee room, with its quartet guest tables, criss-crossed with green, was a busy scene where those who wished to renew acquaintances and enjoy the steaming cup of tea or coffee, bubbled with happy conversation. Here Mrs. Powell, assisted by Mrs. Luck was kept busy renewing the oft-emptied cheering cups that do cheer indeed.

Down in the basement were the hot-dog stands; the soft drinks, ice cream, and the movie about where the little fry might enjoy themselves, and judging by the laughter and riot of treble voices which ushered forth, joy might be spelt with a capital "J." In charge of the fishpond were Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Bailey, of the ice cream, Mrs. Hilchon; of the hot dogs, Mr. and Mrs. Silver, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Winstanley and Mrs. Alpea; of the soft drinks, Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher. Mr. Stovill was kept busy with the movies, which were convened by Mr. and Mrs. Kerr.

Later, the adults and children enjoyed dancing, the former held in the main auditorium, under the leadership of the entertainment committee, with Mr. Harvey Holman of Thurlow, calling the dances, due to the inability of Mr. Taylor of Trenton, to be present.

SWEETEST PLACE

The candy room was the sweetest place imaginable, being an "L"-shaped long table extending from one end to the other, laden with sweets of all kinds and colors, from the humble suckers, the Solemn Old Judge, peanut creams, chocolate fudges, gum drops, peppermint bulls-eyes, and humbugs.

A delightful evening, bringing appreciative thanks to the committee for all this highly successful event, Mrs. Don Irish and Mrs. Joe Brown, and to all those many others who labored so faithfully against overbearing odds.

Police Blotter

A quiet night was reported by both city and provincial police, with no serious accidents being investigated by officers.

Provincial police reported three minor highway mishaps, none of which resulted in personal injury. One of the mishaps occurred when a car ran off the highway east of the city, while one two car accident was reported yesterday.

In the city a hit and run accident was reported at the corner of Sidney and West Moira.

Officers investigated two complaints involving theft.

Since a traffic accident earlier in the week which toppled traffic light standards at the corner of Bridge and Coleman streets no mishaps have been on their own at this busy corner.

The accident put two lights out of commission.

To prevent some motorist going through the intersection, and possibly collide with another car proceeding with the green light, police turned off all lights at the corner until repairs are made.

Cheesemakers Will Hold Meet

A one day spring conference for cheesemakers in the eastern part of Ontario is planned for March 27, at the Dairy Division of the Ontario Dovville Agricultural School.

The morning session will largely be devoted to a demonstration of a new method of salting cheese for retail sale. The afternoon session will include addresses by government and industry representatives and will include talks on dairy waste disposal, changes in cheese marketing and a discussion of factors involved in flavor development during the ripening of cheese.

The conference will conclude with a cheese scoring contest in which cheesemakers will have a chance to test their judging ability against the dairy produce graders.

Weather Cuts Size of Market

Colder weather cut business on the local market this morning.

Offerings were small to start with little variety several vendors failed to put in an appearance for business. Bulk of business was done on the inside market.

Current week's major change was again on sale in some quantity. Prices asked for the syrup continued the same as last week. These were: gallon, $5.50; quart, $1.50; pint, 75 cents. Maple sugar was 15 cents a cake.

Eggs also held steady to last week's prices, with extra large grades at 57 cents, large 52 cents, medium 50 cents and pullets were around 48 cents.

On the outside market parsnips brought 50 cents a six-quart basket. Spanish onions were 10 cents, sips ranged from 10 cents to 20 cents apiece.

Apples sold from 65 cents a basket for fancy grade Delicious, Spies and Snows to $1 a basket, fancy ranging up to $3 a bushel for fancy grades.

Carrying Place Man Convicted Of Receiving

TRENTON (Special) — Magistrate R. B. Baxter, presiding at Brighton police court yesterday, rapped receivers of stolen goods be commonly on the case of Howard Bedal, R. R. 2, Carrying Place, found guilty of receiving. The cadi expressed belief there would be no thefts if there were no receivers.

Bedal pleaded not guilty to receiving a special bulldozer servicing gun from Bill Lambert of Murray township and Frank "Sidney" Wood of Carrying Place, both convicted in Brighton court January 25th of stealing the expensive piece of equipment. Evidence submitted by the crown, however, pointed in Bedal's direction and he was convicted. He was remanded out of custody until March 21 for sentence.

Airman Shaken In Bumpy Ride On Rail Tracks

TRENTON. (Special) — An RCAF man visiting here for first time yesterday will brush up on his topography of Trenton before he goes driving again for a while. He thought King St. turned left at Division St. and before he got his car stopped had bumped south along the C.N.R. right-of-way for 100 yards. To add insult to injury he had hit a car in reverse and bounced backwards over the same rough route. The driver, somewhat embarrassed, admitted to police his mistake had shaken him to no end.

Tax Rate Boost Is Predicted

TRENTON (Special) — Informed sources look for an increase in the town mill rate although no official statement is forthcoming from the municipal offices. Councillors will not have budget figures from the Board of Education before bringing down their own. Some observers say the increase will be three mills over last year's 60 mill rate.

Mr., Mrs. W. Clenahan Married for 25 Years

TRENTON (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. William H. Clenahan of 50 Benlinck Steet, Trenton, entertained friends from Kingston and Trenton on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday. They were married at the Presbyterian Manse here by the Rev. C. J. Nichol. They were attended by Mrs. Fred Robinson of Saskatchewan (nee Nellie Royston) and the late Gerald Weddell. Mrs. Clenahan was the former Janey Mannion of Trenton.

4-H Clubs Plan Year's Programs, Elect Officers

During the past week 4-H club work started into swing for 1956 in Hastings County. On Tuesday, March 13th, in the Stirling Community Hall, Stirling, under the direction of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, a meeting was conducted.

In addressing the prospective club members, Douglas Harry, president of the Hastings County 4-H Club Leaders' Association, commented that the outlook was 4-H clubs in Hastings would have considerable increase in membership and a number of clubs. 4-H Club Work is an organization of rural young people between the ages of 12 and 20, inclusive. The 4 "H's" stand for the development of the Head, Heart, Hands and Health. The principal of the club work is to "Learn To Do By Doing" and each club member carries out a project on the home farm. Prize money is allotted for the projects, based on the club members' records during the club year. Each club has a program of meetings centered around the particular project the club member is interested in. These meetings include demonstrations, proper farming practices, livestock and grain judging, and safety in operating the farm machinery.

Club leader for the South Hastings 4-H Swine Club is Ray Mallory, Stirling, Ontario. The officers elected for the Swine Club are: President, Douglas Rollins, Frankford; vice-president, Douglas Detlor, Stirling, and secretary-treasurer, Douglas Bursaide, Madoc.

In the Swine Club project, each club member looks after and follows the proper production costs on one pair of Yorkshire weaning pigs and exhibits the gilts at the local Achievement Day.

Harold Chambers, Stirling, is club leader for the South Hastings 4-H Cattle Club. Officers elected for this club were: President, Douglas Burnside, Madoc; vice-president, Harry Danford, Springbrook; secretary-treasurer, Allan Hanks, Madoc. As a project, each club member in the Grain Club will keep and keep records on one acre of Registered Rodney oats. The club member will exhibit a sample of oats taken from the club plot at the Achievement Day.

In the Tractor Club, the club members elected to office were: President, Douglas Hanna, Madoc; vice-president, Douglas Kane, Stirling; secretary-treasurer, Kenneth Sager, Stirling. During the club year, members are instructed in the proper and safe maintenance of the farm tractor, and at the end of the year, they take part in a safe driving competition.

A very friendly year for South Hastings is the Sweet Corn Club. In this club, members plant one acre of sweet corn, keep such production records, and exhibit a sheaf of corn at the Achievement Day. Actual yields from the corn sold from the club plot to the canning factory will be used in making up the club members' score. Club leader for the Sweet Corn Club is Carl Thompson, Corbyville. Officers for the Sweet Corn Club are: President, Ross Bateman, Tweed; vice-president, Kenneth Sager, Stirling, and secretary-treasurer, Doug Detlor.

It is expected that a Potato Club project will be organized at a later date.

Other clubs organized in Hastings County are the BCIVS 4-H Tractor Maintenance Club, the BCIVS 4-H Grain Club, and the BCIVS 4-H Poultry Club. Other clubs are operating in the Belleville Collegiate Institute.

In the Quinte Secondary School, the Q.S.S. 4-H Tractor Club, and the Q.S.S. 4-H Grain Club are operating.

In the North Hastings High School, at Bancroft, there are two clubs, the North Hastings 4-H Poultry Club and the North Hastings 4-H Poultry Club.

Membership in all of the 4-H clubs organized in Hastings, will be taken until the first of April. Boys and girls interested in joining any of the clubs, should contact the District Department of Agriculture, Stirling, Ontario.

In April, there will be four 4-H Calf Clubs organized.

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEN'T. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Antoinette Marshall Allen, who passed away March 17th, 1952.

And a dear husband, Ira Allen, who passed away March 17th, 1955.

Two years have passed since they left us,
The little know when we woke that day
The sorrow the day would bring;
Had I but known I would have stayed
And watched beside you.
To part with the ones we loved so dearly
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
Why some things happen as they do
But in His wisdom God has planned,
Sadly missed by wife Ada.

LANGABEER — In memory of a dear husband, wonderful son and grandfather, Madoc, who passed away March 18th, 1954.

There's a dear and hallowed spot,
In a cemetery so green;
Where viewing lies my dear dad,
From human eyes unseen.
Where the wild flowers blow softly,
And the gentle breezes sigh;
And amid the changing scenes of life
He will never die.
Sheltered by the Rock of Ages,
Cradled in the arms of Love,
In the loving arms of Jesus
Is where he's dwelling above.
Sadly missed by daughter Thelma, son-in-law Bill and grandchildren Bob, Billy, Jimmy Donna, Doreen and Bruce.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the many friends and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy and floral tributes during the illness and sad bereavement occasioned by death of our loved mother, Mrs. Hannah Russell. Special thanks to Dr. Ross and Dr. VanWaleen and Rev. T. F. Townsend for their spiritual ministrations, Mr. Jack Rusk and staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

A Lift for Living

The Rule of Service

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When we speak of a king's ransom, we think of a handsome sum. To capture a king and hold him for ransom was an early and lucrative form of kidnapping. Subjects would pay a high price to recover their ruler. In fact, some kings have been pretty costly objects in the world's history. And if they were captured, their subjects were in honor bound to pay heavily for their ransom.

But Jesus of Nazareth allowed Himself to be called King. And yet He said of Himself, "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give his life a ransom for many." When, therefore, we speak of His ransom, we mean one paid by a king and not for a king.

The word ransom, in connection with Christ, has been variously interpreted. Some mediaeval theologians held it to mean that Christ's life was the price which God paid to release man from the clutches of the devil.

PERSONAL DEVIL

We do not explain evil today as the handiwork of a personal devil, for we do not think of God's sovereignty as divided or shared by a rival spirit. But we do recognize a devilish spirit abroad in the world. It seems almost a demonic spirit. It has governments in its grip. It seems veritably incarnate in certain personalities. Yet, we feel its clutches catching at ourselves. And we think of Christ as giving His life to ransom us from bondage to this devilish spirit.

And the first form of this captivity from which the Son of Man can ransom us is the devilish bondage of power itself.

Consider the occasion which called forth or Lord's remark that He came "not to be ministered unto, but to minister." He was on His way up to Jerusalem for His great sacrifice. The mother of two of His disciples came to Him saying: "Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one on Thy right hand, and the other on the left, in Thy kingdom."

DISCIPLES TOO

That remark revealed that even His own disciples still looked upon Christ's kingdom as a place where overlordship was to be exercised by the power they got. How sadly common are the cases where success has gone to the head and spoiled the spirit of service.

In the name of "the Son of Man who came not to be ministered unto but to minister," let us pray that the sons of men may be ransomed from the subtle bondage of power.

and favors were to be dispensed. If Jesus had thus used His power for personal aggrandizement, as did other kings, His disciples would have understood Him.

But He said to them: "Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister, . . . even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many."

Ah, that was a novel idea of kingship. The contemporaries of Jesus could not grasp it. If Christ had assumed a kingship with a crown and the usual perquisites of power, the people would have understood Him and followed Him in a revolt against Rome.

If Christ had asserted His power in the usual manner of the world, Judas would have understood Him, for I lean to the view that Judas Iscariot betrayed Jesus in order to force his Lord's hand and make Him show that divine power which Judas believed He possessed.

And if Jesus had allowed men to minister unto Him as does kings del, Pilate too would have understood Him. But because the "Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister," He was misunderstood, deserted, ridiculed, and betrayed. His idea of rulership was too revolutionary for His day.

REVOLUTIONARY

Yet think how Christ has revolutionized the regard for rulership. Gone are the hereditary kings who held power for the sake of the perquisites it gave their families. To be sure, the British Commonwealth keeps her queen, but it is because that noble monarch serves her people.

In democracies we elect our rulers. But no person could be elected president or senator or governor on the platform, "I want the position and the power it gives." We call our public officials "public servants." We honor and remember best by the service they render.

But while we have come to recognize Christ's principle that power is to be used for service, we must be ever watchful to preserve the practice of it. Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin were not the only ones who have been corrupted by power.

Bulletins From Birdland

NORTHERN NESTING

The upper Arctic is not nearly so desolate as might be thought. A goodly number of birds live beyond civilization; and quite a few, comprising those of absolutely different species, breed as far north as a bit of solid land can be found.

An Arctic tern's nest, covered by snow, yet containing a baby chick, was once discovered 9½ degrees from the North Pole. This small, graceful relative of the gulls its two greenish brown, speckled eggs in a hollow, lined with grass, shells, or pebbles when possible. Some of them migrate as far south as the Antarctic continent.

The golden plover, a shore bird closely related to our killdeer, breeds along the Arctic coast and on islands in the Arctic ocean. Its nest also is merely a depression, which may not or may not be lined with reindeer moss, and the greyish tan eggs blend with their surroundings. About two months are spent on the nesting grounds. As their winter resort is in Argentina, March is the month when they must start on the return journey north.

A tiny, sparrow - like bird, the snow bunting, appears to have the honor of being the species of land birds seen nearest the Pole, small flocks of them flying over a party on an ice floe about 86 degrees northern the summer of 1882.

They nest as far north as they can find anything on which to nest, using a crevice in a ledge, or a corner under a rock as a hiding place for a nest made of moss and earth, lined with sedges, feathers, and fur. The four or five eggs have a wreath of reddish-brown spots. In summer, continuous sunlight bathes their home, and they get abundant supplies of insects on which to feed.

Still another type of bird breeds in the Arctic tundra—the rough-legged hawk. Placing its large nest of sticks in some strategic position, such as a cliff ledge or the top of a boulder, it looks out over the country, and woe betide any lemming that dares to come near.

The same home is occupied over and over again, becoming bigger and bigger as more sticks are added. One curious fact about these hawks is that they may be light colored, or so very dark as to look like owls.

What with Arctic loons, whistling swans, eider ducks, and kittiwakes, with fulmars, guillemots, curlews, jaegers, and dowitchers, ptarmigans, fox sparrows, redpolls, and pipits, the high Arctic can hardly be described as birdless.

Good Doctors

(New York Reporter)

Tell us, good doctors, since you seem to know
How far a Presidential heart can go,
Tell us how fast the Southern pulse can beat,
How high the Middle Eastern fever heat
Can rise before the hemorrhage of war
Reddens the earth. Good doctors, probe the core
Of these disorders, tell us if you can
The likelihood of lengthening the span
Of peace: a year? two months? a day?
You cannot tell? And yet you could allay
A nation's fear by counting on a heart
To suffer crises without counterpart
For years to come Well, learned doctors, then
Extend your beside manner to all men
And guarantee survival in a time
When the great heart of people is past its prime.

MONACO THOUSAND YEARS OLD

The government of Monaco has invited Queen Elizabeth, Dwight D. Eisenhower and the presidents of France to the wedding of Prince Rainier and actress Grace Kelly. The government has also invited Britain, France and the United States to send warships to the celebrations.

Some Canadian editors have expressed surprise at the audacity of the tiny principality in inviting the heads of great powers to such a big international fete. There has also been an unkind insinuation that "Hollywood hocum" is being employed to dress up the coming nuptials.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

Monaco is small but its history is long—longer by several centuries than the history of the present ruling house of Great Britain and almost seven centuries longer than the history of settlement in the United States.

Monaco is an independent European principality. It was established in the 10th century under the rule of the house of Grimaldi before William the Conqueror won the Battle of Hastings in 1066. Emperor Otho I conferred Monaco on a prince of the house of Grimaldi and Prince Rainier, a lineal descendant of that 10th century prince, is holder of one of the oldest hereditary titles in Christendom. Indeed, until 1911 when Monaco adopted a constitution and rule by a National Council of 21 members, the Prince of Monaco was an absolute sovereign.

Until 1861 when the Prince of Monaco sold the greater portion of his principality to France for 4,000,000 francs, Monaco had an area of 53 square miles, an area consistent with the size of the medieval city states that sprang up and flourished in the centuries following its establishment.

Today, Monaco has been reduced to 370 acres with a population of some 22,000, of which fewer than 4,000 are native Monocans eligible to vote. The size of the kingdom has nothing to do with the royalty of its rulers or the national pride of its citizens.

Failure of Monaco to invite the heads of friendly governments to the wedding of its reigning prince would be a breach of good manners and international diplomacy unthinkable for a country with 10 centuries of hospitality as its trademark. One of the features of marriages of heads of state is a salute by the armed forces of friendly neighbors. Even the Russians sent warships to the marshalling of the fleet upon the occasion of Princess Elizabeth's wedding to the then obscure young Greek prince who became the Duke of Edinburgh. No one at that time suggested that it was "Hollywood hocum."

It is probably inevitable that since Princess Grace is better known as an international film star and the daughter of a millionaire that her wedding plans, supplemented by the demands of protocol should be likened to a Hollywood spectacular.

The invitations to her wedding, issued to Queen Elizabeth, President Eisenhower and to the president of France, conform meticulously with the ancient traditions of royal hospitality incumbent on sovereign states. And it might not be unwise if Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh attended the wedding as Queen and consort. Who knows what romance the future princess and princes of Monaco might not marry a member of the British royal family — the shortage of eligible princes and princesses being what it is?

KOREAN GIRLS NOW ON WHEELS

Any day now the springtime chorus will start:

"Dad, I want a bicycle."

Here in Canada, that demand is likely to be voiced by either son or daughter.

It's a different story in Korea now, and for that the Korean father has to thank the Communists.

Before the Korean war, the Kia Bicycle Company made only metal bicycles. Five of its modern plants were destroyed in the conflict. The United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency has aided the firm to restore production to the point where it is now turning out 3,000 complete bicycles a month, and spare parts for another 3,000 cycles.

The emancipation of women created a new demand for the company's products and it has put on the market the first woman's bicycle to be made in Korea.

In that land, though, the bicycle is not just a plaything for the well-to-do. The shortage of transportation has made the bicycle a valuable commodity. Before the Kia firm rebuilt its plants, the Reconstruction Agency imported bicycles which enabled Korean veterinarians to reach remote areas in a country-wide program to control animal diseases which threatened livestock just after the conclusion of the fighting.

There have been so many conflicting prophecies about the size of the world's population 25 years hence that about the only thing that can be safely believed is that there will be a lot of people about.

There seem to be two common approaches to the problem of snow removal—putting men to work with shovels and praying for rain.

ST. PATRICK

A gentle soul he must have had	This is a busy world, and they
To be remembered down the years	Who trade are mentioned now and then,
A man is born a little lad	But no one sets aside a day
And when grown old he disappears.	To honor long'dead business men.
World wide today his people tell	Well, here's St. Patrick's Day again,
St. Patrick's fame in speech and song.	And though from earth his soul has gone
And this all creeds have learned in full well,	His name is still recalled by men long:
'Tis not the flesh that lives so	And love for him goes on and on.
He must have cheered the weary old	The pride, the love which marks today,
And brightened life for them a	The speech of memory, the song,
Upon his knee while tales he told	St. Patrick's spirit must display.
He must have let the children	The flesh can never live so

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 17, 1936

Miss Lynch, who is in charge of the local central relief board informs us that she has received no calls for relief assistance for marooned persons in the flooded area as yet; the fire department has been able to arrange for what provisions and fuel were necessary. Most of the families residing in the badly flooded area were removed and are being looked after by friends or relatives.

Miss Margaret Logue has returned to Toronto after spending the last two months here with relatives.

The introduction of Electric Light Heat Control for tile copy at this time in 1836. "The electric light plant is ready for operation and the building was illuminated last night. At soon as the wiring up subscribers will be furnished with light."

The morning and evening services at Christ Church are cancelled owing to the basement being flooded and as a consequence the furnaces are out of commission. The announcement today requests the parishioners to attend the services on Sunday at St. Thomas' Church.

30 YEARS AGO

March 17, 1926

The Rev. R. S. McKechnie and Mrs. McKechnie have returned to the city from Mount Forest.

Mrs. Wm. Ross has returned home after a business trip to the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. George Dickey has returned home after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hill in Tastings.

Miss Ethel Benedict has returned home from Peterborough where she visited friends.

Mr. Robert Bogle in a letter to he press advocates changing the name of east end from Belleville to Quinte City. He says that we are surrounded by such places with names ending in "ville" and the impression given by the name Belleville is that it is a city or a village. He thinks that this is the reason why our city is overlooked by business men when looking for a suitable location for which to establish themselves in the manufacturing business.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

THE NEVER - FAILING FRIEND

It is not difficult to understand why it is that the dog is man's best friend; it is because of his faithfulness, loyalty, understanding and ever-ready sacrifice should his master require it. I recently read of an entire family being rescued from a fire. Their dog barked and did everything he knew to arouse others; finally, when he failed, like the Captain of a ship, he gave his life with those he was so glad to serve.

A reader has sent to me the following: "When I was in Clearwater, Fla., sometime ago, I noticed a tombstone at the entrance of a business building which read: 'Bogie, 1933-43, owner H. Wolfe. Born a dog, lived a gentleman, died a friend to all.'"

How many of us can so live that, when we come to die, it can be said of us that we have been "a friend to all"? Why should a dog understand so well, and be so ready to sacrifice? That is a mystery. You can't be too kind to a dog. By so doing you are repaid a thousand times over. The d o g doesn't have to learn to love. It's born with him. It's his capital.

Golden Rules of Long Ago

(An article (Revised) by Fred Williams in the Toronto Mail and Empire in 1933)

Do you know that a century ago there were people who sought to inculcate good business and moral principles in the young men of Upper Canada? Take as an example the following "Golden Rules" to render young tradesmen respectable, prosperous and wealthy, prescribed in the "York Almanack and Royal Calendar," published at York, Upper Canada, Nov. 1, 1822:

1—Choose a good, commanding situation even at a higher rent or premium, for a shop once well established out-as for situation, provided good use is made of it.

2—Take your shop door from off its hinges at 7 in the morning that no obstruction may be offered to your customers.

3—Open your out your windows at 8 and do this with your own hands that you may expose for sale the articles most in request saleable and which you most want to sell.

4—Sweep before your house, and, if required, open a footway from the opposite side of the street, that passengers may think of you while crossing and that the neighbors also may be sensible of your diligence.

5—Wear an apron if such be the custom of your predecessor, consider it a badge of distinction which will procure your respect and credit.

6—Always be found at home and in some way employed, and remember that you meditating neighbors have their eyes upon you and are continually gauging you by your appearance.

7—Re-examine and re-measure all your stock rather than let it be supposed you have not a full one.

8—Buy for ready money as often as you have an opportunity, for you have to take credit pay to a day and unasked.

9—No advantage will ever arise to you from any ostentatious display of expenditure.

10—In serving your customers, be civil and obliging and never lose your temper, for nothing is got by it.

11—Always be seen at church or chapel—as decency—not at a gambling club and seldom at a theatre or place of amusement.

12—Prefer a peaceful period of boyhood (that is, blackheads, oily skin, and pimples), and in a way it is good for them, because it re-d strains the tendency of youth to flaunt its charms.

The essential features of this cosmetic grievance are overabundant oiliness of the skin and the formation of blackheads (singular, comedo; plural, comedones) from drying and hardening of the oil (sebum) in the mouths of orifices of the oil gland ducts ("pores"). These are physiological phenomena.

The occurrence of pimples (inflammatory papular pustules) is the only feature of bop that is at all pathological, for it is comparable with the "festering" of a cut, puncture, burn, scratch or other trifling break of the skin that is to say infection (invasion) by the ubiquitous staphylococcus, the pus-producing germ that is nearly always present on the skin of civilized man. It is against this hazard that all first aid treatment of wounds and all aseptic techniques of Surgery and obstetrics is directed.

Now you kids with oily skin, blackheads and pimples will begin to understand, for "Mother" fashioned for so new a community as the York of that day; though it must be admitted, soapless then was done simply and he who put his trust in soap was regarded as the best business. The particular copy of the York Almanack, from which the above was extracted, was found in an old rectangular house at Lexside,

Which Speaks For South?

(Christian Science Monitor)

Which speaks for the South. This?

The duty facing us is clearly defined — a white race fighting for its very existence. It has always enjoyed. Mississippi's real leaders are out in the open and wasting no time or battlebreath — in Washington and here in our home state.

Or, It is by nature more adept at listen and not the twaddle being talked by wishy-washy people who have no idea what they're talking about.

Which is the way to do with it. This is a fight for race existence, for segregation. The Supreme Court decision being a "manifestation of the United States Constitution." So have their pupils kicked from under them. . . . Christianity has nothing whatsoever to do with it. This is a fight for race existence, for segregation. The Supreme Court decision being a "manifestation of the United States Constitution." So have their pupils kicked from under them. . . . Christianity has nothing whatsoever to do with it. This is a fight for race existence, for segregation. The Supreme Court decision being a "manifestation of the white race. — Jackson (Miss.) Daily News.

Or this?

We believe that once the Negro wins recognition of his equal dignity as a human being, which he is no longer treated with contempt and fear, the fundamental hostility of there being more mixing of the races. We believe that the following for the Negro and his white equality will prefer association with his own kind. . . . We do not have to fear the future if the love of God and man fills our hearts. — Memphis Press-Scimitar.

And this?

Ohio Observer holds certain convictions. . . . : A change in the written law cannot erase a traditional attitude. . . . The abolishment of the "white only" signs will not result in a sudden mingling of racial varieties. . . . In a mood of blind defiance the South has abandoned its public schools inviting educational decay and economic disaster. . . . On the people of the South can elect to live with the new social order, accepting it in many of them, in the certain conviction that time will bring evolution. . . . —Charlotte (N.C.) Observer.

Which speaks for the South? The Christian Science Monitor, speaking with the authentic voice — the voice the South's good people prefer to hear, ring out just as clearly and more often. This is the voice the North should come to recognize.

Another Male Field Invaded

(Sherbrooke Record)

Male members of society who have long viewed with alarm the increasing number of feminine infringements on their masculine prerogatives — such as wearing slacks, smoking, and so on — can add another wrinkle to their brows.

It seems the gentle art of wife-beating is slowly being superseded by a new form of husband-beating.

The latest case was that of a Montreal woman who was found guilty in Criminal Court of beating her husband and "keeping him in

Men's Caps Coming Back

(The Watertown N. Y. Daily Times)

Don't appear like a hick and stare, but the next time you're walking along the street, notice the headgear worn by men and which are becoming a part of the "casual" costume. Yes, "decidedly of the roaring '20s," caps are coming back.

What a strange interlude between 1920 and 1933, the visor cap was in its stature. Wherever, up to that time many men had shown a fondness for this type of headgear, it was generally thought as being associated with the hoodlum, gangster and pug-nuser. Decidedly "men of distinction" noticed the link and discarded the cap.

What happened? It can be explained best by noting that practically all of the woolen plaids were made during those years and in the subdued years of the depression, the zaragator or "tough guy" as always wearing a cap. No wonder gentlemen turned their backs it and swung their allegiance to the felt hat and associated sacred adornments for the head.

But now, suddenly, men by the thousands have turned to the purposeful men can be seen on the streets of New York and other large cities, hushing by, briefcases under arm, and caps on the head. The cap is now worn by males are the best customers for the cap. The cap is a new and pleasant experience — for the fathers who have worn them since boyhood from his own youth.

A fashion expert once said: "Fashions don't necessarily change people, but people can change fashions."

Family Trees In Shape Now

(Sunday Times, London, Eng.)

It has long been a reproach that genealogical tables in "Burke's Peerage and Baronetage" contained "errors, both great and small."

Since publication was resumed after the war, the present editor, L. G. Pine, has been much time to getting back to fact, and in the new 105th edition claims that the process is practically complete, and that of the 7,000-odd pedigrees recorded in the "Peerage" and its companion volume, the "Landed Gentry," there are now only about seven on which serious disputes now exist among subscribers.

This is good work, for Burke is unique in this field by giving the full facts about not only the first holder of a title but from his collateral line downwards.

I hope that a copy will be sent to the Japanese manufacturer of "Genuine Scotch" who sold the label his bottles, "As drunk in the house of lords since 1066."

Acne Is Too Morbid—Let's Call It Bop

The term acne is objectionable because, although it has no particular significance, it has acquired too much significance in the imagination of the uninformed.

In the first place, most adolescents go through a period of bop (that is, blackheads, oily skin, and pimples), and in a way it is good for them, because it re-d strains the tendency of youth to flaunt its charms.

The occurrence of pimples (inflammatory papular pustules) is the only feature of bop that is at all pathological, for it is comparable with the "festering" of a cut, puncture, burn, scratch or other trifling break of the skin that is to say infection (invasion) by the ubiquitous staphylococcus, the pus-producing germ that is nearly always present on the skin of civilized man. Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MANY CALLED, FEW CHOSEN

A young minister, asked some time ago to write out a statement of his Christian faith, said, among other things: "Christianity is not primarily a way of life — designed to extricate a few people from a world doomed to destruction. Rather, Christianity is a religion designed to transform and eventually redeem the w h o l e world."

Pretty, isn't it? The trouble about it is that it is only pretty and nothing more. Viewed from the secular standpoint, the young minister's statement sounds very noble. The Bible, however, gives it very little support. To be sure, Christianity acts like leaven in the world, improving its life with the passing of time. But the Bible nowhere teaches that the world is going to go on getting better and better until at last the kingdom of heaven is ushered in. The kingdom will be ushered in, but this will take place after God has destroyed the kingdoms of the earth which in turn have rendered themselves ready for such destruction by a continuous process of deterioration. Out of this deteriorating process will emerge those who are willing to be extricated.

Whether we like it or not, life is a process around in which God is trying out and selecting those who are fit for eternal life. Individuals are in the process of being saved, not society. The latter is a pretty notion, but not a Biblical truth.

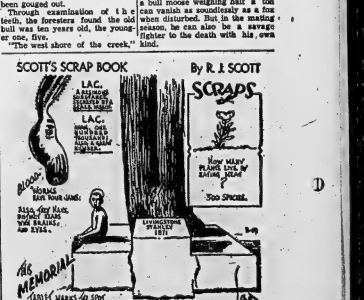
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A story of great interest to sportsmen and naturalists h a s come out of the north, carried in Sylva, the little magazine published six times a year by members of the lands and forests department of Ontario. A report from the district office that three bull moose were seen in the Rice River, a small area in the Rice River, and forever were seen to investigate. Two of the bulls were dead in the river. The third was found dead on shore, a short distance from the other two.

The scientists found the largest bull standing upright in the mud, but dead from drowning, his head under water. Further on, he had slung by floating; where he had fallen, he was a complete bull. When the carcasses were winched ashore, it was found the younger bull had a dislocated shoulder, and back of his foreleg was a deep ragged gash ten inches long. Both bulls had numerous cuts and bruises, and one eye of the younger bull had been gouged out.

Through examination of the tracks, the scientists found that the bull was ten years old, the younger one, five.



"The west shore of the creek," writes N.H. Trotter, who investigated, "where the fight had apparently started, is trampled down for an area of about one acre. Several spruce had been cut down in the course of the struggle before it ended up in the river. The bull had apparently driven in his badly wounded adversary into the river, where he himself, trapped in the mud and exhausted, had been unable to extricate himself. The bull moose's antlers had finally dropped forgard into the water.

Then by way up the stream, on shore, the third bull, a young one of three years, was found dead. He had fallen in another furiously torn area of ground and had struggled with the other arena. This bull was gored and battered by the old monarch as were the other two.

As those who hunt moose know, a bull moose weighing half a ton can vanish as soundlessly as a fox when danger threats. But the mating season, he can also be a savage fighter to the death with his own kind.

JESUS CURES THE BLIND MAN

XXIX

Autumn spread a golden carpet over the land. Harvest time had come, and the glorious Feast of the Tabernacles, a holy day for all in Israel.

Jesus had come to Jerusalem for the feast. The air was filled with music and festival torches made the night like day.

But for Jesus this was a time of danger. All Jerusalem talked of Him in the streets people wondered:

"Is He the Christ?" they asked. "Or a prophet? A charlatan? A good man, or evil? Who is this Jesus?"

And in the temple council chambers, the high priests and the Pharisees who hated Jesus, and feared His power, plotted against Him.

"The people love Him too much — they will see! We tell them not to listen to Him, and they pay us no attention!"

"We must get rid of Him!" said the Pharisees. "Kill Him!"

Caiphas, the high priest with the perfumed beard, shook his head. "You cannot kill Him. The people do love Him, and they would turn against us. No—we must trap Him, make a fool of Him, prove He is no Messiah!"

"It's those miracle that make them love Him," said one Pharisee. "Or what they call miracles. They must be fakes. No man can cure the crippled. Or make a dead person live again! But Jesus pretends to do this. If we could catch Him at a so-called miracle, show people how He tricks them . . ."

"Ah!" said Caiphas. "We will wait for the next miracle!"

TAUGHT REGULARLY

During the feast Jesus went regularly into the Temple to teach, right under the angry noses of the Pharisees and chief priests. And what He taught only made the people talk about Him more. Some believed Him when He said He was the Son of God. Others, who did not believe, muttered against Him. But they could not hurt Him.

Everywhere men wondered:

"Is He the Son of God? Or are the chief priests and Pharisees right when they say He is dangerous, and offends God?"

A few days later, on the Sabbath, Jesus answered that question again, with a new miracle.

With His disciples, Jesus came from the Temple to the street. There sat a beggar, a man born blind, who never saw the light of the sun. For years he had sat by the Temple, with a cup in which passers-by dropped coins. Everyone knew him.

This day the disciples seeing him, wondered, as so many still wonder, why the good God would let anyone be born blind.

FOR GOD'S PURPOSE

They asked: "Master—is it because he sinned, or his parents, that he was born blind?"

"Neither has this man sinned, nor his parents. He is blind, in order that the works of God may be shown through Him."

What could that mean?

Jesus looked at the beggar who had never seen the sun, and said: "I am the light of the world."

Bending down, Jesus spat on the dust, and then kneaded the dampened dust into a clay, and spread it on the blind man's eyes, and whispered: "Go—wash in the pool of Siloam."

Without a question, the blind man rose and felt his way up toward the pool. But Jesus led His disciples away.

What a hullabaloo by the Temple courts! When the blind man washed the clay from his eyes, he screamed:

"I can see!"

He whirled from side to side, looking and seeing—seeing blue sky, sun, the Temple walls, the smile of children, the whole wonderful world.

People jabbered: "Isn't this the beggar that was born blind?"

"It looks like the same man!"

"I am he!" the beggar cried the beggar shouted.

"Who made you see?"

"That Man called Jesus!"

WEIRD STORY

The Pharisee and the chief priests sent to see what weird story the beggar was telling.

He stood before them and told them exactly what Jesus had done.

"Now," he said, "I can see!"

"This is terrible!" said the Pharisees. "This is the Sabbath, and our laws say no man may work on this day. Jesus cured you today? Then He broke the law!"

The beggar shrugged. How could it be so terrible?

"What have you to say about this Man?"

"He has done no wrong," said the beggar. "I think He is a prophet."

"A prophet! Ha!" snorted the Pharisees. And they whispered together:

"You see how dangerous it is to let Jesus make these so-called miracles!"

And one said: "Perhaps it is no miracle. Perhaps the man was never really blind. Let us be sure."

They sent Temple guards to fetch the beggar's mother and father, and when the old couple came, the Pharisees sneered:

"Is this the son you said was born blind? If he was really blind, how can he see now?"

The old couple blinked, and smiled.

WONDERFUL CURE

"Certainly, he is our son. And he was born blind. Never to this day could he see. Who cured him, we don't know. We didn't even know he was cured! Isn't it wonderful?"

And the father said: "Ask him. He is old enough to speak for himself!"

Then the Pharisees wondered what more they could do. With sly and oily voices they said to the beggar:

"Maybe you were a little bit blind. And you can see now. But thank God—not this Jesus. He could never have cured you. We know, and we are telling you, this Jesus is a sinner!"

The beggar smiled with bright new eyes. "If He be a sinner, I don't know. But this I know — I was blind, and now I can see!"

The Pharisees' faces blackened with anger.

"Stubborn fool!" they screamed. "Throw that man out!"

Now, when Jesus heard that, He took His disciples and went into the streets. Down every alley He marched, every back lane searching for him. Some of the Pharisees came too, to see what Jesus would do.

Jesus found the beggar sitting before his family's house, but he was swollen and bruised, but he was smiling. For the first time he was watching ants scurrying in their hills—a wonderful thing after a life of blindness.

Jesus laid His hand on the man's shoulder. "Do you believe in the Son of God?"

BEGGAR BELIEVED

The beggar stood, drawn by the Master's gaze. He whispered: "Who is He, Lord, that I may believe?"

Jesus said: "It is He who talked with you—now!"

The beggar knew that voice, knew this was Jesus, light of the world, who had made him see. He sank to his knees.

"Lord, I believe!"

Jesus faced the cruel-eyed Pharisees:

"For judgment I am come, that they who do not see may see—and they who see, may become blind!"

The Pharisees smirked. 'Are we also blind?"

Jesus said: "If you were truly blind, you would not be guilty of sin. But now you say: We see. And so—you are guilty."

The Pharisees did not understand. They did not know Jesus meant there were two kinds of blindness—one in the eyes, the other in the soul. With perfect eyesight, a man may not see the truth.

These Pharisees saw in Jesus only a Man from Nazareth. They did not see He was God. They were blind of soul, and they turned from Him, sneering, and muttering against Him.

But the beggar who had been blind of eye, looked on Jesus with his eyes and his soul, and saw the truth.

"Lord, I believe!"

THE MAN WHO WROTE 'QUO VADIS'

ARTICLE 13

In Italy, not far from Rome, stands an ancient little church. Legend has it that on the very same spot where it is erected, the Lord spoke to His Apostle Peter the words that still have a message to mankind: Quo Vadis? Whither goest thou? When Peter heard these words he fell to his knees, turned back and hurried to Rome where the suffering Christians needed his comfort.

Nineteen centuries later these same words inspired a man to write a most dramatic historical novel, Quo Vadis.' While he stood in the ruins of Rome's Colosseum, a vision came to him. He saw the thousand of Christians martyred, burned to death or torn apart by hungry lions under Nero, the most cruel and heartless emperor history has known. He had burned mighty Rome to the ground for the sake of a spectacle and to gain the immortal fame of rebuilding a new and more splendid city. When the angry Romans turned against him, he accused the Christians of setting the fire. And with a mind that only Satan himself possessed, he thought of ways to punish them.

To give a realistic account of ancient imperial Rome, the author or spent many years searching in museums and libraries for authentic material. It is 60 years since "Quo Vadis" has been written. Being a best-seller throughout the world during the first decade, it now has become a classic. And as his vision in Rome overwhelmed the author, so did his book inspire millions of readers. Film companies in many countries have since portrayed his immortal novel in most spectacular and impressive pictures.

In 1905 the author received the Nobel prize for his outstanding achievements in literature. From a Polish national-poet he rose to international recognition.

For many years he lived in the city of Cracow in Poland. But when he was working on his books he liked to be at his country estate. Not far from his house was an old oak tree. In its shade he used to sit down, listen to the rustling leaves and write his manuscripts.

Once in a while a passionate desire came over him to travel. Then his blood became restless and he was like a gypsy, ever on the go from one place to another. He went to England, France, Italy and Spain. When Europe lost its charm for him, he turned to the Orient or sailed across the ocean to sunny California.

Africa fascinated him most. The mysteries of her jungles, the beauty of her exotic flowers and strange animals made him write a charming story for children. He called it "In Desert and Wilderness" and in it he tells about a miraculous wonderland.

He died in Switzerland and was buried there. But some years later his countrymen brought him home and laid him to rest in the city of Cracow at one of the greatest Polish authors, Henry Sienkiewicz.

Ontario Hydro Growth Outlined At So-Ed Club

The So-Ed Club of the Belleville YMCA held its weekly meeting on Wednesday night at the YMCA.

Registration was still open and a number of new members were welcomed. As the weather was bad on Wednesday registration is being held open next Wednesday to enable those unable to attend this week's meeting to register next week.

The interest activities were a great success. Harry Morrison's Ballroom Dancing class is proving popular. Nor had and evening of "Basic Appreciation" conducted by Joachim Reimann, Photography is directed by Jim Ketcheson of the Belleville Camera club and Motor Mechanics sponsored by Trudeau Motors Ltd.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. H. K. Hillier of the Services Dept., Information Division, Ontario. Mr. Hillier has been with Ontario Hydro for 25 years serving in the Building Administration Division, Sales Promotion Department and is now with the Information Division. Mr. Hillier spoke on the history and growth of the Ontario Hydro and illustrated with highly informative slides of the St. Lawrence Seaway construction. The problem of displaced seaway residents was explained and slides of the moving of houses and barns from the old to the new Iroquois.

The speaker was introduced by lecture chairman, Miss Doris Lloyd, and thanked by Ronan Cheetham, John Lloyd and Jim Coombe, added his personal thanks and presented the speaker with a memento of his visit to Belleville So-Ed.

After refreshments, the group joined in the social phase of the evening. Art Sawbridge Shuffled under the direction of social chairman Don Coombe going

A group contest was held in which each group had to make a "thing" out of paper. Crepe paper, hairpins, toothpicks, pipe cleaners and other odds and ends. Prizes were awarded to the members of the winning team and the entries on display.

The remainder of the evening was spent in various types of dancing to the enjoyment of all.

Dien Bien Phu Heroine Wants No Publicity

MONTREAL (CP)—A blue-eyed French nurse, who became an international heroine years ago and for her mercy exploits among wounded soldiers during the siege of Communist guns in Indo-China, said firmly: "I don't want to be treated like any other nurse."

"I don't know why I'm treated like a celebrity various types of," said 41 - year - old Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, the "Angel of Dien Bien Phu."

Miss de Galard-Terraube spoke at a press conference at the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal, where she is studying the latest methods of rehabilitation of the handicapped.

The French air force nurse two years ago received the French Military Medal for her work in the battered jungle fortress of Dien Bien Phu before it folded under the wounded French Union soldiers for 74 days.

"I just happened to be there," she said Friday. "But all this publicity... I'm still not accustomed to it after two years."

Letters from Mexico

By Arnold Meyers

San Marcos, Guatemala,
Feb. 13, 1956.

"Have arrived in San Marcos enroute to Quezaltenango after a most exciting ride over a very high pass. Unfortunately, it was through a pea soup fog, or next to it. I left Tapachula at 8.00 a.m. by private car which took me as far as Mahuetan for the pesos ($4.00). The private car although a little expensive compared to the bus, was infinitely more comfortable and besides, the driver helped me into the custom house with my luggage, which was worth something.

We arrived at Mahuetan about 10.30. The bus for San Marcos did not leave there until 12.15 p.m., so the interim I wisely went to the market and bought some bananas. The size of the bananas here is really something to write home about. I think I must have eat all enormous things and it does not take many to fill one up. For those unfamiliar with the American) I purchased six or seven great big bananas. Bananas here are actually cheaper than in Mexico, because in Mexico you would pay at least one peso (20 cents) for the same quantity. Of course, Guatemala is a great big country—they should be cheap.

CURRENCY

Here in Guatemala the "quetzel" is the unit of currency and it is exactly equal to the American dollar. Strangely enough, considering the price of all imported commodities, the quetzel is divided into 100 centavos. Apparently their monetary system they have the ten centavo piece which is simply ten cents and the forty centavo means 50 cents; the twenty-five centavo piece is a quarter and one centavo, of which they coin a lot, is one cent.

The bills they have a one-half quetzal bill which equals a half dollar and a one quetzal bill such as one would find in the United States.

We arrived in Quezaltenango this morning, Tuesday, February 14, after spending a restful night in San Marcos in the Hotel Lopez. High up in the mountains around 8.00 a.m. the air gets very cold—the kind of cold that penetrates to the bones. I was under the impression that the bus went through to Quezaltenango, but it did not.

As the bus pulled in to San Marcos at 8.00 a.m. the bus driver said, "you will have to spend the night here. The bus will leave for Quezaltenango at 8.00 in the morning." That was that. I had a boy carry my bag to the hotel and as I had paid him a dime, and looked the place over. They had a room with two beds in the middle. It was a big barn of a place built of wood. Fortunately, I went by myself. I began to wonder just how I was going to spend the night. I had no pajamas and—and not yet six o'clock. The first thing I did was to put on my bathing suit and felt hat and my heavy sweater. I do not know what I would have done without them. No wonder I hear so much from people who have been in the tropics and not being so cold. I do not know how some of them stand it.

OBSCURING MISTS

When we were coming up over the mountain pass between Malacatan and San Marcos, which has an altitude of over 13,000 feet. So high were we that the clouds were below us—the clouds that the mist all but obscured the road most of the time. I was glad I had, because I wanted to take pictures. I must say that we were careful when the occasion demanded, even though he is a native son of the place, because in the small places through which we passed the people have a cheery character, blood-shot eyes, bold as a lion and full of fun. As a rule, I would not have wanted the job of guiding the truck through those precipices with the fog swirling up all around the place. Many were the women and girls crossed themselves when we finally emerged into sunshine once more.

The pass is not simply a long, level stretch at a high altitude, winding here and there and going up and down and around in the most meticulous manner imaginable—the acme of the hairpin turns are so incredibly sharp that you would have to see it to believe it. After zig-zagging through the country for a while you get used to it and usually descending for an interminable distance, you find that all of a sudden you are on a steep stream; then you proceed to zig-zag all the way down to the other side. That gives you an idea of the road.

Around the 10,000 foot level we saw a family of Indians standing beside the road. They are the tallest Indians I had seen. Their clothes were brown, and their feet were without shoes. You could see their breath. How do they stand it? It was a second experience, though. But-to return to last night.

RETIRES—CLOTHED

La sena, (supper to us), was at 8.30. I was given far more than I could eat. It seems that you are expected to take off what you want of each dish. When I returned to my room it was too uncomfortable to do anything else but go to bed. This, in itself, was an operation worth watching. Fortunately, there were two beds in the same room; so I robbed the one of its coverlets, put on my overcoat, my mosquito net; my raincoat; several dirty shirts and the garments that were handy till I had an appreciable thickness. Then I removed only my hat, boot and pants and climbed into bed determined to get warm—and did.

Well, after about an hour I succeeded in really doing so. Needless, yes, I forgot to say that I placed the towel over my head because I was afraid of my head getting cold. I felt quite smug.

Then I began gradually to undress which process went on till the next morning. First, I put on all the clothes on top of me to keep in as much heat as possible. Then, very carefully, modestly I know, the cook came to my door with a big tray containing my breakfast, the most important item of which was a large thermos bottle of coffee. I had left that door unlocked, so I had him just put the tray and deposit the food on the table. I do not know what he thought, and it did not matter. I got up there at 8.50 a.m. He also brought a large warm glass of milk for me to drink and set.

Five o'clock came all too soon, although it was awake a bit before, that, but not in time to stop the cock crowing. It is a record appeal. It had been set 20 minutes too early.

EVERYTHING

This brings me up to six o'clock this morning when we started. Everything was still silent streets of San Marcos, the stars shining brightly. It was a bit warmer than the first, it had glass windows which could be closed. I had washed out my clothes, I were them, all of them: the sweater, the shirt, the trousers, overcoat and scarf. Some people had on gloves. I preferred to keep my hands warm. So, if I had not forgot and left them in the suitcase. Anyway, I left San Marcos at Quezaltenango was something out of this world. We left Malacatan and we reached the summit of a steep grade far away from the mountains which appeared to be a vast lake with various irregular islands which stuck out it. Could this be Atitlan? No, no Atitlan was much farther southeast. It could not possibly be visible from here. Then I realized that it was clouds—clouds below us.

The road now wound sinuously down, down, down like a corkscrew, twisting its way through big, tall forests of pine, spruce and juniper; the strong dew-like mist of the morning all filtering through here and there. Around these bends, over these cuts and bridges, their edges parapeted with stones, blocks of stone, exactly like castles of old, until we finally emerged upon a more or less level stretch of road, that is Quezaltenango. The mist we had been in was now above us and we and lifting rapidly in the warming sun.

QUEZALTENANGO APPROACH

The approach to Quezaltenango is a grandiose avenue, comprised of a double boulevard with a park in the centre somewhat similar to the Champs Elysees in Paris, Ontario. This wide thoroughfare leads into the centre of the city, the Plaza Miguel Garcia Granados, so called in honor of the man who founded Guatemala Independence and to his heroes. There is a fine fountain, beautifully kept, and the people love to gather and look into the crystal clear water.

The moment I alighted from the bus a cargador was at my hand ready to take my suitcase. I went to the nearest hotel, hoping that there was room. The hotel in which I figured was not top out of the world, but by the time I would cost me at least $10 per day, counting travelling, I thought I allowed for $12. Thus far, it has not cost me anywhere near that much. The main cost of hotel service is made up of the meals' cost. Possibly because this area is in the United States it would cost at least $1 which would be about right for all three per day for meals alone. From Day's statement, I figured on a minimum of $2 per day for meals. Day's statement, I figured on a minimum of $2 per day for meals. At an average cost for meals it would amount to slightly more than $240. Mr. Day thought that I ought to be able to stay three weeks on $200 as travelling in Guatemala costs very little. Subtract from that $40 for the trip to Ixic City. I know nothing of train travel here, but air travel is quite expensive.

"PENSION BONIFAX"

The name of the hotel here in Quezaltenango is the "Pension Bonifax"; I have one of the "pensions" which I like—not the best, portion, cost $6. My room is not heated, but I find it liveable up until about nine o'clock at night, which time I go to bed. It is somewhat on the cold side, but not nearly as cold as San Marcos was.

We are still at an altitude here of 7,500 feet. The city is built on finely furnished with plenty of table and closet space. There is also adequate, which is nice for a change after the "lighting-bug" in Tapachula. Right in the city I chula. I liked the latter hotel, though, for every room there was always comfortably warm. (Tapachula is hot but not too hot; the meals were served in the patio, it was large and, although it had no hot water, the showers were not located across the hall, and by putting on my bathing suit I could cross over to the bath and or shower whenever I felt like it. And Tapachula is the place where you want to take a shower and often! It is not comfortable to go out walking there after 10.00 p.m. I seem to have strayed from the main subject, but I have created appropriate to draw a comparison between these two hotels.)

Quezaltenango is one of the most picturesque city seen in many a day. The old Spanish tiling parts are the environs where the people live, which is up and down hill. The most striking drawings so far of typical street scenes which I have witnessed in the houses ramble up the hillsides forming the most amazing series of angles imaginable.

The entire city is surrounded by mountains which form the background and cut the city through on the east, north and northwest quarters. Apparently in many of the streets wind up and over. You can see women with loads on their heads, puffing and panting up them.

On the south side, you look down into another shallow valley in which lies the remainder of the city. It would be a shame to be had both looking up the narrow, winding streets as well as the top of the hill looking down on the rest of the city. All directions in the east and southern sections are wide.

MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY

I was not long in discovering that Quezaltenango had a museum of Natural History, which is a most interesting place.

The section devoted to animals is quite limited in scope, but what there is, is well done. The bird section is most extensive and presented with fine specimens of pelicans. Today the curator took me around and he showed me a comparatively recent collection of

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

An assortment of highway and other hints gleaned from one of our recent family motor jaunts, which may come in handy for you wherever you're going:

The highway's motel picture across the country has changed substantially in the past few years. We used to spend many cohunes inches urging travelers to stay-in and stop early. But no longer-appeal necessary, as far as accommodations are concerned.

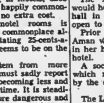
There are more than enough good courts everywhere t h e s e days. Travelling, at least at night, and on one of the most heavily travelled vacation routes in the country, but never had any trouble finding first class accommodations.

The large, professionally or semi-professionally operated motel has come into its own in the past few years. It used to be that all the courts were mama and papa affairs, half a dozen units or so, and take what you can get for a room while the getting is good.

This was the sort of thing that a few years ago led to our frequent cautionings about how and when to pick a good motel and how much is a fair night's rental.

Today the big motel is the accommodation. The bigger they are, the finer and better run they usually are.

The only frequent exception to their quality is the gigantisation of most of the big places now operate.



Too often they are not as good as but more expensive than they ought to be, partly due to the tradition of getting the most out of the tourist who won't or doesn't know enough to complain from the motel in search of better things. Rates in big places are usually as high as, and average $6 or $7 for two, $8 or $9 for three, and $10 for four.

PARADOXICAL RATES

The hotel and motel business is the only one we know of in which competition sends rates up instead of down. In hotels, rates are usually means a heavy demand for rooms exists so everyone can put their rates higher.

In the motel business, the need to have been in operation a few years drives many small operators to up their rates to compete.

Since the only way you can make money in any motel, but especially a small one, is to operate a certain annual income per room, many small operators force customers to the more glamorous big places, have raised their rates to the point where they simply assume the big competitors are even more expensive and would

There is also in their collection a white jaguar, a very pure white wading bird with long curved bill. At one time, this bird was regarded as sacred by the Egyptians. There is also a large collection of Guatemalan birds—the gannel, called "Garza Rosada."

In another section, but not in a photographic position, was the most interesting bird of the whole collection,—the Royal Turkey (pavo real). It is a bird that measures fully four feet. On the long, delicate tail feathers are beautiful markings of a deep green which glint in the light like so many jewels. In like manner, making a mass of blue green iridescence. It is the most beautiful bird of the peacock.

Guatemala's quetzal was given the position at the head of the room. It has a comparatively long tail. Both body and tail flash with this green iridescence which is tropical birds.

ODDITIES

Among the several oddities in the museum was a venemously looking reptile of nondescript darkish color, about three feet or more long, by about six inches in middle thickness. Near by it lay a Gila Monster, one of those monstrous iguanas with the spiny back and tail. This one had about five feet in length. Besides these there were two crocodiles about four feet long. I had heard about of by our own country, but I had not seen any in Guatemala to see, as I was beheaded call. They are quite a fearsome looking beast, and stands in the glass case—the more than complete. I daresay that there is quite a story connected with it. It came from a certain river near Quezaltenango, and created quite a sensation when born especially among the Guatemalans. Before you imagine it, they probably all involved from Mexico.

I find myself wondering if both heads fed at the same time, or did they take turns.

Next to the calf came a "Howling" monkey from the Peten district, a jaguar and a Guatemalan deer.

In the next room was a remarkable display of leaves, fruit and vegetables of every kind in Guatemala. This is most absorbing for here are samples of several of the fruits I have at Christmas time: filberts; pieces of chicky almonds, and black pepper berries.

Ladies Aux. P.M. Visited By Dept. President

The Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarch Militant No. 5, recently held, a special meeting in the Cold Fellows hall, Front Street, with the president, Mrs. Marjory Large, presiding.

The president of the Department Association of Ontario, Mrs. Irene Aman, made her official visit. She was introduced by Major Gordon Miller and welcomed by Mrs. Large and members.

Other officers present from the department were, Mrs. Helen Bateman, chaplain; Mrs. Florence Pollitt, historian; Mrs. Verna Summers, color bearer.

An interesting and instructive address was given by Mrs. Aman which was much enjoyed.

A lovely gift was presented to her by Mrs. Alice Storms, past president, and Mrs. Verna Summers, past president, on behalf of the members and conveyed to the president and her officers every success in their work.

The Auxiliary decided they would hold an afternoon tea in the hall in April, which, would be open to the public.

Prior to the meeting, Mrs. Aman was guest at a dinner held in her honor at the New Queen's Hotel.

A social time was spent after the business. Lunch was served by the committee in charge.

The LAPM and Cantons also recently held a most successful card party in the Cold Fellows hall.

Winners were, ladies, Mrs. Nellie Alyea, Mrs. Grace Belnap; consolation, Mrs. Ellen Nober; men, Mrs. A. Thorn, Douglas Simpson; consolation, Alex Nevers and hand,"Gordon Woods.

Refreshments were served by the ladies in charge.

Mme. I. Curie, Prize-Winning Physicist, Dies

PARIS (AP)—Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, French scientist and humanitist and daughter of the discoverers of radium, died today. She was 59.

She died in a Paris hospital. The announcement did not disclose the cause of death of the daughter of Pierre and Marie Curie, who gained world renown with their discovery of radium.

Mme. Joliot-Curie, and Frederic Joliot, were awarded the Nobel prize in chemistry in 1935 for their discovery of artificial radioactivity.

WERE CRITICIZED

Mme. Joliot-Curie and Mme. Joliot-Curie and her husband were widely criticized for alleged pro-communist activities.

In 1950 the American Chemical Society rejected Mme. Joliot-Curie's petition for membership on the belief that she was a Communist.

When she was detained briefly by immigration authorities in 1951 on her way to the United States for a lecture tour, she said she was not a member of communism "in many things," but she denied that she was a Communist.

Women's Activities

REDNERSVILLE W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Redneresville W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Ivor Roblin on March 14, with 15 members and one visitor present, the president, Mrs. John Hall, presided.

Mrs. Leon Ward presided at the piano. The Scripture lesson taken from Psalm 51 and an interesting report on "What Is Prayer" were read by Mrs. Leon Ward.

The treasurer's and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Mrs. George Hubbard sent a vote of thanks to Mrs. John Hall for opening her home for the March meeting.

Mrs. Van Wolsem was presented with a lovely quilt from the W.A. which was much appreciated.

In the absence of the convener Mrs. L. McCutcheon, the social meeting was taken over by Mrs. Roy Wannamaker. Her two contests were won by Mrs. J. L. Hickey, Mrs. Leon Ward, Mrs. A. Landry and Mrs. T. Thompson.

Mrs. Harry Adams moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, the program and refreshments.

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Holds Banquet

On Tuesday evening, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, division 169 held its annual pensioners banquet at the Army and Navy hall, Front Street with approximately 130 enjoying the delicious turkey dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Army and Navy, under the convenorship of Helen Drury.

Brother Lambert (Doc) Dougherty presided as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Previous to the invocation given by the Rev. Everett Smith, silent tribute was observed and a minute of silence was observed in tribute to the deceased brothers and sisters

Following the repast, a varied program was enjoyed consisting of the following numbers: vocal solo by Mrs. Ann Davidson, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Wilson; toast to the G.I.A. by Bro. E. Goodson which was responded to by Mrs. Harriett Winslow, Grand Canadian representative to the G.I.A.; vocal solo by Ed. Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Wilson; remarks by the superintendent A. R. Wilson, Belleville division; duet by Ed. Brown and Mrs. Flanigan; remarks by L. Galloway, superintendent of Relief and Pensioners, solo by Mrs. Mary Plumpton, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Wilson; and a toast to the honored guests by Bro. A. Clarke; presentation to Bro. and Sister Van Stone; and retiring remarks by Bro. A. Clarke, superintendent mechanic, to the honored guests.

The highlights of the evening were the presentations to the retired engineers and their wives including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, Mr. Ambrose McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moon.

Drawing for the door prizes for both ladies and gentlemen completed the program, after which spotlight dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by Hugo Riggs' Orchestra, with the square dancing called by Bro. Red Hall.

The arrangements for this lovely affair were in charge of Brother Albert Clarke, chief engineer and chairman of the entertainment committee, and E. Goodman, vice-chairman, to whom much commendation is due for an outstanding and most enjoyable evening.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It was our privilege to meet with provincial president of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans for Ontario and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lundberg, recently in Belleville. Mr. Lundberg has his office in their home at 1126 Bloor Ave and from there he keeps in touch with his responsibilities which reach from one end of the province to the other. Mr. Lundberg was impressed with patience and patient with our ignorance. He came away thoroughly convinced that we could and should know more about the work of the Veterans' Association of the world in the interest of veterans and their dependents.

We learned for the first time that the president of the World Veterans' Federation which is comprised of 125 veterans and "victims" associations in 31 countries, with a combined membership of 13,400,000, is a Belleville pal! sims of the WVF are sid to veterans to all war disabled, the promotion of the cause of "peace and support to the United Nations.

Mr. Lundberg loaned us a number of copies of the WVF bulletin which is a monthly magazine called simply "The World Veteran." In the 1956 December issue of the comprehensive and instructive publication is evidence of the wide range of subjects covered in one recent edition. Articles from all over the world wide work which won the Nobel Prize for the office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees; a review by the president of the world leaders to study European affairs, and a story about a tremendous project which is now under way in Israel to reclaim the Negev desert which it is estimated will cost $1,000,000,000 and will take more than at least ten more years, and employ at least 100,000 men from 39 countries.

When the project is completed, "in terms of Australia's land area would be equivalent to bringing over thousands of square miles of the Snowy River valley under the control of the Snowy River Authority." The end of the project will make possible "Three Rivers flowing where only a few trickles now run." Israel is a country of the foundation of the Victoria Cross and the George Cross and we learn that up to the end of the Korean war, only 182 Victorian Crosses had been awarded.

Since many thousands of Canadian veterans have emigrated or have loved ones who are veterans we felt that the interest in the lot of the veterans has a place of interest in T and T. Through the Commonwealth Co-operation of Mr. Lundbergh we hope to bring the interest of veterans here and there around the world.

Our weekend thought: "The less a thing can be proved, the greater we get when we argue about it."

SOME BARGAINS ARE COSTLY

Do you have "bargainitis"?

It's surprising how many women have.

If you can't pass a bargain counter without falling victim to it—if your closets bulge with sale dresses and hats and shoes and yet you never look well dressed, you have "bargainitis."

If your bargain counter dresses come back from their first trip to the cleaner shrunken, too tight, too short, you have "bargainitis."

If the shoes you bought at a sale pinch and blister and burn, you also have "bargainitis."

A bargain is never a bargain unless it is a good buy. A good buy, whatever you pay for it, means good fabric that will stand many visits to the cleaners and always come back with its original smart lines and fitting perfectly.

It means clothes, shoes and hats which are chosen with thought, never snatched from a bargain counter because they are cheap. Things which are worn perhaps once allowed to hang indefinitely in the closet because they just don't fit are never cheap.

A $2.95 hat, that looked good in the turmoil of the bargain counter but is the wrong shade for your eyes and hair is not cheap. It is $2.95 wasted.

A $10 bargain dress that can't be worn after one cleaning is very extravagant indeed when one that cost four times as much would give months, maybe years, of good service.

Then there's the question of style. In the excitement of getting a bargain, a woman is likely not to see that the dress she has picked is completely wrong for her. It may have that dropped waistline so fashionable but, unless she is very svelte, that dropped waistline can make her look like a cartoon in the New Yorker.

So avoid "bargainitis" as you'd avoid any virus.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

WHICH MAN WAS OUT OF ORDER?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you please settle this argument for my husband and me? We were at the home of friends, one evening recently. My husband was listening to a man who was talking to him, at the same time I was having a conversation with a man who, when he was speaking to me, turned and called to my husband to verify what he was telling me. At the time my husband was about ten feet away from us, but he would not look up or even give any indication whatever that he had heard him. This man called to him three times, and still he would not acknowledge him until he and I by other fellow had finished their conversation. Meanwhile the man who was talking to me (and some others in the group) felt very embarrassed.

My husband insists that he was quite right in doing what he did that this was good etiquette. I don't agree with him, and I maintain that it is a very discourteous, His behavior was very awkward . . . first in calling to your husband at such a distance, and then crudely insisting on getting your husband's attention by calling to him three times, and apparently paying not the slightest attention to the fact that your husband obviously was so engrossed in the conversation he was having that he did not wish to be interrupted. He sounds like a show-off . . . is he? If he had tried only once to get your husband's attention and been satisfied to wait to go to speak with him (not call to him) at a more opportune time, he needn't have been embarrassed. It was not necessary for your husband to "acknowledge" him or his attention-calling, although perhaps he might have (if he had wanted to interrupt his conversation that much) raised his head slightly in a gesture of "Let's talk it over later."

NO RECEIVING-LINE AT THE CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our daughter is to have a church wedding, and the reception is to follow at a place several miles from the church. Practically all the guests invited to the church ceremony are to be invited to the reception. Would it be necessary to have a receiving - line at the church and also at the reception? — Reader

No. It will certainly not be necessary to have a receiving-line at the church, nor would this be the correct and customary procedure. It would be an awkward plan to hold up the reception-proceedings. The members of the wedding party and the other members of the receiving-line should leave the church immediately after the recessional so they will have the receiving-line formed when the guests arrive.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

JESUS, I COME

Out of my bondage, sorrow and night,
Jesus, I come, Jesus, I come;
Into Thy freedom, gladness and light,
Jesus, I come to Thee;
Out of my darkness into Thy health,
Out of my want and into Thy wealth,
Out of my sin and into Thyself,
Jesus, I come to Thee.

Out of my shameful failure and loss,
Jesus, I come, Jesus, I come;
Into the glorious gain of Thy cross,
Jesus, I come to Thee;
Out of earth's sorrows into Thy balm,
Out of life's storms and into Thy calm,
Out of distress to jubilant psalm,
Jesus, I come to Thee.

Out of unrest and arrogant pride,
Jesus, I come, Jesus, I come;
Into Thy blessed will to abide,
Jesus, I come to Thee;
Out of myself to dwell in Thy love,
Out of despair into raptures above,
Upward for aye on wings like a dove,
Jesus, I come to Thee.

Out of the fear and dread of the tomb,
Jesus, I come, Jesus, I come;
Into the joy and light of Thy home,
Jesus, I come to Thee;
Out of the depths of ruin untold,
Into the peace of Thy sheltering fold,
Ever Thy glorious face to behold,
Jesus, I come to Thee.

Some of the great evangelists of the nineteenth century were preachers. Some were gospel singers, hymnists and composers. W. T. Sleeper and G. C. Stebbins, who joined hands and talents to produce the gospel song which appears above, belonged to the latter group. Mr. Sleeper wrote the hymn poem and Mr. Stebbins set it to music.

The same partners turned out another soul-winning favorite, "Ye Must Be Born Again", which has been widely used through the years by evangelistic and mission leaders. This hymn tells the story of Nicodemus, the Jewish ruler who came one night to talk with Jesus about salvation. It is found in the New Testament, in the third chapter of St. John's gospel. In the Bible reference Jesus told Nicodemus: "Except a man be born again he cannot see the Kingdom of God".

Revivalists can give plenty of testimonies about men and women who have found Christ through the message of "Ye Must Be Born Again". Stories like that of the administrator of a boys' school in a southwestern American city who one day passed a YMCA building where some young men were singing the Sleeper-Stebbins hymn. The school man joined the crowd which pressed about the singers at the door of the building. Soon he, too, was singing the chorus of their hymn:

Ye must be born again,
Ye must be born again;
verily, verily say unto thee,
Ye must be born again".

The song message gripped the soul of the man who was listening, as it must have touched many others in the crowd. When someone invited him to return for an evangelistic service that night, he went back to hear the singers again. And, before the evening worship was over, he had given his heart to God.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU CAN'T JUDGE FROM LETTERS ALONE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have just one question to ask you, but it means so much to me to have an answer to it.

Will you please tell me if you think it is, or isn't, possible to know a person extremely well through letters? Would you also give me the reasons upon which you base your opinion? — S.L.

Dear S.L.:

When you ask whether or not it is possible to know a person well through letters, I assume you mean someone you have never met but with whom you have only corresponded.

Under such circumstances, my answer is that it would be very risky to base your hopes on getting a completely reliable picture of any person's true character through letters alone.

And the reason I believe this is that, when a person is writing a letter, he has all the time in the world to carefully choose words and phrases that will create the impression of himself which he feels will give the recipient of the letter the most favorable conception of him. He probably does not mean to deliberately deceive. But it's only natural for any of us to want to "put our best foot forward," as the saying goes. In other words, we make the letter writer in only one mood—his best.

On the other hand, when you are in more or less regular association with a person, see and hear him as he reacts to all sorts of situations, you become familiar with him in all his different moods, bad as well as good, that, together, comprise his true personality. Only then, can you know him for the sort of person he really is.

What I think is that you have probably been corresponding with someone of the opposite sex and want to know if he is as good as he sounds in his letters. So my advice is that you had better not go overboard on the basis of letters alone. Wait until you have a chance to make his acquaintance personally, so that you can form an intelligent opinion of what he is actually like, and thus be able to judge whether or not you really want him as a friend.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I have been reading your excellent column for the past few years, but especially since I was married 1 1-2 months ago. I have tried many of your recipes and found them delicious. . . . I am interested in meals for two people I get home at 5.30 and then have to prepare dinner. We have lunches at noon. We have been eating steak and chops mostly, but are tired of the same old fare. Could you come to my aid? I would also like recipes for small cakes, buns, tarts and cookies, they don't go stale as fast as cake. May I have the recipe for apple pie? I made one but the bottom crust was soggy and the apples were hard. I never realized cooking could be such a problem. Do you use the same pastry for dessert pies and meat pies?—Shirley L.

ANSWER:

Cooking is a lifelong gratifying job, that can be a fascinating hobby too. Don't despair. I have mailed you some recipes on the subjects you mention and will answer the

APPLE PIE

Pastry—(A new method the home economists are using currently.) Measure 2 cups all-purpose flour sifted before measuring, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup cold water, 3-4 cup hydrogenated shortening. Sift flour and salt into bowl. Take out 1-4 cup and with it form a paste with the 1-4 cup water. Cut all of the shortening into the remaining flour with pastry blender until crumbs are size of small peas. Add flour paste and mix with a fork until dough comes together and can be shaped into a ball. Divide into 2 balls, roll out one for bottom crust on lightly floured board to 1-8 inch thickness. Line pie plate with this, trimming off overhanging pastry with a sharp knife. Wash and pare apples (Duchess, Melba, Transparents in summer; Spys, Wealthies, Gravensteins, Rome Beauties later), core them and cut into eighths. Use 6 or 7 apples. Mix together 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon. Sprinkle half of this over unbaked crust. Arrange apples over it. Sprinkle remaining dry mixture over them. Dot with 1 tablespoon butter. Roll out top crust, gash it at centre to allow steam to escape, moisten top edge of bottom crust and seal on top crust, and trim off edges with sharp knife. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 45 to 50 minutes. Test apples for tenderness by inserting toothpick through one of the gashes.

I have mailed to you a recipe for making little meat pies, but here is another recipe for Meat pie pastry: 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup shortening, 1-3 cup hot water, 2 teaspoon lemon juice, egg white. Sift together the dry ingredients and cut in half the shortening. Dissolve the remaining shortening in the hot water, add lemon juice and yolk, and slowly stir these into the flour. Knead three minutes. Chill.

I have mailed former release on cooking for two, tarts, bar and drop cookies. Let me know how you make out and whenever I may help.

Explorer Murdered

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by Jack Tremblay

This hundred-year-old mystery still baffles Canadian historians and the archivists of the ancient Company of Adventurers trading into Hudson's Bay. Simpson was certainly murdered, but no serious efforts were ever made to bring his murderers to justice.

Thomas Simpson, 32, a Master of Arts of King's College at Aberdeen, was killed by an unknown hand on the plains of Iowa in 1840 as he sought to return, discouraged and unhappy from his experiences in the Northwest. He had just finished three years of spectacular exploration in the Arctic for which he had won great acclaim in London. But he knew nothing of this acclaim and thought he was overlooked. For this he blamed his famous cousin, Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Company.

Sir George himself brought young Thomas to Red River in 1829. He served for a time as the Governor's secretary at Fort Garry and travelled on an inspection tour with Sir George in one of the company's express canoes. After a year at Red River he was given command of a brigade of 100 men from Lachine to Lake Superior, in February, 1831, he made a winter journey of 700 miles from York Factory to Red River.

MADE FEW FRIENDS

A quiet, reserved and conceited young Englishman, Thomas Simpson made a few friends in the post's trading post. One day in a fit of anger he blackened the eye and broke the jaw of a half-breed who refused to leave the company's store. Half-breed leaders were angry and demanded that the young man be publicly flogged as punishment.

The Governor refused the demands but agreed to send his cousin away from the post. Thomas was equally angered by the Governor's attitude and threatened to resign. However, he accepted the leadership of a new expedition and set of for the Arctic.

Down the Mackenzie and along the Arctic Coast, Thomas Simpson and his party entered entirely new territory. They planted company flag at Point Barrow, linking the western Arctic and the Pacific on the maps of the world.

Reports of these new discoveries reached London and rewards were voted for young Simpson by the grateful governors and members of the Company Committee. In 1839 Thomas returned to Fort Garry, travelling 1800 miles with dogs in 61 days. There he waited for words of praise and an expected command for another expedition.

Sir George at Lachine withheld approval. Knowing nothing of the rewards that had already been voted for him, Thomas gathered a party of half-breeds and started for home, heading across the western United States for the Atlantic.

HEAVILY ARMED

The party was heavily armed as it had to pass through the country of the Sioux Indians. Simpson was never heard from again. Two half-breeds from the party returned to Fort Garry and swore that Simpson had become "sick." While two of the men were putting up a tent, they said, Simpson shot them. Two others, taking fright, fled and met a group of Metis who returned to camp with them. There they found Simpson dead.

Two years later, Thomas' Brother Alexander wrote a book in which he claimed Simpson had been murdered by the half-breeds. He also blamed Sir George Simpson. But no one ever found the evidence which could have proved what happened to the young explorer. His death was then, and remains, today one of the mysteries of a violent age.

CANNIFTON— Sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Ronald Putman's father, Mr. Moring of Belleville. Everyone joins in extending to her and to her sorrowing family the deepest sympathy.

Mrs. Don Milton is slowly improving, after having been sick for a couple of weeks.

The Cannifton and Corbyville Euchre club held its weekly euchre in Corby's Cafeteria with seven tables playing. Prizes were won by ladies, Madeline Morgan, Edith Stewart, and May Palmer; men, Ralph Stewart, Barb Lyon and Joe Burchill. the lone hand by Ivy Parm and the draw by Garnet Latchford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hicks and baby daughter, Joanne of Camp Borden, visited Mr. and Mrs. Mathews for a few days.

Old Anti-Freeze Can Produce New Trouble

By EUGENE MILMOE

Each year, when spring changeover time rolls around, the average service station seems to inherit its share of stubborn customers who refuse to have the anti-freeze drained off and discarded. Apparently, they take this stand without knowing why it's considered bad practice. The risk involved far outweighs any saving gained by stretching antifreeze use over more than one winter.

Anti-freeze may still give ample protection against freezing during the second season, but corrosive matter and rust will have contaminated it. As a matter of fact, after one winter, the solution's corrosion and rust inhibitors are not only ineffective but tend to break down and promote harmful acids. Adding a fresh inhibitor at this stage cannot prevent trouble in the cooling system.

T.R. writes: "Our 1955 automatic drive model just will not shift smoothly, even when warmed up. What would make it so rough? The garage men say they adjust it only to find that it still acts the same way."

(A) When the shifts are very rough it usually points to control linkage or control valve trouble.

From O.C.: "Not long ago, the head was taken off my six-cylinder sedan for some work. The engine has run well since that time, but there is always a certain amount of water lost. When the engine had been running awhile one day, I noticed what appeared to be a slight water seepage at a back corner of the engine where the head meets the block. The garageman who did the engine job insists a new gasket was installed before he replaced the head."

L.L. asks: "My engine has approximately 40,000 miles on it and is now using oil at the rate of approximately one quart each 850 miles. The car is a six-cylinder 1953 model which runs very well and is always driven carefully at moderate speeds. Is this oil consumption anything to worry about?"

(A) I would say that the oil mileage you're getting is just about normal for your engine.

Mrs. G.H. writes: "I have been using a good brand of the highest detergency oil—or so I believed. Now, someone tells me that oil marked H-D means heavy duty not high detergent."

(A) Actually, a heavy duty oil is high detergent oil. "Heavy duty" refers to the grade or quality, not the thickness or weight of the oil.

From M.J.: "I have some trouble on the right front wheel of my 1951 convertible and the break lining was ruined by grease. The mechanic put in a new lining on both the left and the right front wheels. He tells me the brakes would not be right if he didn't, relline both sides. How come?"

(A) It's usually recommended for maintaining good brake balance, i.e., to avoid unequal brake friction which would cause the car to pull to one side when you slow down or stop, using the brakes.

Tips for Growing Dahlias

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

It has been said that dahlias are a man's flower.

For many years they were my dad's favorite flower. Each year he would buy a few fancy named tubers, and would gloat over the size of the blooms and the brilliance of the colors. But, he always kept several bushel of tubers from the common dark red type. These were planted each spring to form an annual hedge to separate the vegetable garden from the lawn, along both sides of the back walk and across the back of the whole garden. We cut great armsful of them each summer for bouquets.

The fancy types were grown in beds. Dahlias make fine bedding plants. In selecting them for bedding choose them from the same type. These are single, cactus, incurve cactus, pompoon, informal decorative, and collarette types. These terms apply to the flower types, the plants too have classification. There are the giants or exhibition dahlias, double dwarf, miniature and pompoon.

The pompoon are small type-plants with small ball-like blooms two inches in diameter. The miniature are those plants which have blooms less than five inches across. The plants are three to four feet high.

POMPOONS

The pompoon, dwarf doubles and miniatures, are easier to care for than the exhibition types, which have to be staked carefully and guarded against wind damage.

The double dwarf dahlias are imported from England, Scotland and Holland. These are still comparatively unknown in Canada. They bloom early and continue profusely all summer. They make good bedding plants and cut-flower material. To mention a few from this class—Arabesque, a soft yellow with plants 18 inches tall; Bridesmaid is an anemone type bloom in creamy white, one foot tall. Others are deep red, orange, scarlet, pink and salmon. In height they range from ten inches to two feet.

The exhibition types are from American growers, from Holland, and Australia. The plants are tall, up to five feet, the immense blooms may be 14 inches across, and are in various forms and colors. Some of these named dahlias are in scarce supply, so you had better order early. The dealer will ship when danger of frost is past.

If you have tubers stored in your basement it is time to examine them for drying and for rot. If rot has started in some cut off the damaged portion and dust the cut surface with powdered sulphur.

About the first of April separate the tubers, taking care that each tuber has at least one sprout. You can bury the whole clump of tubers, water them and place in a warm place until they have sprouted. The tubers can be planted in soil or damp sphagnum moss, or vermiculite. Keep in warm place until danger of frost is passed, about the last week in May, then plant out in the garden.

Dahlias need well drained soil and a sunny position. Allow 18 inches between plants for the dwarf types, 24 inches or more between the large types.

GETS DRAFT NOTICE

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Al Spangler, 22, a star rookie at Milwaukee Braves' spring training camp, has received his military service, induction papers and will report March 28 at Philadelphia.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Recent callers of Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker and family were: Mrs. Keitha Alde and father, Mr. Martin Miller, of Stirling; Mrs. Isamel Alde of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith and son Carl; Mrs. Allen Wannamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wannamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mallory and Gerald of Stirling.

Glad to report Misses Marjorie and Sharon Wannamaker are home from the Belleville General Hospital, where they were for a few days following a tonsilectomy. All wish them a speedy recovery and hope they will soon be back to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison entertained recently Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend and Mrs. Townsend, Sr., West Huntingdon, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison and son of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound, Dale and Cheryl spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Phillips and daughter, Nancy, were recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cassidy.

Mr. Almon Moore is spending a few days with friends in the village before leaving for his new home with his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Johnston, who has moved to Finch.

The roaring lion sure put in his appearance with high winds, rain, snow and sleet. Traffic was almost at a standstill, and many were unable to take their cars out of their garageys.

An enjoyable time was spent last Tuesday night when a large number of LOBA and LOL members enjoyed an oyster supper in the Orange hall. After the bounteous supper Mr. Frank Winder of Canniffon, put on his slides of his trip to different countries he recently had toured and all enjoyed them and the last slide, not the least, was of his own home in Canniffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tripp, of Frankford, were Sunday guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Woodward and baby were Sunday tea hour guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith.

Owing to the bad weather on Thursday afternoon, only a few of the parents attended the children's "open house" of Education Week. The teacher served refreshments to the parents, which was much enjoyed.

Sunday Midnight Will Toll Fantastic Finish Of NHL 210-Game Grind

Sport Slices

Rare, Medium, Well-Done

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TAKE TER CHOICE . . .

The Toronto Leafs-Detroit Red Wings game Sunday night probably will settle the issue regarding playoff berths. That has been the forecast of the scribes and others, according to press dispatches.

Apparently it is taken for granted that the lowly Hawks are merely stepping stones to the hot spots for the Leafs and the Bruins. The Canuck-Chancy crew tangles with the Windy City hapless ones in Toronto tonight, and the Hogtown scribes and a lot of Leafian fans, have quit their fingernail chewing for the nonce, to predict a victory for their puck babies.

They will be working on the meat come Sunday regardless of tonight's result when the Wings entertain Toronto in Detroit and Chicago trundles against the Bruins in the home of the bean and the cod.

Upsets, not taken-for-granted victories, may decide the issue. Nobody seems to give any thought to the possibility that Dick Irvin's Falcons may carry fire in their fangs tonight and knock off the Leafs, or that the possibility reigns that the Chancy crew may whomp Jolly Jawn's aggregation in Detroit on Sunday.

True, the situation does not look too rosy for the Smythian flock. If they do get by Chicago tonight, they will edge the Bruins by a point, and then come the tough task of walloping the Wings Sunday. A Leaf-Hawk tie tonight will place the issue squarely on Sunday night's game.

* * * * *

CLOSE!

They gave Mort Belmore a pair of gold-plated horse shoes down Cornwall way the other night, and nearly 1,200 puck pukes perched in the corral pippy-bleated their approval when the Colts' emcee prodded the former into the net with seconds to go in the overtime session to score the winner over the Kingston Goodyears. And just for good measure, Mort's Belmore rode again and deer-hoof his way into the clear to sink the rubber for the insurance marker just as the boys were collecting their bets.

Which means the Kingston's Community Centre will resemble Old Home Week in Misplaced Faith, Arkansas, tonight when the fans clash in the fifth session of the seven rounder with the odds slightly favoring the Roddenville Roustabouts to grab the odd victory in five.

For both lquads know that the team which surrenders before a home town crowd has practically had it. And the Colts came a mighty close to being branded by Art Casterton's crew in that spine-tingling fourth joust in the down-east corral.

They grabbed a goal lead in the first period but did not reckon with the Goodies' amazing recovering ability. The Kingston crew stole the bit from the Colts' mouth and before they could tighten their savingins three pucks had bounced into the feed-box, all of 'em coming within four minutes.

It looked there and then like a Miron curtain. But the not-so-old-grey Marie had other ideas. He whipped the Colts into action, needled 'em with some disenlightening points, and the Debbins roared back to square the score in the second thrilling episode of this puck serial.

And the third was yet to come. The teams ripped at each other for more than nine minutes in the overtime session. Then "Buck" Belmore decided to end it. Colt Savard rounded the back stretch in high gear and gave running-mate Belmore the biscuit. From there in the speedy Colt was on his own and he beat Brooks for the million-dollar counter. Goodies sent a forward to replace goalie Brooks and with ten seconds to go Belmore again took Savard's pass to split the pipes in the yawning net.

Endurance, and stamina, not to mention a break or two might yet be the deciding factors in this nip-and-tuck semi-finals session. Both teams have been going all-out for four games with the honors even, and you can bet the sponsor's next winter stink, the Lee Doughboy Serring-do's will iron all their potential into the ring tonight. And the same goes for the Colts down Cornwall way tomorrow afternoon in the sixth chapter of this hocker drama.

* * * * *

SOFTBALL

President Cy Barriage, of the Belleville District Softball League, and his executive are faltering a meeting in the West Moira Street Fire Hall tomorrow afternoon starting at two o'clock, and from here it looks as though a husky, healthy industrial league, in the true sense of the word, will emerge.

The league vice-president Bill Berscht has been working quietly but hard along organizational lines and it is reported he has more than a dozen teams lined up with the possibility of a half-dozen more to come. Any team representing industry or business in the city is cordially welcome to submit its entry to a loop that should be the answer to the prayer of the many softballers who cannot play in the "upper brackets" for one reason or another.

Neck-and-Neck Rush for Wire In Mark-Shattering Climax; Leafs, Rangers on the Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Somewhere around midnight Sunday the National Hockey League winds up its 210-game grind. And what a finish!

Seldom have fans around the six-team circuit seen such devastating power as that displayed by Montreal Canadiens in their drive for first place.

Rarely have four teams been embroiled in so close a battle for the last three Stanley Cup playoffs. The 1955-56 campaign has had just about everything.

Gate receipts generally were up, partly due to the resurgence of the crowd-pleasing New York Rangers as one of the stronger teams in the league. Detroit Red Wings failed to win the league crown for the first time in eight years. Canadiens have a good team in Jean Beliveau—an all-time league record for a centre.

NOTABLE HAPPENINGS

There have been many other notable happenings since the 70-game schedule started last October. The latest thing to catch the attraction of the public was the close fights between New York and Detroit for second place and Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs for fourth.

Wings have a two-point edge over the "third-place Rangers. Wings have one game to play; Rangers two. Boston is fourth with a one-point lead over Leafs, who have two games to play compared with Bruins' one.

There are five games during the weekend. The key attraction appears to be between Red Wings and Leafs at Detroit Sunday.

POSSIBILITIES

Should Leafs defeat the last-place Chicago Black Hawks tonight at Toronto, and Boston be in fourth place, one point ahead of Boston, Bruins entertain Hawks Sunday. A Leaf win against Detroit, providing they beat Chicago, would clinch the last playoff position for them.

Rangers have the toughest schedule. They play two games against Canadiens. Saturday they are at Montreal, where they haven't won since Jan. 30, 1954—17 games. The New Yorkers can't count on the luck of the Irish on St. Patrick's Day because they haven't an Irishman on the team. Ron Murphy is English.

JOE LOUIS WINS

To the howls of 4,100 partial fans, the former heavyweight boxing champion unveiled what is known in the grappling business as a right forearm punch and smacked Cowboy Dusky Lee clean out of the Ulice Arena ring.

Peg Hoopsters Favored for Olympic Trials

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Buffaloes moved to within one game of a berth in the Olympic basketball trials Friday night, thumping Ottawa Shaffers 89-67 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five zone final.

Buffs, who won the first game 125-75, will be favored to wrap things up tonight. The winner makes up the fourth team in the Olympic trials in Vancouver next week. Toronto, Edmonton and British Columbia Olympians are the other three teams.

The winner of the trials will represent Canada in the Olympic Games in Australia in November.

The shorter Shaffers held Buffs on equal terms for the first half, settling for a 43-42 tie. However, they failed to keep the fast-breaking Buffs in the early minutes of the second half. They trailed 62-48 with 13 minutes left. It was no contest after that.

A BIT DIFFERENT

The first half was a far cry from the first game of the series when the Buffs pulled away for a 39-25 lead after 10 minutes.

King Carl Ridd led the Buffs in a great two-way showing. He got 20 points and led control of the boards throughout the night. Highscoring Herb Olafson was held to 10 points by close-cheeking Tom Holmes, Wally Parecbee fired 18 and Ron Hurd 12.

Indians Scalped By Hornets 10-2

PITTSBURGH (CP) — Pittsburgh Hornets pulled to within one point of first-place Providence Reds in the American Hockey League Friday night by defeating Cleveland Indians 10-2.

Hornets' marksmen were Gerry Foffy (2), Bob Hassard, Joe Klukay (4), Parker Macdonald, Bob Solinger (2), Les Duff, Jack Caffery. Scorers for Springfield were Doug McMurdy and Ed Leier.

Reibel, Taylor Reach Finals In Bowling Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Two bowlers from southwestern Ontario Friday night emerged as finalists in the eastern Canada five-pin singles championships staged at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Hal Reibel of Kitchener and Bob Taylor of London are scheduled to meet today in 10 final games.

Reibel Friday defeated Gordon Hillis of Toronto with a 10-game total of 2,725 to 2,563. He took a 40-pin lead in the first five games with a 1,365 tally. Scores of 340 and 322 in the ninth and 10th games helped pile up a 220-pin final margin.

Taylor topped Dennis Linton of Oshawa with 2,632 to 2,297. He amassed a 33-pin lead in the first five games and coasted through the final five. Linton took four of the last five games.

Mrs. Robillard defeated Mabel Wilks of Woodstock 2,324 to 2,215 Mrs. Pusey clinched her finals berth in the 10th game with a 302 to defeat Verna Bryan of St. Catharines 2,175 to 1,970. The single-game score is a tournament high for women.

POSTPONEMENT FORCED

AUSSIES WIN

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Australia's free-lance tennis tourists shut out Egypt Friday and qualified to meet the Sweden-Italy winner for the Alexandria Cup.

Lewis Hoad beat Ismail Adel 6-2 6-2 while his teammate, Jack Arkinstall, won over Donald Anthias 6-4, 6-4. Hoad and Arkinstall teamed to win the doubles match 6-1, 6-1.

Amazing Maroons Win Title Oust Dutchies in Four Games

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons, who only a month ago weren't given much more than an outside chance of going anywhere in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, today are league champions.

Maroons walloped the defending Canadian champion Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 6-1 Friday night to complete an amazing four-game sweep of the best-of-seven final series with Dutchmen, who represented Canada in the Olympic winter Games.

Maroons showed an abundance of power throughout the series as they scored 24 goals. Dutchmen fired only 10. The scores for the first three games were 7-4, 4-3 and 7-3.

After the game, Maroon coach Murph Chamberlain said:

"I will not be completely happy until the cup the team is receiving is the Allan Cup presented to the Canadian champions. I believe we are going to go a long way in trying to get it, too."

"The Maroons beat us cleanly all the way, but the main factor was the terrific goaltending of Marv Edwards, plus the incessant drive of Chamberlain."

Maroons' next series will be the best-of-seven affair against either Abitibi Eskimos or Sudbury Wolves who are playing off for the championship in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

Ted Power was the big scorer for Maroons in the final game. He scored the first three goals. Lloyd Perryman, Alex Viskella and Eric Unger got the other three. Jim Logan was the lone Dutchmen's marksman.

The teams were tied 1-1 after the first period and Maroons led 3-1 after the second.

Edwards was sensational as he stopped 39 shots which Dutchmen fired at him from all angles in a desperate attempt to prolong the series.

It was a cleanly played, fast game with a near record crowd of 2,000 on hand watching. Only three penalties were called, two against the winners.

Forest Wins OMHA Bantam C Title Defeats Stirling 9-5 in Second Game

FOREST (Special) — Stirling's gallant bantam "C" squad went down fighting here last night losing to the Forest Rotarian youngsters by a 9-5 score and dropping the finals round by a 21-8 count.

The Forest youngsters are OMHA bantam "C" champions and were presented with the Fred Wagorne Trophy following the game by OMHA secretary Jack Christie. Stirling was presented with the Vice-President Trophy by vice preexy Jack Oakes of Strathroy. It was the first trophy to be presented to the losers although Stirling teams have been runners - up on previous occasions.

Forest's ace Frank Dalton who is being signed by at least three National Hockey League scouts, said who has averaged at least four goals a game all season was again the hero of the piece for the winners.

The tall rangy centre fired home five goals and was credited with two assists in another sparkling one-man show. Three of the goals were scored on individual rushes. Mel Matthews was another Forest star accounting for three of his teams goals.

Eddie Mayhew scored two of the Stirling goals as the eastern Ontario team battled gamely after spotting the new champions a 5-0 lead. Nicholson, Palmer and Smith accounted for the rest.

Forest grabbed a 3-0 first period lead and added two more in the second before Nicholson broke the scoring ice for Stirling.

The eastern youngsters fought back desperately in the third period behind a 4-1 deficit, scoring 3 goals in succession in seven minutes. Dalton came back with another then Mayhew got that one back before the winners scored their final brace of markers.

Eight penalties were handed out by officials, five going to Forest. Over 1,000 watched the game.

CUBAN TRIUMPHS

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight contender Isaac (Kid) Logart of Cuba chopped tall Caspar Ortega of Mexico down to his size Friday night with left hooks to the body and head to win a unanimous 10-round decision at Madison Square Garden. Logart weighed 145 to Ortega 152.

A 5-to-1 favorite over the 20-year-old Mexican the slick Logart had to go all out to ruin Ortega's debut as a main eventer in the Garden.

SPEND HUGE SUM

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has agreed to spend £20,800,000 on a five-year development plan for British Guiana, her South American colony. An announcement Friday night said that the government regarded the figure as a "realistic factory basis" upon which development in the 83,000-square-mile territory can proceed.

Western Ontario Entries Dominate School Basketball

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—All three western Ontario entries Friday swept into the semi-finals of the Ontario high school basketball championships, with convincing victories in first-round games.

Sponsored by the Ontario High School Federation, the tourney ends tonight.

Both London and District Conference entries, Medway and Beal, came through without too much trouble. Medway Cowboys tripped Toronto Bloor 66-42, while Beal Spartans rolled past Ottawa Glebe 60-48.

Assumption of Windsor, the third western Ontario quint in the tournament, pulled the biggest surprise by knocking the pre-tourney favorite Niagara Falls 64-46 in the first game of the day.

The other quarter-final contest was the closest of the tourney to date with Sudbury Tech downing Etobicoke 61-52 and staving off a late rally by the Rams.

Assumption, the Sudbury Tech in the semi-final round this afternoon while Beal and Medway look up in the other game in the semi-final bracket. Bloor takes on Glebe and Niagara Falls meets Etobicoke.

Santee Wins At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Court sessions and conferences with lawyers have thrown him a little off stride, Wes Santee says, but the fastest U.S. miler showed Friday night that he is regaining his form.

The lean Kansan, who goes back to court in New York Monday to fight former Athletic Union banishment from amateur ranks, trailed Fordham Coach Vincent Chase's banked board track in four minutes, 6.9 seconds.

That compared with 4:10.8 at Milwaukee a week ago and 4:13.3 in New York, the two other races he has run under a temporary injunction since he drew the AAU punishment Feb. 19 for accepting excessive expense money.

It was the second fastest indoor mile run in the U.S. this year, but a second slower than Irish champion Ron Delany posted at Boston. And it compared with the 4:04.6 mile which Santee established the local Knights of Columbus meet record a year ago.

Rampaging Irish Whip Flyers 6-2 Marlies Blank Teeps, Take 3-1 Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The question around the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A is "Who's going to stop Toronto St. Michael's Majors?"

Majors walloped Barrie Flyers 6-2 Friday night at Toronto in the opening game of the best-of-five semi-finals. It was their fourth straight playoff win. They eliminated the Simcoe Ramblers in three straight games in the best-of-five quarter finals.

Meanwhile at St. Catharines, Toronto Marlboros took a straggle-hold 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final by shutting out St. Catharines Teepees 5-0. One game was tied in the series and all Marlboros, defending Canadian junior champions, need to advance to the finals is a tie. The teams play the next game at Toronto Sunday.

A crowd of 1,836 fans at Toronto saw Flyers badly outplayed in the first 40 minutes of the game, especially during the second period when St. Michael's scored three goals, before coming to life a little in the third.

Centre Frank Howarth led the assault for Majors with two goals, including the best play of the game when he went through the whole Barrie team to score Toronto's last goal.

Pat Hannigan, who got the winning goal, Bob McKnight, Cline Ubriaco and Tim Hook added singles. Al Stevens scored both Barrie goals—his first tallies in the nine playoff games Flyers have played.

Majors were tagged with six of the 11 penalties. Each team took advantage of a penalty for one goal, both in the third period.

Marlboros displayed a fine passing and tight defensive performance as they took a 1-0 lead in the first period and added another pair during the second.

Len Broderick, a junior B player for most of the season who took over the goaltending for Marlboros late in the schedule, turned in a steady game for the winners as he stopped 27 shots. Roy Edwards had 31 Toronto drives to handle.

Ken Girard, Bob Nevins, Bob Pulford, Charlie Burns and defenceman Bob Baun scored the goals.

Eddie Redmond Critically Injured In Whitby Game With Junior Habs

OTTAWA (CP)—A tube was inserted in the windpipe of defenceman Eddy Redmond early today after his Adam's apple was fractured during an exhibition hockey game a few hours earlier.

His condition, following the 1½-hour operation, was described as satisfactory but still serious by Dr. D. McKercher, who carried out the surgery.

Redmond was injured in a freak accident during the third period of a game Friday night between Whitby Dunlops, for whom he plays, and Montreal Junior Canadiens. The Montrealers won 6-2.

Redmond's windpipe was smashed in by a stick, its wielder was unknown, as he tried to clear the puck through a scramble from behind his own goal.

BLOCKED WINDPIPE

The blow apparently temporarily blocked his windpipe. He was still breathing with difficulty when he reached the hospital almost an hour after the accident.

The 24-year-old defenceman suddenly bent over and skated to his team's bench in the auditorium. Team officials hurried him to the medical room.

A nurse identified only as a Miss Woods applied hot compresses. Urgent appeals over the public address system failed to find a doctor in the 800-odd fans. A doctor was called and was reported to be rheumatism was finally reached. He said the windpipe had been damaged.

Redmond's head is reported to have swelled up considerably as he fought for breath before his windpipe was opened sufficiently for him to breathe again.

Doctors at the Civic Hospital, to which he was taken the early morning surgery, said a person could live five minutes without breathing.

TRIBE WANTS GUS

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland Indians were reported Friday to be shifting their players for Gus Triandos, first baseman and catcher of Baltimore Orioles.

The Baltimore News-Post said the Indians are offering infielder Rudy Regalado, catcher Hank Foiles and pitchers Art Houtteman and Jose Santiago.

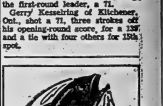
Maxwell Leads St. Pete Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Billy Maxwell wants the big silos of the $12,500 St. Petersburg open golf prize money as a wedding-anniversary present. And he is a good bet to collect it.



The 26-year-old former U.S. amateur champion shaved seven strokes off par in the second round with a 34-31—65 and had a three-stroke lead going into today's third round.

Maxwell's 133 total at the midway mark gave him a good working margin over a trio tied for second at 136—Lionel Hebert of Erie, Pa., Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa. Kroll had a second round 68, Wall a 70, and Hebert the first-round leader, a 71.

Gerry Kesseking of Kitchener, Ont., shot a 71, three strokes off his opening-round score, for a 139, and a tie with four others for 15th spot.

Molson's bowling clinic
REPORT FROM THE CLASSIC
Tuesday—March 13th

This week we are reporting from the Molson's Classic at the Sportsmen's Show where the Eastern Canada Finals are taking place as this is written. Saturday wound up the finals of the Teams events with great excitement as the Hamilton team came from behind to nose out a very strong Barrie quintet. The sensational 10 game scores . . . 12345 and 12308 respectively . . . indicate the high calibre of the bowling and the tense closeness of the finish. Peterboro-Oshawa's 11976 edged out Toronto West (11493) were the runners-up. The high team single score was registered by Barrie with an outstanding 1406. Ernie White (Whitby) of the Peterboro-Oshawa region came up with a magnificent 369 single.

Looking at the ladies' scoreboard we see Toronto East region after being in last place at the end of the first day of play finished well in the lead with a score of 8751 (8 games). The runners-up in the event were Kitchener-Waterloo with 8419, Toronto West with 8393 and Ottawa-Cornwall 8327. Two outstanding scores were Toronto East Team 1283 and Dot Peppin with a neat 306 had the high single game.

Watch this column next Saturday for the final results and highlights of the Eastern Canada singles Championships.

CLINIC NEWS

One of the great pleasures of this Classic has been the opportunity of meeting so many of our regular readers who are in town to visit the Sportsmen's Show. We've had a very good response to our invitation to bowlers to come up and take instruction on the "Classic" alleys.

In conclusion . . . a word of apology to all those readers who have had no replies to their letters to the Molson Bowling Clinic. We have been extremely busy during the Classic and are a few days behind on our correspondence. Please keep writing, though, we'll catch up next week. Write to us Mabel MacDowell or Ed. Moody, Molson's Bowling Clinic, Box 4030, Terminal 'A', Toronto, Ont.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, March 15, 1936

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — It really does matter what your attitude and disposition you have toward work, organizations with which you are associated, and home affairs. Work especially for good will now.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Avail yourself of all good opportunities, including the suggestions of others, in small benefits often lie the greatest potential profits. Don't scatter your energies or disregard sensible diet.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Advertising, publishing, travel, matters connected with religion and water transportation can make new gains, in whatever you do, be discriminating.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Where another may not achieve, you can — and without much difficulty — now. If you apply your talents without misgivings, your efforts will bring better results.

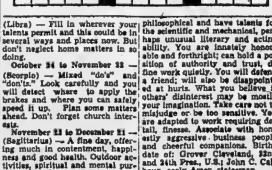
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Do not disregard the suggestions of those who speak with good will and intelligence. This leads to worriers, narrow - minded decisions. Neither should you be easily swayed. Protect principles.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take things in order and you will have an easier time. However, some pressing matters may rightly need a switching of schedules; don't be upset, take all philosophically — and without excitement.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Fill in wherever your talents permit and this could be in several ways and places now. But don't neglect home matters in so doing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mixed "do's" and "don'ts." Look carefully and you will detect where to apply the brakes and where you can safely speed it up. Plan some matters ahead. Don't forget church interest.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — A fine day, offering much in contentment, happiness and good health. Outdoor activities, spiritual and mental pursuits favored.



December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — The right start is important today. You could waste time, valuable effort (and incur the displeasure of others) by disregarding this precept. Interpret things carefully.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be happy in the little things that make for good living. Don't take on more than you should; and whatever you do, use your best efforts.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — An unusual suggestion may be made to you. Be mindful of likely pitfalls. Weigh all possibilities before saying yes or no.

You born today are idealistic, philosophical and have talents for the scientific and mechanical, perhaps unusual literary and acting ability. You are innately honorable and forthright; can hold a position of authority and trust, do fine work quietly. You will defend a friend; will also be disappointed at hurts. What you believe in others' disinterest may be mostly your imagination. Take care not to misjudge or be too sensitive. You are adapted to work requiring detail, finesse. Associate with honestly aggressive business people and cheerful companions. Birthdate of: Ivory Graveland, 22nd and 24th Pres., U.S.; John C. Calhoun, early Amer. statesman.

BY-LAW NO. 2931

A BY-LAW UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF R. S. O. 1950, CHAPTER 191, FOR PROHIBITING DOGS AND OTHER ANIMALS FROM BEING RUNNING AT LARGE.

BE IT ENACTED by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, as follows:

1. In this by-law the word "dog" shall mean male or female.

2. No person shall suffer or permit any dog of which he is the owner, possessor or harbourer to run at large in the City of Belleville.

3. For the purpose of this by-law a dog shall be deemed to be running at large when found in any place within the City of Belleville, and not under control of any person.

4. Any police constable or other person authorized for that purpose by the Mayor, Chief Magistrate, or Chief Constable, may seize any dog found running at large contrary to the provisions of this by-law, and shall forthwith deliver such dog to the Chief Constable or other person authorized, so to do, and every such Police Constable or other person shall forthwith, after making such seizure, deliver such dog to the pound-keeper of the City and it shall be the duty of the pound-keeper to keep such dog in safe custody for the space of three clear days next after it shall have been delivered to him, unless sooner claimed by the owner, and the pound-keeper shall be paid the pound-keeper to kill such dog.

5. Immediately upon receipt of a dog, if such dog is wearing the metallic plate hereinafter referred to the pound-keeper shall ascertain from the Tax Collector the name and address of the person assessed for such dog for the current year, and the pound-keeper shall forthwith either personally or by registered post, notify such owner, possessor or harbourer that his dog has been impounded and state the time within which it may be claimed.

6. The owner, possessor, or harbourer of any dog impounded as provided in the last preceding section shall, within seventy-two hours after such dog shall have been delivered to the pound-keeper as aforesaid claim his dog on application to the Chief Constable, on proof of his ownership and on payment of the sum of one dollar.

An amendment to by-law 2931, passed by the Municipal Council of the City of Belleville, March 12, 1956 follows:

That the City Solicitor be directed to prepare the necessary amendment to the by-law requiring that the owner of a dog or dogs present a certificate of vaccination against rabies for the animal or animals when applying for a license.

Robin Roberts Looks Nifty and Neat 20-Game Winner Cinch to Repeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There is one thing almost as certain as death, taxes and the common cold.

Robin Roberts will win 20 games or more.

Another one? The strapping Philadelphia Phillies fathhander has been a 20-game winner the last six years and has got better better than ever this spring.

Friday, Roberts, who had a 23-16 record in 1955, threw only 36 pitches in working four scoreless innings against Cincinnati Redlegs. He held Reds to three singles as Phils won the exhibition game 8-4.

Robin is one of the few bonus players worth his weight in money. Philip picked him off the Michigan State campus in 1948 and gave him $25,000 to sign. Since then he has compiled 140 victories against 102 defeats, a commendable mark considering that he has been exactly a National League all-star three times, 1950, 1952 and 1953.

Curt Simmons hurled three innings against Cincinnati Friday and gave up two runs. Jack Meyer, the crack reliever of 1955, nailed down the win with a final two-inning stint.

Meanwhile, the champion Brooklyn Dodgers got back on the beam, defeating Chicago White Sox 10-4 on a three-run rally in the eighth inning. Larry Doby, obtained from Cleveland this winter, collared a pair of home runs for Sox. It was only Duke's second victory in seven games.

Indians got excellent relief pitching from Ray Narleski in the last four innings and came from behind to beat New York Yankees 5-4 with over St. Louis Cards and Milwaukee and Boston Red Sox battled to a 7-7 tie game, called in the 11th because of dark-

Tenley Albright Continues Reign As American Figure-Skating Queen

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Olympic champion Tenley Albright continued her reign as American ice queen Friday—U.S. figure skating champion for the fifth straight time—while the king, Hayes Alan Jenkins, appeared headed to capture his fourth consecutive crown in men's.

The 20-year-old pre-med student from Newton Center, Mass., gained revenge over Carol Heiss, of Forest Hills, the New York youngster who defeated her at world championships last month in Germany.

But the 16-year-old Carol, noted for her dash and daring speed as a free skater, didn't go down without a struggle. The results show how close the two girls were.

VERY CLOSE

For the contest, Tenley had ratings of 9.5, 9.7, 9.7, 9.8 and 9.7, compared with 9.5, 9.7, 9.7, 9.7 and 9.8 —for the smaller but faster Carol in the figures. So it was by just a tiny tidge: Tenley had 9.7, 9.8, 9.9, 9.2, and 9.8—and that's near perfect considering that it's the best you can get—while Carol had 9.6, 9.2, 9.7, 9.7 and 9.8.

On the men's side, Jenkins appeared a sure winner—barring a serious fall in the five minutes tonight of free skating to music. He almost competitors in both Robert Conrad of Los Angeles, skating under protest while the U.S. Figure Skating Association conducts its investigation into charges that the 19-year-old high school graduate demanded—and was refused—"expense money" for exhibitions after the Olympic and world meets.

Ronnie, always second to Jenkins in the three years they have competed together, has denied the charges.

COACH DENIES

The youth's coach, Gus Lussi of Lake Placid, N.Y., who also trained Olympic champions Dick Button and Barbara Ann Scott, ridiculed the accusation and said he "doubted" if it came from anyone in Europe.

The Figure Skating Association said the charge was levelled by "a representative of a foreign skating association."

NEEDS MORE SERVANTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government, in some fields, is failing to recruit as many professional men as it needs to run its business efficiently, the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada says. The demand for professional civil servants has outrun the supply, the institute said in a brief filed with the Gordon economic commission Thursday and made public Friday.

Big Three and Canada Split As Talks With Russia Open

Russians Seen Asking Questions Of Kremlin Chiefs

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP)—One question raised in Russian minds by Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin is what the present Communist party chief and his Kremlin colleagues were doing while Stalin terrorized the Soviet Union.

The political future of the present Soviet leaders possibly depends on the skill with which they answer this—and on the ultimate conclusion which the Russian people reach.

Khrushchev has already made an effort to sidestep this question by declaring that he and Stalin's other subordinates were in fear of their lives. He says they never knew where the next blow was going to fall, never knew when they went in to see Stalin whether they'd come out alive.

NOT CERTAIN

But it's not certain that the Russian people will accept this as a completely satisfactory explanation.

A key question is whether Soviet citizens will not, as a result of the revelations of Stalin's crimes and blunders, come to a more or less unanimous conclusion that they'd prefer to be ruled by people less intimately associated with the old dictator.

Clearly, it is a shock for many Russians to be told that the sacrifices of Stalin's purges and much of the austerity of the Stalin era were unnecessary, that they were extorted by an evil power—mad tyrant to satisfy his psychoses.

Perhaps Russian inside and outside the Communist party will begin to look to Soviet army leaders for unsullied non - Stalinist guidance.

Never has the Soviet army's star stood so high. Marshal Georgi Zhukov and other Red army leaders, as most Russians understand things, did not do Stalin's dirty work. That was the job of such party leaders as Khrushchev, V.M. Molotov, Georgi Maslenkov, Nikolai Bulganin, Anastas Mikoyan and the rest of Stalin's politburo.

Zhukov and other army marshals undoubtedly are loyal to the present Soviet leadership. But it should a wave of feeling sweep U.S.S.R. demanding that they take over, would they resist it?

LONDON (Reuters) — The four Western "atomic" powers failed today in a last-minute effort to agree on a common policy for their disarmament talks with Russia starting here this afternoon, diplomatic sources said.

The United States once again declined to support a new Anglo-French plan on the grounds that it would make too many concessions to Russia and weaken Western defence. Canada is the fourth Western power involved in the new disarmament talks.

The American, British, French and Canadian delegates failed in private meetings last week to agree on a common approach in their talks with the Soviet Union in the five-power United Nations disarmament sub-committee.

Diplomatic observers here said that at the last meeting of the Western delegates Friday the United States refused full backing for a new plan which Britain and France proposed to advance at the talks.

STASSEN OPPOSED

Harold Stassen, chief American delegate, was reported to have thought that the plans made too many concessions to Russia, and would weaken Western defence.

The New York Times in a London dispatch says Britain and France will submit a "revised" joint plan for world disarmament when the sub-committee resumes. The dispatch says the plan would provide for broad concessions and "confidence - building" measures.

In addition, a comprehensive three-stage disarmament program would also be worked out. Armed forces and "end up with complete prohibition of the testing, use and manufacture of nuclear weapons."

The UN General Assembly at its last session urged the sub-committee to continue seeking a new disarmament pact and to give priority to President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan for mutual air inspection and the Soviet proposal for establishing control posts at strategic centres.

Both these proposals were understood to be included in the Anglo-French plan.

HOLD-THE-LINE BUDGET LIKELY TO BE PRESENTED

Almost Certain No Substantial Tax Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris likely will introduce a hold-the-line budget in the Commons Tuesday night, proposing to retain the federal government's grip on the bulk of taxes.

Though indications point to a continuing expansion in the economy, federal concern over possible inflation combined with the fact that this is not an election year make it almost certain there will be no substantial tax cuts for the 1956-57 fiscal year that opens April 1.

Instead, the 52-year-old minister, in his second annual fiscal accounting since he moved into the financial slot in mid-1954, may announce a small surplus—possibly favoring book-balancing and credit restraint.

Other features may include proposals to overhaul some segments of the tax structure, including succession duties and the sales tax field.

FAST PACE

The economy has been rolling ahead as a spectacular pace, despite efforts by the government, bank credit restrictions and higher interest rates to keep it from climbing so far that demands for goods will outpace production, paving way for crisis.

But even so the gross national product—value of goods and services produced—which made an unusual $2,500,000,000 increase in 1955 to a record $26,000,000,000 is showing signs of continuing expansion. It may climb to $27,500,000,000 or possibly $28,000,000,000 this year.

Corporate prospects would normally give Mr. Harris a lot of elbow room to reduce taxes if he had the concern over a small deficit. But federal authorities argue that tax cuts, put in at a time of increasing buying power in the hands of consumers, tend to be inflationary when the country is producing at maximum capacity.

They suggest tax cuts may be more likely in 1957-58 when defence needs may decrease slightly, reducing pressure on production. Also, the prospect of a general election will be called in 1957 and the Liberals may seek to ingratiate themselves with lower taxes.

Aside an economic boom always heartens a finance minister—and others, too—the current one may help Mr. Harris in his taken over commitments which will increase federal treasury needs.

Dorval RCAF Hangar and Two Planes Lost in $3,000,000 Fire

MONTREAL (CP)—A $3,000,000 fire today razed an RCAF hangar at Montreal airport's suburban Dorval, destroying a four-engine North Star aircraft and a giant C-119 Flying Boxcar.

The damage estimate was made by RCAF's Air Transport Command. In an official statement the ATC said the estimate was based on a preliminary survey. An investigation is pending.

Five planes and some technical stores were hauled to safety before the fire destroyed the giant three-section hangar.

Two adjacent RCAF offices behind wings were destroyed but firemen from the airport brigade and from Montreal, Dorval, Lasalle and Pointe Claire prevented the blaze from spreading to adjacent hangars of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

NO INJURIES

No one was reported injured during the blaze, punctuated by two explosions. An airport spokesman said he believes the explosions were caused by gasoline stored in the buildings.

The hangar was used by the RCAF's No. 426 Squadron, which flies North Star planes on overseas transport missions. It also was used by No. 436 Squadron which flies C-119 Flying Boxcars in Canada.

Although a thick pall of smoke hung over the fire area, traffic at the airport was not disrupted, Civil authorities said. All flights left on schedule.

Firemen said the outbreak resulted from an explosion in one of the maintenance bays of the giant hangar.

GIRL IS KILLED, THREE OVERCOME BY MONOXIDE GAS

Police Charge Two, Beer Found in Car

TORONTO (CP)—One girl was killed and three companions were overcome Sunday when an old car parked on a deserted beach filled with carbon monoxide fumes.

Jane Gardon, 15, was found dead in the 14-year-old automobile. Doris Harmon, 16, and Randy Hillson, 18, are in hospital; their condition said "slightly improved." Nyle St. Michel, 19, was released after treatment.

Police charged St. Michel and Hillson with contributing to juvenile delinquency. They said beer was found in the car.

The four teen-agers, police said, attended a party in suburban Scarborough Saturday night and later drove to Cherry beach, on the eastern edge of Toronto harbor. Miss Gardon told her companions she had to be home at midnight.

It was at that time that St. Michel, a private in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps stationed at Camp Borden, closed the car windows and left the motor running.

FOUND HER DEAD

He awoke at 5:30 a.m. to find Miss Gardon slumped against his shoulder. He realized she was dead and ran for help.

Const. Slavish, Jr., was dumping snow nearby from his city truck. He flew Mr. Michel for aid and they returned with police.

Randy Hillson was found nearly frozen. He was still unconscious from the car, stiffened in a sitting position. When he regained consciousness it was some time before he could straighten his limbs or speak.

Miss Harmon did not regain consciousness for six hours.

Police said the car had a defective exhaust pipe, manifold and tail pipe and that there were several holes in the floorboards. The battery, they said, was dead and the gas tank empty. Said one: "If the car hadn't been out of gas they would all have died."

Buoyant Economy Cuts Gap Between Revenue, Expenses

Defence Spending Is Up $72,000,000 from Last Year

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government, despite record peacetime spending, estimated today it will end the 1955-56 fiscal year with a deficit less than one-third its forecast of a year ago.

A tax-swelling surge in the economy has pulled the dedicated budget deficit down to $51,700,000 from the $160,000,000 forecast and the $151,900,000 deficit of the 1954-55 year.

Total figures for the current year that ends March 31 were given in a white paper tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Harris in advance of his tax-setting budget to be presented to the House Tuesday night.

The white paper shows budget revenues for the year at $4,383,400,000—second only to those of the year 1955—and expenditures of $4,437,100,000, exceeded only in the war years.

The revenue figure was up by $262,000,000 from 1954-55 and better by $183,000,000 Mr. Harris' forecast in his budget of last spring, in which he cut personal and corporation income tax rates.

The expenditures increased by $182,000,000 from the previous year and were up by $75,000,000 from the budget forecast. The largest increase in defence spending was by $72,000,000 from 1954-55.

The figures given in the 98-page white paper are based on actual returns for 10 months and estimates for the remaining two months. They are subject to revision when the 1955-56 books are closed out about mid-August.

White Paper Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of a government white paper tabled in the Commons today in advance of Finance Minister Harris' Tuesday night budget:

Budget deficit for the year ending March 31 estimated at $51,700,000 compared with $151,900,000 in 1954-55 fiscal year.

Spending figure does not include $305,000,000 for old age security payments, covered by non-budget taxes.

Defence spending, largest budget item, increases $72,000,000 to $1,700,400,000.

Federal government's net debt at March 31 estimated at $11,315,000,000, increased from last year by amount of deficit.

Personal income taxes at $1,180,600,000 down by $3,400,000 from 1954-55 but corporation taxes at $1,025,000,000 up by $14,000,000.

All categories of taxation except corporation taxes expected to yield more than year's budget forecasts as economy rises.

Gross national production for 1955 calendar year $26,024,000,000 compared with $24,148,000,000 in 1954.

Personal income for 1955 estimated at $12,861,000,000, up from $11,989,000,000 in 1954.

Both Rebels and Colonists Face Strict Rule in Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Robert Lacoste, French resident minister, today plunged into his task of iron stamp out 16 months of bloody rebellion in Algeria and initiate broad political and economic reforms for the French North African territory. He was armed with sweeping new powers to curb a flow of fresh troops.

He outlined initial plans for economic and administrative reform, and served notice on French resident colonists clamoring for immediate execution of 86 condemned Algerian rebels that he would not listen to "this extremely delicate matter regulated in the streets."

A powerful Parliamentary "elders' committee has threatened to shut down all municipal cafes in Algeria Wednesday unless the rebels are executed. The sentences are under appeal.

Lacoste called for "general discipline" and "peace" in a million-odd Europeans and 8,000,000 Moslems, and banned all demonstrations.

His new powers, granted last week by the French parliament, permit him to streamline army administration for more-effective operations, speed up military shipments, create new curfew zones and order French naval units to help the Algerian coast.

Algiers already is under a midnight-to-5 a.m. curfew. The curfew starts four hours earlier in 15 neighboring towns.

At Oran, 1,500 fresh troops streamed ashore during the weekend.

Two armored divisions were flown down from France's NATO forces in Germany, one of them commanded by Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries, commander of the unsuccessful French defence of Dien Bien Phu in Indochina. France already has an estimated 200,000 troops in Algeria.

Expect Cypriot Terrorists Will Be Beaten in 6 Months

By L. B. CHAKALES

NICOSIA (AP)—British authorities appeared confident today that they can break the Cyprus terrorist movement within six months and pave the way for new negotiations on the status of Archbishop Makarios' island's future.

Brig. Gerry St. Luther, chief of staff of the island's security force, told reporters that his men have "got the upper hand" against the EOKA, terrorist branch of the union-with-Greece movement led by this British colony.

"It won't say we've broken it (EOKA) but my developments have been significant," he added.

As yet, he continued, there has been no visible let-up in the EOKA terror campaign. But Cypriot leaders agree that none of their countrymen dare negotiate with British authorities for fear of a knife at the hands of the secret organization. Even the Archbishop's representative of EOKA would change things.

Violence which has gripped the island for the last year hit a new pitch after the British authorities deported Archbishop Makarios, Greek Orthodox leader of the union-with-Greece movement, who was exiled to the Seychelle Islands in the Indian ocean 10 days ago.

Four masked men invaded a church outside Nicosia Sunday and shot down a Greek Cypriot choir singer after calling him a traitor. The slayers got away.

EOKA has killed 20 British servicemen in Cyprus since it started and has slain at least 25 alleged Cypriot "traitors" in the last year. Greek Cypriots have refused to cooperate with British authorities investigating the killings.

Both Baker and Governor Sir John Harding say information is finally beginning to flow to the security forces. But thus far they have been able to penetrate only to the hard core of EOKA, estimated at less than 150 militants.

Worker Charged With Slaying of Estranged Wife

OSHAWA (CP) — A 30-year-old Toronto laborer Saturday was charged with murder in the screwdriver slaying of his estranged wife at the home of her son in Oshawa.

Nicholas Drobot, an employee of a Toronto paint-brush factory, was arrested after his wife Marie, about 55, ran screaming from the house to a next door neighbor and collapsed on the bottom step in a pool of blood.

Police said she had been stabbed in the back with a screw-driver.

Drobot is to appear in court today.

Police said Mrs. Drobot had been staying at the home of her son for the last three weeks. He was a son by a previous marriage.

Neighbors said the Toronto rooming-house where the Drobots lived said the couple quarrelled frequently. Drobot, a native of Poland, emigrated from Germany two or three years ago. They had lived in the three-storey brick house for about two months.

The Toronto rooming-house-keeper said Drobot left the house Saturday morning. Police said they believed Drobot had gone to Oshawa to attempt a reconciliation with his wife.

RECAPTURE COLD BOA

PARIS (Reuters)—Rajah, a 15-foot boa constrictor, was recaptured today after three weeks of freedom in the Pigalle night club quarter here. The snake was found half-frozen and 35 pounds underweight in a courtyard only a few hundred yards from the night club where he vanished from his owner's car Feb. 27. The owner, snake charmer Mario Bertolo, had left Rajah in the car inside a suitcase.

Three Firemen Badly Injured Fighting Blaze

IBERVILLE, Que. (CP)—Three volunteer firemen were seriously injured Sunday while battling a blaze which destroyed the two storey home of Lionel Lemaire in this town some 20 miles southeast of Montreal.

The three, L. Champagne, H. Laplante and L. Hebert, were removed to hospital in nearby St. Johns, Que., after one of the church walls collapsed on top of them.

U.S. Air Force Scientists Find Way To Release Sunlight Stored in Air

BALTIMORE (AP)—The United States Air Force research and development command says its scientists have found a way of freeing "chemically stored sunlight" in the earth's atmosphere.

Headquarters in an announcement said, the experiments may lead to the release of the huge stored energy for soft uses as the propulsion of rocket ships high in the atmosphere.

Scientists found in the laboratory that energy locked in atomic oxygen could be released by adding the gas nitric oxide, the announcement said.

Nitric oxide, they found, has the property of bringing two oxygen atoms together to form an oxygen molecule and release light. The light is actually sunlight which has been stored chemically in oxygen atoms.

To test the laboratory discovery, a rocket was sent 60 miles aloft from Holloman. It released nitric oxide gas under high pressure into the atmosphere.

A flood of light resulted. In less than 10 minutes the light had grown in size and it seemed from the earth to be about four times the diameter of the moon.

New York Area Again Smothered By Big Snowfall

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter, refusing to say die, today smothered the New York area with a second major blast of the weekend. It brought the toll of persons killed in the United States to 95.

New England faced a similar prospect as the storm moved northward during the morning.

In New York and the wide area which supplies a large part of the city's working population, trains stalled entirely or ran late. Some businesses and most schools didn't even open after the weekend.

The Queensboro bridge was shut down. Even the usually reliable New York subways were halted in spots.

President Eisenhower was snowbound part of the weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, but started back to Washington by car this morning.

Robert Fitton Will Stand Trial On Murder Count

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Fitton, 21-year-old mail-truck driver, today committed for trial, charged with murder in the strangulation of 19-year-old Linda Lampkin last Jan. 16.

Twenty witnesses were called during the three-day preliminary hearing in magistrate's court.

Pravda Hails New Era of Courage 'In Disclosing Blunders of Leaders'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The official Communist party newspaper Pravda reports that party meetings throughout Russia have shown "that the party needs the birthpangs days ago after denunciation of the late Soviet leader at February's party congress of Stalin marched through the streets. They were reported to have become more rowdy the next day. The situation in Georgia now is believed to be under control.

Foreign diplomats in Moscow, however, have been told that Soviets and hotel accommodation for travel to Tiflis, in Georgia, are "unavailable."

Pravda hails a new era in the party with members now "more courageous in disclosing the mistakes and the blunders of the leadership, which had been usually overlooked in the past."

The meetings met with enthusiasm the measures taken by the central committee to re-introduce the Leninist principles of the inter-party life, and above all the principle of collective leadership and widely to explain the Marxist thesis on the part of the individual in history and the necessity to do away with the cult of individual, foreign as it is to Communist thinking."

Gerden Brant introduced Mr. Salisbury of Belleville.

Mrs. F. Smith Hurt in Crash At Intersection

Mrs. Frank Smith, Burnham St., is in Belleville General Hospital with possible broken ribs following a two-car collision at the corner of Bridge and Coleman streets on Saturday afternoon.

With motorists "on their own" at the Coleman and Bridge street corner since a traffic light was knocked out in an accident about two weeks ago, Smith's car was struck broadside by another auto driven by Peter Lount the staff of the Checker Taxi building. Damage to Mrs. Smith's auto was about $1,500, while Lount's car had $500.

Mrs. Smith was eastbound on Bridge when her car was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Fred Conley of Trenton. Mrs. Smith was taken to the hospital and went to hospital for a check-up.

Saturday afternoon a three - car rear end collision on Coleman St. just south of the Bridge street intersection caused over $300 damage.

Cars driven by Allan E. Haw, 73 Hanson Crescent and by John R. Histed, 167 Pine street, were stopped at the intersection when the third car driven by Charles Williams of Demorestville was unable to stop and slammed into the rear of the Histed vehicle pushing it into the Haw car.

A fire incident resulting in nearly $400 damage occurred at the corner of Victoria and Charles St. when cars driven by Thomas Lynch, 153 Pinnacle and Thomas Pullen, 350 Charles street, collided. Mr. Puller suffered a bruised left knee and shock.

City Softball Association Organized Fifteen Teams May Form New Loop

Thirty softball enthusiasts, including many from Belleville industries and business, spent two hours attempting to organize a commercial type softball league yesterday but failed to accomplish much.

The name for the league, the election of an executive and a rough idea of how many teams will participate was the result, leaving many problems to be solved.

Bob Bland was named the president of the "City Softball Association". Approximately seven persons were nominated but declined leaving Mr. Bland the only one standing. He will be supported by Mr. Ray Hall, vice-president and Leroy McBrien in the secretary-treasurers chair. Each team entering the league will name a member to the executive committee while the executive of the Belleville and District Softball League will act as advisory board.

Seventeen teams expressed desires to enter the proposed league at the beginning of the meeting but by the close the number was reduced to 15. Teams Stegles-Adamson, Post Office, Income Tax Office, Bell Telephone, Electric, Loblaws, Bakelite, Corby's Distillery, Industrial Acceptance, Avon Jewellers, Meat Packers, Corbin Lock, Bank of Montreal, Ontario Paper, Canadian Ordnance Navy, Provincial Police and the Fire Department were possible entries.

During the meeting the Post Office and Income Tax teams combined as did the Police and Firemen. Several other teams were undecided because of player, money and time problems. The Bank of Montreal team may be joined by other bank players because of a small staff. It may be decided at a later meeting to attempt to combine other teams to cut the league down.

One of the major problems facing the league is the lack of playing fields. Should 14 or even 12 teams participate with only one field available, scheduling would be impossible. A committee, consisting of the league executive, will meet with Lloyd "Red" Dorrin this Friday night to discuss repairing and using the lights at the Ameliasite Field for night games. Double or triple headers will almost be a necessity. It was felt that at least two fields would be needed.

A good deal of time was spent discussing what players would be eligible, if imports would be allowed and as to what restrictions would be enforced. It is expected that each team will be allowed two players who do not work for the sponsor but they cannot have played in any league governed by OASA ball for the past year. A pitcher cannot pitch if he has or he had played even two years ago. The job of a committee to decide on players' eligibility was also heard but no decisions were made as it is expected to cause problems.

The league may affiliate with the OASA and may use the softball insurance plan provided by that organization. It was suggested that Mr. Bland be the vice-president of the B and D League and organizer of the Softball Association, that this league operate on as low a budget as possible.

It is expected another meeting will be called in the near future.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrial prices were a shade higher during first-hour trading on the stock exchange today. There was little trend in the base metal and western oil sections.

Papers, steels, refining oils and utilities rallied for a ward. Price changes were entirely in fractions. Imperial Oil, Steep Rock and Bathuronto-Dominion Bank were among issues adding 50 cents or more.

Higher-priced golds were sluggish, Gaspe Copper added ⅛, Labrador eased the same amount. Eastern Mining and Consolidated Morrison were winners.

A handful of uranium gained up to 10 cents, including Milliken, Nesbitt Labine and Spanish American. Merrill and Pacific firmed small fractions in western oils.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers and heifers were in moderate demand at steady prices, over fully 50 cents a hundredweight higher, bulls steady.

Prices: choice steers 15-18.50; good, 13.50-15; medium 12-13.50; common 12-15; choice heifers 16; good 15-15.50; medium 13.50-14.50; common 12-13.50; choice fed yearlings 18-19; odd baby steers 20; good 17-18; medium 15-16.50; common 12.50-13; canners and cutters down to 7; good heavy bologna bulls 13-13.50; common and medium light bulls down to 9.

6 British M.P.'s Narrowly Escape Singapore Riot

SINGAPORE (AP)—Six British members of Parliament narrowly escaped Communist-led rioters who hurled stones, bricks and bottles Sunday night during an independence-for-Singapore rally.

Police said 3 persons, including 27 policemen, were injured in the crowd violence. At least 40,000 Chinese civilians were arrested, among them two girls and two Chinese students.

Police said preliminary investigation showed that Communists inspired some 2,000 young Chinese to start the riot which broke up the rally at the Singapore international airport.

The rally had been called by all Singapore's political parties to show the six visiting deputies that the island expects to be ready for independence, promised the mainland federation of Malaya by August, 1957.

Will Donate Books

KINGSTON (CP)—About 2,000 to 4,000 books will be given to three penitentiaries and the Frontenac county jail for their libraries by Brig. C. D. Gulliman.

Brig. Gulliam closed his book store Saturday and said he will donate the books to the prisons Wednesday. About 1,000 books will go to Kingston and Collins bay penitentiaries and 500 to the women's prison and Frontenac county jail.

17 Meet Death In Accidents In East Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weekend accident toll climbed to 17 in eastern Canada as Ontario counted 12 dead.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p. m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed eight killed in traffic accidents, four drownings and two persons burned to death.

Nova Scotia had two dead, Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Quebec one each.

Two Ottawa girls, Donna Lynn Horchler, 5, and Susan Milton, 5, were drowned in the Ottawa river Saturday while playing near a snow dump.

GUN DISCHARGES

Jack Zimmerman, 34 was strangled Saturday when he became entangled in the chain on a swing at his Vermont home.

Orren Green, 59, was killed when he slipped on ice slaps at his home near Wellandport and his shotgun discharged accidently, wounding him in the stomach.

Jane Carden, 15, died when the car in which she was a passenger filled with carbon monoxide fumes at Toronto Sunday. Three companions escaped.

Other Ontario deaths:

Lloyd Landry, 5, drowned in Lake Ontario at Bronte Saturday; Mrs. Bertha Hodgeway, 70.

Sammy Gardner, 65, struck by a car Saturday in Toronto;

Mrs. Margrette Cousins, 34, in a car-truck crash Saturday at Windsor;

Arthur Collis, 7, struck by a car in Orillia Saturday;

Mrs. Grace Barker in a car crash at Chatham Friday night.

Four Chosen To Represent Farmers on Tour

GUELPH (CP) — Four young people were chosen Saturday to represent the Ontario Farmers' Junior Association on a tour of the British Isles.

They are: David W. Barrie, Watrloo county; Myrtle Stewart, Dufferin county; Eleanor L. Hill, of Carleton county, and Malcolm McLaren, Elgin county.

Chosen at the association's three-day conference at the Guelph Agricultural College, the quartet is expected to leave for the United Kingdom in May and return in July. Young farmers from British will visit Ontario at the same time.

The association also chose Mrs. Arthur Bennett, wife of the agricultural representative of Peel and Halton counties, to represent them at the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario.

St. Mary's River Open April 5th

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Navigation on the St. Mary's river joining Lake Superior and Lake Huron is expected to open April 5.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw will conduct an aerial survey of the 40-mile river. The survey showed that ice covers 80 per cent of the river above the locks here.

There was still two feet of ice on Lakes Nicolet and Munuscong, the river entrance. Top speed was delaying the breakup.

There was open water into Lake Superior from Whitefish point. The first American lock was expected to open April 1.

CHOOSE NUCLEAR CENTRE

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States announced on Thursday night the Philippines had been chosen as the site for a $20,000,000 nuclear research centre for Asia. A spokesman for the International Co-operation Administration said that work would be started as soon as possible on the project.

Nassau Story

Finds Bahama Fishing Poor But Scenery Most Entrancing

By ELMER BONTER

NASSAU, Bahamas. (Special)—Sam Underwood, the captain of the "Cooker" told me fishing party I was with to "quit "strike" when it did not hit the bait. I believe I was more excited than anybody else on board that sturdy, twin-engine cruiser, because I kept imagining I'd hook a deep sea monster like the one described by a fellow I met over a basket of chicken at the Imperial several nights earlier.

The chap, a New York commercial photographer, I thought had learned the secret of living and was applying the principles. He told me he fished Nassau waters three months a year and only went back to work when he ran out of money. As soon as he gathered another bundle in the city he was head south for one of his favorite place and pastime. The more this enthused, talked the more I got to like him.

One story impressed more than the others. Apparently he fished most of the time. The water in the Nassau area, the 700 islands and islands the bottom of the ocean is visible with the naked eye more than 100 feet down. He claimed he only fished when he saw fish.

HOOKED BIG RAY

But the one about a deadly snake-like fish a member of the ray family grabbing his hook, sent shivers up my spine particularly when I knew I'd be fishing some of the same spots. Rather than try and land it, the fish, equally ferocious than a man-eating shark, he claimed, twisted how he tossed his 66-pound test line and tackle into the ocean after it. He "demolished" the rod and a few in the same boat with an ocean cannibal. Although I knew I wouldn't admit this, I thought, would be the biggest fibber in the whole world including Nassau.

Then he gave me a hair-raising account of a vacation trip he made to an ocean hole where a shark 16 feet long played a game like hide and seek with him. Finally he winced again as he recalled watching every other finned creature flee in terror from the tiger of the depths.

SET OUT FIRST FISH

As is the custom, the members of the party put a dollar each in a pool, the person landing the first fish and landing it to get the pot which amounted to $6 in this instance. Other prizes for properties were pushing the 35-foot hull through the water toward Hog Island, 10 miles to the east of New Providence. The skyline of Nassau was barely visible behind a low ground of lime colored sea water churned into foam.

Lloyd Worrall, who had been present on the first excursion, expected the first position would be pocketed by Ernie Dower of Newburyport, Mass., was finding it hard to wait until the captain gave the order to start fishing. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kozmuk of Ridgeway, Ont., looked for excitement.

GOT HEAVY STRIKE

There were only two positions on board to fish from. Worrall and I, as if prearranged, pulled the numbers out of a hat for the 2 chairs and the first 30 minutes of fishing in relation. Then it was my turn. A second turn when suddenly I felt a terrific jerk. I stiffened myself as I cranked frantically. Frankly I was timid about looking down at the water behind the boat in case I should see this giant and get scared and loose my nerve. I had heard about the cash prize to think about.

The first mate noticed great disappointment of the vacation. When the fish broke water in the swells in the wake the stern my hopes were shattered, although to keep the record straight, I must confess I breathed easier. The captain's helper identified the catch as a "cero" weighing 5 pounds. The feeling that comes with victory is shimmered in my body but was soon replaced by a stronger sensation when the green folding currency commenced rolling in.

SCENERY GRAND

From a fisherman's standpoint the seven hours at sea was a flop. But those who like scenery must have been in their glory.

The trip back on the way out the cruiser passed a small island ideal, I thought, for a Robinson Crusoe plot. The captain said the owner named it Treasure Island. A single row of tall swaying palms from one end to the centre, led to a low mound surrounded by a lush green oasis on the other point. The only complete excepting for a man on the beach waving a tattered shirt. The longer I looked at this beautiful little island the stronger the desire to explore it for a chest of gold I'd wager was buried there by one of the swashbuckling pirates who waylaid Spanish ships loaded with gold mined from Haiti in the days soon after Columbus discovered America.

Rose Island is a long narrow strip possessing coral and beaches almost the entire length of it. Offshore the waters range in color from deep green to pale charteuse. Certainly it is the ideal lovely only a few feet above the surf, are lovely red, fine sky, invariably blue, was flecked by white and fluffy cumulus clouds. All this was presented in a steady cool breeze and warm sunshine.

ONLY LIMIT IS OFF

Regardless of stories I'd been told about deep sea fishing I was ready to argue that Bay Bay of Quinte was comparable. The catch headed back for Nassau carrying an unimpressive string of fish. However I did see a two pound Barracuda that Worrall landed and listened to a first-hand account of a bottle T.C.A. playboy's encounter with a 30-pound kingfish. That was some of the hauls the party had the day I stayed behind.

The waters around Rose Island are considered natural feeding grounds for sub-tropical fish but sadly I have to report almost all of them were off their food the day I was there.

The natives prefer grouper to any other fish taken from the surrounding waters. The name smile that came across steward Lockhart Carwright's face when I handed him my catch back at the hotel was well worth the failure and expense involved, believe me.

General Motors Will Aid Schools Teach Driving

OSHAWA (CP)—W. A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, today announced a "joint operation" General Motors and its dealers across Canada to give driving lessons to high-school students.

Under the program, cars would be lent by dealers to the schools without charge and would be used in training purposes during the school year. Cars would be equipped with dual controls and other special equipment.

Individual dealers would participate in the program in association with local school authorities and the overall program would be tied in with school driving courses already in effect in some areas.

The company recommends that students bodies applying for the course provide a minimum of 20 hours' classroom instruction and 8 hours behind the wheel driving instruction per pupil a year.

Greater Chance To Catch Bass May Be Given

TORONTO (CP) — Sportsmen in Ontario will have a greater chance to catch bass and, in one area, moose, if resolutions passed at the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association annual convention Saturday are accepted by the Ontario government.

But winter sportsmen would be deprived of fishing through the ice of northern Ontario's lakes for week in all but the Thunder bay area.

Resolutions passed at the closing session of the convention, which will be passed on to various government departments, asked that the 14-inch size limit be taken off bass, that the bass fishing season open in the Lake of the Woods area on the first of July, and that there be no fishing for lake trout between Oct. 15 and April 5. Government officials have already indicated they may favor the last.

The outfitters voted to change their name to Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters Association, inserting the word Tourist to tell the general public that they are outfitters of hunting and fishing parties.

Ontario Travel Minister Cathcart and Lands and Forests Ministers Mapledoram were made honorary members of the association. Ben Cummuskey of Kenora was re-elected president. Secretary-manager DIE. Scott of Dryden was also named treasurer.

Drawing Starts On Tickets for Irish Sweeps

DUBLIN (AP)—Officials began drawings today in a near-record Irish sweepstakes. More than 36,000,000 tickets were sold to be distributed to lucky ticket holders on horses in the March 24 running of the Grand National.

For two days before the drawing, almost 4,000,000 tickets had tumbled about in a huge drum under the blasts of electric fans.

The drawings collect 18 lucky ticket holders for each of the 61 horses entered in the race. Only about half the horses are expected to start, so the holding tickets on the 61 will qualify for some prize.

The huge pot will provide 18 first prizes of £40,000 each to holders of tickets on the winning horse, 18 prizes of £10,000 each to those with the second place horse and £10,000 each to the 18 with tickets on the third place horse.

In addition, these prizes will be supplemented by £317 in each of 1,041 ticket holders: £100 to 1,260 ticket holders, and £10 to 3,600 ticket holders.

Smaller cash prizes will go to another 30 holders.

Finnish General Strike Settled

HELSINKI (Reuters) — Agreement to end Finland's general strike was reached early today by trade unions and employers, and work will be resumed Tuesday, 20 days after the strike began.

Unions called the strike to support demands for a wage increase of 12 marks (about seven cents) to compensate for a rise in food prices last January. The Employers' Confederation offered 6½ marks, which Trades Union Federation rejected.

Game Warden Believes Deer Shot Illegally, Can't Find It

TRENTON (Special) — Reg. McCullough, Campbellford game warden, has a real goose mystery on his hands. He is buzzing for a deer, out of season true, but there is nothing illegal about it. The deer is dead!

The animal lay down beside the barn and died.

Curiosity coursed through the community when word of the animal's death spread and in no time neighbors were on their way to the Hogan homestead to gaze upon the creature. So many were on their way in fact that at one time there were fifteen cars parked outside the barnyard.

Word spread further afield to Trenton police department, who informed the Brighton provincial police detachment, who passed on the news to game warden McCullough. However, all this took a little time and when McCullough finally arrived he had to look twice at the spot where on so many people had gazed upon the dead animal. However, no end of looking showed him anything. The deer was gone, without leaving a trace beyond a few bloodstains in the snow.

Although its sex is undetermined, the dead animal had two bullet holes in its body, McCullough was told.

This isn't the first incident of illegal deer-shooting reported in the Trenton district.

One woman in the vicinity says she heard recently of a deer being shot on a farm west of the town here. The marksman in this alleged shooting has not been apprehended. Mrs. Ralph Hill, R.R. 4 Trenton, lives in the area, is the Anglican Church cemetery of St. George's, also reported seeing a deer in the region of her farm several times during the winter.

Dulles Believes More Flexible Policy Needed

TOKYO (AP)—State Secretary Dulles of the United States headed home today from his Asian tour, reported convinced that the U.S. needs a "more flexible" foreign economic policy to counter the new Communist danger.

Dulles took off by plane for Honolulu en route to Washington to report to President Eisenhower and the American people on his swing through south Asia and the Far East.

A high source said Dulles considers the Communist threat in the Asian capitals that American economic policy need changing, but he did not specify what the secretary had in mind.

Child Strangled

TORONTO (CP) — Four-year-old Leslie Zimmerman was strangled Saturday in the chain of his backyard swing, police said Monday. Another child, swinging limply from the four-seat swing only minutes after a group of children had been playing about it.

The child was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

11 Flee Flames

TORONTO (CP) — Eleven persons fled a mid-town apartment building Sunday night when fire broke out in the basement quarters of Mr. and Mrs. William Peirce.

Gordon Hayward 17, ran through the four-storey building rousing tenants after he noticed smoke about 11:30 p. m. Firemen reached the blaze to the one apartment.

Mrs. Peirault family was out at the time. Cause of the fire was not determined. Damage was $6,200.

HOW RUSSIA TRAINS SPECIALISTS

In recent weeks, several authorities in the West have warned that Russia is outstripping us in the production of engineers and technicians.

In this connection, it might be interesting to consider a Russian explanation of that nation's program for training young technical specialists. Such an outline is provided by the report of an interview with M. Prokofyev, Deputy Minister of Higher Education of the USSR, as published in "Soviet News Bulletin," issued by the Russian embassy in Ottawa.

At present, according to Mr. Prokofyev, there are 650,000 students in the Soviet Union's "technical higher schools" and 200,000 at agricultural higher schools.

"The desire to train specialists with wide qualifications does not mean to train specialists who have a mere sum of theoretical knowledge but have no practical experience in one or another field of the national economy," says the Deputy Minister. "On the contrary, the Soviet system of training specialists of higher qualifications enables future specialists to acquire practical habits while studying at the higher schools."

This is done by requiring future engineers to spend no less than thirty weeks and future agronomists up to fifty weeks in practical training, mastering methods or working right on the job.

"The improvement in training specialists also depends upon the constant raising of the qualifications of the teaching staff," says Mr. Prokofyev. The staff at institutions of higher learning now number over 100,000. Professors' assistants are granted paid leaves of one year's duration for completion of their theses on work and pursuing themes for their master of science degrees.

Great stress is also laid on the publication of text books. During the fifth five-year plan, more than 1,450 text books, with both general and special subjects were published. The Soviet News Bulletin says that these books were published "in a total edition of about 38,800 copies," but this number appears extraordinarily low in the face of 850,000 technical and agricultural students and averages out to only 28 copies for each of the 1,450 titles. There appears to have been a typographical error here, a supposition given added weight by an unusually large space between "33" and "500." The sixth five-year plan provides for the preparation of 900 new or extensively revised text books by Soviet scientists and it is also planned to publish 10 Russian a number of text books written in other countries.

A FAULTY ARGUMENT

The Christian Science Church in Ontario has presented a brief to the Ontario Legislature's health committee, asking that its members be exempted from contributing to the province's proposed health insurance and hospital care plan.

One can sympathize with Christian Scientists, who sincerely believe that human ailments can be cured by prayer and spiritual means, in their desire to refrain from paying for a service which they do not believe they need.

At the same time, it is surely obvious that Premier Frost and his government will be placed in an impossible position if they once grant exemptions of this type from any health insurance plan which is compulsory for the general public.

There are probably some people who believe that automobiles are an invention of the devil, yet they pay taxes to construct and maintain roads.

Those Christian Scientists who feel they like it or not, are helping to pay for medical care, for indigents.

A sincere conviction that the state should not pay to educate children does not enable anybody to escape paying school taxes.

There is no guarantee that some Christian Scientists, becoming ill, might not find his convictions that doctors are unnecessary were seriously shaken when not desire medical attention and hospital care. What should be done in his case, if he had previously claimed exemption from payments under a health insurance plan?

Christian Scientists, it would appear, will just have to make payments to the health plan as part of the price of citizenship, just as pacifists pay taxes to help equip and maintain armies, navies and air forces.

KREMLIN PLAYS BY NEW RULES

The Kremlin Kids apparently mean just what they say when they declare that one-man dictatorship is undesirable and inefficient and that collective leadership is the only effective way to govern a modern nation.

First, and most striking example of this new collective leadership was the demotion of Georgi Malenkov. The West was convinced that this was just another Stalinstyle purge and that Malenkov was headed for the glare of Siberia. Since his demotion, however, he has been entrusted with a highly responsible position, developing Russia's electrical power facilities. There were some who were convinced that this post was just a camouflage, a brief resting place on the way to the firing squad. Now, however, Malenkov is visiting Britain. A man who believed he was on the highway to death or slave labor would scarcely not miss an opportunity like this. So, unless Britain is shortly asked to play host to a very high-ranking political refugee, we shall have to conclude that Russia is playing the game by new rules, that the commissar caught in mistakes will, in future, merely lose power, not his life or his liberty.

To it. Till I'd mastered the rules of arithmetic.
But I wasted my chance, and I sigh today
And I understand what they write or say,
And my poor, weak brain cannot grasp at all
Their clear instructions in printing small.
I read what they print from
A to Z.
But it doesn't mean anything to me.
I flounder about and I try once more,
But I'm still in the dark as before,
My knowledge is poor and my method lax,
And I never can figure my income tax.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 19, 1936

Yesterday's heavy snow followed by intense cold rain flooded Belleville streets as storm sewers became over taxed in handling the water onto the streets. Miniature rivers and lakes resulted as the waters rushed the streets rose to heights seldom before witnessed in this city. Efforts to relieve the storm sewers proved too great to accomplish as the rain sewers encrusted regulars once again and the waters of the Bay became more sucking and continued to overflow its banks on both sides. All night water poured into cellars along Front Street that previously had been pumped nearly dry. The streets were no place for people without rubber boots; the passengers across the flooded section of Coleman Street at West Bridge Street during certain hours of the day. This section was the only one in the city in response to the requests of dozens of citizens who had previously been forced to cross over the upper bridges to reach their homes and this is considerably out of their way. The truck will commence service at 7 a.m.

Ice removed from Corbyville dam northward though some at it is broken up and came from the edges stated William Reynolds, merchant at Corbyville, today. It was added that the ice north of Corbyville dam does not look too good.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"EARLY MORNING IN AMERICA"

In a recent statement from the Ford Motor Company they spoke of "early morning in America" and stated that "the true meaning of the new America is that it is waking out of its fields and the cities is a new kind life and a new sense of well-being." The statement said that all this "is based on faith in the dynamic quality of the American spirit, and lessly thrusting toward a better future."

It is such a dream as this that has revitalized the thinking and planning of the nations of the world. There are no closed days to men of goodwill—it's always morning to them! New hope, new desires, new plans—new determinations. All wrapped in faith!

"Boss" Kettering of General Motors is one of the most forward thinking men in the world. He has stated that there are not enough great minds to fill the demands of the farms and industry.

I read in my newspaper of pages of calls for engineers. What an opportunity for the boys of today! There are more jobs than there are men to fill them.

Incentive and initiative are what have brought about the "early morning in America." Without them there would be nothing but stagnation and we would still be up ahead and mark out achievement. There is not an inch of space to spare for a discouraged or the over-all picture of a free America! Let's play for it!

To be genuinely free ideas must be free, and their expression unrestricted. They are what give incentive to be discoverers and inventors. How rich in spirit are our scientists! They are the silent day and night workers whose courage and devotion have placed them among the heroes of the world. Yes, this is the "early morning in America!" The day that God will surely bless.

Russians at North Pole

(By Tikhon Syromiatkin in USSR Illustrated News)

Our aeroplane, with flying weight of 17 tons, was headed for drifting Polar station "North Pole 4". The only other passenger apart from myself was the head of the Northern Sea Route.

We took off. Nothing except ice in sight. Sometimes one can see small cracks and fine veins. We are winging our way towards the Pole, and yet the sun here shines like everywhere else. Only the icicles seem so extraordinarily remote, blue and colorless; and the surrounding space is so vast that one's eyes fail to encompass it all.

We have already been flying for three hour, three hours in this boundless space, over the quiescent emerald ice, in the awful silence. Land is now 1,500 kilometres distant. We are somewhere in the neighborhood of the drifting ice-floe. And then we are suddenly caught by dense clouds. One can sense the crew's silent concern about the landing. Several hours have passed, the drifting station "NP-4", only reluctantly appears on the horizon of our big plane, which needs a landing strip of 1,000 metres; the drifting station has only 800 metres long and, moreover, the snow is friable.

The plane starts flying in circles and the navigator tells us that we are above the station. The pilot evidently makes up his mind to land.

The altitude drops and our plane touches the ice-floe. Gradually beginning to feel low, too, for I fully realize the power of the Polar Black tents flash by under the wing, and the navigator tells us to get ready to land.

We hurriedly change places. Involuntarily I touch the clipper and I sought to conceal my gesture but my travelling companion caught it on the fly. Old sea! "It takes two minutes for the plane to sink!"

I really was not anxious to see our plane crash. I was only curious into a sort of U-boat, should it be unable to make the short strip before reaching the free water ahead.

On a sudden we held our breath because of a violent shock, and even more because of the sense of expectation.

The plane ran on the ice two, four, five hundred metres, and came to a dead stop. I thought that I should feel relief at this, but because of the sharp halt.

The pilot came toward us. At first I felt a little slightly out of breath, but he said quite calmly:

"We landed on 380 metres. But don't tell anybody, they would not believe you. It is technically impossible."

The head of "NP-4", Gordienko, rather stoutish, came running to us on the plane. We were all out on overflowing joy we all started kissing each other.

And so, we are on the North Pole.

There was a helicopter awaiting us on the airfield and we soon reached the station "North Pole 4".

All around, in a calculated disorder, are set up many little cabins and tents. They are all painted in the peculiar color against the snow in the open is melting while it is cold and frosty in the dwellings. It was the beginning of August and there were pools of water on the surface of the ice. The North Pole the upper crust of ice melts in the summer. Gordienko led us "main room", as they ambitiously call a rather unusual dwelling. It was a large tent, with boxes covered on top with thick planks. Here we had our meals. Here it we walked into the mess room. In an oblong tent, with wooden planks on the floor, there stood two long tables which could accommodate about 20 persons, and a tile-lined stove. The floor, that is the two-metre-thick ice layer, was covered with sheets of plywood and carpet strips. Here it was also the wall-newspaper, which gives a rather humorous account of the station's life and work, and the map showing the route of the drift, the "mess room" could easily pass for the kind of small Oriental restaurant. On the table there were bottles of Borjomi water, fruits and even Kolonia. It was all laid out on the occasion of the plane's arrival.

The dinner was a noisy and cheerful affair, it was attended by the whole staff of the station, with the exception of watchmen and the man on duty.

The man on duty keeps the station's observatory under vigilant observation. He must not lose sight of anything that is taking place on the drifting floe: the appearance of a bird or of a polar bear, or of a crack on the floe, or he may have heard something. He has to see and hear on the horizon an unidentified airplane (that happens too). Even a dog flight must be recorded in short the man on duty is concerned with everything that goes on. Nothing must escape observation on a drifting floe. Everything is of interest to observers. Even from the ice surface right up to the stratosphere, as well as beneath the ice, down to the bottom of the ocean, the bottom included.

"In fact ours is a weather service for the ships of the North-Sea Route," he begins. "The data collected by coastal or continental stations are insufficient for complete picture of the ice condition on the Northern Sea Route. We, the drifting stations, are the general ice drift in the central basin of the Arctic Ocean. That's our job. Our work is to help organize regular shipping along the Northern Sea Route.

I noticed that there were loaded sledges standing alongside every cabin and tent. The load was skillfully wrapped in tarpaulin and solidly secured to the sledge with excellent Manila rope. Alongside the radio room stood a sledge loaded with a complete portable radio station. All these sledges are always ready for use, each cabin and tent, provide a good inflatable boat with oars, swellers live on the alert. At a moment's notice they are ready to leave their cabins for any place anywhere else. That may happen at any moment. Only recently, some ten or seven days ago, during the drifting "Polar Station 3", experienced a catastrophe: the partial breakup on their floe.

Since September 1955, the ice floe has been almost constantly subject to strong pressure. Huge hummocks are slowly forming on the edge of the free water and were already 7 to 8 metres high near the camp. During the winter there had been several cracks in the ice floe, which ran near the cabins and tents. Many a time the camp had been forced to change place separated by wide stretches of free water. In the dark Polar night 10 to 15 degrees below zero degrees F., the station staff had to move to the ice floe on many different occasions. It is worthy of note that even during these difficult circumstances the valuable observations never halted for a single minute.

On the summons of the head of the hydrologist, Nikolai Volkov, chief of a neighboring drifting station "NP-5" arrived by to "NP-4". Volkov's "ice domain" is two hours' flying distance from Gordienko's. They are friends, as they are jokingly referred to each other, although the elder Gordienko's floe is as flat as a Ukrainian steppe, while the other, Volkov's, is mountainous, more like the Caucasus. Volkov's floe was first piled up on his floe, and it is amid them that the drifting station's structures have been set up. There is a single landing-strip there, a radio room, a personal ice ridge, where the station's airplane usually rests on land. Our plane was too big to land there, and that was why Volkov came to us on his small aircraft.

We walked into a little structure that reminded one of a tent. That was the radio room. It was cozy there, there was a good normal temperature, and the equipment was first-rate. It never occurred to me that there was no dust here. Where could it come from? No atmospheric dust and the nearest coast is 1,600 kilometres away. Even a vacuum cleaner could ever carry it this far. And what dust could have been brought in by the expedition has long since been vacuum-cleaned by the Northern gales.

We soon took off from the same air strip. We had two scientists with us, who were three students. They were in the role of "physicians" who were to attend a lung case—an ice-bound convoy of ships which had to be freed in the Western part of the Soviet Arctic regions.

Best to Dry With Boots on

(Montreal Gazette)

Wyoming evidently isn't the kind of West it used to be. No true Wyoming son, a generation or two ago, would have been as ignorant of leather lore as Wayne Hamilton of Cheyenne proved to be recently.

Hamilton, a student at Dartmouth, was out on three accounts who climbed mile-high Mount Katahdin last Tuesday. They spent two nights in a tent on the peak, then started back. On the way down, they took shelter in a lean-to. They also shrunk so much he couldn't get his boots off.

According to pioneer and hunterman's lore, boots should never be dried by high temperature; that way they're sure to shrink. Advised instead to heated pebbles placed inside the boots.

The boys had have been handed down in Western lore, however. The true Westerner let his boots dry on his feet.

Rheumatiz Is Not Arthritis

Arthritis — arthron, meaning joint, and the ending — itis, meaning inflammation— happens, all too often, as an acute feverish illness in children. It was formerly called inflammatory rheumatism and is now generally known as rheumatic fever. It is usually a sequel of tonsilitis, septic sore throat, scarlet fever, or other C.D.I. The essential signs of inflammation — calor, dolor, rubor, tumor—heat, pain, redness, and swelling of the joint or joints involved, justify calling it arthritis.

Genuine arthritis occurs in adults now and then, particularly gonorrhoeal (gonorrhoeal) arthritis, pneumococcis (pneumococcus infection of joint, secondary to C.D.I), etc. In these cases, too, calor, dolor, rubor, and tumor show that inflammation is present.

But chronic joint disability is not arthritis.

And now, dear Lord, grant me the power to reach some of these people with "arthritis" before their rheumatic has advanced too far!

Notice, if you please, I say rheumatic — not rheumatism. Rheumatism has no particular meaning today. The word makes more sense than "arthritis" does. Look up the origin of the word in the dictionary, and you will see it is muddled with "cold" in folklore and medical bunkum.

I propose that we apply the label rheumatic (not rheumatism") to one specific condition or ailment, namely, physical degeneration of joint tissue. This, I contend, is what we have to deal with in most cases of chronic progressive joint disability.

Chronicity is indeed the distinguishing characteristic of rheumatic. The ailment, the disability develops insidiously and lasts and lasts. It is a bothering, continues, persists for quite a while, from now on—or till the leaders in the march of medicine call a halt in the exploitation of "miracle medicines" and tell the poor geeks with "arthritis" the truth, namely, that no medicine, old or new, is worth "trying" for chronic joint disability. Surely this ought to be abundantly evident by now.

Tomorrow, if I may, I'll tell you what I believe is the nature, cause, prevention and treatment of rheumatic. I do not mean to imply that they're all out of step but Jesse. But I'm right about it—as numerous reports from people with the rheumatic have proved. I'll have the wonderful feeling of having done something good in the world. If I'm wrong, as of course- I may be, I can only hope that God will forgive me, for I do strive to be Hippocratic.

THE REJECTED COME TO GLORY

One of the greatest statues ever fashioned by human hand is Michelangelo's David. Thousands of people every year gaze before it in awe. The piece of stone was rejected; it was considered to be of second chance. He took something that was despised, lifted it up out of the ordinary and made it glorious. The man who had hacked the piece of stone so disfigurement was a jungler; Michelangelo was an artist— which means that the God who works with rejected, the despised and spoiled was working through his undefeated servant.

This incident has plenty to teach you and me if we have ears to hear and eyes to see, and sense enough to be instruments in the hands of God.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With all this enormous expansion of suburbs around not only our cities and towns but also around some quite small communities in which easy motoring distance of the big centres, the conversion of farm and market garden land into residential land has become a pretty serious problem.

Apart from the economics of it, there is considerable human interest. Take Tom Bell, a gentleman farmer. Ten years ago, he had made quite a pile money from sand and city, and he retired to this beautiful farm to live the life of a country gentleman at his life. I know the man. He is so happy and content, it hurts you to look at him.

Naturally, land speculators and housing promoters have been busy getting options on his land and on land wide through the area between the two large communities, and so, of course, already there exist several suburban municipalities that serve either of the cities equally.

In between two of these suburbs, land speculators found a large and beautiful farm devoted to horse raising. It was ideal for the next housing development. The agents offered the farmer a fantastic sum. He declined. He was not interested in money. He is interested in raising horses. Not a lot of horses. Just the best horses. He is not a rich man. He can manage it. It is his life, his love, his passion. He has made a adequate source of income. The speculators haven't got anywhere with him. All they've got is money, and they are astounded to learn he doesn't want any.

Within the same area is another lovely farm. It is owned by a man who you might call a gentleman farmer. Ten years ago, he had made quite a pile money from sand and city, and he retired to this beautiful farm to live the life of a country gentleman at his life. I know the man. He is so happy and content, it hurts you to look at him.

"Look," he said, "I've got a million dollars. If I had wanted a million dollars, I'd have stayed in the city. What do you think I came out here for? Good day, gentlemen!"

If course, in the end, the great bulging city will win. The horse breeder and the happy man will die. And the suburbs full of little semi-detached will spread and leap up.

But it is nice to think of the unconquered men who stood at bay, for a time.

Stories from Life of Jesus

By April Oursler Armstrong

MARY AND MARTHA

Three friends Jesus had, aside from His disciples, whom He loved very dearly. There was Martha, and her sister Mary, and their brother Lazarus, who lived in the town called Bethany.

For a long time the four had been good friends and knew the beginning of His public teachings. Jesus had met the gentle, shy Lazarus and Martha and Mary worshipped. In fact, it was in that synagogue that Jesus had told the famous story of the Good Samaritan.

It would be hard to find three people more different than these. Lazarus was a hard-working man, but a quiet one, the kind who listens but seldom speaks, who does his good deeds in secret, and never complains of what others do to him. He liked his garden in his spare time, and to make flowers bloom, and he knew how to prune trees and train vines. He liked the feel and the smell of growing things.

Mary was a thoughtful and dreaming girl, with a mind that was hungry to learn. People in Bethany used to say that Mary didn't worry about her because she was not forever worrying about her hair and her looks, primping like other young ladies. She was neat and clean, they admitted, and pretty in her own way, but why the reason she never worrying her head about things that didn't concern her? Better that she would learn to sew a fine seam, to bake a nice cake, and busy herself at home, instead of mooning over thoughts that were too big for her.

And Mary, when she heard them said, only bent her head and smiled.

BUSY HOUSEKEEPER

Now Martha was just the opposite. Martha was the busiest housekeeper in Bethany — and the most respected. She scrubbed and polished and dusted and washed and ironed and baked and roasted and boiled and tasted and spent her days and most of her nights performing all the duties a woman was expected to perform.

Three people, so different, yet Jesus loved them all, equally, which is of course one of the happiest secrets of the Lord.

One day Jesus came to stop at their home. In the cool shadows of the afternoon He sat in the dooryard, talking with Mary, the thinker and dreamer, who sat listening. And they were talking not of things of this world, but of heaven, and of the ways of the kingdom of God. Martha, black eyes eagerly on the Master's face, asked many questions. She ached to learn more, to know about the Way and the Truth of Christian life.

But while they talked, from inside the house came a growing clatter of plates and pots and pans. It was, somehow, a very noisy kitchen this day — almost as if Martha were deliberately making a racket.

Still Jesus and Mary sat talking.

Suddenly Martha, red-faced, hands dripping wet, bread panting, stomped angrily to the doorway. With little politeness that some people use when they are very cross indeed, she spoke to Mary:

SCOLDS SISTER

"My!" said Martha. "Isn't it nice and cool and here in the yard. I can feel the coolness now that I'm out of the hot kitchen. You know, Mary, we have a great and wonderful Guest tonight, and we must have supper ready. Here you sit, doing nothing, while I bake and stew over a hot fire! Don't think that I wouldn't enjoy sitting out here to chat, but after all — someone must make the bread!"

Mary hung her head, and bit her lip. But she said not one word. Martha turned to Jesus:

"Lord, don't You even care that my sister has left me alone to serve? Speak to her, and tell her to help me!"

Mary hopped to her feet, and a blush crept over her cheeks. But Jesus held out His hand to stop her from going in.

"Martha, Martha," He said gently. "You are careful, and troubled about many things. But one thing is necessary. Mary has chosen the best part, which shall not be taken away from her."

Martha opened her mouth wide, and shut it again with a pop.

Never in her born days had she corrected such an answer from the Lord!

With a switch of her apron, and a toss of her head, she turned back to the kitchen, as puzzled and unhappy a woman as ever lived.

"What on earth do you suppose He meant?" she said to herself as she pounded the salt into the stew meat.

APPROVED HARD WORK

"He always said He approved of hard work. Am I to blame for doing my job, for goodness' sake? That Mary is just being plain shiftless and lazy sitting out there talking. You'd think she was a man, not a woman with woman's work to do!"

With a sharp blade Martha sliced the onions, a piece of bread between her teeth to keep the tears away.

"Whoever heard of a girl's using her mind instead of her hands?" Martha asked herself.

There—there was the real question. That day the life of girls and of women was far different from what it is today. Girls were learned to read. Only boys went to school. A girl was meant to work in the house, and forget she ever had a mind!

There were no women writers then, or poets, or painters, or teachers. No women in business in Palestine. Or in politics. Even in their own homes no lady was expected to have any thought of her own, except about the children she bore, and the chores of housemaking.

"Did Jesus mean that homemaking wasn't important?" Martha asked herself as she poked at the coals under the iron pot kettle.

MORE FOR WOMEN

She shook her head, answering herself. No! Jesus knew, and He knew, that women did new chores around the house. He knew, and honored, the work of women's hands. He meant only that there was more than that in the world for women!

"You know," said Martha to the hourglass that stood in the cooking, "what He said out there in the garden is something complete new! It was as if Jesus were opening a door to all women and all girls, and saying, 'Come in here, and look at this!' Here pointing the way for the rest of time. Somehow there will be many girls like Mary in the world!"

But Martha laughed out loud. "But there will always be plenty of girls like me, to keep things running!"

Then with a flurry and a scurry, Martha bustled back to work, bending over her pots and pans.

When the meal was set, and the family gathered, Jesus gave thanks for the food that Mary and Martha set. Tasting, He praised Martha's savory stew, and His eyes saw each detail of her work — her crisp linens, her shining dishes. And a blessing was in each look He gave her.

Across the table Mary met Martha's eyes. And the sisters smiled, for both knew they served Jesus, each in her own way.

Louis Bromfield, Author, Farmer Dies in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ap)—Louis Bromfield, Pulitzer Prize-winning author, agricultural economist and militant advocate of soil conservation, died Sunday night at the age of 59.

Bromfield's physician said death was due to "multiple liver failure caused by a jaundice infection."

Bromfield's literary career reached its zenith when he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1926 for his novel "Early Autumn," the story of a Massachusetts family.

Bromfield leaves a widow, and some of his more than two score novels reflect scenes he visited. Many of them also were made into motion pictures.

CONSERVATION EFFORTS

Bromfield, too, was widely known for his efforts to promote soil conservation. In 1938 he set about selecting a site in Ohio where he could settle down and achieve "the ideal combination of real permanence" of living.

He purchased five farms in miles from Mansfield, Ohio, where he was born Dec. 27, 1896. He transformed the 1,000 acres into a bar Farm."

There he set about conducting experiments in scientific farming which made his name a by-word for conservation. He wrote many articles on the subject, and once testified before a congressional committee.

Bromfield worked first as a reporter for the New York City News Association, and subsequently became managing editor for The Associated Press, a private tutor, foreign editor and critic of the magazine, Musical America, theatre, music and art critic for The Bookman and a staff member of Time magazine.

LEAVES FOR CHINA

HONG KONG (Reuters)—H. C. Menzies, Australian trade commissioner in Hong Kong, left for Peiping Friday for discussions on possible expansion of trade between Australia and Communist China. Menzies, a cousin of Australia's defence ministerR Robert Menzies, said he was going to explore possibility of trade in both directions."

BUOYANT BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

Mr. William Taylor, Scoutmaster of the Salvation Army Corps, the Tth Belleville, reports another happy gathering at the Citadel, Saturday and Son Issue quet, big night for Scouts and Cubs, especially.

The chairman was Y.P.S.M. Clarence Janes of the Salvation Army, others at the head table were: Senior Captain and Mrs. Hanks, Mr. Don Allen, A.D.C. for Scouts; Mr. O. C. Owen, D.C. Mrs. Wm Taylor, Cubmaster, and Wm Taylor, Scoutmaster.

Grace was sung and the boys and their dads, eighty in all, sat down to a sumptuous banquet prepared by the ladies of the Home League. Mr. S. J. Alexander, father of Cub Bruce, thanked the ladies for the lovely dinner. Mrs. F. Mason responded. Mr. Janes introduced the guests and leaders, including Miss Marg Lessels, Asst. Cubmaster, and Mr. Lorne Dixon, A.S.M.

Community singing was led by Mrs. Bert Woods, father of Cub Michael, with Lorne Dixon at the piano. This is a must at all Scout gatherings and is always thoroughly enjoyed.

Senior Capt. E. Marks briefly explained what the Cub start represented and then awarded Golden Stars to Gordon Lane and Bruce Alexander and First Stars to Kenneth Langman, Bobby Johnston, Ronald Lessels, Douglas Mansatry, Gordon Fudge, Ronald Smith, Garry Cooper, Robert Fletcher, Sefton Squires and Bill Hall.

PROFICIENCY BADGES

Collectors—Cubs Robert Fletcher, John Lane and Sefton Squires.

Gardeners—Cubs Larry Hatfield and Douglas Hatfield.

Artists—Cubs John Lane and Bruce Alexander.

Team Players—Cubs Ronald Lessels and Rod Fletcher.

Mr. Owen commended these Cubs for their proficiency and expressed his pleasure at the general progress of the 7th Cub Pack during the past year.

Mr. Don Allan spoke to the Cubs and Scouts about the foundation of Scouting, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell and the Scouts and Cubs' Law and Promises. The A.D.C. then presented a 3-year service Star to Douglas Hatfield, 2-year stars to Bruce Alexander, John Lane and Bobby Johnston, and a 4-year star to Akela Taylor.

A passage from the Scripture was read by Mr. Clarence Janes. Senior Capt. Marks thanked the fathers, Cubs and Scouts for the wonderful turnout and the leaders for the splendid evidence of a well prepared banquet as well as efficient leadership given to the Pack and Troop. Capt. Marks closed the banquet with prayer.

17 Crippled Women Evacuated Safely from Home

MONTREAL (CP)—One person was injured and 17 other crippled women were evacuated safely from a home for the aged which was swept by fire in nearby Cartierville municipality this morning.

The patients were carried out of the flaming three-storey Davies Home by two policemen who discovered the blaze at 7 a.m. The injured woman was identified as Mary Dunn, 63, who was on the third floor. She was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital. Extent of her injuries was not immediately known.

Reported to be suffering from shock was Mrs. Jessie McLean, 61, the other 16 patients were taken in by neighbors.

Firemen drove five companies brought the blaze in the old, frame building under control at 8:45 a.m.

Credited with rescuing the elderly women were Sgt. Maurice Young and Const. Jacques Dargis, who broke open the front door to rouse the patients.

Mrs. Gordon Davies, who operated the nursing home with her husband, said later: "Anything happened so quickly we don't know how the fire started."

ENDS U. S. VISIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's President Giovanni Gronchi says his visit just ended "has confirmed my deep conviction that friendship with the United States must be strengthened and maintained in all its aspects" through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He sailed by plane Wednesday for his homeland. He also visited Ottawa.

Malenkov and Aides Inspect British Atom Research Plant

HARWELL, England (Reuters) — Georgi Malenkov, Soviet minister of power station, visited Britain's atomic research centre here today after a two-hour car dash from the Soviet embassy in London, where he is staying.

Cutting through his previously prepared timetable, the former Soviet premier, who is leading a Russian power delegation on a three-week tour of Britain, rose at dawn today. He travelled the 50 miles to Harwell with a cavalcade of two police motorcycle outriders and a high-powered police car.

The Harwell tour was put forward an hour and a half to fit in with Malenkov's revised plans. After the tour he had arranged to meet Prime Minister Eden, a Soviet embassy official said.

The spokesman said Malenkov was "given the tour which distinguished visitors normally are given."

Reporters were told that "You will be allowed to see 'Dido,' the heavy-water pile, but you can see nothing else."

Kim Bellaev, correspondent for Tass, the Soviet news agency, travelled with the official's party.

"You amaze me," he said. "You let all these Russian scientists in. Do you think they understand less about atomic secrets than American correspondents?"

Malenkov and his aides hurried from Harwell as they were guided through the plant.

Weddings

MACPHERSON—SOMERS

St. James' United church, Simcoe, Ontario, was the setting for lovely wedding ceremony on Saturday, March 17, at 3.30 p.m., when the Rev. S. Edworthy, pastor of the church, united in marriage Florence Doreen Somers, of Niagara Falls, Ontario, daughter of Mrs. Dalton Somers of Simcoe, and the late Mr. Somers, to James Henry Macpherson, also of Niagara Falls, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Macpherson, and grandson of Mrs. M. L. Macpherson of Belleville. The chancel was beautifully adorned with tall standards of white chrysanthemums, white snapdragons, white roses and ferns, and the guest pews designated with white satin bows.

Mr. Russell Lott, of Hamilton, soloist, rendered "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony and during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, Dr. L. J. Somers, the bride was radiant in a bridal gown of French embossed brocaded satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice with a cowl back pointed collar studded with iridescent sequins and long, slip-pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced by a pointed midriff embroidered with iridescent sequins. Her French illusion veil, trimmed with lace motifs, was held by a satin Juliet cap adorned with lace rosettes, seed pearls and sequins and she carried a semi-cascade of blush pink carnations.

Mrs. James Leask of Brantford, as matron of honor, was attired in turquoise iridescent taffeta, having a pleated yoke and molded bodice, and full, bouffant skirt in ballerina length. She wore a matching headdress, and three-quarter length mitts.

Mrs. Rodney Fry of Niagara Falls, and Mrs. Serno Dalbello, also of Niagara Falls, as bridesmaids, were dusty rose taffeta fashioned with pleated yokes, tight-fitting bodices, short sleeves, and three-quarter length mitts. The skirts were in bouffant style. Matching headdresses and shoes completed their ensembles. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids carried semi-cascades of Shasta daisies.

Little Mary Lou Somers, niece of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in her frock of turquoise iridescent taffeta with ruffled-elbow sleeves, tight little bodice and full, gathered skirt and ruffled-trim bonnet of matching material. She carried a nosegay of baby pink roses.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TRY THESE SUGGESTIONS TO REJUVENATE YOUR MARRIAGE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was married when I was 38 years old. Now I'm 46, which means that I have been married 24 years. After all that time my husband appears to have lost interest in me completely. What he says is that I'm "too old."

Although I have no direct proof, I suspect that he has become interested in another woman who is probably much younger than myself and also much younger than he is, because he is the same age I am, my husband hasn't said anything about wanting a divorce, but the reason I suspect him is because he never will take a woman anywhere with him when he goes out, and he goes out by himself almost every night.

Do you think I should just go on feeling sad with all this? Or had I better make up my mind that our marriage has gone to pot for good and get a divorce myself? — Mrs. A.L.

Dear Mrs. A.L.:

I certainly don't advise you to make your decision that your marriage is finished without first seeing what you can do to give it new life. If by "growing up with all this" you mean that you have simply taken your husband for granted, nothing and not using your head and imagination to figure out ways in which you could make yourself attractive to try and improve your situation, then I don't blame you have not made any real attempt to rejuvenate your marriage.

So let's state two specific problem and then think about how you might attempt to solve it.

As I see it, the problem is that when your husband says you are "too old," what he really means is that he doesn't feel you are sufficiently attractive and lively any more to be a companion for him.

That, then, is the problem. So how are you going to try and solve it?

My idea is that if your husband thinks you are too old to share good times with him, then you should let him see that you are by no means too old to have good times without him.

The first thing I advise is that you take inventory of yourself to find out if, without realizing it, you have perhaps been letting yourself go in regard to your looks. Even if you haven't been letting yourself go, it might be that if you were to change your hairdo, learn the best way for a woman of 40-odd years to make up her face, and get some smarter - looking clothes, you might not only feel, but look, much more alive, vivacious and interesting.

You haven't told me that you have any children to tie you down so one so my next suggestion is that, after you have finished smartening up, you go out and see if you can't get some kind of job. This would give you a new interest in life, something new to talk about to your husband and others, and also bring you in some money which you could use for your own purposes.

If, for any reason, you can't find a paying job, then go to your public library and look up any books they have which tell how women in all sorts of circumstances have found some skill or talent within themselves by which they could make money on their own. There is absolutely nothing like achieving success at some personal project to give a person a feeling of self-confidence, which is something you badly need.

Finally, I strongly advise you to join a club or two, or take part in some community activity where you would make new friends and find new opportunities for good times.

If you will do all these things — and I see no reason in the world why you shouldn't — I guarantee that you will turn into a gayer and more interesting person than perhaps you have ever been, which should make your husband look at you with different eyes. Rightly or wrongly, he has apparently become bored with you. If you make yourself into a new and vital person, it may give him not only a very pleasant surprise, but a friend-new interest in you.

WHAT SHOULD YOU CALL YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A question came up in one of my clubs as to how one should address one's mother-in-law.

Is it proper to call her by her first name, or is it better to call her "Mother" in order to show more respect? A few of the girls said that "Mother" should only be used when addressing one's own mother. — C.S.

Dear C.S.:

This is really a matter between the mother-in-law and the son or daughter-in-law. What the mother-in-law is called usually depends on how close each feels to the other.

I know some who call their mothers-in-law by their first names, indicating that they feel really close. I know others who say "Mother Brown" or "Mother Smith," as the case may be, thus making a distinction between their own mother and the mother-in-law. Still others use "Mother and Dad" just as they do to their own parents. And, finally, many have some special "made-up" name for the mother-in-law, perhaps some pet name that she has been called in the family, or something they especially created for her themselves.

It is, again, simply a matter of individual preference, and the best rule is to find out what the mother-in-law would like.

BUY WELL FITTING SHOES FOR BEAUTY AND ECONOMY

She wants pretty shoes, of course but the smart girl makes sure they fit.

Grandma used to say "If the shoe fits, wear it." Of course the old adage didn't really refer to shoes at all and Grandma, in her sturdy, laced-high-over-the ankle boots never even dreamed of anything like the spiked heels and the thinnest bits of metal held on with a minimum of straps that flatter a woman's foot today. But her advice still holds true, according to Miss Florence Gessler, clothing specialist of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., who says: "If the shoe doesn't fit, don't wear it."

For the shoe that doesn't fit, according to Miss Gessler, is the expensive shoe. It may cost less in dollars but it will cost plenty in agony. On the other hand, shoes that fit correctly wear better and last longer and are better for the general health. Better for one's looks, too. Did you ever observe how many lines a fitting shoe can produce in a woman's face?

Naturally you want your shoes to be beautiful—every woman does and the stores are so full of such intriguing shoe styles it's easy to fall for a pair that look just wonderful—if you don't stop to try them.

Put on both shoes when buying a pair, this expert advises, then walk around, stair climb or even checking carefully for these essential points in fit:

(1) The toe shape of the shoe should conform to the shape of your toes with the large toe lying straight.

(2) In a closed shoe, the shoe should be from one-half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the end of the toes, so that the toe cap is not touching the toes.

(3) The shoe should be flexible at the toes, the ball of the foot and the widest part of the heel should correspond to the widest part of the shoe.

(4) The heel section should provide a firm and comfortable support to the foot.

You should be able to put on your new shoes and walk out of the store in perfect comfort, according to Miss Gessler, who stresses the fact that new shoes should never require "breaking in."

Properly fitting shoes are more than a matter of looks, even, of comfort, she points out. Serious foot trouble can result from ill fitting shoes and this may cause years of discomfort, not to mention the expense of treatment to correct it. That is why it is essential to see that children are properly fitted when buying their shoes. The wrong shoes for growing feet can cause all kinds of trouble. A badly fitting shoe, is never a cheap shoe, no matter what you pay for it.

When a home burns to the ground, that is a disaster. Your Canadian Red Cross is always on the job to help. You are one too through your Red Cross donation.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BERCHMAN

MAKING HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Berchman:

I'm sure that every girl strives for perfection in making her engagement announcement a success. Don't you agree, Mrs. Berchman? I'm hoping to make my announcement a success, and I have several questions I'd like to ask you.

1. Quite soon I plan to announce my engagement to a young man who lives with his family in another state. Our present plan is to have a dinner for the immediate families in the afternoon, and in the evening have an "Open House" party for our friends and relatives. Since most of his family will be taking a long trip to get here, I feel that it is asking too much of them to come merely to an "Open House" party. On the other hand, it would be finan-ially impossi' le to invite everyone to dinner. What do you think about this plan?

2. How is our engagement announcement to be worded?

3. Please tell me how to go about sending the invitations to relatives and friends.—Engaged

Bless your heart, Miss "Engaged," indeed I do agree with you that a girl usually has a fine and high ideal of making her engagement announcement a success! And I'm sure you'll make yours a shining success.

1. You have the ingredients here of an excellent plan for all concerned. Under the travel-circumstances it is a most practical idea to have the dinner for the members of the two families only, and the "Open House" for the relatives and friends. (You might, if possible, and if you wish to, have the dinner at one o'clock, and have the "Open House" in the evening.)

2. I suggest that at the dinner-for-the-families party, the prospective a toast to you and your fiance by his father, and something like this: "On this happy occasion I propose we all join in standing toast . . . To Nancy and Philip. To the happiness and good health and good fortune of these two young people whose welfare is so dear to each one to our hearts!"

Then at the "Open House" party at which your mother, in her hostess, stand first in an informal receiving-line, you and your fiance with her. When she has greeted each arriving guest, she turns to you and says" . . . and here is Nancy . . . and (turning to your fiance) her fiance, Philip Compbell." A charming and dignified way, I think, to make this so-wonderful announcement.

3. The invitations to the dinner should be given, of course, verbally or by telephone or note. The notes of invitation to the "Open House" would be written by your mother, either on semi-note paper or perhaps on the attractive "Open House," invitation-cards available now, or on her informals, or on semi-engraved cards. They would not mention the engagement announcement . . . simply invite to "a party here on (day, date, hours)" or to "Open House."

Blue Heaven

By ALICE ALDEN

Blue emerges as the top color of the spring season, ranging from the deep dark of true navy to sky blue. Lovely indeed are some of the turquoise and sapphire shades and it is deep turquoise that is used for this exquisite evening dress that shows silhouette to show off the color and fabric. The full circular skirt has an uneven knee line short in front and ankle length in back. The moulded bodice features an enormous shoulder bow. A delightful dress for gala nights created by one of our greatest houses.

Worried about Bills?

Not Mr. Peake!

Mr. Peake was all work for a few months last year. It wasn't his fault and he is now working steadily again at a good salary. But while he was out of work bills piled up and he was constantly worried trying to meet the many pressing obligations and stall the others. Finally on a friend's advice, he dropped in to see us. After hearing the circumstances, our Loan Manager was able to loan him enough to settle all his bills, and on payments he could easily meet out of his income. "Going to Citizens was the smartest move I ever made," Mr. Peake says. You'll say so too. If you need money for any useful purpose, come in or call our Loan Manager today.

Melrose M.B. Plans Future Bazaar Sale

MELROSE — The March meeting of Melrose Mission Band was held at the Pascoe home under the leadership of Mrs. Newton Demille.

Plans were completed for the Mission Band bazaar to be held in the hall on an evening later this month. The children will have for sale a goodly number of cakes, candy, sewing and woodworking. Mrs. Demille planned the program for this bazaar which will be put on by the Mission Band members.

The program, prepared by Barbara Weese and Eileen Reilly consisted of a solo by Sharon Beal; poem, Judy Gaines; duet, Carman Milligan and Wayne Pascoe, and a quiz conducted by Barbara Weese.

The next meeting will be held on April 10 at the home of Barbara Weese, where the roll call will be answered with a Bible verse. Mrs. Pascoe served candy.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — Members of Pine Grove W.I. served lunches and meals at Scott's Sales Barns on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Boulter Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnston, Alan and Janet, of Harold, were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marks.

Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Mrs. Reuben Mills, Mrs. Grace Bartindale, Mrs. David Hollinger and Mrs. Leslie Finkle attended the Belleville Presbyterian of the Woman's Missionary Society in King Street United Church in Trenton, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Berson Mitts were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Coulter of Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sister spent Saturday in Toronto.

You Help Me

By Mary Moore

I do a little jig when I receive a letter like the following giving me ideas and not asking even one little request. (Don't let that dampen anybody's spirits though for I'm in the answering business, but am constantly haunted with the dread that I won't know the answers to your questions.) I often don't, but you, my little helpers, turn up with them sooner or later.

Dear Mrs. Moore: Thanks are long overdue for pumpkin marmalade recipe. . . it was a great success. This may be old hat to you but I shall contribute it anyway. When I have old lettuce, especially green leaves, and celery leaves and thick stalks that are too tough to eat raw, I put them all in a saucepan, chop them with my kitchen scissors, add a chopped onion, some salt, a whole chili pepper, and either sweet or parsley cover with water. When this has simmered and leaves are tender, I put the whole works through my food press. There is only a small amount of strong material left, and the resulting mixture of water and tiny particles of green vegetables I store in glass jars. Then I just make a medium cream sauce and add this liquid for a cream of green vegetable soup. . . I didn't think too much about this until a visiting neighbor, who throws out her celery leaves, had liked it so . . . I always dry a few celery leaves too then crush several to keep them in a small jar as flavoring for meat loaf, etc.

Thank you for several stories from your California friend. . . the one about eating the cherries is quite plausible as friends of ours sat and ate peaches the same way on a trip. Jappers are English and quite particular about ties I chuckled several times during the evening over the one about the re-used tea bag. Thanks again.

Isn't she a duck? Thanks Dorothy.

. . . and another from Jessie A. W.: "Dear Mrs. Moore: I have thought of writing many times to you. Thanks especially for Christmas Fruit Cake 1952, Marianne's Lemon Pie, Party Layer Cake and really many many more. Here is my recipe for Oatmeal Date Sandwich Cake (Courtesy Jessie A. W.) We love this: One-half cup each butter and lard, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup sour milk, 1 cup rolled oats, 1 1-3 cups white flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking soda, 1-3 teaspoon salt. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, beat until light. Add sour milk, stir, add oats and sifted flour, soda and salt. Using 2 teaspoons put half of mixture in 8 by 12 inch pan, pour filling on top and pat remaining mixture on, smoothing evenly. Bake at 375 deg. F. for 20 to 25 minutes. Filling: 1 lb. dates, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup hot water. Boil until thick.— J. A. W."

Thank you too Jessie.

Strange Viruses Began Showing Up in Salk Test Cultures

By RENNIE TAYLOR

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A searching new look at poliomyelitis shows that many illnesses diagnosed as the disease—primarily the non-paralytic type—are not caused by the polio virus, but by organisms which the polio vaccine will not touch.

Among these mysterious organisms is a group of microbes facetiously called "13 viruses in search of a disease." Another is a family known as the Coxsackie viruses. They infect humans but cause no known disease except vague fevers.

The strange viruses began showing up in the Salk test cultures in evaluation work. At first the laboratories were too busy looking for polio antibodies to bother with the new viruses which seemingly had nothing to do with polio.

After the outbreak of disease among some who had received the Salk vaccine, however, the test laboratories went back for a second look. In many instances they found the strange viruses were the only suspicious organisms in some cases diagnosed as poliomyelitis.

IMMUNE TO VACCINE

A committee of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis investigated these viruses and its findings included these points:

The viruses are not inactivated by polio vaccine.

They are inactivated by human gamma globulin, the substances which preceded the Salk vaccine as a polio fighter. This indicates to researchers that they will infect human even if they do not cause a bona fide disease.

They are not related to the viruses of mumps, measles, cold sores, influenza or the group called the acute respiratory diseases, or the adenoidal-pharyngeal - conjunctival group which affects the throat and eyes.

SPOTTED EASILY

The findings suggest such complications as these:

People who get polio vaccine and develop good protection against the three conventional types of the virus might become infected with some other virus and wind up with polio-like symptoms that fool the doctors and even cause paralysis.

Or a person who has had a bout with the oftbeat viruses and considers himself immune to polio may still be susceptible to the disease.

PREVIOUS WINNERS

Also in the running are two previous winners, Katharine Hepburn ("Summertime") and Jennifer Jones ("Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing"), plus Eleanor Parker ("Interrupted Melody").

Best picture—"Marty" appears to have made the biggest impact. Hollywood doesn't seem to mind that it was filmed on a quickie budget or that it was lifted from the enemy, television. The fact remains that "Marty" was remarkably true to life. "Mister Roberts" was perhaps the most popular film with audiences in 1955 and might win on that account.

Writer Favors Dead Actor, Italian Star for Top Honors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will Academy voters give Hollywood's highest honor to an actor who is dead?

Will they pass up American actresses to choose an Italian star in her first Hollywood movie?

These are two of the questions that make this year's Oscar derby as exciting as any in recent history.

On Wednesday night, a television audience will watch the 28th presentation of gold statuettes to those who made the highest achievements in film art. Right up to post time, many will be engaged in one of Hollywood's most popular sports: Trying to outguess the 3,740 academy voters.

It's harder than ever this year because of complicating factors. But that won't stop the forecasters, including this one.

DEAN, BORGNINE TOPS

Best Actor—Here is a touche. For the first time, voters have the chance of presenting the acting award posthumously. James Dean, up for "East of Eden," was crushed to death in a highway accident last Sept. 30. His genius was lost before he was 25.

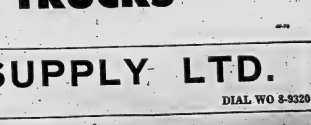
Dean's smouldering, power-packed portrait of the wayward son would have put him in top contention in any circumstance. What factor will his death play in the voting?

Academy members are show people, and show people are noted for their sentiment. On the other hand, they can be practical. They might reason that Dean should get a special award, that the Oscar should go to a living actor, for whom it can do some good.

The strongest contender is Ernest Borgnine, the love-starved butcher of "Marty." Like Dean, he was in his first starring picture, and that's always a plus value in academy voting. Borgnine's performance was immense in Hollywood.

BEST ACTRESS RACE

Best actress—As with the males, it's virtually a match race here. Will it be Anna Magnani or Susan Hayward?



Magnani as the devoted widow of "The Rose Tattoo" was a lesson in energy. Hollywood has seldom seen such a powerful performer. She even heaves a sigh with the strength of a shot putter.

But will the academy honor a foreigner? Probably yes. The

REFINERY EXPANSION

Oil and natural gas have turned Grand Prairie, into a natural boom town. More than 1,000 person have come in the last year to swell the population to 6,200. Grande Prairie is sharing in the current Peace River development. Here, workers erect first tower on the site of the North Star oil refinery. Cost of the project is estimated at $2,500,00. (CP Photo).

Grande Prairie Mixing Boom With Business as Usual

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) Fitting newcomers in here with a shoehorn has become common place since oil and natural gas development started Grande Prairie mixing a boom with business as usual.

Although there are four hotels and five motels in the community of 6,200, the casual visitor can't be too casual about making reservations or he'll be sleeping in the streets.

But once he's breathing easily with his bag parked beside a bed, he'll find the town's king-sized share of current Peace River development is the cause of his anxious moments.

A. E. Galway, veteran secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, says: "Well over 1,000 people have come in since the town census was taken in 1954."

FIND PLACE SOMEHOW

Mr. Galway, who has been a police magistrate, farmer, councillor and juvenile court judge since he first came to the region more than 25 years ago, now combines his other duties with the job of finding jobs and shelter for new arrivals.

He got into the rental agency business by accident.

"When the first seismograph party came here their boss showed up looking for office space and rooms for them," he said. "I found them offices in the curling rink, called friends of mine who had never taken a roomer before, and told them, not asked them, they were going to take these boys in. They did.

"I no sooner got them settled when the second party showed up and I had to find space for them, too. I've been at it ever since."

WANT EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

Mr. Galway "lees off" on the National Employment Service when he's asked how it happens that his office is also an employment agency, sometimes with an overflow of job seekers outside. He explains that the nearest NES office is in Dawson Creek, about 70 miles northwest of here in British Columbia. It started with people coming to ask advice and farmers and lumber operators looking for help.

E. H. Logan, the genial hotelman who now is in his second term as president of the Chamber of Commerce, tells fellow members "we're not getting a fair deal on an employment office."

Establishment of such an office is one of the aims of the chamber.

Grande Prairie doesn't give the impression of being in the same hectlong rush to go bustin' out all over as does Dawson Creek in the B.C. section of the Peace River block. Dawson Creek appears to look to the north to provide its future. People here, sitting on a fruitful expanse of prairie, want to stay right here and hurry the growth of bigger and better things around them.

READY TO EXPAND

They want to create a "climate for industry" through development of better transportation and better public services.

As Mr. Logan says: "Grande Prairie has flourished in the past year because we have had something to offer to people who have come in here to do business.

"Businessmen in the past have had the foresight to make that available. Now, with all things in our favor for expansion, we cannot afford to become careless."

There's more of a frontier feeling in the town of Grimshaw, Alta., towards the northern fringe of the Peace River block. Perhaps transportation difficulties have helped to isolate that area from the Grande Prairie atmosphere.

A straight line between the two towns is 86 miles long, while the rail trip is more than 170 miles. And in the absence of a through sleeping car, a traveller can pick up plenty of splinters by spending about four of the 15 hours elapsed time sitting on a waiting room bench in McLennan. The town unkindly closes the doors of all restaurants before the dineriess train gets in at 11 p.m.

SAY BRIDGE NEEDED

Neither is the road trip from Grande Prairie to Grimshaw a motorist's delight. It depends on a ferry across the Peace river, which residents say is undependable much of the year. This unpredictable road block, which makes some residents of the country almost frantically zealous in their campaign for a bridge across the Peace at Dunvegan, has given rise to a variety of stories.

Jack Hardie, one of the publishers of the Fairview Post, tells of the American with a tight budget and in a hurry to be on time for a new job in Alaska. He took the wrong turn at Triangle, crossed the Peace heading north and then found that he had to retrace his route 110 miles to get on the right side of the river and the right track to the start of the Alaska highway at Dawson Creek.

Grimshaw is the counterpart of Dawson Creek as the jumping-off place from the railway for truckers. Here is the start of the 385-mile Mackenzie highway leading to Great Slave lake.

LIFE-LINE FOR NORTH

From the cluster of modest homes and business buildings around the nine towering elevators, diesels rail north to Hay River on Great Slave lake. This is a major life line for the northern mining industry as well as the farmers who depend on almost 24-hour sunshine in summer to overcome their small number of frost-free days.

Aside from the flow of trucks, there's not much outward sign in winter of the boom that Grimshaw residents know is going on and that they expect to mean big things for their town and the country to the north. There's a main road, a municipal road and one short street of retail stores, with a few business firms scattered on other streets.

But town secretary Frank Dawson points out that the population of 800 is double what it was 10 years ago. And digging to the bottom of a pile of maps now outmoded, finds that the town has grown from about three developed blocks in 1928 to more than 30 now.

PEACE RIVER BIGGEST

Despite Grimshaw's strategic position as far as the North is concerned, the town of Peace River is the biggest in the "north Peace." Deep in a narrow section of the river valley, it has hillside streets to equal those of such cities as Montreal and Saint John, N.B.

The view is not as breath-taking from Peace River as where the Alaska highway crosses a stream 135 miles west. Peace River is more like a Christmas-card community in wintertime. But it has the same active tempo as other towns of the Peace country—its population has grown by more than 600 in four years.

It is the only major town in the Peace River country without natural gas, in the midst of gas discoveries and their benefits. But residents are hopeful, since gas service has reached Grimshaw.

A CHARMING SCENE IN FRENCH MOROCCO

The life of a flier leads him into various strange and exotic places. Lt. Gerard Blanchette flies at Rabat, French Morocco, where a smoke charmer demonstrates dexterity with one of his pets. The two airmen, Sgt. Bill Stubblefield, centre, from Victoria, and Cpl. Gerard Blanchette of St. Liboire, P.Q., have been on month's tour of duty in Rabat. RCAF squadrons fly down to Rabat from fighter wings in Europe to practise aerial gunnery over the desert in French Morocco.

Georgians Resent Russians and Detest Stalin

—Gilmore

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddy Gilmore, white Associated Press bureau chief in Moscow, spent several weeks in the Soviet republic of Georgia in 1953. He was in this story across material stopped by Soviet censors at that time.

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—"A photograph of Stalin's birthplace," asked a surprised storekeeper in Gori, the late dictator's Georgian hometown, "now who would want that?"

Inside the Stalin shrine (erected by him) in Gori is a showcase holding what is supposed to be Stalin's schoolday report cards. They depict him as perfect in every subject.

"Perfect!" scoffed a Georgian under his breath, "why one of my grandfathers was his teacher. It took Stalin six years to get through four grades and he never could learn arithmetic."

Halfway up Mt. David, where Stalin's mother Caldonine is buried, a grounds keeper pointed to his grave and sighed.

NEVER VISITED IT

"Look at it," he said, "it's falling to pieces. He never visited it. He never cared, God of mine, what a man to have for a son."

He corrected himself.

The Georgian people may riot against communism, Russian domination or their hard way of life—but hardly over the shattered myth of their late tyrant.

The four million inhabitants of the small Soviet republic passionately love their mountain homeland, resent Russians and generally detested Stalin.

It's easy to believe that Georgians and Nazis—not Nikita Khrushchev's reported attack as an excuse to rebel, but to anyone who has spent time in Georgia, wide-spread national love for Stalin just doesn't seem to exist.

SHAMROCKS FOR POPE

PREDICT MORE TRADE

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)— West German industrial production is expected to reach a new high in 1956, the leader of the Federation of German-American Trade says. Germany's exports last January were 100 per cent above the figure for January, 1955. Canadian exports to the Bonn republic were 33 per cent over the same period last year. German exports in January totalled $42,000,000, while imports from Canada were valued at $6,500,000.

Jordan's King Plans Visits To Capitals of Three Lands But He Will Join No Bloc

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordan's King Hussein announced today that he plans to visit the capitals of Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia soon. But he added that he plans to put his kingdom in either of the Arab blocs.

Hussein said in an interview with the newspaper Addifaa that his conference last week with his cousin, King Faisal of Iraq, was a "brotherly meeting." It had not been intended to take sides in the rivalry for Arab allegiance between the Egypt-Syria-Saudi Arabia lineup and the Western-sponsored Baghdad pact alliance, of which Iraq is a member.

Hussein said his country seeks Arab unity, and hopes wants the confidence of all Arab states.

In Cairo, Saudi Arabia's deputy foreign minister, Sheikh Youssef Yasin, said his country and Egypt believed Hussein wants to cooperate with them. Yasin made this statement after Hafiz Ismail, chief of Jordan's royal cabinet, flew to the Egyptian capital with Hussein's reply to the latest offer of financial aid from the Arab "big three."

GLAD OF AID

The content of the king's reply was not disclosed. Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria have offered to replace the annual subsidy Britain pays for the support of Jordan's Arab Legion. Hussein welcomed the aid offer from his Arab neighbors, but has been unwilling to go further toward breaking with Britain than his recent dismissal of Lt.-Gen. Sir John Bagot Glubb as commander of the Legion.

Charges of war preparations came during the weekend from both Israel and the Arab states. Jordan Premier Samir Rifai accused the Israelis of preparing for attack on the Arabs; Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion said that only early delivery of arms to his government would prevent an Arab attack "within the next few months."

Rifai told a party of visiting American correspondents that the Israelis had planned to open hostilities March 7, but fortunately that date has now passed." He added that Israel might divert the waters of the Jordan river as an excuse for starting a war.

Ben-Gurion indicated in Tel Aviv that he was still hopeful of "obtaining defensive arms in time to prevent war." But he added:

"We must prepare for our own defence on the assumption that we must rely on our own capacity alone."

INVESTIGATE CHARGES

A "second round" of the Arab-Israeli war, the Israeli premier asserted, would be the fault of the United States, because it has not supplied Israel $50,000,000 worth of weapons, and of the Soviet Union, because the Communist block is shipping modern arms to Egypt.

The United Nations truce supervisory organization meanwhile announced that it would investigate charges by both Israel and Egypt that the other has been massing troops along their common frontier.

Toronto Pianist Draws Acclaim Of Detroit Critics

WINDSOR (CP)—Glenn Gould, 24-year-old Toronto pianist, Sunday night repeated here a performance which last week drew acclaim of critics and prolonged applause of 4,000 Detroit music lovers.

About 2,000 persons packed the downtown Capitol theatre to hear Gould and the Detroit Symphony Fourth Concerto.

There was lengthy applause again for Gould.

Said music critic ohn Gardiner of the Windsor Star:

"It was definitely another step in the direction of pianistic refinement for Gould whose amazing skill and superb execution are major topic of discussion in music circles here and in the U.S."

Three Deaths Occur During Paralyzing Blizzard Over Maritimes During Weekend

HALIFAX (CP)—The Maritimes today continued to dig out from under snow brought by a paralyzing blizzard during the weekend.

Three deaths occurred during the howling storm and there have been many reports of injuries. Drifts up to 15 feet deep cut off most highway traffic Saturday.

Two children died in a house fire at Mount Uniacke, about 35 miles from Halifax. Their father, James Smith, had to walk eight miles to the nearest telephone to call for help. The victims were three-year-old Donna and seven-month-old Irene.

John Joseph Dunn, 16, was killed at Pennfield, N.B., when the car in which he was driving collided with a snowplow.

SNOWFALL 19 INCHES

At Yarmouth, where a 19-inch snowfall was reported, Charles Lance, 70, was taken to hospital in a fire truck after he was overcome by smoke in a house fire. He is in serious condition.

In the Annapolis valley 18 inches of snow stopped Maritime cars. One woman was taken to maternity hospital on a sled.

The storm kept five ocean-going ships off Halifax harbor during the day, including the big German liner Seven Seas.

At least two New Brunswick settlements remained isolated Sunday night, but plows were battling to reach Upper Harbor and Chance Harbor, on the Bay of Fundy.

EASTERN SEABOARD HIT

NEW YORK (CP)—A new storm in the northeastern United States moved into New England today after hitting much of the eastern seaboard through Sunday night and raising the U.S. weekend weather death toll to near the 100-mark.

The latest assault by snow, sleet and high winds followed Friday night's storm which crippled the same area. At least 81 persons have died in 11 states from Ohio to Maine in fatalities attributed to the weather.

The weather bureau at Boston early today issued a warning that the new snowstorm would hit parts of New England with falls up to a foot today and tonight—only two days after the area's worst blizzard in years.

The wind whipped snow into four foot drifts in the New York City area, and slowed or halted traffic in many streets. Police reported hundreds of motorists stranded.

SNOW CLOSES SCHOOLS

The second storm dumped eight inches of snow on southeastern Pennsylvania. Many schools were closed today.

The earlier storm had hit hardest at New England, leaving up to 19 inches of snow in Maine. Trains, buses and airlines were delayed in many areas.

The earlier storm had placed a dozen ships in distress off the U.S. east coast, and three heavy men were drowned off Massachusetts Saturday morning. Thirty sailors from an Italian ship, the Etrusco, were rescued by breeches buoy in the same area.

The new storm approached New England while the area was still trying to complete a monumental cleanup after the terrific storm Friday night and early Saturday, which left more than 40 dead in that region.

Phil Silvers Wins 3 Emmies In TV Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Phil Silvers, the double-dealing "sergeant of "You'll Never Get Rich," was so unprecedented three Emmies Saturday night for the annual television academy awards.

The graduate of burlesque was named the best actor and best comedian on American TV, His show was the best all-film best comedy series.

Keen Emmies — the name given to the statuettes awarded to the winners—went to shows originating in New York while Hollywood, the other centre of TV in the United States, got seven.

Nanette Fabray, comedienne on the Sid Caesar show, and singer Perry Como won two awards each. Another of the major awards went to the pantomimist Marcel Marceau as the best specialty act.

The Hit Parade, which features two Canadians — singers Gisele Mackenzie, formerly of Winnipeg, and Snooky Collins, a native of Windsor, Ont.—was named the best music series.

BEST SINGER

Other winners: Best female singer, Dinah Shore; best audience participation series, The $64,000 Question; variety series, Ed Sullivan Show; dramatic series, Producers' Showcase; documentary series, Lamp Unto My Feet; director, Art Carney; best actress in single performance, Mary Martin in Peter Pan; best single program, Peter Pan; best news commentator, Ed Murrow.

Best actress in a series, Lucille Ball; best action or adventure series, Disneyland; best children's series, Lassie; special awards, Matinee Theatre and CBS 4-bomb coverage.

Fred Allen, Radio and TV Comedian, Dies of Heart Ailment Strolling on Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Fred Allen, the veteran humorist with the baggy eyes and sharp wit. The 61-year-old radio and television comedian died of a heart ailment as he strolled a Manhattan street late Saturday night.

A solemn requiem mass will be sung for Allen at the actor's chapel of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church in the theatre district. He will be buried at the Gate of Heaven cemetery in suburban Westchester county.

Allen was an entertainer in radio, television and motion pictures for a quarter of a century. He was a regular member of the CBS television show "What's My Line?" Sunday night the show went on without him. His widow, Portland Hoffa, said he would have wanted it that way.

SHOW WENT ON

John Daly, master of ceremonies, said at the start of the program that despite their sorrow the cast would put on the show "the way Fred would like to have had it done."

After an autopsy Sunday, Dr. Milton Helpern, chief medical examiner, said the comedian died of coronary heart disease. He said Allen had had a heart condition "over the years."

Ill health and sponsor trouble put Allen on part-time work on the airwaves in 1949. He gave up his struggle against TV about the same time.

"Let someone else pioneer it, he once said of the new medium.

But 2½ years ago he became a regular on "What's My Line?"

Allen was born John Florence Sullivan in Cambridge, Mass., on May 31, 1894. He changed his name early in his career at the suggestion of his agent, a man named Allen.

Allen's cutting wit held few subjects sacred. He liked to comment on the passing scene through the mouths of characters like "Senator Claghorn," one of the inhabitants of "Allen's Alley."

Giveaway programs and network officials became particular targets of his thrusts.

He once complained that programs that give people riches ruin "incentive for individual talent in radio." He offered to bond his listeners up to $5,000 against upsets they might lose by not tuning in some other program.

Allen expressed his scorn for network officials by inventing such titles as "Vice-president in charge of program ends" and "Vice-president in charge of waving flagers at comedians."

TRIED TO SOOTHE HIM

NBC tried to soothe the comedian by offering him the title of honorary vice-president. He turned it down.

Allen carried on a famous feud with his friend Jack Benny. For years they traded insults over the air. Allen decried Benny's alleged penny-pinching and Benny poked fun at Allen's appearance and nasal delivery.

Two years ago Allen wrote a book and titled it "Treadmill to Oblivion." The title came from this line in the book:

"Whether he knows it or not, the comedian is on a treadmill to oblivion."

Automation Could Create Canadian Ghost Towns

BRANTFORD (CP) — An international union official said Sunday automation could create Canadian ghost towns.

Carroll Coburn of Windsor, research director for the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL), spoke at a district educational conference sponsored by the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

He said automation could cause thousands of Canadians to lose their jobs. Canada, he said, would be returned to a situation similar to that which existed during the depression of the 1930s.

David Lewis, national chairman of the CCF party, told the conference experts exert such great influence on legislative policies it is nonsense to suggest they adopt a "hands-off" policy in the matter of politics.

YOUTHS ACQUITTED

CHATHAM (CP) — Nearly ten months after the alleged offences, three Wallaceburg youths were acquitted in court Thursday on charges of gross indecency involving a 15-year-old Indian girl from Walpole Island. They were Edwin Countryman, Thomas Turner and Terrence Tiffin.

European Communists Fall In Line Damning Stalin

LONDON (Reuters) — European Communist leaders are taking cautious steps to fall in line with a damning denunciation of Joseph Stalin by Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

Walter Ulbricht, first secretary of the East German Communist party, called Stalin a "despot" and denied the late Russian dictator's previously-accepted status as a war leader of genius. He said Stalin illegally persecuted his opponents within the Communist party.

His speech, made before a party conference Saturday and published in the party newspaper Neues Deutschland Sunday, was much milder than the scathing attack reported to have been made by Khrushchev.

Communists in France and Italy have got toned-down accusations against Stalin through party organs.

Travellers arriving in Moscow from throughout Russia reported that Khrushchev's speech to the party's 20th congress is included in a letter from the new central committee and is being studied by groups of Communist activists. According to reports, Khrushchev pictured Stalin as a pitiable-ridden murderer and "blunderer" who killed thousands of his party associates in the great purges of the 1930s.

The French Communist party newspaper Humanite merely called Stalin's "merits and mistakes." Italy's Unita contented itself by proving the errors of the "personality cult" associated with Stalin's rule.

Both newspapers contended that reports of pro-Stalin riots in Georgia, Stalin's native state, were pure invention.

Reports Sunday from Reuters Moscow bureau, however, said there had been demonstrations by students in Georgia starting March 9. The situation there now was believed to be under control, but foreign diplomats were still being denied travel tickets to the area.

There was no sign of any official pronouncement on the Khrushchev speech but Communist party branches continued to lead a discussion campaign about its message.

Ulbricht's speech accused Stalin of using the state security police for "despotic measures offending the Soviet laws" by ordering them to arrest party officials who rightly opposed Stalin's "personality cult."

Queen Returns After Holiday In Mediterranean

Even though the royal yacht Britannia ran into some rough weather the Queen said: "We have enjoyed it immensely."

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh came back to London in separate planes. The Queen flew in a Viking, the Duke piloted a jet plane.

The Queen went to Windsor Castle where a Soviet delegation including ex - premier Georgi Malenkov went on a night sexing tour earlier in the day.

Barbed Wire Encircles Playground in Cyprus

Youngsters playing in a sealed-off sector of Nicosia, Cyprus, come up close to the barbed wire barricade to peer at two British soldiers on duty. The man at left appears to be manning a machine-gun. A British police sergeant and a seven-year-old Cypriot boy were killed recently—the latest victims of the mounting violence on the British colony after deportation last week of National leader Archbishop Makarios, head of the Union-With-Greece movement.

The Emperor of Ginger Ales

The English House of Schweppes sends its fabulous Ginger Ale essence over to be bottled here in Canada – under the aegis of Commander Whitehead, Schweppesman Extraordinary. Incredible as it seems, Schweppes – made from this imported elixir – costs no more than domestic ginger ales.

As well as being head and shoulders above ordinary ginger ales, Schweppes even looks different. Not pale. A pure sunny amber that the Commander prefers to show off in sparkling clear glass bottles.

Schweppes Ginger Ale also has those delightful little bubbles called Schweppervescence. Schweppes bubbles, you will notice, never waste themselves exploding in the bottle. Or even in your glass as long as you don't disturb it. But when you drink Schweppes, you will find that each little bubble bursts upon your tongue, heightening the flavour of this incomparable Ginger Ale. Schweppervescence, what is more, lasts the whole drink through.

So ask for Schweppes Ginger Ale wherever you go. It's worth making a scene if you don't get it.

P.S. Schweppes also make the original Tonic Water for authentic tonic drinks, and a great Club Soda. Enjoy the whole family of Schweppes world-famous beverages — Schweppes Tonic Water, Schweppes Ginger Ale and Schweppes Club Soda.

Indians, Yanks Discover New Finds In Grape Fruit Leagues Exhibitions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Hey, Bob," he said, "will you throw me some curves when you get in shape? I figure that I can hit curves as well as I can hit fast balls, I'll do all right."

Feller's lessons must have paid off because today Colavito, who stands a towering 6-3, shows a smart .462 batting average on 12 hits in 26 trips to the plate.

He also leads the Indians in runs-batted-in with 12 and has hi hree home runs. One was a grand slammer and wo Sunday enabled his club to whip the New York Giants 8-6 in Los Angeles.

Colavito, who resembles Joe DiMaggio, is not exactly a rookie. He was up with the Tribe last year for a while and got into five games. He hit .444. He spent practically all last season with Indianapolis of the American Assn. Although he hit only .268, he knocked in 104 runs and smote 30 homers.

FIND GOOD HURLER

The Yanks, for their part, seem to have come up with a find, too, in Mark Freeman, a 24-year-old righthanded pitcher. He started against Cincinnati at Tampa and held the power - laden Redlegs scoreless for four innings, giving up only two hits as the Yanks won the game 4-3.

Brooklyn Dodgers, who finally are beginning to look like world champions, polished off the Chicago White Sox 4-1 with Roy Campanella hitting his first home run of the spring. The Brooks' record now shows 3 victories in 9 games, but as White Sox manager Marty Marion said:

"I wish we had their chances. There's too much power on that club to do much losing when the games count."

HELD MUSIAL HITLESS

Pittsburgh's two - man pitching staff, Bob Friend and Dick Littlefield, came up with a rare accomplishment while the Pirates were blasting St. Louis Cardinals 7-2 at St. Petersburg. They combined to hold Stan (The Man) Musial hitless.

Frank Sullivan, Bob Porterfield and Leo Kiely of Boston also turned in a slick pitching performance, blanking Philadelphia Phillies 9-0. The three gave up only five hits.

Roy Sievers, the Washington first baseman who won the holdout league title this spring, clubbed a two-run homer in his first official appearance at bat.

The Senators went on to beat Kansas City A's 7-5 in Orlando, so Sievers' blow spelled the difference.

Chicago Cubs turned back Baltimore Orioles 6-3 at Scottsdale, Ariz., when Walt Moryn broke a 3-all tie with a three-run homer in the eighth inning. At Lakeland, Detroit Tigers won their second exhibition game of the season by crushing the Milwaukee Braves, also 6-3.

Whether or not to give up an out with a sacrifice bunt is one of the problems confronting all managers. This is a particularly controversial point when the home team is trailing by one run in the late innings.

c. Let Bruton swing away?

Result: A—Bruton sacrificed and it paid off, Aaron beat out an infield hit and Mathews doubled for two runs. The Braves won 2-1 (April 193.

Howell Reaches Agreement With New York Rangers

HAMILTON (CP)—Ron Howell, the football-hockey player who is trying to choose between the two sports, said Sunday night he has reached a contract agreement with the National Hockey League's New ork Rangers but hasn't yet signed with them.

Howell, whose services are sought by both Rangers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, said in a telephone interview from New ork that he won't decide whether to play football or hockey until he talks to Tiest general manager Jake Gaudaur. He expects to return to Hamilton at the end of the week.

"I settled an agreement over contract terms with the Rangers, but that's about all," said Howell. "All I 'm trying to do now is decide what would be the best thing for me to do."

The 21-year-old Hamilton native completed his third and last season of junior A hockey a couple of weeks ago with Guelph Biltmores in the Ontario Hockey Association. He was taken up to Rangers for their last three games of the regular season on a trial basis.

It is believed Rangers have offered Howell a two-year contract for about $7,000 a year with an attached "no minor league" clause. The rider to the contract means that if Howell were dropped to the minors, he would receive the same salary he would draw as an NHL player.

TAKES WATER POLO

MONTREAL (CP) — Hamilton Aquatic Club Saturday night won the Canadian senior water polo championship by holding Montreal's Snowdon YMHA to a 9-9 draw. Hamilton won the two-game, home-and-home series 18-14. Montreal Central YMHA defeated Hamilton Aquatic Club 8-3 to take the round 7-6 for the junior title.

Fight Features Basketball Final

SUDBURY (CP)—The refereebaiting which marked the first game of the all-Ontario senior B basketball finals between the Toronto YMCA and Sudbury Merchants erupted in a fist-fight in the second and what turned out to be the deciding game of the series Saturday.

Merchants won Saturday night's game 69-67, and thereby won the best - of - three game series two straight. They won the first game Friday night, 86-57. The battle took place after the game, between YMHA guard Bob Kuitner and referee Bill Prince.

Prince's call against YMHA came with seven seconds left in the game and the Toronto club leading 67-66. Bob Evans scored the first foul shot, but missed the bonus to leave the game tied 67-67.

OUT OF BOUNDS

A fumble was batted out of bounds by the Sudbury club and with four seconds remaining YMHA had the ball for a throw-in in their own court. The pass intended for Art Kirkwood, was intercepted by Evans of Sudbury. He whirled in on the basket for the winning score as the final buzzer sounded.

The Sudbury bench swarmed out on floor to congratulate Evans. The Toronto bench swarmed out after the officials.

Threats and counter - threats ended in Kuitner and Prince squaring off. Before the fight had gone too far, the other referee and the fans had stepped in.

Leafs Nose Out Bruins For 4th Spot; Habs Push Wings Into Second Berth

Sport Slices

Rare, Medium, Well-Done

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

LEAFS IN!

The Toronto Maple Leafs eased themselves, with the aid of a big push by the Black Hawks, into the fourth-place N.H.L. playoff berth over the weekend and thereby prolonged television hockey for Ontario's faithful.

Clancy's in-and-outers lowered the boom on Detroit's Red Wings last night while the Hawks were spoiling Boston's plans for a puck tea-party. Irvin's birds of prey tossed the Beaneaters hopes overboard with a 2-1 setback allowing the Smythian C.G.G. boys to saunter in the back door.

Tuesday night the troops dig in for the money series. Leafs meet the Wings in Detroit while Canadiens entertain the Watson's Bison in Montreal.

Canadiens on their flashing season's play (they set at least seven records) are favorites to take top cash awards and the Stanley beaker. You can discount the two defeats they hung on the Rangers in the scheduled wind-up and write them off as water under the bridge. This is a new series and those Blues if they hit top stride can cause Toe Blake's couriers a lot of trouble. That zone for the Leafs against Detroit too, although the Jack Adams crew is reputed to be great money players.

CLOSER 'N' CLOSER

Wednesday is the first day of spring according to the calendar. Wednesday night could be the last of the hockey season for the Cornwall Colts. For on that night they clash with the Kingston Goodyears in the seventh and what could be the deciding game of the best-of-seven semi-finals series in the eastern senior "B" playoffs.

The boys in the back room down Reddenville way are not scaring the lettuce to back the Goodies. Saturday night they thumped the Colts but decisively in the Community Centre by a 7-1 score and Sunday they mounted a desperate back-to-the-wall battling corral of Colts held down the Goodyear bid for series glory and the jesst wound up in a five-all tie and stalemate.

So all-in-all the circumstances favor the Goodies to enter the senior "B" group finals for the third time in three seasons. The first twice they trotted home with the Ontario title. Wednesday night a victory or a tie will give them the right to square off with the Whitby Dunlops for the group title, a best-of-seven series which should be a honey no matter which way it ends.

The Colts have their saddles back-in-the-wall. They can settle with nothing less than a victory which will force an eighth game showdown tilt who will give the second home victories and a tie. And if they should pull out with a win the circumstances will change and the Colts will reign slight favorites to cop the Ontario crown.

But that victory in Kingston Wednesday seems like a very tough assignment. The Goodyears living up to their reputation of the years have again demonstrated they are a "money" club which glories in the battle when the "chips are down."

While the Colts have won two and lost one on their own ice and the Goodies have knocked off three wins at home, the Kingston victories have been the more decisive. The Colts had to go overtime to eke out that second game victory in their own corral and Tom Inmar yesterday's result. So the play to date would install the Goodies more or less heavy favorites Wednesday night to take the series gonfalon. But these Colts can rise to heights and with everything at stake, the battle should be the classic of the season.

* * * *

Meanwhile misfortune has struck the Whitby Dunlops. Eddie Redmond their rugged Peterborough defenceman was critically hurt in Ottawa in an exhibition game between the Dunlops and the Montreal Junior Canadiens. Redmond was struck in the windpipe with a stick-end and stories from Ottawa stated it was a nip-and-tuck go before Redmond was out of danger. Late reports state he is recovering but likely will be out of action for the season.

Redmond has been one of the bulwarks of the Dunnies defence and his absence will make quite a difference in the Dunlops rearguard strength. Incidentally the Dunlops were walloped twice by the Junior Canadiens in the exhibition tilts, the first time this season they have suffered defeat two games in a row. While these results may indicate to some extent the difference between a topflight senior "B" club and a junior "A" team, it should be remembered that the Junior Habs are highly favored to take Memorial Cup honors.

Hang 2-0 Collar on Detroit As Hawks Nudge Boston 3-2; Canadiens Blast Blues Twice

By The Canadian Press

Now it can be told, no ifs or buts. Montreal Canadiens oppose New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings face Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs.

Leafs slipped into the fourth and last playoff berth and Detroit took second place Sunday night in one of the most hectic endings in National Hockey League history. The best-of-seven semi - finals open Tuesday at Montreal and Detroit.

Leafs, who battled Boston Bruins down to the wire, nosed out Bruins for fourth-place with a 2-0 shutout over Wings Sunday at Detroit. Wings finished second despite their loss by virtue of Canadiens' two weekend wins over Rangers. The Habs walloped New York 7-2 at Montreal Saturday, then defeated Rangers 3-1 Sunday at New York.

HELD TO TIE

Chicago Black Hawks, who wound up at the bottom, threw a scare at Leafs Saturday by holding them to a 1-1 tie at Toronto, then clobbering Boston Bruins 3-2 Sunday at Boston to ensure Leafs of a playoff position.

Leafs sweltered Red Wings Sunday with a tight-checking game. Leafs' goalie Harry Lumley had only 14 saves to aid in collecting his third shutout of the season while tender Harry Lumley had only 14 saves to aid in collecting his third shutout of the season while minder Glenn Hall played a standout game in Detroit nets, stopping 23 shots.

George Armstrong and Dick Duff scored the goals and each drew one assist. Tod Sloan, brilliant centre for the Leafs two wingers, assisted on the opener but was hurt late in the first period. He suffered a cut on the back of his head, which required eight stitches, and a concussion. However, he is expected to be in shape for the playoff opener.

Armstrong got his 16th goal of the season at 6:15 of the second period when he took a pass from a scramble in front of the Detroit net. Duff counted the clinching goal midway through the last period when he fired his own rebound behind Hall.

The win, watched by 14,333 fans, was Toronto's first victory in 33 road games this season.

SPOTTED A FAIR

Rookie Andy Hebenton and Larry Popein scored at 7:25 and 8:15, respectively, for New York. Jean Beliveau made it 2-1 10 minutes later. Doug Harvey, Henri Richard and Floyd Curry tallied second-period goals. Bernie Geoffrion fired two goals and Bert Olmstead got the other third-period marker.

The Habs took command Sunday in the first period as Geoffrion scored while Ranger defenceman Jack Evans was serving a holding penalty. Curry stole a Ranger pass and broke in on Ranger goaltender Gump Worsley late in the period to make it 2-0 while Montreal was shorthanded.

RODE THE REFEREE

The game was delayed several times by the ire of Gabriel—including a dead fish—thrown from the crowd of 15,202. The fans rode referee Red Storey by chanting and "Storey is a bum."

Defenceman Gus Mortson scored on a 40-foot screened shot midway through the first period to give Hawks their lie at Toronto. Duff fired Toronto's goal at 13:27 of the second period.

A crowd of 13,333 watched Leafs desperately try to protect the one-goal lead with defensive hockey until Mortson scored.

One of the largest Boston crowds of the season—13,707 fans—turned up to see Chicago rob Bruins of their last chance for fourth place. It was only the seventh time in 32 games that Boston missed the playoffs.

Netminder Al Rollins played a leading role in Hawks' victory. He blocked out 18 shots in the scoreless third period, equalling the number of saves turned in by Boston's Terry Sawchuk throughout the entire game. In all, Rollins made 38 saves.

Linesmates George Sullivan, Harry Watson and Eddie Litzenberger accounted for the Hawks' scoring with a goal each. Johnny Wilson gave Bruins a brief 1-0 lead early in the game, Sullivan and Watson made it 2-1 before the period ended. After Litzenberger's goal early in the second, Don McKenney completed the scoring for Bruins.

Marlene Meets American in Tourney Final

By Ken Alexa

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Marlene Stewart, Canadian champion who won the British amateur golf tournament two years ago, and Wanda Sachtleben, who was just beginning to take up golf seriously at that time, met today over 18 holes in the finals of the North and South women's amateur tournament.

Poker-faced, deliberate Wanda, who lives in Baton Rouge, La., was never behind but had to go 21 holes to win from Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., a 19-year-old University of Washington sophomore.

The results left the United States Curtis Cup squad without representation in the finals. Five players and an alternate on the team that will engage the British at Sandwich, England, in June were in the starting field.

DROPS PUTT

Twenty - six - year - old Wanda dropped a 20-foot putt on the third extra hole to beat Miss Quast, who had gained the lead with winning pars on 18 and 17 after she had failed since the fourth hole.

Miss Stewart twice came from behind to defeat Miss Smith.

The Canadian girl was three over par and Willi five over, losing four strokes on the last holes.

Miss Stewart defeated Ruthie Mangrum of Seattle 1 up during the morning round Saturday to reach the quarter-finals in which she won over Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., a former Canadian amateur champion.

London, Sarnia Bowlers Capture Singles Crowns

TORONTO (CP)—A London, Ont. man and a Sarnia woman captured top honors Monday night in the eastern Canada five-pin bowling championships at the Canadian National Exhibition show.

Bob Taylor of London took the men's title defeating Hal Reibel of Kitchener. Taylor ran up a 360-pin lead in the first 6 games of a 10-game final and finished with a 472 margin.

Taylor rolled a total of 2,621 with a high single game of 337. Reibel had 2,214 with a 317 high single.

Mrs. Marion Pusey of Sarnia topped Mrs. Marion Robillard of Barrie, Ont., 2,214 to 2,186. Mrs. Pusey posted an 1,800 pin-fall lead in the first five games.

The men's and women's champions took $500 and $300 prizes respectively and trophies.

Stanley Cup Playoff Dates

NEW YORK (CP)—The Stanley Cup playoffs will open Tuesday night with two best-of-seven semi-final rounds getting under way at Montreal and Detroit.

The Rangers will play at Montreal Tuesday and Thursday with the scene shifting to New York next Saturday and Sunday. If further games are needed, they will be played at Montreal March 27, New York March 29 and Montreal March 31.

In the other half of the draw, the Red Wings entertain the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday and Thursday, shifting to Toronto Saturday and the following Tuesday. Remaining games, if needed, will be played at Detroit March 29, Toronto March 31 and Detroit April 3.

The winners of the two semi-final rounds will meet in another best-of-seven series for the Stanley Cup.

Mighty Nashua Carrying Big Impost Meets Crushing Defeat in Gulfstream

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nashua, whose daddy came from Ireland, went down to the most crushing defeat of his brilliant career Saturday in the $112,900 Gulfstream Park Handicap, a 1¼-mile race won by Brookmeade Stable's Sailor Sailor.

A crowd of 32,532 made Nashua the favorite at 3 to 5 in the field of seven but the top weight of 129 pounds apparently was too much for the big bay colt, who never threatened the leaders and finished a sadly-beaten fifth.

Sailor, ridden by Willie Hartack, who was leading U.S. jockey with 417 winners last year, wrested the lead from Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find as they passed the stands the first time and never lost it.

Meilleur, winner of the Appleton Handicap last Saturday, was second, 1½ lengths behind. Find finished another length back in third and Wide Margin ran fourth.

Nashua, shooting for the world's money-winning record held by Citation at $1,085,760, was spotted his seven opponents from four to 19 pounds. His fifth place finish was worth $2,800 and brought his total winnings to $1,060,515.

Following Nashua home was Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action and Prince Noor.

Sailor, four-year-old chestnut colt by Eight Thirty out of Flota, ran the mile and one quarter in 2:00 3/5. He earned $83,200.

Eddie Arcaro, Nashua's jockey, said "It wasn't bad luck or anything like that that beat us. The only bad luck we had was just in not winning the race. That 129 pounds weight didn't do him any good. You start giving away weight like that and you are going to get whipped—it's got to happen some time."

Canadiens' Beliveau, Plante Win Art Ross, Vezina Trophies; Olmstead Sets Assist Record

MONTREAL (CP) — After eight starring seasons, Montreal Canadiens have finally discovered the recipe for winning the National Hockey League championship: combine the league's top scorer with the stingiest goalie, add one record-breaking playmaker — and voila!

The Canadiens, who wound up the season with a 36-point bulge over the second-place Detroit Red Wings, took possession of the only two individual championships based on cold figures.

The Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie who played most games for the club least scored upon, was taken by Jacques Plante, while Jean Beliveau won the Art Ross Trophy as the loop's leading scorer.

SET THREE RECORDS

Beliveau and his left - winger, Bert Olmstead, set three league records between them. Beliveau, in two marks—most goals for a centre and most points for a centre, Olmstead helped set up the final goal of Montreal's final game to establish a record for assists.

The only record to elude the Montrealers was the penalty-point stats. This dubious honor went to Lou Fontinato of the New York Rangers.

In winning the Prince of Wales Trophy as NHL champions, Canadiens broke a string of seven straight league titles put together by Detroit Red Wings. Montreal last won the championship in the 1945 - 46 season. The Detroit Leafs took it the following season and then the Detroit run started.

Canadiens won 41 games, lost 24 and tied 10 to finish the season with 92 even 100 points—one short of the league record set by Detroit in 1950-51.

At home the Canadiens counted 54 of a possible 70 points on 28 wins, five losses and one tie. On the road they collected 41 of a possible 70 on 18 victories, nine ties and 10 losses.

WORST SHOWING

Their worst showing at home was against Boston Bruins, whom they beat four out of seven times. They took all 14 possible points from New York Rangers and 12 of 14 from Toronto.

On the road, their closest to perfection was 13 of a possible 14 points from Chicago. They collected only 2 of 14 from the Red Wings and the Rangers.

Beliveau finished the season with 47 goals and 41 assists to come within seven points of the league record set made by Gordie Howe of Detroit in the 1953-54 season. As scoring champion, Beliveau collects $1,000. Howe, runner-up this season with 79 points, collects $500.

Beliveau's 47 goals broke the record of 44 held for centres and the 88 points broke the old mark of 80 points for centres. Joe Malone, centre for Canadiens back in the 1917-18 season, had held the record 44 goals. He made it in a 22-game schedule compared with the present 70-game.

Beliveau's 88 points beat by eight the former record made by Elmer Lach of Canadiens in the 50-game 1944-45 season.

Beliveau also had the distinction of serving more time in the penalty box than any centre in NHL history. His 152 minutes eclipsed by 16 the record set by Hooley Smith of Ottawa Senators in a 44-game schedule in the 1926-27 season.

Olmstead's record 30 assists erased the previous mark of 55 set by Ted Lindsay of Detroit in the 70-game 1949-50 season.

Plante won the Vezina Trophy—and the $1,000 that goes with it—with a goals-against mark of 131, an average of 2.87 a game. Rookie Gelsen Hall of the Red Wings was a contender most of the way.

Fontinato eclipsed the old bad-man mark by a wide margin. He served 165 minutes, compared with the 167 minutes served by Red Horner of Toronto in the 1933-36 campaign.

The Leafs almost beat the team record of 1,061 minutes set by Canadiens in the 1953-54 season. The unofficial tabulation after they grabbed fourth place Sunday night was 1,060 minutes.

In addition to the two big individual awards already won by Beliveau and Plante, four more awards will be announced later. Sports writers and sportscasters currently are voting on the four choices.

The four trophies are the Hart, to the player judged most valuable to his team; the Calder Memorial, to the outstanding rookie; the James Norris Memorial, to the outstanding defenceman, and the Lady Byng Memorial, to the player combining sportsmanship, gentlemanly conduct and a high standard of playing ability.

Each award is worth $1,000 cash to the winner.

WAS ULSTER MANAGER

TORONTO (CP)—Robert (RA) Torrens, 89, a prominent figure in Canadian soccer, died Sunday. Born in Belfast, he moved to Canada in 1880 and became associated with the Ulster United team as manager and coach.

Mr. Torrens helped form the Lisfield team of the Irish Senior League. He and his two brothers played for Lisfield. In 1912, he was selected to represent Ireland in seven internationals.

Fetchick Wins St. Pete Open In Playoff

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Mike Fetchick, Lionel Hebert, Billy Maxwell, Ernie Vossler and other lesser knowns are bearing down on golf's big money prizes this week.

Fetchick, a 33-year-old from Mahopac, N.Y., who is making his third circuit swing, won the St. Petersburg Open Sunday in a sudden-death playoff with Hebert, 28-year-old from Erie, Pa., after both carded 278s for the regulation 72 holes.

Maxwell, of Odessa, Tex., finished three at 278 after leading for two rounds and Vossler, a 35-year-old master plumber from Fort Worth, Tex., tied a 71 to tie for fourth with Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., at 277.

A tie for sixth at 279 by Cary Middlecoff of Dallas, Tex., pro-tourney favorite and defending champion, and Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. Open champion, was the best showing by the old guard.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver had a 69 Sunday, his best round of the tournament, and won $152 for an 18th-place tie with Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio. Both scored 283.

Fetchick and Furgol had 69s in the final round, Hebert had 70s, Vossler and Middlecoff 71s and Maxwell a 72. The 6,489-yard Lakewood Country Club course has a par of 36-36—72.

Eskimos, Wolves All Square

IROQUOIS FALLS (CP)—Home ice is proving a big factor in the results of the games in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals.

Abitibi Eskimos trounced Sudbury Wolves 8-3 Saturday to even the best-of-seven series at two games apiece. Sudbury took the first two games of the series on its home ice and Eskimos have won both contests here.

The fifth game is scheduled for here tonight, providing the natural ice in the arena remains hard. If the weather turns warm, the game will be played at McIntyre Arena in South Porcupine. Sixth game is scheduled for Sudbury Wednesday.

Marlies Oust Teepees With 7-2 Win Barrie Edges Irish to Even Series

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The loss of six star players from their 1953 Canadian Junior championship team doesn't seem to be holding back Toronto Marlboros.

Marlboros walloped the favored St. Catharines Teepees 7-2 at Toronto Sunday to gain a final berth in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League. Marlboros won the last four games in the best-of-seven semi-final series to take the set 4-1 with one game tied.

Their opponents in the best-of-seven final round will be either Toronto St. Michael's Majors or Barrie Flyers, engaged in a best-of-five semi-final.

Flyers edged Majors 3-2 Saturday at Barrie to even the series at one game apiece.

AMONG THE MISSING

Among the players who left Marlboros at the end of last season are Billy Harris and Gerry James, now with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, Johnny Alban1, the OHA Junior A's top goaltender in 1954-55 is with Sudbury Wolves in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league. He was the only netminder in the NOHA's regular schedule.

Despite the loss of talent, coach Turk Broda has nursed his veterans and rookies into Marlboros' most straight OHA final. In each case, St. Catharines has been their opponents. Two years ago, Teepees knocked Marlboros from the finals in their march to the Memorial Cup and the situation was reversed last season.

Left winger Bob Pulford, a holdover from last season, fired two goals to lead Toronto to its win. He was the highest scorer of the series with eight goals and five assists.

Carl Brewer, defenceman converted to forward, added one goal and three assists and single markers went to Charlie Burns, Bob Nevin, Wall Boyer and Ken Girard.

Ab McDonald scored both St. Catharines goals on assists from Don Carter. Both came in the second period.

WATCHED BEATING

A crowd of 2,213 fans watched as the fourth-place finishers knocked off Teepees, who ended the regular season in first place. Teepees took five of eight games against Marlboros in the regular schedule.

Barrie, walloped 8-2 by Majors in the first game of their semi-final, came from behind a one-goal deficit to win the second game at Barrie.

Majors opened the scoring early in the game but Flyers tied it up midway through the first period and led 3-1 at the end of the second. They scored the first goal of the third before Majors closed the scoring.

Third game in the series is scheduled for Tuesday at Toronto.

DUBLIN (AP)—Trainer Charles Rogers said Sunday Mr. Linnett, only American owned horse in the Grand National Steeplechase, has suffered a leg injury and will be scratched.

Solmar Notes

Outdoor Training Saves Lives

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
(Field Sportsman, Author, and Crester of Solmar Tables.)

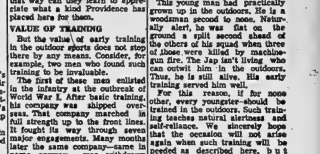
Nowadays we hear a great deal about the inclusion of conservation courses in the established curriculum of our grade schools, high schools and universities. Without doubt, this is an excellent program. Had these same courses been given in the schools of the last 100 years ago, our country would be a much better place than it is today.

A great deal of damage has been done to our natural resources by the money-hungry and unscrupulous of former years. Denuded mountainsides, dust bowls and unprecedented floods are the direct result. To be sure, the pendulum now swings the other way but Nature has a large order on her hands to undo the damage that has been done.

The youth of the country should be taught to cherish their heritage and conserve what is left. It can be passed on unharmed to future generations. They should be schooled in the outdoor sports—fishing and shooting—as only in that way can they learn to appreciate what a kind Providence has placed here for them.

VALUE OF TRAINING

But the value of early training in the outdoor sports does not stop there by any means. Consider, for example, two men who found such training a big advantage.



The first of these men enlisted in the infantry at the outbreak of World War I. After basic training, his company was shipped overseas. That company marched in full strength up to the front lines. It fought its way through several major engagements. Many months later the same company—same in name anyway — was withdrawn from the front lines.

The company that marched out consisted of 36 men under the command of the one remaining sergeant. The man served in each one of the 36. Not only was he unwounded but he survived that frightful winter without illness or serious discomfort.

This man had spent a great share of his life in the outdoors. He was then, and still is, an accomplished woodsman. Having spent countless hours stalking creatures of the wild — far more alert than any humans—he was well equipped to take care of himself in combat. The German hadn't been born who could catch him off guard.

The second man, who makes an excellent case in point, is one of the group of youngsters with whom we used to shoot and fish some years ago. In World War II he joined the United States Marines. In due course he was shipped to the South Pacific to take part in the island invasions.

He was one of a squad of eight who were known as demolition men. It was their job to go first to the beaches where they would blast open pathways for the landing craft and the infantry. Today he is the only man alive from that entire squad. He has this Purple Heart, but the wound was from a shell fragment in the shoulder, sustained while he was lying deep in his foxhole—but not quite deep enough.

This young man had practically grown up in the outdoors. He is a woodsman second to none. Naturally alert, he was flat on the ground a split second ahead of the others of his squad when three of those were killed by machine-gun fire. The Jap isn't living who can outwit him in the outdoors. Thus, he is still alive. His early training served him well.

For this reason, if for none other, every youngster should be trained in the outdoors. Such training teaches natural alertness and self-reliance. We sincerely hope that the occasion will not arise again when such training will be needed as described here, but should it arise there is no substitute for outdoor training as a valuable aid in self-preservation. And this very training of our youngsters makes of us a stronger nation.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jean Peters and Rossano Brazzi, the latter a newcomer from Italy, form one of these love teams (Clifton Webb and Dorothy McGuire, Louis Jourdan and Maggie McNamara) in "Three Coins in the Fountain", CinemaScope hit by color by Deluxe now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The Twentieth Century-Fox film was made in Rome and Venice. Also on the same program and nominated for eight Academy Awards is "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing", starring William Holden and Jennifer Jones.

AT THE BELLE — Jack Carson and Margaret Hayes are hosts to an unexpected, and troublesome guest, Van Johnson in this scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's power-packed drama of the southwest, "The Bottom of the Bottle", playing today and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre. Joseph Cotten and Ruth Roman are also costarred in the CinemaScope and color De Luxe production. The Queen's Guard, a multiple-reel CinemaScope and Technicolor featurette, is a special added attraction.

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts increased their bulge over the field to 14 points as the Quebec Hockey League schedule ground to an end Sunday and now the question is whether they can repeat in the post-season play.

Last year the Cataracts went all the way. They won the league championship, the playoffs, and finally defeated Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League for the Edinburgh Trophy.

They start the playoffs at home Wednesday when the next Chicoutimi Saguenenns in a best-of-seven semi-final.

Trois - Rivieres Lions, cellar-dwellers in the five-team loop, dropped two 5-3 decisions at the season ended during the weekend. They lost to the Aces in Quebec Saturday while the Chicoutimi Saguenenns defeated them in Trois-Rivieres Sunday. In the third game, Shawinigan downed the Montreal Royals 2-1 in Montreal Sunday.

Rapid Robert Hope May Yet Make Trip to Russia

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rapid Robert Hope almost made it to Russia, and may make the trip yet.

This is one of the facts gleaned from the fast-travelling comic, just returned from three months of globe-trotting and film-making.

"I could have gone to Russia," Hope remarked, "but I didn't have the time. I had to get back here right away for my next TV show.

"I'm going to get there, though. I know how I'll do it. I'll have our ambassador in England, Winthrop Aldrich, take me to the Soviet ambassador and make arrangements. Then I'd give a show for the American colony and others who understand English in Moscow. Think of the gags I could use there."

But perhaps the Russians might not welcome him, particularly since the film he made in England spoofs the Communists?

"Oh, they've got to have a sense of humor over there," he replied. "Just look at Khrushchev!"

HOPE GAGS THROWN IN

Hope co-starred with Katharine Hepburn in what now is called The Iron Petticoat. She plays a Russian and he an American Army officer, and their marriage brings all kinds of complications. Hope said the original script had been approved by the Reds.

"But that was before I entered the picture. I had a lot of gags thrown in. Funny thing — we haven't heard from them since."

Next Tuesday Hope will star on TV in The Arch Smith, taking the old Cary Grant role while Greer Garson plays the Irene Dunne part. It's a switch from his usual variety format.

Hope has four more years to go under his NBC deal and expects to be back for his auto sponsor next season. He's happy with the tie-up, though it can be restricting. He had to pass up his chore as Oscar emcee next Wednesday because the show is sponsored by another car, even though they're both in the same corporation.

AT THE CAPITOL — Marjorie Main costars with John Wayne in Harold Bell Wright's beloved angel story, "The Shepherd of the Hills" in Technicolor opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre for a three day showing. On the same program in Technicolor "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" — starring Fred MacMurray, Henry Fonda and Sylvia Sidney.

MOORE MAULS DANIELS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Archie Moore, world light heavyweight champion, mauled Frankie Daniels of Bakersfield, Calif., for 10 rounds Saturday in winning a 500-title fight. It was a good workout for the champion who weighed 194½ and must shed 20 pounds before his title fight with Yolande Pompey June 5 in London.

PUT ALL ON BICYCLES

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart consultant to President Eisenhower, would like to put the whole country on bicycles to combat heart disease.

The Boston heart specialist, addressing a New York Heart Association luncheon Saturday, said that while he had no conclusive facts to prove it, he was convinced that over-eating and underexercising are responsible for increase in some forms of heart disease.

Brum, Manchester Will Battle For Football Cup

LONDON (CP) — Favored Birmingham City and Manchester City qualified Saturday for the May 5 Football Association Cup final at London's Wembley Stadium with semi-final victories.

Birmingham City, with a strong defence and probably the best attack in the country, shut out Sunderland's team of stars 3-0 before 65,197 fans at Hillsborough, Sheffield.

Inside forward Bobby Johnstone, Scottish international, headed in Manchester's goal just before halftime, and sent his team into the final for the second straight year. Last season Newcastle United defeated Manchester City 3-1 to take the trophy, major prize of English soccer.

Inside forward Noel Kinsey gave Birmingham a 1-0 first-half lead and the victory was assured by second-half goals by right winger Gordon Astall and centre forward Eddie Brown.

The two goals in the second half were on breakaways while Sunderland, with seven internationals in its star-studded lineup, was putting on a powerful attack in an attempt to tie the score.

Birmingham reached the final without playing a cup game on its own ground—the first team to do that this century.

Close Race Marks Finish In American Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Hockey League heads into the final week of the 64-game regular season today with only one point separating the first two teams and just two between the third and fourth place clubs. Providence's Reds retained their slim hold on first place Sunday night by defeating Hershey Bears. Cleveland Barons 6-2 while the Buffalo Bisons from Pittsburgh were blanking the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons 4-0.

Springfield defeated Hershey 7-6 in overtime in the other game.

The Bisons have a slight advantage in their duel with the Reds in that they have four games to play while Providence has only three. Cleveland and Buffalo also have three each remaining.

Camille Henry paced the Reds in their all-important game, scoring three goals to boost his season's total to 48, seven short of the league record.

Badminton Club Wins Tourney

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club upset the Peterborough Badminton Club 15-9 in an interclub tournament at the local Armouries Saturday night.

Belleville had a 5-1 edge in men's doubles, tied the ladies' doubles 3-3 and won the mixed doubles 7-5.

It was Peterborough's first loss in inter-club play in the Central Ontario district this season.

Following play the visitors were entertained at a social evening and buffet lunch in the officers' mess.

Kingston Leads Cornwall in Playoff Series

Kingston Goodyears and Cornwall Colts meet Wednesday night in Kingston in the seventh game of their current senior "B" group semi-finals with the odds favoring the Goodyears to take the game and series.

The Goodyears handed the Colts a decisive 7-1 setback in Kingston Saturday night and battled to a 3-3 draw in Cornwall's Memorial Arena on Sunday. As matters stand at the moment Kingston has an edge with three victories and a tie with the Colts boasting a pair of wins and the stalemate. A tie or victory for the Goodies will clinch the series while a Cornwall victory will force another tussle.

The Goodyears broke into their now famous goal-plus splurges in both games. They led 1-0 in the first period on Saturday's game topped the score to 3-1 in the second and three four in the last to tuck the win away.

Cornwall grabbed a 2-0 lead in the Sunday tilt but could not stand prosperity. They led 3-0 in the first and added another in the second. Then the Goodyears struck for four goals in a row and added the fifth in the third beat to take a 5-3 lead. Cornwall raced back but never could tie by tying and coming with a minute to go. The overtime period scoreless.

Murray and Samolenko each scored twice in Saturday's game while Murray and Lloyd the lone Colt goal. The same player scored a brace in Sunday's game with Jeannette, McMilligan and O'Brien getting singles. Senior, Toppazzini, White, Murray and Nicholson scored for the Goodyears.

OBA Elects Tim Turow 1957 President

OAKVILLE (CP)—Tim Turow of Preston was elected president of the Ontario Baseball Association at the OBA's annual meeting, held Friday and Saturday.

Other officers were: Pete McMullen of Melton, first vice-president; A. B. Walker of Oshawa, second vice-president; James Millward of Oakville, third vice-president; John Bell of Listowel, John Leask of Fort Erie, Arnold Wade of Newmarket and Doug Wilson of Oakville, executive members.

Fred Bradley of Hamilton and Mayor Archie Stirling of Chatham were elected life members. They join the only other living lifetime member, W. J. Smith of Hamilton.

The OBA and the Ontario Baseball Association proposed that a new series, namely a major, be set for towns with population of 15,000 or more and that towns with population between 8,000 and 15,000 be classified as A. the motion was passed.

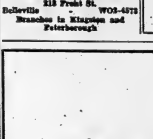
Little Benny's Notebook

We were eating pancakes for Sunday breakfast, and pop said to ma, My dear, have a strange but strong feelin in my accompany you to church this morning.

I'm sure you couldn't have a better inclination, ma said, and pop said, I believe you've right. I've noticed that whenever I'm on my way to church I have an agreeable feeling that I'm doing exactly what I ought to be doing every Sunday morning, he said.

Well of course, I mean naturally, ma said, and pop said, And on my way home again I invariably experience a righteous sensation of time having been well spent. In fact I have everything to gain and nothing to lose, he said.



Nobody is arguing with you, William, so if you've really made up your mind, there's no necessity for talking yourself into it, ma said, and pop said, One more thought occurs to me.

Now William, you dont need any more thoughts, ma said, and pop said, But suppose the subject of today's sermon is the mental and moral advantages of church attendance? In that case the minister won't be telling me a thing that I haven't just been telling myself. So what then? he said.

Then you can cheerfully stay home next Sunday morning and reflect on your own cleverness, ma said, and pop said, Okay, my dear, that's a promise.

And he started to go up to put on his Sunday clothes looking as though he thought he was grate.

Which he is.

Seventy Workers Continue Strange Work Stoppage

TORONTO (CP)—Seventy workers today continued their strange work-at-all-costs protest in a suburban tool plant despite claims they have all been fired.

The men and women, employees of the Mall Tool Company and members of United Automobile, Aircraft and Machine Workers of America (find), have stamped inside the company's Etobicoke plant since last Friday. They say they will stay there, without heat, light and perhaps food, until 34 dismissed workers are rehired.

A. W. Mall countered the workers' statements by announcing he has fired all his staff, except 20 who are not participating in the plant's strike. He said he will close down manufacturing operations, using the plant only for assembly of power tools produced in the company's Chicago parent plant.

No employees were seen on work benches and cat food passed over the plant's high wire fence. Sunday appealed for help to Labor Minister Dunbar of Ontario. He sent a telegram, signed by Jefferson J. Hurley, the union's Toronto representative, which read in part:

"Anti-Canadian attitude of American management bitterly resented by Mall workers and by community. Situation urgently requires your attention."

The union says Mr. Mall fired the 24 employees last week to stall UTW certification.

They quote him as saying no United States company can make money in Canada and that he was sorry hit had come to Canada.

Mr. Mall, who is staying in an apartment at the plant with his Chicago lawyer, could not be reached for comment.

Meanwhile, the protesting employees said they will continue to man their machines even if power is cut off.

Charge Brother With Murder After Slaying Near Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND (CP) — James Howey Brown, 26, today was charged with murder in the shotgun slaying Monday night of his brother Milton, 31.

Magistrate E. C. Spereman remanded him to March 28.

The victim was shot in the chest apparently with a 12-gauge shotgun fired at close range.

Police gave no indication of a motive for the shooting.

Provincial constable Karl Bradley said he talked to James Brown, upstairs in the house with a loaded shotgun, for 1½ hours in an effort to get him to surrender.

Bradley said James Brown's wife, Rosemary, and constable Bill Wilson joined him in trying to get Brown, crying and sobbing aloud, to give himself up.

The constable said he put his own revolver on the floor to show that he wouldn't shoot. Brown then sat on the edge of the bed with his own gun and asked the constable for a cigaret in exchange for his shells. Bradley said that he handed over one cigaret but Brown gave him only one shell and kept another in the gun. In all, Bradley said he handed over four cigarets.

LUNGES AT MAN

Bradley said he finally lunged up five or six steps, threw his...self against Brown and shoved the gun aside).

The constable said he wasn't worried he might be shot himself. "He looked nervous and upset. I thought he might shoot himself. I was concerned about him. I didn't use any sympathy with him at all. I just kept talking and talking."

Police said when they arrived at the farm they found Mrs. Brown and her three children, aged 5, 3 and 7, sitting in a car outside the house crying.

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are clear over all of Ontario this morning with mainly daytime temperatures across northern sections of the province somewhat warmer than those reported from central and southern portions. Temperatures reported as above, Kapuskasing 21 above, white River 18 above, Timmins 16 above, Muskoka 8 above, London 18 above and Killaloe 4 below.

Once again snow is falling in the Maritimes. Over the remainder of the continent, generally fair weather prevails and the milder air now lying west of the Great Lakes is expected to push into the lower regions on Wednesday.

MINISTER MAY PROVIDE SLIGHT CUTS IN BUDGET

Canadians Will Know Answers Early Tonight

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians learn tonight how far they will have to reach into their pockets for federal taxes in the coming fiscal year.

Advance speculation is that Finance Minister Harris won't make them dig any deeper—he may provide some slight cuts here and there in his 1956-57 budget to be presented to the Commons tonight.

The 32-year-old minister, in his first budget address to the country know around 8:30 p.m. EST, what he has in store by way of taxes. Prime Minister St. Laurent would sit tight generally on present rates.

The general view was that Mr. Harris would not take advantage—as he could—of the estimated $200,000,000 soaring economy by pegging his budget figures to it but would plan it more conservatively by using taxes to drain money out of the spending stream as a hedge against inflation.

IN GOOD SHAPE

Mr. Harris' finances were in good shape for tax reductions, should he choose to use them.

He reported to the Commons Monday, in a white paper overtaking financial operations for the fiscal year that ends March 31, that the government had a budget deficit of only $31,700,000, a little more than one per cent of its revenue for the $3,058-56 fiscal year.

Expenditures at $4,345,400,000 were the highest of any Canadian peacetime year. Income was the second-highest on record.

The income prospects for the coming year starting April 1 were even higher, which left Harris free to choose to milk the revenue potential growing from a record $26,600,000,000 for the calendar year 1955 and still going up.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL

Apart from the possibility of inflation-restraining tax levels, an influence on his budget was the question of federal provincial fiscal relations.

A federal plan for sharing health insurance with the provinces could cost the $4,345,000,000 a year the federal treasury, though it is unlikely most of this would be chalked up against the federal government in the next year.

Federal sharing in the cost of unemployment relief could run to considerably more than $100,000,000 a year under present indications.

MOH Apologizes

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City council's health committee chairman Dr. C. A. Harris, medical officer of health, Monday night for his charge that council had used "gutter politics" in the fluoridation issue.

An ardent supporter of fluoridation, Dr. Harris explained he was naturally "extremely disappointed" when council turned it down. But he said he accepted without comment and filed.

U.S. Pledges France Support In Liberal Algerian Policy

PARIS (AP)—The United States today pledged its "whole-hearted support" to France in the search for a solution of the nationalist uprising in Algeria.

In a major policy statement to a luncheon of the French Diplomatic Press Association, C. Douglas Dillon, U. S. ambassador to France, condemned rebel terrorism in France's strategic North African territory.

"The United States stands solidly behind France in the search for a liberal and equitable solution of the problems in Algeria," the ambassador said.

U. S. officials said the speech was approved in advance by both Eisenhower administration and was designed to kill off French suspicions about Washington's attitude towards the explosive Algerian situation.

In an apparent reference to charges that Egypt and Russia have been fostering the Moslem revolt in North Africa, Dillon said:

"We recognize that there have been external influences at work and trying to undermine the French position throughout North Africa.

"I hope that what I have just said will be of help in enabling the people of France to differentiate sharply between her friends and her foes, between the friends and allies who support her in her search for liberal and fair solutions, and those who have sought by every possibility of creating a continuing relationship between France and the Moslem communities throughout North Africa."

Dillon's speech was also seen as trying to avoid offending the sensitive Arab world. He stressed that American backing of France hinged on the latter's liberal policy respecting the nationalist sentiments of the North African peoples.

This was apparently aimed to ward off possible Arab criticism that the U. S. was backing colonialism.

Meanwhile, in North Africa itself, the city of Algiers bristled today with armed police following a state of siege as the French resident minister, Robert Lacoste, marshalled his forces to stamp out 18 months of rebellion.

Heavily armed troops patrolled the city in armored cars, jeeps and trucks. Troops debarked daily from liners.

The rebellion also was under way but bringing two French divisions being pulled out of Germany.

G-LANE HIGHWAYS 'A MUST' SAYS ROADS MINISTER

Expects Traffic Will Triple in 20 Years

TORONTO (CP) — Super highways on a scale with Ontario's soaring economy must soon be built, Highways Minister Allan told Ontario legislature Monday.

In presenting estimates for the biggest highway budget in Ontario's history, Mr. Allan said six-lane highways will be needed to keep pace with traffic which he expects will triple in 20 years.

In order to keep up with the traffic demands that result from $4,000,000,000 new construction by 1975, one for every two persons.

His department was expecting 1,000,000 vehicles in Ontario by 1975, one for every two persons.

Reference by Premier Frost in 1952 investigations of highways department irregularities led to the strongest of words as far as this session.

CCF leader MacDonald charged the Progressive Conservative government is influenced by party contributions from contractors.

Cliffs from contractors formed the "basis and sinews" of Conservative Party's funds. It had never been denied these donations influenced the government.

"Well, I'll deny it now," said Premier Frost, rising to his feet. "The time has come to deal with you. Let me set your thinking straight, my friend."

The premier said the CCF leader was "a public life's young man who thinks he has to clean up public life."

Government in Canada and Ontario was conducted on a high level, said Mr. MacDonald was "badly mistaken" if he thought he could succeed in his everything straight.

"You are not needed at all," said Premier Frost while both government and Liberal members pounded their desks.

Toronto Woman Killed by Car Which Sped Away

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. A' Clark, 79, was killed Monday night when struck by a car in suburban North York.

Police said a province-wide search was launched for the convertible which was reported to have sped away, turning off its lights after the accident.

Survivors are a son, Leonard Irvine, Toronto, and moved to Belleville, and a daughter, Mrs. John Carver of Belleville.

10-TON TEAKWOOD GIFT

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has received a gift of 10 tons of teakwood from Prime Minister U. Nu of Burma. In a letter of thanks, Eisenhower said White House cabinet makers "will be able to put this magnificent wood to use in beautiful ways."

Police Fire Rounds Of Tear Gas Into Ranks Of Rioters

Greek Cypriot Photographer Beaten in Demonstration

NICOSIA (AP)—An angry Turkish crowd roped through Ataturk square today smashing Greek shops as police fired round after round of tear gas at them.

The area of the square is primarily Turkish.

Police and riot squads kept them within the neighborhood by cordoning off adjacent streets.

The 300-man demonstration continued for more than three hours.

A Greek Cypriot press photographer was the only casualty. He was beaten up by Turks when he tried to take their pictures.

NO ARRESTS

No arrests were made although the demonstrations against Greece-Turk rioting in the village of Vasilia, was held within 100 yards of the divisional police headquarters.

One Turkish policeman was quoted as saying: "Every Vasilia child are in Vasilia."

Inflamed by reports of a Greek attack on Turks in the village of Vasilia Monday, mobs started gathering in Nicosia's Konak square this morning.

British troops and police used tear gas to disperse them, but they reformed and stormed out of the square towards the neighboring mosque of St. Sophia, largest on the island.

Leaving a trail of debris and shattered glass in its wake, the mob was eventually broken up by police cars and edded into the narrow side streets.

500 IN MOB

Before it was scattered, the mob—which numbered about 500 at the time—beat up a Greek Cypriot photographer who was snapping pictures of the rioting Turks.

Many Greek shopkeepers throughout the city had hurriedly put up their shutters when word spread that tension was growing in the Turkish sector. The entire Turkish quarter was alive with patrols of motorized troops and police on foot.

The British troops broke up groups of Turks forming in front of shops and stores. Police checked all persons and vehicles going along the street where the Turkish leader, Dr. Fazil Kucuk, has offices.

Kucuk and two aides left for Vasilia to investigate Monday's outbreak.

Wins Top Hat

MIDLAND (CP)—Capt. Clifford Maclean of the H.S. coast guard ice breaker Macklnaw, has won the ice cutter Macklnaw was awarded the earliest opening of navigation here.

Moved to Midland to help free several ships ice-bound with winter cargo following the break-down of a local tug, the Macklnaw arrived Sunday. It completed the work of breaking ice in Midland and nearby Penetanguishene harbors at noon Monday.

Premier Frost Says Cost Would Be Prohibitive

TORONTO (CP) — George T. Gordon (L—Brantford) said Monday night the Ontario government should order compulsory insurance for all drivers in the province.

He told the Ontario legislature during debate on estimates for the department of highways there are too many instances of drivers crippling the earning power of a family by an accident without the family having proper recourse to compensation.

Premier Frost said compulsory insurance has been considered, but the cost was prohibitive.

Ontario CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald said the provincial government could supply the same insurance coverage for 40 per cent of the cost of that provided by private companies.

Block Expansion In Newmarket, Water Shortage

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Residential and industrial expansion in this town of 7,000 has been stopped pending discovery of a new water source.

Gladstone Archer, chairman 'of the planning and industrial committee in the community, 25 miles north of Toronto, termed the situation "an extreme emergency."

Dr. Robert King, director of York county health unit, has promised to approve at least four subdivisions because of possible water shortage until insufficient sewage disposal facilities. Requests for three factories, two shopping centres and eight subdivisions have been blocked.

Bodies of Man, Woman Found in Montreal Apt.

MONTREAL (CP)—The bodies of a 26-year-old woman and a 34-year-old man were found Monday in a north end apartment.

Police said the woman, identified as Mrs. Theresa Bayer, 26, had been strangled. The man, 34-year-old Maximilian Sturch, was found hanged in the bathroom.

Police described the case as "apparently a murder."

Police said the woman was the mother of two boys, but was apparently separated from her husband. A one-year-old son was asleep in the apartment and another boy, 4, was found at a neighbor's apartment.

France Grants Independence To Tunisia

PARIS (Reuters)—France today formally recognized Tunisian independence, including the right to set up her own national army, in a joint protocol signed here. The protocol also recognized Tunisia's right "to exercise her responsibility in foreign affairs."

Tunisian Premier Tahar Ben Ammar and French foreign minister Christian Pineau signed the protocol. It converts the French Algerian protectorate into an independent government which, however, will maintain strong links with France.

More than 3,000,000 Tunisians receive their freedom under the protocol. It follows three weeks of negotiations here on defining and extending the self-government treaty signed last summer.

Tunisia became a French protectorate in 1881. Now it will have its own army and diplomatic envoys but will work closely with France in all items of common interest, particularly defence and foreign relations.

Tunisia so far has no parliament or constitution. Laws passed by the bey of Tunis, Sidi Mohammed Amin.

Elections are planned later this month to select a national assembly which will prepare a constitution.

ANT "MISSING LINK"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A family of tiny yellow ants resembling what lived 10,000,000 years ago has been discovered by Harvard university researchers in the jungle of Ceylon. Described as a "missing link" in ant family, the Ceylon ants help to bridge the gap between the primitive ants and the highly-developed ants familiar to us today, the university says.

Malenkov Tells British Labor M.P.'s Russia Cleaned Up, Dictatorship Over

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Georgi M. Malenkov, former Soviet premier, says the present Soviet regime "cleaned up" Russia and that a Stalin dictatorship can never rise again in his homeland.

Malenkov, now Russia's minister of power stations, was a dinner guest of British Labor members of parliament Monday night. He gave his views on the Soviet Union and its leaders in question-and-answer period from which reporters were barred.

Richard Crossman, one of the hosts, told reporters later that Malenkov said he said "We have cleaned up Russia.'"

"He tried to impress on us that we need not worry," Crossman said, "that they had stopped dictatorship, that they had stopped the wicked things.

"He said very very clearly it could not happen again, that collective government now has been firmly established and that dictatorship could not return. I cannot say how many of us he convinced, but he certainly tried hard."

Sidney Silverman, another Labor MP who attended the dinner, said Malenkov told him that "collective leadership is now established, along with the right to dissent outside the collective leadership without being branded a traitor to the party, to the state and people."

He did not ask him about his association with Stalin or his position in the Soviet hierarchy now, Silverman said, "but he gave us the impression he did not like Stalin."

Malenkov succeeded to the premiership after Stalin's death. Since he resigned from that post last year, confessing inability to do the job, there has been considerable speculation about the security of his position in the Kremlin lineup.

He now is visiting Britain as head of a delegation of Soviet power industry experts.

Canadian Arctic in Spotlight As Massey Begins Long Tour

By JOE MacSWEEN

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Massey today took off into sunny skies on a flight that will take him to communities on Canada's northern fringes and to the north pole.

A small group of well-wishers waved from the airport terminal as his RCAF North Star taxied away. Mrs. Massey exchanged goodbyes to his granddaughters Jane, 7, and Evva, 8, daughters of his secretary-aide Lt.-Col. Lawrence Lapointe.

Resources Minister Lesage represented the cabinet. Netherlands ambassador H. H. J. Lovink, dean of the diplomatic corps, and RCMP commissioner L. H. Nicholson also were on hand.

Mr. Massey was clad in a fur hat, a navy blue parka and a red duffle-sock sweater in anticipation of the plane's stop this evening at Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island.

Mrs. Lionel Massey was the most comfortable looking person party boarding the plane. She wore a scarlet toque with a long tassle, a fur parka and fur-lined boots.

Leaving with a minimum of fanfare, the RCAF plane carrying Mr. Massey had what was described as an historic mission in that Canada is formally reminding neighbors that the far-north regions are hers.

But for the governor - general and his Eskimos and Indians were more on his mind, sides said.

Mother Charged With Murder Of Husband

SUDBURY (CP)—A 46-year-old mother was charged Monday night with the murder of her husband.

Mrs. Lillian Latham was charged after her husband, J. E. Latham, 47, was found in the Copper Cliff smelter, died in hospital from a wound inflicted by a paring knife.

Latham leaves four children, seven never known to have been charged during their 14 years' residence in a neat two-storey stucco house in one of the city's better residential areas.

Police said the slaying followed an argument when Mr. Latham returned from work.

Mrs. Latham stabbed near the heart, Mr. Latham staggered to the home of a neighbor, blood streaming from the chest.

Taken to hospital, he asked police not to charge his wife, seeing to realize the seriousness of his wound. He died three hours later.

Man Found Dead in Snowdrift Believed Slain, Thrown from Train

PARRY SOUND (CP) — A 30-year-old man found dead Monday in a snowdrift 13 miles north of here may have been slain on a train and then tossed out, police theorized today.

The man's wallet had $114 in his wallet when his body was found by a farmer plowing a bank on a concession road in Winnipeg totalling $2,448. Police said Monday a bank account in one in Swan Lake knew him—and there is no miles there. He has no known relatives in Canada.

Police said Lugomja boarded a train for Toronto last Friday in Winnipeg. When the train arrived in Toronto, railway officials found the body of Lugomja.

A section crew found the frozen body of Lugomja on the Canadian National Railways main line. It had a severe wound on the back of the head. Because the body was frozen, an autopsy has been delayed until late today.

The dead man's luggage—three suit cases—was on the train. Police said they will examine the contents today.

A piece of paper was found in Lugomja's coat pocket. On it was typed the address of a Toronto man Fathers in Toronto—written in Lithuanian. The Roman Catholic religious order said it has never heard of a man called Lugomja. A spokesman for the order in Winnipeg also said he had never heard of him.

Mrs. M. Voth, Lugomja's landlady in Winnipeg, said he left her rooming-house Friday and "staggered as he walked to a taxi." She said he began to look strange and "sick" during the last days of his stay. He announced Saturday he was leaving for Toronto although his rent was paid for another three days.

GEO. TOWNS OF B.C. VISITS FRIENDS HERE

Mr. George Towns of Prince George, B.C., is spending a couple of days in this city visiting a number of old friends. Mr. Towns, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Milo Oatman of Mt. Williams, Ont., had been visiting his son and daughter in Brockville. He and his sister stopped off here Monday and Tuesday, before resuming their journey to St. Williams, where Mr. Towns has been staying with his sister since January and where he will continue to visit until May.

Mr. Towns lived in this city from 1908 to 1920, with the exception of a period spent overseas during the First Great War. He enlisted in 1915 with the 33rd Battery and joined the 28th Battalion overseas. Returning here in 1919, he stayed in Belleville until 1920, when he left for British Columbia. This is his first visit to Belleville since 1920.

Rotarians Hear Story of Ballet, How Conducted

The business end of ballet yesterday was explained to the Belleville Rotary Club.

Speaker was Miss Mildred Wickson, Toronto, who is associated with the Canadian National Ballet Company, which will be remembered for its recent forceful presentation here last year and the enthusiastic reception accorded it.

The organization of the company is approached on three levels, Miss Wickson told the club — dancing, decor and music. All three present their own special and separate problems. These difficulties are added to by the fact that the company is a touring group and continuously on the road. Dancers must be chosen for their quality, must be of the right size and have tremendous endurance. They are trained to the utmost in perfection. Execution of the sets present their own special headaches for the designers. They must be built to fit the various stages played on by the company during its tour. Among the more difficult problems presented the company's musical director is the question of stand-in musicians.

The group carries a full orchestra of 40, Miss Wickson explained.

However, if they play a theatre that carries 25 musicians they must hire six extra according to union regulations. Once, a projected week-long presentation in Philadelphia had to be cancelled because the company could not afford the number of stand - ins demanded by union regulations.

HOPING FOR AID

"We keep hoping from year to year that Government aid. So far it has not been forthcoming," Miss Wickson said.

In this respect she pointed out that Australia, a country like Canada in a state of development, already has two subsidized ballet companies.

She commented on the advantages arising out of the formation and the continued existence of the National Ballet.

In the first place it has given opportunity to 40 young Canadian dancers who would have to go abroad, to find work in their own profession.

The dancers are Canada's ambassadors of art and are staying with the company despite attractive offers from other quarters.

This is very good for Canada indeed, and what's more for Canada is good for business, she said.

It has resulted in the increasing rise of an appreciative public specially to the dance profession. It has given an impetus to interest in the dance here and today it is reckoned there are between 60,000 and 70,000 dancing pupils across Canada. It also has helped raise the standard of dancing here.

Some art forms need some understanding and full listening experience in order that they may be enjoyed in full measure. However, they need not be artistic, she concluded.

Miss Wickson was introduced by Bob Tantter and thanked by John Buchan.

Triangle Club Formed at 'Y'

Recently the Couples' Triangle Club of the YMCA held an inaugural meeting in the auditorium of the YMCA. This Club is being formed of parents of children attending the YMCA or any other persons interested in the welfare of our young people and the Club will play a supporting role along with other affiliated organizations of the YMCA.

A nominating committee comprised of Mrs. K. J. Lewis, Mrs. T. Russell Scott, Mrs. A. W. Abey and Mr. E. Mervin O'Connor had been appointed to present a slate of officers.

Mr. D. G. Diamantides opened the meeting asking for the report of the nominating committee. This was presented and the following officers elected: President, Mrs. K. J. Lewis; first vice-president, Mrs. T. E. Jones; second vice president, Mrs. E. M. O'Connor; secretary, Mrs. A. W. Abey; treasurer, Mr. E. M. O'Connor.

Mr. D. G. Diamantides then handed over the chair to the newly - elected president, Mrs. K. J. Lewis.

A business period followed when Mrs. Lewis announced plans on a registration fee of one dollar $1. per person, per year and the following committees were struck:

House Committee: Chairman, Mrs. E.W. Summers, Mrs. V. Jones, Mrs. D. Skinner.

Membership Committee: Chairman, Mrs. T. Russell Scott, Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. Jane McCabe, Mrs. J. J. Hunter, Mrs. Ewart.

Program Committee: Chairman, Mrs. C. A. Bowerman, Mr. C. R. McBride, Mr. E. R. Val Kamp, Mrs. E. R. Val Kamp, Mrs. T. E. Jones.

Phoning Committee: Chairman, Mrs. H. Hicks, Mrs. W. H. Phillips, Mrs. Titerson, Mrs. Rydman.

Public Relations Committee: Chairman, Mr. A. W. Abey, Mr. H. Hurst.

After the business sessions the members were entertained with an excellent lunch enabled "The Hollywood Story" presented by Mr. D. G. Diamantides. Following the film refreshments were served by the ladies. The next meeting of the Triangle Club will be held in April.

Grenfell Film Shown Tonight at Bridge St. Church

The outstanding work being done by the Grenfell Mission in Labrador is being graphically portrayed in a colored film being shown in Bridge Street Church Sunday School rooms tonight at 7.30.

The film is being shown under the auspices of the Belleville branch of the mission, begun by the late Miss Madeline Fraleck.

The Belleville branch does not hold regular meetings but collects funds for the mission. Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, Mrs. Cecil Green and Mrs. Leo Riggs have been active workers over the years. Recently have sent boxes of toys, dolls and other gifts to be distributed in hospitals and orphanages at Christmas. Each year specially - designed Christmas cards are sold. All contributions large or small are gratefully accepted.

Miss Hilda Fraleck, secretary of the Belleville branch of the mission will be in charge of tonight's program.

Motorists Line Up to Secure Plates, Licences

Johnnies Come Lately, who put off purchase of their 1956 auto markers and operators' licences until the last moment were cooling their heels today as they waited patiently in line at the Fred T. Symons' licence bureau.

Queen's Park officials stated that March 20th is the deadline for 1955 markers and that this line it is official — there will be no more extensions.

Motorists seeking to purchase their licences and thus get in under the wire, lined the licence bureau office to the street door all morning and at different times the lineup continued down the street.

A full staff of workers was unable to cope with the number seeking licences and permits and the lineup was expected to continue through Wednesday.

Mr. Symons said that as an accommodation the licence office would not be closed during noon hour.

Hundreds of Pets Getting Shots At Fire Station

The free vaccination clinic for rabies for dogs and cats in the city got away to a good start at the Dundas street firehall on Monday with literally "hundreds" of pets of all descriptions being brought in to get their shots.

Five veterinarians were on hand to vaccinate the pets as they were brought in and there was little delay as the shots were administered as speedily as they arrived and cats arrived. Only 15 to 20 seconds is taken up for each vaccination as the pet gets the shot in its hip.

A stalwart firemen assists in holding the dog or cat while the shot is given by the veterinarians. Most of the pets take it all in good part with only the occasional protesting a start as the needle strikes a nerve.

The clinic continues all day at the Dundas street firehall and Wednesday morning at the Front Motrs street firehall again for morning, afternoon and evening vaccinations.

Spring Arrives This Evening At 8.21 P.M.

You would never know it from the near zero temperatures in evidence for the past eight or nine days a week, but from the ice field in the lower stretches of the Moira and in the Bay of Quinte the Spring is "just around the corner."

And that is official!

That book of books, the Canadian Almanac which has "the answers for just such questions" states that Spring will officially arrive at 8:21 this evening.

And just to sort of bear out the fact that Spring is here officially, the weather map on page 30 days indicates slightly above normal temperatures are in store.

National Ballet Guild Branch Formed in City

V.O.N. Gives Monthly Report

The nurses' report showed that February was a busy month. During the month 412 home visits were made to 85 patients. Of the total visits 336 or 82 per cent were nursing cases and the remaining 76 were health supervision visits to mothers and babies.

The case load and visits were as follows: medical, surgical and chronic, 67 cases, 277 visits; maternity and newborn, 34 cases and 98 visits; health supervision to infants over six weeks of age, eight cases and 61 visits.

A total of 35 hours was spent in special activities. This consisted of two days at Canniffon-Corbyville School, five half days conducting the Mental Health and Health at the Child Health Conference at the Kiwanis Centre.

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held Monday evening at the Y.M.C.A. with the president, Mr. H. J. Parker in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Kathryn Hogg, also the reports of the standing committees and routine business were read and adopted.

Drew Declares Canadians Should Run Own Affairs

HAMILTON (CP)—Hon. George Drew, national Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night Canadians should declare their economic independence of the United States.

He told the Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce it is not too much for Canadians to decide that they are going to run their own financial affairs and that "we are not going to be treated as though we were the 50th state of the United States."

Mr. Drew said the discovery of vast deposits of uranium minerals in Canada comes at a time when the U.S. wants them for its mills, not Canada's. For that reason many of Canada's raw materials will be under control of American financial interests.

There was nothing anti-American or unfriendly in urging that Canada should process its own raw resources and export finished products.

Canada should process iron ore and ship steel to the U.S.

He urged American companies to set up fully independent Canadian companies, permit Canadians to invest directly, provide research and administrative facilities in Canada and allow Canadian companies to export freely.

ARTIST DIES

MONTREAL (CP)—Ernest Neumann, 71, well-known Canadian artist, died in Venice on Monday. Best known as a portrait painter, Mr. Neumann also achieved prominence through his etchings and lithographs.

Wilbur S. Gordon, Business, Civic Leader of Tweed, Dies

TWEED (Special)—Mr. Wilbur S. Gordon, one of Tweed's best known business and community leaders, died at his home here Monday evening after having been in indifferent health for two years. He was 83.

Mr. Gordon, born in Hungerford township at the family homestead of Lodgercorn, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon, one of Hastings County's oldest families. He spent his whole life in the Tweed district.

Mr. Gordon was in the hardware business before he bought the former Leal Foundry. He developed the business into the Steel Trough and Machine Company and later changed its name to the Tweed Steel Works Ltd. In 1928 he purchased the Dominion Foundry from Sam Ketcheson and changed its name to the Tweed Foundry and Engineering. Until his retirement four years ago Mr. Gordon was president of the two companies which employed about 60 persons each.

His son-in-law, Mr. Carman C. Aiton, succeeded Mr. Gordon as president of Tweed Steel Works Ltd.

Mr. Gordon spent a greater portion of his life working for Tweed and other local communities. He was superintendent of St. John's United Church Sunday School for 10 years, was president of the Provincial Sunday School Association and for many years was on the board of governors of Victoria College.

FORMER VILLAGE REEVE

He was reeve of Tweed village in 1930 and 1931. As chairman of the village's recreation board, he was instrumental in securing the largest property for the development of Tweed Community Park on Stoco Lake. As president of Tweed Amusements for many years he was responsible in large part for the erection of the winning stadium for the Tweed Fair Grounds.

He is a past president of the Tweed Lawn Bowling Club and was active in the affairs of the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Gordon not only contributed a considerable portion of his time and executive talents to these groups, but was also contributed generously to the financial support of all community enterprises.

In politics, Mr. Gordon was a lifelong Conservative.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ethel Ketcheson, and two daughters, Mrs. Alan (Bessie) Bush of Toronto, and Mrs. Carman C. (Gladys) Aiton of Tweed, A son, Robert, predeceased him in 1947 at the age of 37 and a son, Wilbur, died in infancy.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Police Court

For breach of recognizance on a previous charge, Harold VanAllen of Belleville, had 15 days added to a 15-day jail term now being served, when he appeared in magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills today.

Two weeks ago VanAllen was arrested with another man and on conviction on a charge of stealing a tire and wheel was given 15 days in jail. The breach of recognizance charge was laid over until the court of magistrate. Wills returned from holidays.

Paul Henry Roch, Kingston, was given a year's suspended sentence and ordered to make restitution of $40 and court costs of $13.50 on a charge of forgery. Roch is now serving a two month jail term for attempted auto theft.

A local youth Maurice Archer, was remanded until Friday, when further orders evidence will be taken on a charge of theft of money from milk bottle. Archer pleaded not guilty.

LED PILGRIMAGES

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Andrew J. Alvarez, 66, who led thousands on 33 pilgrimages to Canadian shrine, died at his home Monday. Alvarez conducted many fund-raising campaigns to pay for special train carrying those seeking relief at the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre in Quebec.

Owner of Car Forgot to Cancel Police Complaint

Police always follow up a complaint until some kind of conclusion is reached. People sometimes aren't as fussy and sometimes the consequences can be embarrassing.

Take this as an instance: On February 18th a Belleville man, Norris Black, parked his car in Toronto. Unknown to him a friend parked the automobile two blocks further on. Unable to find the car Mr. Black reported it stolen to Toronto police. Next morning however, the situation was cleared up and he drove back to Belleville. But he did forget to cancel his complaint to police with the result the car remained on the stolen vehicles list.

The scene switches to Belleville last Sunday morning when Mrs. Kent was driving a friend home after helping out with the current Red Cross drive. PC Tom spotted a car heading east through the city and something about its license number tripped a warning bell in his mind. He hurried to the provincial police office, checked the number and found he had spotted a car reported stolen from 55 Toronto. Highway patrols were alerted.

However, once more on the street PC Kent found the car parked near a city restaurant. He recognized the driver Mr. Black and some friends he had with him, which added to the officer's general puzzlement. Questioned, Mr. Black remembered forgetting to cancel his stolen car complaint to Toronto police. Part of the whole thing to Mr. Black was 75 cents — the price of a long distance phone call to Toronto, cancelling his complaint.

New Disarmament Plan Appears Favorable to U.S.

LONDON (AP)—First American reaction appeared generally favorable today to a comprehensive disarmament plan submitted by British and France, which the United States earlier had been reported to have opposed.

The detailed plan, which was not made public, was presented at the opening Monday of new talks here by the five-power United Nations disarmament sub-committee.

Harold Stassen, head of the American delegation, made it clear before the talks opened that the U.S. had several reservations about the plan, but the American group today seemed generally encouraged by it. The delegation referred the proposals to Washington.

NO OPINION

The Soviet delegation expressed no opinion on the British-French plan. Andrei A. Gromyko, first deputy foreign minister, listened attentively as it was presented, and said he needed time for a careful study.

The British-French proposal is reported to combine the most acceptable suggestions presented by both the East and West in years of negotiations. It sets out in brief conventional arms and arrgiles and future production of nuclear weapons, and also would provide for global system of control and inspection.

Stassen read President Eisenhower's letter on disarmament sent to Russian Premier Bulganin early this month, and told the meeting that the letter reflected the basis of the U. S. view on disarmament. He said, however, that Washington did have other suggestions to make.

Eisenhower's letter urged efforts to end the atomic arms race by freezing stockpiles of atomic weapons under a "safeguarded" disarmament system.

3 New Grounds For Divorce Recommended

LONDON (Reuters)—A government-appointed commission on divorce has urged prompt establishment of an official body to help prevent broken marriages in Britain.

At the same time, the royal commission recommends three new grounds for divorce—all of them of a minor nature unlikely to affect the present rate.

The 400-page report, prepared by seven men and 12 women after nearly three years of investigation, warns:

"Under the tendency to resort too readily and too lightly on divorce is invoked, there is real danger that the conception of marriage as a life-long union of one man and one woman may be abandoned."

U. S. RATE HIGHEST

A graph accompanying the report quotes statistics showing the United States with a divorce rate in 1951 of 2.48 per 1,000 total population—"about of any listed country. The rate for England and Scotland combined for that year was 0.4 per 1,000. No figures are given for Wales and Northern Ireland.

The 1951 figure for Canada was .38, lowest of the 14 Western countries listed.

Broken homes, the report said, affect 60,000 children under the age of 16 in Britain ever year.

"No problem is more serious."

RECOMMENDS NEW GROUNDS

The commission recommends as new grounds for divorce: Wilful refusal to consummate the marriage, artificial insemination without the husband's consent and mental defectiveness persisting at least five years' continuous detention.

Under present law refusal to consummate a marriage may lead to a nullity decree rather than to divorce.

Present grounds for divorce in Britain are: Adultery, cruelty, wilful desertion for three years or more, incurable insanity after five years' confinement, and unnatural offences.

CASES REMANDED

MONTREAL (CP) — Publishers and distributors of five weekly publications had their trials set over to the May assize Monday on charges of distributing obscene literature. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure announced the postponement after an in-camera conference in his chambers with six lawyers connected with the cases.

Defence Dept. Special Account Up $5 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—A defence department special account for operations have drawn the criticism of Auditor-General Watson Sellar, has grown by $5,000,000 in the last year.

A white paper tabled Monday in the Commons by finance Minister Harris discloses that the national defence equipment account now totals $279,000,000 compared with $274,000,000 at March 31, 1955.

When the Canadian armed forces give to European NATO allies equipment acquired before 1950, they receive a credit—the value of the equipment given away—which they may use in future to replace it with equipment of new production. In practice, this has applied almost entirely to the army.

Officials predicted a year ago the fund would decrease as army equipment for NATO countries in pre-1950 equipment got smaller.

MORE THAN EXPECTED

But, they said Monday, more than $5,000,000 has been given away in the 1955-56 fiscal year than expected. The equipment was valued at $5,000,000 but thus the army got a credit of $34,000,000 to spend on future equipment in the future. At the same time, $49,000,000 was withdrawn from the account.

In his report on the government's defence finance operations, Mr. Sellar, Parliament's watchdog of government spending, suggested a change in the form of special accounts "to the end that a sound future practice is established."

Mr. Sellar's main point is that the army received credit for equipment shipped abroad in one fiscal year but doesn't have to spend that money in the same fiscal year. He said:

"In the section (in the 1950 Defence Appropriation Act) seems to have as its purpose that of appropriating money . . . without limiting the spending power to a particular fiscal year."

Besides higher NATO shipments, of pre-1950 equipment than expected, another reason for growth of the special account in the last year is that the army bought less new equipment than planned, officials said.

Nehru Charges SEATO Sides With Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today accused the SEATO powers of taking sides with Pakistan against India in the Kashmir dispute.

Nehru said the Indian government has protested formally to the powers concerned. The members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines.

The prime minister made his charge in a report to Parliament on his discussions with State Secretary Dulles if the U. S., Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France. They visited New Delhi before or after the annual SEATO meeting in Karachi early this month.

The eight foreign ministers urged speedy settlement of the Kashmir dispute either by a United Nations-sponsored plebiscite in the Himalayan state or by direct negotiations between the New Delhi and Karachi governments.

NEHRU OPPOSES VOTE

Pakistan wants the plebiscite, since Kashmir's population—like Pakistan's — is largely Moslem. Nehru opposes the vote.

Kashmir, the thorniest issue between India and Pakistan, now is divided between an Indian-sponsored government and a pro-Pakistani faction.

Nehru said the SEATO action on Kashmir indicates that Pakistan's alliance was actively taking sides in the dispute.

C.I. Frederick, Principal, Four Of P.S. Teaching Staff to Retire

A Belleville public school principal and four members of the public school teaching staff who have a combined teaching experience of 216 years, most of it served in Belleville schools, will retire at the end of the school term in June.

Principal C. I. Frederick of he Sir Winston Churchill school, will conclude a teaching career dating back to 1910. Teachers retiring also after a lifetime career in teaching are Miss Grace A. Tucker, Sir Winston Churchill school; Miss Winnifred Leslie, Prince Charles school; Miss Frances Sullivan, Queen Elizabeth school and Miss Myrtle Peck, Queen-Mary school.

Retirement of the four teachers and Belleville's dean of public school principals was announced today following the regular March meeting of the public school board Monday evening.

In fact almost the entire evening's business was taken up with staff matters as the retirement of Mr. Frederick brought about a reshuffling of school heads and the appointment of one new principal and seven teachers.

Resignations from the school staff were accepted from three teachers. Miss Grace Preston on September will go to Trenton; Miss Barbara Bull will go to Oakville, and Miss Mona Pierson is also leaving the teaching staff.

Appointments to the teaching staff included Miss Phyllis McGill of Napanee; Miss Helen Weston, who is completing her studies from Brantford, and four teachers from Peterborough's Teachers College.

PRINCIPALS MOVED

Young teachers who will graduate from teachers' college in June and commence their teaching careers at Belleville in September are Miss Barbara Brown, Miss Lottie Silver, Miss Annette Gaylord and Miss Phyllis McGill.

Under the re-assignment of school principals, Mr. Anderson will go to Sir Winston Churchill School; E. S. Fairman will go to Queen Elizabeth; J. E. Bingham will go to Queen Victoria; J. M. Burgoyne will replace Charles Hall and W. J. C. Burgoyne, B.A., present vice principal at Queen Alexandra was promoted to principal and will go to King George School.

Mr. Burgoyne is a former president of Descronto. He is a veteran of World War II with overseas service from 1941 to 1945. He attended teachers' college in 1949 and 1950 and became a member of the public school teaching staff at Belleville following graduation. He has been acting as vice principal at Queen Alexandra School. He attained his arts degree at Queen's University in 1955.

New vice principals appointed are George Wallace, Jack Carswell, C. A. Boots, Walter Rollin, B.A.; Don Lockyer, Robt. Horwood and Miss Mary Moorcroft.

APPROVE REQUEST

Other business at the meeting included approving the request of the Boy Scout Association for use of the Queen Elizabeth School on June 2nd for a Queen Scout Recognition Ceremony at which Lieut. Governor Louis Breithaupt will attend.

Fuel contract for the supply of part winter's coal was awarded to Harry Smith Coal Company. Prices are stoker slack, $13.75; prepared stoker, $14.75 and rice anthracite $19.50.

Members present at the meeting were chairman G. H. Trill; Mrs. Hubert Tugwell, William Ironside, Lyle Langabeer, Morley Lovelace, Don McKinney, George Mills, Dr. Bruce Mitchell, Russell Scott, Fred Symons, Mac Thompson, William VanTassel and James Ward.

STARTED IN 1910

Mr. Frederick commenced his teaching career back in 1910 coming to Belleville in 1914 as assistant principal at Queen Victoria School where he remained in that capacity until 1928 when he became principal on the retirement of the late Col. David Baragar. He remained as principal at Queen Mary until 1954 when he was transferred to the new Sir Winston Churchill school since it was opened.

Miss Tucker commenced her teaching career in 1911 and came to Belleville in 1917 and most of the time since has taught in Queen Victoria School. During the school year of 1930-1931 she was on exchange to Edmonton for a year. She has been at the Sir Winston Churchill School since it was opened.

Miss Leslie started teaching in 1914 and came to Belleville in 1931 spending much of her time at Queen Mary School and transferring to Prince Charles school in 1949.

Miss Sullivan also started teaching in 1911 and came to Belleville in 1923, teaching in Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra schools until she was transferred to the new Queen Elizabeth school in 1951.

Miss Peck started teaching in Belleville in 1918 and has been mostly at Queen Victoria School although in recent years she has specialized in the art program at Queen Mary School.

Two Injured as Truck Drives Into Side of Moving Train

TRENTON (Special.) — Two people were injured Tuesday morning when the truck in which they were riding crashed into the side of a moving ore train at the Main Quinn CNR crossing at Canying Place. It's miles north of here.

The driver, Bill Leach, 26, accompanied by Kathleen Hammond, 18, both of R.R. 2, Carrying Place, said he was blinded by bright sunlight and failed to see the oncoming train. He said he was reaching for a pair of sun glasses when the truck drove into the side of the train.

The car was travelling at a moderate rate of speed and the train was not moving rapidly.

Both occupants were thrown the right of way by the train before falling into a ditch. It was torn to pieces.

A passing motorist drove Leach and Miss Hammond to Trenton Memorial Hospital. Both suffered facial lacerations, bruises and shock. Dr. Bartlett Campbell of Brighton, treated both in hospital. Miss Hammond was detained there for observation.

Members of the train was Mickey McGuire of Belleville. Robert Ferguson of Belleville, was fireman. Brakemen were Russell Babcock and Gordon Rosenplott.

Striking Workers Agree to Leave Etobicoke Plant

TORONTO (CP)—The 70 striking employees at the Malt Tool Company in suburban Etobicoke today reported to have agreed to leave the plant, ending the nine-day sit-down stoppage.

The company said it has heard the workers agreed to leave the factory following a decision by Labor Minister Daley to appoint a commissioner to investigate the dispute.

The United, Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (ind.), of which the 70 are members, could not immediately confirm the end of the stoppage.

The company said two workers left the plant this morning but would make no statement.

PROTEST FIRINGS

The workers settled by their benches Monday morning after firing of 24 fellow-employees. Since then, with power and heat cut off, they had fed themselves as best they could, living on food passed over the fence.

New Immigration Policy Announced By Pickersgill

OTTAWA (CP)—A new immigration policy of providing, in effect, basic family allowance payments for children of immigrants during their first year in Canada was announced today.

Immigration Minister Pickersgill said in the Commons that effective April 1 the government will pay $60 for each child under 16 for the first year of residence in Canada.

The payments will go to children of landed immigrants and Canadian citizens returning from abroad with foreign spouses.

At present, family allowances are not paid to such persons the year they arrive.

Mr. Pickersgill said the payments will be made as a contribution towards maintaining the level of immigration and as part of the policy of encouraging immigrant families to stay together.

Meanwhile, an ad hoc federal-provincial one-day closed meeting here on immigration concluded. Federal officials said later there was a "considerable exchange of views." The federal government's 1956 immigration policy was outlined and provincial delegates commented on it.

Britain Equips Three Squadrons With Turbojets

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has equipped three of her air force squadrons with turbojet atomic bombers described as "the country's most powerful and costly plane," an RAF spokesman disclosed today.

The secret plane is the rear-wing Vickers Valiant with a speed believed to be in excess of 600 miles an hour. It is in "supreme priority" production for the RAF.

Leach is employed at the Central Bridge Co. plant in Trenton. Miss Hammond is employed by Dowsle Textile textile factory. They were on their way to work when the accident took place.Pc OPP Constable Harry Cook of Brighton, investigated.

Atlantic Storm Changes Course

HALIFAX (CP)—A storm in the Atlantic changed course during the night and the weather office here said the gales and blinding blizzard Maritimers will be less than at first feared.

A fresh fall of five inches piled up on the 19 inches that fell during the weekend in another hard blow to what has been the bitterest winter on record for the Atlantic provinces.

Three persons died during the storm, scores more were late arriving and life in general was disrupted. Air and highway traffic was either at a standstill or badly disrupted.

Snow stopped falling in western Nova Scotia this morning and was expected to end in the eastern Maritimes during the afternoon.

Stiff winds were expected, however, which might add to already bad drifting conditions.

Cost of Houses Under CMHC Said Too High

TORONTO (CP)—Rising costs have forced qualifying income to build a house under Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to almost $3,700 while the average Canadian family earns $3,000, the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association was told Monday.

The statistics were explained in address prepared by W. H. Symington, Hamilton, to the ORLDA's building code committee chairman. Mr. Summerhays summarized the brief at the opening of the annual convention and his address was read. It said:

"The cost of new houses is excessively high under CMHC building and mortgage requirements. Nearly 80 per cent of Canadians cannot qualify to build a house."

George Hipel of Preston suggested a practical building code in Ontario would save enough money in one year to take care of the housing requirements of a community 10,000 persons.

Stewart Bates, CMHC president, said lumber faces increasing competition from new building materials.

POLICE FIRE

"The Turks are very angry," Greek told reporters. "They want blood for blood. . . .

"Until now I have been successful in preventing the Turkish community from taking reprisals. But if strife continues in Nicosia, it will be difficult for me to restrain them from going into action against the Greeks."

"Both I and the whole village regret deeply what has happened," George Alexandrou, head of the Greek community in Nicosia, said further. "I'm afraid the Greeks were under the influence of wine and the provocation was too much for them."

Both sides accused the other of starting the fight, which erupted in the village square as the Greeks were returning from a church picnic. Wielding sticks, knives and stones, the combatants swirled for two hours through the streets before British troops restored order.

Earlier, British authorities clamped a curfew on the village of 400 Greeks and 200 Turks.

Elsewhere, Cyprus was returning to normal activity. The general strike which had gripped the island for 11 days was ended. Newspapers resumed publication today, shops reopened and laborers returned to work.

The strike had started in protest against the British governor's exile of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement.

BEHEADS FATHER

ST. ETIENNE, France (Reuters) A 19-year-old boy beheaded his father with an axe in the Ile-Bicamarie near here, police reported Monday. Police quoted the boy as saying: "Someone had to do it. So it was me." Twenty years ago two of the boy's uncles had killed their fathers in the same way.

Impact of Blast Shakes Wide Area Around Levis

LEVIS, Que. (CP)—Fire roared out of control today on the grounds of Imperial Oil Limited following an explosion in an old reservoir with a 25,000-barrel capacity.

First reports from Pointe Levis, on the St. Lawrence river south shore opposite Quebec City, said impact of the explosion shook a wide area but no one was injured. Quebec City firefighters remained on the alert after it was reported four other reservoirs were in the fire area but an official of the company on the scene said "there is no danger" that flames will spread.

ALMOST EMPTY

The flaming reservoir was almost empty when the explosion occurred, said J. C. Robitaille, Imperial manager at Levis.

Firemen poured tons of water into the flaming tank and on nearby reservoirs. It appeared certain, however, that flames would burn until all the oil in the reservoir was consumed.

The explosion, of unknown origin, occurred shortly before 9 a.m.

The tanks are located on the river shore about two miles downstream from the tankers dock to petroleum products in the company's oil and gas supplies.

EDUCATION IN RUSSIA

It is apparent that in the education of engineers, scientists and technicians, Russia is progressing at a very rapid rate indeed. Latest information supplied by the Russians states that there are 700 institutions of higher learning in Russia attended by 1,865,000 students. In 1955 they graduated 250,000 technicians. There are 650,000 students in 200 technical schools and 1,900,000 students in specialized secondary schools.

While accuracy of these figures may be challenged, evidence of great technical competence is furnished by Russian development of modern jet planes and the hydrogen bomb. It is the excellence of its military equipment that has convinced Western leaders that the Russian program of mass technical training is beginning to pay substantial dividends.

A relatively smaller proportion of engineers, scientists and technicians graduating from universities in the United States and Canada is prompting comment by educators, military leaders and politicians alike that the West is in danger of being overtaken on the scientific front.

It is natural that atheistic, materialistic Communism should concentrate its educational program on the development of specialists in the material sciences. It is also to be expected that a government attempting to convert an agricultural economy into an industrial one, should emphasize the training of those specialists necessary to the establishment and operation of industry and the research sciences on which industrial progress is dependent.

The Russians have done this and evidence of the success of their plan is mounting.

Mass education is not a Russian invention. The West does not fear wholesale development of technical specialists for peaceful or sound reasons. What is causing uneasiness is the concentration of specialists in a program to improve arms.

There is more to education than scientific training. Little has been published, however, about the teaching of the humanities in Russia. How many Russians, for instance, are studying history, art, philosophy, religion, literature, music, languages? Is the humanities teaching politics as an academic subject or is obedience to the party line sufficient qualification for the administration of domestic and foreign affairs? Are the humanities mockifying influences of literature compensated for by censored releases from the Ministry of Information? Is glorification of productive workers an adequate substitute for religion?

Maintenance of peace and declarations of war are the responsibilities of government. The art and science of government does not enjoy the precision of laboratories or lathes.

The frightening aspect of modern Russian education is not that so many are being taught. It is that so many are being taught in a mulitary machine over which they exercise no direction. The lop-sided emphasis of scientific training in Russia is producing a generation of technicians ready to "task in the erection and servicing of a vast material mechanism dedicated to world domination. Calling such a training program, education, is failure to understand that education, while it disciplines one's mind, liberates, not enslaves, it.

CNR DIESELIZATION PROGRAM

The comparatively rapid switch of the Canadian National from steam to diesel power is graphically shown in the company's annual report for 1955, a 32-page glossy-paper production handsomely illustrated with photographs, crammed with statistics and made easily understandable by graphs in a style new to us. A touch of genius, (whether a CNR product or copied from other source we do not know), has given the graphs a third dimension. Instead of a wash line wandering across the paper, they now stand out as solid walls. It is amazing the added effectiveness gained by this simple and seemingly almost childish device.

These graphs tells us, and the accompanying text confirms the information, that in 1955 over half the freight moved by the CNR, 51 per cent of the ton-miles to be exact, was hauled by diesels. Even more surprising to us was the fact that diesel locomotives accounted for 62 per cent of the yard switching hours. Moreover, diesels have invaded the passenger service to a great extent, accounting for 26 per cent of the passenger train miles.

The report tells the application of diesel power "the most dramatic of many changes being made." A number of diesel-electric locomotives were added to the CNR fleet in 1955, 163 new units, bringing the total number in service to 783. This was the closing phase of the five-year dieselization program announced in 1951.

That this program has been a success is indicated by another graph, showing that the average freight train haul never moved 35,000 tons one mile for each hour it was on the road, compared to approximately 33,000 tons moved one mile in 1951. This increase in ton miles per freight train hour of approximately 6 per cent is almost certainly mainly due to the application of diesel power. But this figure, if we understand the situation properly, does not tell the whole story of the efficiency of the diesel as compared to the steam locomotive. Not only do diesels move more tons more miles while operating, but they also spend a larger proportion of the time "on the road" and a smaller part of the time in the shops than do steam locomotives.

SPRING

Spring's on the way,
Twill soon be May,
The pansies are
Not far away.

The tulip throng
Will come along
And hearken to
The robin's song.

Where all is drear
And brown and sere,

Shortly the roses
Will appear.

Now down the hills
The torrent spills,
Adjusted all
The daffodils.

Is faith a dream?
Does it not seem
Spring gives of
Ampler life a gleam?

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

The Flood is Over. Yesterday afternoon shortly before three o'clock the final movement of the ice occurred. It followed one of the largest charges of dynamite set off a short distance south of the CPR bridge by city engineers. There had been several discharges of dynamite near the bridge during the day, but this last blast did the job. The final push of the ice field spread below the bridge, the ice moving to both sides of the river. The ice jam extended from Bridge Street completely excavating the roadway and filling the CPR yards. Thousands of tons of water poured into the slip near Allen's coal dock. The release allowed the water to flow away toward the south of the field with the result that some three hours later a channel had been established in the ice jam and the ice field moved out to a point nearly opposite the light house. It was the end of the flood which had held the city in wet misery for eight days and nights. It was a wonderful sight to see the ice field gather speed. Prior to the blasting at the bridge with a current of a get-away there was three feet of water in front of the Capitol Theatre and in a very short time there was not two inches of water above No. 1 fire hall.

Aid will be sought from the Ontario Government, Mayor Harry Hill left today for Toronto to interview Premier Hepburn and Welfare Minister David Croll with regards to obtaining aid from the government in repairing the many thousands dollars' damage left in the wake of the flood. He is accompanied by Ald. Kennedy, Chamberlain Ald. Benjamin Safe and City Solicitor A. Bernard Collins.

It was a fast game from start to finish and resulted in a tie, the score being 2 to 2. The West Belleville team defeated the last hockey and it would be difficult to pick the star. Lats in goal was great and on the forward line Weir, Hagerman and Waite were all stars and McWilliams and Hurst on defence were excellent in checking. The following composed the West Hill team: K. Ordination at St. Thomas' Church. Yesterday a large congregation witnessed a beautiful service in St. Thomas' Church when Mr. G. B. Kingston and Mr. Spencer Gooding, both of Trinity College, Toronto, were made Deacons, which is the first step in the priesthood, by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Bidwell, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario. The choral service in which was beautifully rendered, was under the direction of Mr. Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O., the organist and choir master. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. F. D. Woodcock, rector of Trinity Church, Brockville. During the sermon reference was made to the fact that twenty-five years ago this month, His Lordship Bishop Bidwell and the rector of St. Thomas', the Rev. Canon George Ross Beamish, M.A., were admitted to Holy Orders.

Note 1956: An ordination service was conducted in St. Thomas' Church on November 10, 1873, by the Rt. Rev. J. Travers Lewis, of Ottawa, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario. On the same day, accompanied by the clergy who were present at the ordination service, he consecrated the Belleville c metery on the Trent Road. In the afternoon the Right Lordship consecrated Glenwood cemetery in Perth and the Diocese of Ottawa was created. Bishop Lewis retained the Bishopric of the Diocese of Ontario with the See City, Kingston. He later became an archbishop.

Salary Increases Recommended, for Clerks' Staffs. At a meeting of the city council the special committee which had been appointed for the purpose, recommended to the council that the salaries of civic officials be adjusted as follows: Street surveyor, R. Croft Hulme, $1100, an increase of $100; city engineer Mallock at pump house $55 per month; Engineer Mac Crudden at pump house, $55 per month; city treasurer and clerk, W. C. Mikel $1200, an increase of $100; city treasurer David Price $1200, an increase of $100; W. J. Thompson, manager of the gas department, an increase of $100 for office help, making total salary $1100; medical health officer Dr. Wilson $200 per annum. The idea of the increase at this time is to fix the salaries and thereby do away with extra grants at the end of the year. After considerable discussion the matter was referred back to the executive for further consideration.

Electoral Reform Urged

(Chicago Tribune)

The London Economist greeted the new year with a platform for a proposed new political party, but that's wrong with the Economist's suggestion is not. "Reverend" is in irony.

The first of the planks calls for a revision of the electoral system. Instead of casting a ballot for a candidate, the voter would vote against the fellows he doesn't like. The winner, then, would be the man who gets the fewest votes. "One advantage of this system is that Mr. P. will be able to claim that he has a mandate for anything."

Another plank calls for a sliding scale of salaries and pensions of members of parliament to make it certain that the longer a man has served, the less his pension will be, but that his pension will always be higher than the salary he will get if he retains his seat. "Experience has shown," says the thoughtful author of this proposal, "that the best sort of man to have in politics is the man who knows that he will gain actual financial advantage by being thrown quickly out of it."

Screwy Assignment

(By Ed. Finn in the Montreal Gazette)

It was one of those screwy assignments you get once or twice a year.

"Go out and ask the first school boy you meet to empty his pockets for you," the city editor said. "Take a photographer along. He should make a good picture story."

We cruised around till we came to a school, parked, and then walked up a pathway into the yard.

The first kid to come along was about 10 years old. He was busily died up in a tawny jacket and scarf.

"Hey, kid!" I called, "come here. Want to talk to you for a minute. What's your name?"

"Jimmy", he replied, eyeing us suspiciously.

"We'd like you to show us what you've got in your pockets, Jimmy."

"None of your business", he retorted, backing away.

"Aw, c'mon, kid", I said. "we only want—!"

"My mother told me never to talk to strange men", he blurted. He turned and ran.

• • •

The second kid was about eight. We didn't learn his name. He had a squint.

"Say, kid, we're reporters", Max said.

"You know, from the newspaper. Like in Ray Milton. You see it on television? Now, all we want is a look at what you've got in your pockets."

Squinty's eyes widened. He screamed:

"Robbers!" he yelled. "I got nothin' in my pockets!" He ran down the path, screaming "Robbers!"

• • •

"Here comes another one", Max said. "Got any ideas?"

I pulled out a half-dollar.

"Yeah", I said. "Money talks."

The third kid was about 11. He was intelligent. He wasn't afraid of us. We did not know was Bruce.

"Would you like to earn a half-dollar, Bruce?" I asked. "All you have to do is turn your pockets inside out for us."

"Sure", he said, "that's easy" He turned, and ran out.

They were empty.

• • •

This was when Squinty returned, a 250-pound traffic cop with him.

"What are you guys hanging around here for?" the cop demanded, glaring at us. "This kid says you tried to rob him."

"That's ridiculous", I protested. "All we did was—"

"I want my half-dollar!" Bruce declared.

The cop looked suspicious. "So that's how it is!" he growled. "You three have been little kidnappers. Look, officer", I pleaded, "you've got the wrong idea. I didn't take this half-dollar from the kid. He earned it and now I'm giving it to him. See?"

I gave Bruce the coin and told him to scram.

• • •

"This an all be explained", I said. "We're not robbers, we're newspapermen. Our city editor is the brother-in-law of the police chief who pronounces their joint disability "arthritis" and tells newshots of this and that wonder drug.

Plans Auto Of New Type

(Timmins Daily Press)

It may cost Dr. Peter Schlumbohm, a New York inventor, something like $15,000 to prove his point, but he has taken out a patent to build a car called a Chemobile. That's the name he has stopped for a family car that consist of being long, low and sleek, is short, high and roomy. The Chemobile represents the doctor's one-ana revolt against what he calls Detroit's dachshund designs in cars.

It has the same width but only 60 per cent of the length of the orthodox car. Both parking and U-turns will be simple for it. There are two frames, one for the wheels and one for the passenger cavity between them and the other for the body, riding above. Between motor and body is the engine. Here some of the earliest automobiles had it, the motor is under the seats, but today's engineers generate too much heat for comfort.

"To make such an arrangement work," the doctor explains, Dr. Schlumbohm remarked the other day, "one has to provide powerful cooling fans and to see that otherwise the passengers would be sitting on a stove."

The air space in his design has openings front and back, and when the car is standing still or moving slowly, a blower gives a forced draft.

The Schlumbohm car has one front door on the right and two rear doors. Absence of the left front door permits omission of parts and gives a clear field of view. Recessed steps in the side wall enable both front seats to step up and in. The inventor thinks 50 miles an hour is adequate speed, but the motor should be strong enough for fast acceleration.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IMAGINATION

Closely allied to all education is the imagination. One of the most useful set of books in my library is the Book of Knowledge." I can truthfully say that my twin boys were "brought up" on it. There are the twenty-four volumes in all, on almost every subject in the world. Every one of them is a real stir to the imagination.

The reason why detective stories are so popular is that they stir the imagination. The mind at work is really the best detective on the job. How attentive is the child when a story is being told. How familiar that line: "Tell me another Daddy". A child's world is one of the imagination.

It has often been said of a good chef that he has put imagination into his specials. There's a wide difference between one who does and one who can not! The glory of travel is that the imagination keeps alive. It is a keen picturing in our minds interesting contrasts.

It was imagination that discovered this Western World, and which has spurred on all discoveries and inventors. Woolworth, who was the first to get the idea of a 5 and 10 cent store, drew upon his imagination to do so. In fact imagination is what has made many of the great things initiated in this world. Where there is no real imagination works backward is when a person imagines things that are not likely to happen—but which don't! My doctor told me recently that many of his patients who became for advice or treatment had nothing the matter with them. You may laugh, but they are ill and become ill! That French doctor who said: "I am a healthy and happy human being." People left him cured of many an imagined trouble.

Poor Drudges Go to Florida

"There are some poor drudges in the world just now," a citizen just now came in here to say, "for whom every human heart bleeds. They have had to go to Florida, indeed to escape the conditions out there or leaving them at home. The climatic conditions go out into the broiling sun, to cologue with fellow sufferers and gather authoritative information about the game of baseball and its practitioners. Then they must find some air-conditioned spot to write dispatches about all this."

"These unhappy creatures," the caller went on, "sitting under those whirling fans which only stir back an infernal rattle in the trade winds washed by those enervating breezes, are not and often delegied because of the general tone of the place to get out and use the bathe. There is no excuse or them not to be forced to consume the local cuisine and drink. They must attend the local horse ovals (since improving their condition) and in time of year is traditionally linked with impressive big brew of ball players. And, then, of an evening, they have nothing to do but to look over sets of contests to decide the actual league winner, his batting average, evolution of two different types of play.

"Regular season hockey" and "Spring training" have now become almost two different games.

Prevention of the Rheumatist

As explained in yesterday's talk, I don't know what you mean when you tell me you have chronic arthritis, and in the absence of an understandable definition or description of such an ailment or condition, I daresay no other physician does either. If any physician or medical authority professes to know what chronic arthritis is, now is the time for him to tell the world and set me back where I belong.

The specific condition or ailment to which I apply the label rheumatis (not rheumatism) is chronic joint disability due to physical degeneration of joint tissues. Individuals in development, progressing gradually, persisting indefinitely for years. At no stage or time is there any inflammation of the joint or joints involved by rheumatis except from accidental injury, strain, or infection. And without the essential signs of inflammation — redness, dolor, heat, tumor (heat, pain, redness, swelling) — it is above humbug to call joint disability "arthritis" (arthron, joint; -itis, inflammation). Both the medical profession and your pesks with rheumatis are still impressed by the notion of the late Sir William Osler who pronounces their joint disability "arthritis" and tells newshots of this and that wonder drug.

These medical merchants who exploit painless ailments with their disability choose to ignore the fact that pathological study of the affected joint tissues reveals no cellular changes characteristic of inflammation. Microscopic examination reveals instead changes which clearly indicate degeneration — physical degeneration of joint tissue.

So now we understand each other, I hope. Rheumatis is the name for chronic joint disability due to physical degeneration of joint tissue. This is the nature of chronic joint disability in most instances.

WATCH THE FOUNDATIONS

We had better awake—if we are not already awake — to the crime situation in the United States. Crime has shown a 37 per cent increase of almost 27 per cent since 1930, and during this time the population has increased only 7 per cent. In other words, crime is increasing almost five times as fast as the population. Four offenses chargeable directly to drinking drunkenness, driving while drunk, disorderly conduct, and violation of the liquor laws account for about 50 per cent of the total. Robberies, burglaries, and larcenies are increasing. Arrests of many people 17 years of age and under increased 55 per cent. The age of our criminals has, through the years, been decreasing to a shocking degree. The problem of juvenile delinquency has now reached such proportions that it is even the national government to action. Crime is threatening the matter with a nation where such conditions as these obtain. One thing, of course, is that crime pays are living in cities. A second reason is the tremendous desire of modern criminals to make a quick getaway. Liquor continues to be, by far, the greatest single factor in the crime picture.

But we should also note that all this goes along with the disintegration of family life, the decrease of parental discipline, and a wide-ed shoot of lax moral standards and religious truth. These are the foundations of sound and stable living.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Over and over again, we hear of this high standard of living, in America. It is repeated so often, in every newspaper, on radio and television, in speeches and in views at lofty levels, that an impression might easily grow in our minds that nobody lives in bovels but ours, from Mexico to Baffin Land.

The next time you take the train to New York, look out from the double mesher massifs of the American scene, get off in Manhattan, or Brooklyn, or Queens, and then go into the club car, where you can observe the upper crust and look at examples of the high standard of living on this fortunate continent. We are doubtless talking about the average. And to arrive at the average we have to take into the arithmetic of it these dreary figures that begin to whine in the New York and Chicago and similar great cities, but in every city in the land, including doubtless the very community in which you live. There is no social ruthlessness in what I am saying. It is just to reflect upon the fact that when statistics are struck, we ought to visualize the pennies and the dimes as well as the fifties, the hundreds and the grands that are totted up in the

RESURRECTION OF LAZARUS

Out into the desert beyond the Jordan went Jesus and His disciples, far from His enemies in Jerusalem. But Jesus was not hiding, and He did not keep His whereabouts a secret. The crowds who believed in Him found Him, and came to Him even there.

One night as Jesus preached by the light of a campfire a messenger on a donkey clattered across the rocks.

"I have come from Bethany, Master," he said. "Your friends, Mary and Martha, have sent me to tell You that Lazarus, their brother, whom You love, is sick."

As He spoke, Jesus stared into the fire. For a moment He was silent. Then He thanked the messenger and told His disciples to give him food and shelter for the night.

Asked Philip: "Lord, will You go and heal Lazarus?"

Jesus shook His head. "This sickness is not unto death," he said, "but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified by it."

And that was all Jesus said about the matter.

The disciples pulled their beards in puzzlement. That didn't sound like the Master! He would heal any stranger who asked, and believed. Yet now Lazarus, whom He truly loved, was sick, and Jesus seemed exactly to care. Strange, indeed!

SAFE AND SENSIBLE

Then Thomas' face brightened. "He is right," he said, "as He usually is," he whispered to the others. "He knows it is dangerous to go so near Jerusalem."

"Ah! Good thing He stays here! Sensible!" they said among themselves. "To go back to Bethany, so near the city, would be like walking into a bear's den. By now the Temple is so alarmed by Him they are surely planning to kill Him. Maybe kill us too! The Master is right. It is very sad about Lazarus — we all love Lazarus — but it is much wiser to stay here and be safe!"

How little they understood, these men so close to the heart of Jesus!

Suddenly, two days later, Jesus announced that He was going to Bethany.

"Why, Lord?" cried the disciples. "The last time we went near Jerusalem You were nearly stoned to death! Why go back?"

"Lazarus, our friend, sleeps. But I go that I may awake him out of sleep," said Jesus.

"Lord," protested the disciples, "if Lazarus sleeps, he shall do well!"

The smile faded from Jesus' lips. He spoke sternly:

"Lazarus is dead!"

RISK OF DEATH

Heartbreaking news, that. But how did Jesus know? No messenger had come. And if Lazarus were dead, why should Jesus go — and run the risk of being killed Himself?

Then Jesus said an even stranger thing:

"Lazarus is dead. And I am glad, for your sakes, that I was not there — that you may believe. But let us go to him."

Then up spoke Thomas. Thomas, the hard-headed, the doubter, was certain that if Jesus went His enemies would somehow kill Him. And Thomas wheeled on the others and snapped:

"Let us go also, that we may die with Him."

Sad and fearful though they were, they agreed with Thomas, all of them, from John to Judas Iscariot. But not one could understand why Jesus had not gone before, or why He was going now.

The house of Martha and Mary was crowded with mourners. As soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, Martha ran to meet Him.

"Lord!" cried Martha, as she met Him at the edge of town. "If You had been here my brother would not have died!"

Her thin face was red with grief, and her cheeks quivered, but she bowed her head and said, "But now — also I know — whatever you will ask of God, God will give it to you."

Jesus put His warm, strong hand on her trembling shoulder and whispered: "Your brother shall rise again!"

Martha frowned. Slowly she said, "I know that he shall rise again — in the resurrection at the last day."

Jesus, cupping her chin in His hand, made her eyes meet His:

I AM THE LIFE

"I am the resurrection and the life. He that believes in Me, although he be dead, shall live. And everyone that lives and believes in Me, shall not die forever. Do you believe this?"

"Yes, Lord!" cried Martha. "I have believed that You are Christ the Son of the living God."

The look in His eyes comforted her, and released her. She rushed back and called her sister Mary.

"The Master is come and calls for you."

Mary ran out of the house, down the stony hillside. Everybody in the house followed her, thinking perhaps she was going to the grave to weep. And they did not want her to go alone.

"Lord, if You had been here, my brother would not have died!" Tears poured down Mary's cheeks, and all those with her were weeping too.

But Jesus said simply: "Where have you laid him?"

"Lord, come and see!"

And Jesus wept.

MASTER WEPT

They walked into the Bethany hills, and as they went, the people seeing the Master weep whispered:

"Look how much He loved Lazarus!"

"Yes, but—" said one.

"But what?—"

"Couldn't He have caused this man He loved so much not to die?"

Now they were come to the grave of Lazarus, dug down out of the slant of a rocky hill. The entrance was closed with a boulder.

Jesus said: "Take away the stone."

But Martha said to Him: "Lord, he has been dead four days. By this time . . ."

Jesus looked at her, and she fell silent. And He said: "Did I not say to you that if you believe, you shall see the glory of God?"

And when He said that, the relatives went to push away the stone. Somehow, during all the feeling they were doing a mad thing, they rolled it back. And Jesus spoke:

"Father, I give thanks that You have heard Me. And I know You hear Me always, but because of these people have I said it — that they may believe that You sent Me."

MOMENT OF SILENCE

There was a moment of silence. Spring winds blew sweetly on their faces. The ants and the tomb lizards crawled with the odor of wild flowers.

Then Jesus cried:

"Lazarus! Come forth!"

And Lazarus came! Lazarus who had been dead and buried four days, came out of the tomb. He was wrapped in grave clothes, bound hands and feet, by the white winding sheet, and his face was wrapped around with a napkin. But still, Lazarus came into the light of day, back from death to life.

Jesus said: "Loose him, and let him go."

And Lazarus embraced his sisters, and weeping with joy and wonder they knelt before the Master Who had said:

"I am the resurrection — and the life."

Claims Toronto Strike Designed For Propaganda Use in Germany

TORONTO (CP)—The siege of a suburban tool plant continued today with 70 workers still locked behind a high steel fence. They refuse to leave.

The men and women, members of the United Electrical, Radio ad Machine Workers Unit, settled by their work benches in the Mall Tool Company last Friday, protesting the firing of 24 fellow workers. Since then, with power and heat cut off, they've locked themselves as best they could, living on food passed over the fence.

Labor Minister Daley of Ontario Monday announced appointment of a conciliation officer to settle the dispute. William McGuire met company and union officials but no immediate developments were reported.

Company president A. W. Mall announced Saturday firing of all workers except 20 production-line employees who did not join in the protest. He said he would suspend manufacturing operations in the Etobicoke plant but Monday he reversed the decision.

Meanwhile Bev Lewis, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for York Humber, which embraces Etobicoke, said the situation is a powderkeg, "ready to blow wide open."

The workers say Friday's firings were designed to block UEW certification in the plant. Mr. Mall said there was insufficient work.

Mall, who has had plants in the Chicago area for 35 years, started production of power tools in Canada six years ago.

William McLean, the company's lawyer from Chicago, said the protest was designed by the Communist-dominated union to gather propaganda material for East Germany. The propaganda would show German workers behind locked gates in Canada and would be used to discourage other Germans from coming to Canada.

Most of the 12 women and 58 men inside the plant are recent German immigrants.

Mr. Mall said:

"I have read that the United Electrical Workers have wired Communist-dominated East Germany asking for a boycott on Canadian goods until this dispute is settled. Why the UEW would communicate with Communist East Germany both surprises and puzzles me."

Governor Vetoes Maryland Bill On Breweries

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The Maryland legislature's "beer bill" to keep foreign-owned breweries from the state has been vetoed by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin.

The governor Monday termed it "illogical legislation" harmful to Maryland's efforts to bring new business to the state, and contrary to the United States government's attempts to "build goodwill through international trade."

The bill, passed overwhelmingly by both Houses of the 1956 state General Assembly, had the immediate object of keeping Carling Brewing Co., a subsidiary of Canadian Breweries Ltd., from building a $12,000,000 plant near Baltimore.

Whether, Carling now will proceed, in view of the veto, with its announced plans for the brewery is another question, however. In Cleveland, president Ian R. Dowie said the veto was a "wonderful piece of news," but added that he would not say immediately about future plans.

ACT IN JANUAR Y

The Maryland Assembly is expected to act again on the vetoed bill at its next session in January, 1957.

Sponsored by Senate president Louis L. Goldstein, the bill would require that 31 per cent of the stock of any brewery in Maryland be owned by U.S. citizens. One of the hottest issues in the legislature in recent years, the bill brought protests from Maryland trade groups and the U.S. state department, as well as Canadian interests.

McKeldin said the bill "would have all the attributes of class legislation plus the impropriety of pre-judgment against a company whose practices of business have not yet had the privilege of trial in Maryland."

He cited a letter from the U.S. department of state which said the bill would have an "unfortunate impact" on American foreign relations. He also said the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and various trade magazines had taken notice of it. He added:

"If there is any danger of unfair practices . . . the remedy should lie in the strengthening of existing laws to deal with such practices if and when they make their appearance, and in the barring of an enterprise because of its record of success in competition."

Rewrite Soviet History Books On Second War

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters)—New Soviet history books, setting out the objective facts about Russian conduct of the Second World War, are being prepared for Soviet schools, it was learned today.

According to some reports, teaching of history has been suspended in Soviet schools pending the revision.

The theme of unpreparedness—one aspect of the anti-Stalin campaign, initiated at the Communist party congress and recently intensified—is also dealt with in a new Soviet movie The Immortal Garrison.

The film, now being completed, shows for the first time that defenders of Brest-Litovsk, a town on the Polish border, were unprepared as German bombers came over to wipe them out.

ASK FOR EXPLANATION

Meanwhile, as Communist party activities were reported broadcasting afar the implications of the denunciation of Stalin by Nikita Khrushchev, the party's first secretary, local newspapers in the Ukraine, Georgia and Armenia were said to be calling for a big-scale "explanation" of the new line regarding the "cult of personality" (Stalin rule).

Anastas Mikiyan and Mikhail Pervukhin, both first deputy premiers, went to Moscow factories Monday to explain decisions of the recent congress to workers.

While contents of their speech were not disclosed, it was assumed that they discussed Khrushchev's "great speech," which informed sources here said may never be published.

Denunciation of Stalin was reported to have provoked demonstrations in Armenia and Azerbaijan, it was indicated in a telephone call to London Monday night from Sidney Welland, Reuters Moscow correspondent.

The reports, at present unconfirmed, were that the demonstrations in the Soviet Asiatic republics, while on a smaller scale, were similar to those in Georgia and occurred at about the same time.

Wants Commission to Probe Government-Sponsored Plants

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An Opposition member of the Newfoundland legislature Monday introduced a motion for a Royal commission to investigate government-owned or -sponsored industries.

W. J. Brown, Progressive Conservative, said the commission is needed because the Superior Rubber Company, "financed entirely with public funds . . . has been compelled to cease operations." It was feared other industries financed by public funds were "meeting great difficulties."

Mr. Brown said the Opposition has asked three times before for a royal commission to look into the present and future status of government-backed industries. He said total cost of the Superior Rubber Company was between $1,750,000 and $2,000,000. As a government-owned concern its affairs should be revealed to the electors.

SAY RESULTS GOOD

When the company was being set up, he said, funds voted to a cotton mill were used to finance the rubber company. This was "the greatest example of illegal expenditure ever seen in this country." He said the Liberal government elected deceitfully and dishonestly.

CANADA, N.S. SURPLUS

Nova Scotia's provincial treasurer, R. H. Fielding, presented a budget speech calling for spending and a small surplus without any tax changes.

The budget predicted a net surplus of $62,177 for the 1956-57 fiscal year with expenditures of $54,462,968 and revenues of $59,484,251. Sinking fund instalments would deduct $5,000,000 from the gross surplus.

Mr. Fielding said the Liberal government's estimates are founded on the belief that continued expansion of Canada and the steady economic improvement of Nova Scotia."

C.B. Sherwood, agricultural minister in New Brunswick's Conservative government, said the province's industrial growth is expected to bring about the greatest development of agriculture in a century.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION

The Saskatchewan house passed bills outlawing racial and religious discrimination in employment and accommodation. The Fair Employment Practices Act would prohibit discrimination against any person who wishes to enjoy the facilities of inns, restaurants, theatres and other such establishments.

The Alberta legislature gave second reading to a bill which would change the province's election system from the transferable ballot formula used since 1924 to a "fix" method. Members of the Liberal opposition accused the Social Credit government of seeking political advantage.

Approved in principle was a bill that would allow Alberta municipalities to call plebiscites on the question of whether women have the vote cut across all party lines and the result was 36 to 18 in favor.

TAX RATE UNCHANGED

HAMILTON (CP)—The 1956 tax rate will remain the same as last year; 49 mills for Hamilton supporters and 50 mills for separate-school supporters. City council set the rate Monday night after discussing record expenditures of $26,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000 from last year.

FOUND GAS LEAK

TORONTO (CP)—Police Monday banned smoking in a waterfront district for 15 minutes while repair men checked a minor leak in a natural gas underground pump. The leak, caused by a broken valve was stemmed in minutes.

"IT'S TOO LATE TO PLACE INSURANCE AFTER THE FIRE"

22 HEAD OF CATTLE, HOGS, HENS BURNED In Sidney Twp. Bluze

Loss estimated at over $13,000 was caused early today when the large frame barn owned by a Sidney township farmer was completely destroyed by fire along with stocks, hay, grain and implements.

Twenty-two head of cattle including ten milch cows, 38 hogs, five brood sows and 125 hens were lost in the blaze.

Also destroyed were farm implements including seed drill, hay loader, cultivator, mower and binder.

The farm tractor, which was in another building, was about the only implement not burned.

The fire is believed to have started shortly after 4 o'clock and was discovered by a motorist who was passing at the time. The motorist awakened the farmer, but it was too late to save any of the trapped animals.

The Belleville fire department was called out but nothing could be done to save the building. Six other buildings were endangered.

This loss was partly covered by insurance.

Belleville Presbytery W.M.S. Holds 31st Annual at Trenton

For the annual meeting of Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, meeting in King Street United church, Trenton, March 14, registration showed 311 representatives present, with many others attending, filled the beautiful church almost to capacity.

Preceding the regular meeting, the members of the executive were guests of the King Street ladies, meeting later in conference with the guest speakers, Mrs. John Ahlfeld, president of Dominion Board, of the WMS, and Mrs. J. R. McKinney of Brooklin, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch.

"Changing Patterns Challenge the Church" was the theme for thought and study throughout the day's sessions.

The president, Mrs. Lincoln Mellick of Tweed, welcomed the delegates and guests, and presided for the morning and afternoon sessions. The afternoon meeting was chaired by Mrs. Fred Wilson of Belleville, 1st vice-president of Presbyterial.

"A Christian reads the Bible in family and private devotions." This was the thought for the morning worship conducted by members of St. Paul's Auxiliary, Stirling.

Mrs. James Hough read the Bible lesson—Romans 15:1-7—St. Paul's last letter of advice and encouragement.

Mrs. George Carlisle gave an inspirational talk on the Bible—the Word of God, "as He speaks to us." Her message was that Christians neglecting to read their Bible are missing the inspiration of the 77th birthday of Mrs. A. W. Fry, Mrs. Burton's mother.

Christians neglecting to read their Bible are missing the inspiration of God and will listen to you."

The splendid devotional talk proved a good start for a busy day.

AFTERNOON

Mrs. F. C. Barnett of Tweed, conducted the afternoon devotional period. Her remarks were based on Luke 19:1-28-41.

God and His will is a good steward of his personality, his possessions, and his time, is the thought we believe that, how many really accept it? In the parable of the talents, the man who had buried his talent and he was judged by what he did—the one who had five talents and only He, saw the consecration of the widow's mite. To those who accepted the gift of God's trust, God gives added power and responsibility.

"Can God depend on us?"

"Let Progress Be Your Slogan" so spoke Mrs. J. R. McKinney of Belleville, Christian Stewardship secretary, when she presented the allocation of $25,000 for 1958. This is an increase for the Belleville Presbyterial, with consequent increases for the auxiliaries. "Remember," we are told, "Christ's coffers of WMS with money. It is going out on His mission of winning souls for Christ and His way of life". Systematic and proportionate giving. By prayerfully keeping a diary of the year's work, report time will be a plan of striking a budget to help reach the allocation, was given. The forming of a calendar was explained and its value shown. In this year of the Church Universal family of the church solve their problems. Mrs. Coulter reminded the members of the opportunities for special prayer and urged that "Bar" followed by the date be inscribed—to you they fling the words."

Assisting in this service of remembrance, were six women of the Trenton WMS, Mrs. Clark, the solo part in a hymn that was sung; Mrs. A. Cleary, Mrs. Charles Treverton, Mrs. S. Colden, Mrs. Grant Kerr and Mrs. Roy Sills.

Luncheon tickets proved to be a time of happy fellowship. Spring daffodils which adorned the tables well-laden with delicious food, made amends for the March winds blowing outside.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. S. Hughes, from King Street churchwomen; Mrs. Arthur Pryse of Stirling, president of Belleville Presbytery; Mrs. Christie, Bridge Lane, chairman of Home Missions for Belleville Presbytery.

At the supper hour the Rev. J. C. Mitchell, minister of King Street church, brought greetings, not only from his church, but from the Belleville Presbytery for Mr. W. E. Tummon, chairman of Presbytery, who was not able to be present. Mrs. Mitchell, who also was unable to attend, was greatly missed.

The guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. John McKillop of Toronto, president of Dominion Board, WMS, was introduced by Mrs. Lyal Hicks of Cherry Valley, as was also the Bay of Quinte branch president, Mrs. J. H. McKinney of Brooklin.

SIX OF 15 IN FAMILY TO HOLD MULTIPLE MARRIAGE CEREMONY

There are 15 children in the Dorssers family of Blenheim, Ont., and six of them are going to be married in one ceremony on April 28. The idea appeals to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dorssers who immigrated recently from Holland and acquired an 11-acre farm at Blenheim, but they admit it is going to be very quiet around their home with only nine children left. Left to right the happy couples are: Christina Dorssers and Jack Van Hare, Wilhelmina Dorssers and Gerard Willemsen, Anne Reuvekamp and Andrew Dorssers, Grada Dorssers and Bernard Lulking, Dora Dorssers and William Vanderberg and Joan Membeers and Cornelius Dorssers.

unemployment such as —personal problems, lack of technical training, sickness, handicaps, seasonal employment in the construction trades, because of the speed-up in the present day, seasonal employment in the construction trades, because of the speed-up in the present day, seasonal employment in the construction trades, lack of capital causing layoffs, and the pension plan where a man stops his job at 65 regardless of age.

Many of these causes result in families having to move to get work, and sometimes results in homes being broken up completely.

Lack of food stuffs, because of lack of money, often causes poor health. This often lowers morale and increases welfare work.

Solutions are hard to find. "We might try to give men work in the winter time when work is slack: e.g. painting and paper hanging. We might keep more raw materials home for manufacture. Factories might can their products after the fruit season is over. All such changes would help to some extent."

"Standards, and how they affect the church today." This was discussed in a group led by Mrs. McKinney and many valuable ideas were brought forth.

On motion of Mrs. M. R. David-son a letter was to be sent to the federal member endorsing the step already taken by the Canadian Council of churches in the matter of the pending increase in the grant to train personnel for leadership in the Colombo Plan.

The report of the nominating committee was presented by Mrs. F. Wilson and accepted. This showed slight changes in the 1958 executive.

The afternoon meeting concluded with the installation of officers conducted most effectively by Mrs. J. McKinney, branch president.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The following is the slate of officers for Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society for the year 1956: past president, Mrs. C. D. McLellan, Napanee; president, Mrs. Lincoln Mellick, Tweed; vice-presidents, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Belleville; Mrs. George Carlisle, Stirling; Mrs. John Williams, Cannifton; Mrs. F. C. Barnett, Tweed; Mrs. Stuart Stinson, Tamworth; Mrs. C. W. Neelands, Desoronto; Mrs. C. E. Hicks, Brooklin; recording secretary, Mrs. George Priest, Napanee; secretary, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Trenton; treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Jones, Tweed.

DEPARTMENT SECRETARIES

Christian Stewardship, Mrs. R. G. Coulter, Belleville; Mission Circles, Mrs. Lyal Hicks, Cherry Valley; CGIT (affiliated), Mrs. D. F. Aylsworth; Explorers (affiliated), Mrs. W. Grant, Harthway; Mission Bands, Mrs. Burton Morton, R.R. 2, Harold; Baby Bands, Mrs. Don Williams, 220 Victoria Avenue, Belleville; Associate Members, Mrs. Will Rollins, Cooper; Supply, Mrs. W. W. Brown, 94 Henry Street, Trenton; Community Friendship, Mrs. Earl Burnside, Madoc; Literature, Mrs. Percy Pierson, R.R. 1, Tamworth; Monthly and World Friends, Mrs. Clayton Tice, Wellington; Christian Citizenship, Mrs. M. R. Davidson, Belleville, R.R. 7; Press Secretary, Mrs. C. Knight, Stirling; Personal Service Secretary, Mrs. J. Fred Wilson, OSD, Belleville.

The evening meeting was held in the dining hall, as there had returned home because of the storm and the projector was more easily adjusted there, for showing of the film.

ASSOCIATE REPORTS

Short talks were given by Mrs. C. D. McLellan of Napanee, candidate secretary for Bay of Quinte Conference; Mrs. J. McKinney, branch president. Mrs. McLellan spoke of the urgent need for women workers in the church; of good nurses to enter the Ellen Fry Training School to serve the hospitals as missionary nurses. How we can help to interest our young people to dedicate their lives in service for the church. We must try to give them the vision, the training, and the support needed for entering Christian service. Ministers might also take a more personal interest in the vocations of our young people of their charge. The prayer and gift needed, are in your church," was Mrs. McLellan's challenge.

Mrs. McKinney gave the women a verbal picture of Dominion Board executive as she met and met in session one Thursday each month. Among other things she said, "we are each shareholders in this business of Christian missions. Each is important in God's plan as a member of the great family of God. Any man interested in Christ is a possible useless. Your personality is your heritage and yours alone. Use it in the service."

A highlight of the evening was the showing of the opportunity film, "The Song of the Shepherds." This was filmed in Montana, on an Indian reservation and demonstrated the power of the love of Christ to overcome human needs, and overcome the challenge of the lack of hospitality of worship.

A powerful film, which showed the strength and glory of God for all men to see.

Mrs. Stuart Stinson of Tamworth, speaking for the Courtesy committee, extended sincere appreciation to the untiring preparations and fine service of the guest speakers for their inspiring messages; to the committees for the enriching worship services; to the hostess church and their ministers for the use of the fine social sanctuary; to the soloists of the afternoon, Mrs. Ray Langdon and the evening soloist, Mrs. C. CHANGING PATTERNS

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TWO WAYS YOU CAN FIND HELP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am 17 years old and my husband is 21. We have our five children and 7 months to 7 years.

My husband drinks. He drinks every day, but on his pay home he buys his supply for evening and Sunday consumption. The time he comes in the door until he falls asleep. If I say anything about his drinking he becomes mean and hateful.

We have been together for five years. He says he can't afford it. He says I can go out and me I want to, but I'm afraid to leave the children with him. I like to out one night, and rather hesitate to find the children alone, as his spouse has run out and he has gone to get some more. He has never helped with the children in any way, yet he sits and finds fault with the way I take care of them. I am so nervous with all the fault-finding, not just with the children but with everything I do, that I feel as though I could start screaming and never stop. If I sit down and read he gets mean to me. If I go to bed at ten o'clock he sits and drinks and throws things around so I can't sleep anyway. I have tried to talk things over with him, but he just gets mad and says it's his business what he does.

I have thought of contacting the A. but he says if I do, he'll put me in the hospital and take the children away from me. I know he can't, but I'm still afraid, as he has beaten me before. If I got a divorce I couldn't support the children by myself, so I don't know what to do. I do know I can't go on like this or I'll end in a mental institution. — Mrs. E.R.

Dear Mrs. E.R.:

There are two things I will suggest to you, and you can choose which you prefer to do.

One is to talk this very bad situation over with your family consultation Service in your city. They can help you better than they can help me, since they can keep close touch with you and guide you, but you should go from day to day. All you need do is to contact the telephone number, then call and ask for an appointment to talk over a serious family problem.

You need not be afraid to do this, for your husband need not know anything about it. These people will keep anything you tell them strictly confidential, and you can trust them entirely.

The other thing you could do, could be just what you have already thought of yourself—that is to consult your local AA group. Your husband needn't know about your getting in touch with them either, and if you explain to them the situation, I feel sure you can get help and advice from them without bringing your husband into it. Members of AA know that nothing can be done about anyone who drinks, unless that person wants and seeks help of his own volition, so they will not approach him.

A great many wives, mothers and other relatives of problem drinkers get help in the same manner in fact, if you do get in touch with AA you will undoubtedly find yourself meeting other women who are struggling with the same terrible problem, and in talking together about it, you will get many helpful suggestions and also draw much comfort from friends who are going through just what you are and so can understand.

SUIT TRENDS

VERA WINSTON

An excellent suiting composed of worsted and mohair, is smartly handled for a softly tailored suit that is typical of the current trend. Buttoned ish treatment lends interest and is used on the side seams on either side of the front and in different positions also for the pockets. Here's news, too, for the long, narrow curved revers. Skirt is straight with a kick pleat in back.

'Hair Care' Topic At Bay of Quinte W.I. Meeting

The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute held its March meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hogle on Wednesday evening.

The roll call was answered with an Irish story, which caused much merriment. A couple of thank-you notes were read from Mrs. L. Wilson and Betty Ann DeClerq. Mrs. Clayton Clarke and Mrs. Hogle also thanked the ladies for what they received while in hospital.

The convener for the home economics and health, Mrs. Alva Meyers, gave us items, called, "Spring Fever". Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, the convener for citizenship and education gave an item, "We better learn to say ours" by Padre W. A. Young.

Mrs. John Reid introduced Mrs. Rogers, the Women's Institute district president.

Mrs. Rogers congratulated the hostess on the way the meeting was run, and then said, she wished to say a few words. 1—Do you pay your officers? The president, secretary and treasurer should have a gift of $5. each year 2—Do you appoint an assistant secretary for your branch? If not you should have one and remember the assistant cannot succeed to the offices, unless you have an assistant director? If not one must be appointed. Do you have assistant delegates? If not, appoint them. Also when sending concerts do not always pick those who will be able to be offices and will go to the executive meeting with the district directors. The dues are the same as last year.

"Cheques must be signed by both the president and the secretary. The annual meeting of the Unit will be held at Pine Grove with a box social supper on June 1st. We would like us to have our project for next year decided out. Mrs. McKercher will be visiting us sometime in the future."

Mrs. Rogers gave a talk on, "Public Relations", saying, "What people think of us is what we are". Sincerity. A kindly word will lighten the darkest day. Goodly is the speech that provide a place about really feels. Sooner or later we come to grips with public relations. We need to have a real good look at ourselves. There is also a great tendency to over estimate or underrate ourselves. Always keep a vision of our Master in front of our eyes and whatever we do never undersize ourselves. Christ counts on us to be the light of the world. What others think of us is what we think of ourselves."

Mrs. Reid thanked Mrs. Rogers for her fine talk and said, she was was sorry there were not more members there to hear her.

The meeting was then handed over to the secretary for the evening, Mrs. DeClerq. An Irish contest was enjoyed, "Irish Jewels", with Mrs. Alva Meyer winning the prize.

Mr. Alexander of Vogue Beauty Salon, and Trenton, gave a demonstration with drawings, of hair cuts, how it grows and the way it is fed. To have healthy hair, one must work at it all the time, brush and brush, and brush. Use a brush as a protection to the brain. Black hair and white hair is coarser than other kinds, finer hair being the hardest to give permanents. Don't worry if a few hairs fall out each day as the normal head of hair numbers around 60 hairs a day. Hair is round, some oval and others flat. The heated permanent will live in to-day's is the cause of a lot of our hair troubles, dandruff and dry hair. We should put a tilting oil on our hair, but get the opinion of a hair specialist to get the right kind. Hair will stretch and is very strong. Each person has an individual hair style. From 20 years on one loses color in the face so it is not advisable to have grey hair tinted, unless one is prematurely grey. There are 140,000 hairs in one's head and only one it ten has a healthy head of hair. One should have an all treatment once in a while. Mr. Alexander said he was very pleased to have been able to speak to the W. I.

Mrs. John Reid was presented with a gift certificate for a free shampoo, a set, and styling. Mrs. Rogers was presented with one also. Mrs. Reid won hers for telling the best Irish story. These certificates are good at the Vogue Beauty Salon.

Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson thanked Mr. Alexander for his informative talk.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and conveners, to finish an interesting evening.

FORMING THE RECEIVING-LINE IN CHURCH VESTIBULE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the correct formation of the receiving-line when the reception takes place after the ceremony in the vestibule of the church?

2. Who pays for the flowers for the bride's mother and the groom's mother? — Bride-to-be

1. There is no definite rule about this. ...It depends mainly on the available space in the vestibule; and usually there is not a great deal of vestibule-space. Sometimes the receiving-procedure in the vestibule must be hurried, and then the plan may be for only the bride and groom to receive the guests. Often the bride and groom receive together in some place in the vestibule, and opposite them, near the entrance, may be the maid of honor and the two mothers, or the two mothers and the two fathers, who shake hands with the guests as they depart. In my judgment, should be a gift of $5. each year 3—Do you appoint an assistant secretary for your branch? If not you should have one and remember the assistant cannot succeed to the offices, unless you have an assistant director? If not one must be appointed. Do you have assistant delegates? If not, appoint them. Also when sending concerts do not always pick those who will be able to be offices and will go to the executive meeting with the district directors. The dues are the same as last year.

2. The groom always should provide a corsage for his bride's mother and for his own mother. (He asks his bride to plan these messages and order them, and to have the florist charge them to him.)

THOSE CRESCENT-SHAPED SALAD PLATES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Are the crescent - shaped salad plates proper to use? I saw some yesterday for the first time, and I was and am really interested. I am in no household as often like to have some salad served with the meat course, and we haven't too much room at our dining-table, particularly, of course, when we have guests.

It is correct to use crescent-shaped salad plates if you wish, and they have some very convenient features. (1) They do not take up much room, fitting against the dinner or luncheon plate (on the left side). (2) They provide a place for a small salad, separate from the meat. (3) Crescent-shaped salad plates, usually glass or crystal, look well with most kinds of china or pottery. (4) Because the meat course and the salad course can be combined, these salad plates make a convenient service, particularly when there are guests.

REFUSING YOUR HOSTESS' CIGARETTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it really discourteous (as I've been told) to refuse your hostess' cigarettes and take out your own containing your own cigarettes?—Belle B.

Not at all discourteous. It's entirely polite to refuse your hostess' cigarettes if you say graciously and casually to her, "Thank you very much, but you won't mind will you, if I smoke my own brand?"

SPRING FOUNDATIONS

With the new spring outfit you will, of course, want one of the new foundations so expertly designed to mould your figure to the most beautiful lines. Even if you are fashionably slim with just a suggestion of a bulge in any wrong place, you will still need the subtle and fluid control these new underthings give. For the sheath styles are anything but lovely when they are anything but perfect. A little too much flesh anywhere throws the whole effect of the costume out of focus.

The newest foundations, according to the Corset and Brassiere Council, have been especially designed to give the narrow silhouette with lifted bustline, eased waist and narrow hip so necessary to the sheath styles.

There's news in color in these newer foundations. They come in pastels, in most of the soft colors of the rainbow; pink, blue, green, beige, lilac, yellow, in pink or blue emroidery on white and in multi-color combinations of flowered prints.

You'll find these lovely colors in bonded satin elastic, silk power net, nylon lace, cotton lace, Dacron blends, stretch nylon or embroidered cotton.

There's an amazing variety in the styles of the new brassieres. You may prefer one with a low back or you may choose an underwired strapless brassiere. Some have long lines, fitting below the waistline, others come with waist or wide-angle straps and lined undercups.

The Newest girdles have eased waistlines in the high-rise style. Some have dip front brassieres. You will also find briefs of power net, and panty girdles with longer, cuffed-legs or with cut-up leg bands, and girdles with side boning for extra control over wide boning.

Lots of women prefer corselets. For the spring there is a new underwired strapless style corselet, one with a convertible neckline and another with a boned midriff. Of course there'll always be hosiery less all-elastic pull-on favored by so many women.

There's a question about it, the new foundation has kept pace with the new styles.

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The March meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Danford, with 13 adults and one child in attendance.

Mrs. M. Clancy presided over the program, prepared by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett and opened the meeting by reading a poem, "Lo!".

The worship service "The Call to Fellowship," was conducted by Mrs. Harlow as leader, with Mrs. Milton Reid, Mrs. Sobeon Frost and Mrs. Murney Kirkey rendering passages of Scripture from the Gospel of St. Luke.

St. Luke 11:1-13 was read in unison, with an open discussion on the Scripture lesson. The worship service was closed with prayer by Mrs. Carl Bridges.

W. A.

Little Carol Danford gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer by Mrs. Clancy.

Two readings were given: one by Mrs. Frank Smith, entitled, "In Good Company," — a second, by Mrs. Fitchett, "What Am I Doing for My Mission?"

Reports were given by Baby Band secretary, Mrs. Murney Kirkey, who reported on cards sent out to the children during the month; Temperance secretary, Mrs. Jervis, who gave a Temperance reading, and Community Friendship secretary, Mrs. Harry Clarke, who reported one call made, also flowers taken to a sick member.

Mrs. Warren Harlow offered her home for the April meeting and Mrs. Milton Reid was appointed to prepare the program.

Mrs. Bridges displayed the three pairs of bath towels which are to be sent to the supply secretary for Home Missions.

The W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen, reported that the proceeds from the Pot luck supper held recently at the school was $28.30. She also read a paper, "Easter Message," from the United Church of Canada.

Two readings in connection with the Study Book were given by Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. Clarke.

Mrs. Clancy thanked Mrs. Danford for opening her home for the meeting; the program convener and also all who had assisted on the program.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Wedding Reception 1956

By Mary Moore

(6TH INSTALMENT— TURKEY WHOLE HAM (Items 1b):

Are you still with me in this Wedding Reception Campaign? I'm still going strong and after four instalments of it we have actually reached the meat course—Turkey and/or Ham. May I remind you again to clip this if you are marriage-minded.

TURKEY (For 50 People)
HOW MUCH TO BUY:

A rough guide to buying Turkey for a crowd is: Allow 3-4 pound turkeys, dressed weight, for each person to be served. Thus for 50 people you will need two 18-pound drawn turkeys (or one 36 or 37-pound outside bird). This will allow fifty 3 1-3 to 3-ounce servings, allowing some second helpings.

STUFFING:
(For an 18 to 20-Pound bird.)

Three pounds of two-day-old bread crumbs, or cubes, 1-2 teaspoon dried F. I. tsarcon (optional) leaves, (or sage), 2 tablespoons salt, 1-4 to 1-3 cup grated onion, 2 cups water or broth, 1-2 cup butter or rendered-out turkey or chicken fat—optional, 1 large egg beaten.

HOW TO ROAST TURKEY

After turkey is stuffed (not too tightly) and trussed, rub all over with unsalted fat. Place in open pan, cover with fat-moistened cloth. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast at 325 deg. F.—4 to 10-pound stuffed bird 5 1-2 to 7 hours. However, give yourself one half hour leeway—test the bird for doneness by pressing "—thickest part of the drumstick between your fingers. If the meat feels soft, bird is done.

CAUTION:

(1) Be sure to have an experienced carver with real sharp carving knife. (2) Turkey slices to better advantage when cold.

HAM (For 50 People)
HOW MUCH TO BUY:

A rough guide to buying ham for a crowd is: Allow nearly one half pound per serving; but if ham is boned and trimmed, allow 4 to 5 ounces per serving. Thus for fifty people you will need two 10-12 pound hams or two 8 to 9-pound boned and rolled hams.

HOW TO ROAST HAM
WHOLE HAM (Items 1b):

Roast a 10 or 12-pound ham at 300 deg. F. twenty-five minutes per pound, or over four hours. A sure test is to use a meat thermometer and cook until the internal temperature is 170 deg. F.

NOTE: Some meat experts recommend 325 deg. F. per pound for a smoked ham, and if you roast at 325 deg. then timing is based on seventeen minutes per pound. Use your own judgment, but remember a sure rule is to use a meat thermometer and roast until the internal temperature is 170 deg. F.

HAM, BONED AND ROLLED
(Uncooked—Not Tenderized)

An eleven to fourteen pound, boned and rolled ham, roast at 325 deg. F. for 3 1-4 to 4 hours —internal temperature 160 deg. F.

Roast eight to nine pounds ham at same temperature but no longer than three hours as long as internal temperature is 160 deg. F.

Mid Canada Line Construction Proceeds

1. Carved out of the wilderness on the east coast of Hudson's Bay is Great Whale River, an assembly point for materials being brought in for construction of a portion of the early warning line. Marine vessels and aircraft have been used for this, and construction workers and equipment are then flown from Great Whale to some of the Mid Canada Line sites proper. Great Whale River will serve as a logistic support point once the line has been completed. Many of the buildings shown house civilian construction workers. 2. Work forges ahead on a hangar at Great Whale River, despite cold and wind. The hangar will shelter fixed wing aircraft and helicopters which will be used to bring in materials and personnel and fly them to individual detection sites making up the Mid Canada Line. 3. A cement mixer is operated by hard working Eskimos at Great Whale River. Heavy machinery such as this was freighted into Hudson Bay and brought into Great Whale by landing barge. 4. Happy but hungry Eskimos line up for a hot pcom meal in a mess building at Great Whale. Copious quantities of steaming food, such as these kettles of beans and stew, are fed to construction workers, who develop hardy appetites on the Great Whale project. (National Defence Photos)

Canada's Net Debt Increased

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's net debt has risen to an estimated $11,314,000,000, boosted by the second consecutive budgetary deficit.

A budget white paper tabled in the Commons Monday showed the net debt increased by $21,700,000 in the 1955-56 fiscal year ended March 31 — the amount of the budget deficit estimated by Finance Minister Harris.

The total still is below the peak of $13,421,400,000 in net debt reached in 1946 after the costly Second World War. A series of post-war surpluses reduced that by $2,305,500,000 but it rose with a deficit in 1954-55.

The gross public debt is expected to reach $18,054,900,000 by the end of the current fiscal year, an increase of $1,103,400,000. In the government's books, however, that is reduced by the amount of net assets—such things as cash, investments and loans—to produce the net debt figure. Net assets are expected to increase by $1,051,700,000 in 1955-56 to a total $7,740,100,000.

IS MAJOR ITEM

Major item in the gross debt is $15,394,300,000 in unmatured securities, which increased by $997,800,000 in the year. Liabilities under annuity, insurance and pension accounts rose by $207,600,000 to $2,185,000,000.

Among the assets are loans and investments in crown corporations such as the CNR and the CBC totalling $2,007,900,000.

Biggest share of the $214,400,000 increase in such loans went to the CNR, whose debt rose by $177,900,000 to $1,111,800,000.

United Kingdom Pays $45,200,000 On Canadian Loan

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Kingdom paid out $45,200,000 during the current fiscal year on two of its big wartime and post-war loans from Canada.

The budget white paper tabled Monday in the Commons showed Britain paid $30,000,000 on the $700,000,000 interest-free loan made in 1942. Another $15,200,000 was cut from the $1,250,000,000 loan of 1946, reducing it to $1,112,100,000.

The amount outstanding on Britain's 1942 loan is $22,500,000.

For the third straight year, however, the Nationalist Chinese government defaulted on a $51,000,000 post-war loan. The $49,000,000 balance is listed in government accounts as an inactive loan.

RESUMES PAYMENTS

Meanwhile, Communist Czechoslovakia resumed payment of a $16,400,000 post-war loan after defaulting for two years. It paid $5,900,000 and reduced the remaining debt to $8,000,000.

The Czech and Chinese loans were among advances to several foreign governments after the Second World War to help them buy goods in Canada.

During the year Russia paid $1,800,000 on a long-standing loan made under post-war mutual aid. One more payment of the same amount will wipe off the debt.

The total of loans to all foreign governments was reduced $12,000,000 and now stands at $1,520,000,000.

Defence Expenditures Nearly 40 P.C. of All Govt. Spending

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence expenditures in the fiscal year ending March 31 are estimated at $1,780,400,000 in a white paper tabled in the Commons Monday by Finance Minister Harris.

This is an increase of $72,000,000 over the last fiscal year and represents approximately 40 per cent of all government spending.

The peacetime high was in 1952-53 when the total was $1,971,200,000.

There are increases in all three branches of the services. Estimates for the army is $413,660,000, an increase of $34,900,000; for the navy $342,900,000, up $83,700,000; for the air services $632,400,000.

The only big drop in defence spending was in mutual aid for which the estimate is $175,000,000, a decrease of $85,000,000.

Other items in the grand total include $85,900,000 for defence research and development, an increase of $18,600,000; $18,900,000 for the defence production department, a drop of $2,000,000, and civil defence $3,800,000 an increase of $700,000.

YOUTHFUL ROBIN HOODS

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — Police reported the arrest Friday of three young "Robin Hoods" who, they said, stole bicycles and then gave them away to boys without any. Patrolman Robert A. Loomis said the boys had been stealing the bikes, stripping them down, repainting and then re-assembling them. They then would take the revamped bikes and give them to any boy they happened to run into who hadn't one.

6-LANE HIGHWAYS

The 80-year-old premier said he has been in government 32 years and never once had political considerations or personal relations entered into a contract settlement.

Mr. MacDonald, at 42 in his third year as party leader, replied it takes more than "a fatherly talk" to make him drop the issue. He recalled on the premier to open his party's books to show where its money does come from.

After Deputy-Speaker J. F. Edwards subdued government members who booed and jeered Mr. MacDonald, Liberal Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver ended the dispute by calling the CCF leader a "political purist." If he remained in politics long he would learn members paid much of their expenses out of their own pockets.

ESTIMATES APPROVED

After long debate the record $200,000,000 estimates were approved. They included $78,000,000 for construction and other capital projects, and $22,000,000 for maintenance.

Another $43,000,000 was earmarked for subsidies to pay half the cost of roads constructed by counties and municipalities. Mr. Allan hoped 380 miles of road would be paved this year, compared with a record 300 miles last year; that bridges would be built against 45 last year; and 780 miles of culverts would be prepared as compared with 260 miles last year.

Premier Frost promised members lots of work and several night sittings as the assembly presses to complete business before prorouging, possibly March 28.

He told the House three night sittings will be held this week. More would be scheduled for next week and the assembly might convene an hour or two earlier every day if necessary to clean up the business.

The legislature normally sits at 3 p.m.

Estimates from about nine government departments still have to be considered, the budget debate has to be completed and several important bills yet to be given second and third readings.

Savings in Canada Increased Almost $1,200,000, 000 Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—A lot of Canadians earned more and spent more in 1955, yet savings in Canada increased by almost $1,200,000,000.

This estimated 30-per-cent rise to a total savings in the calendar year 1955 of $5,199,000,000 followed a 20-per-cent drop in 1954, the year of recession.

Finance Minister Harris said in his 1955-56 economic white paper tabled Monday in the Commons that the main contribution came from persons and businesses in the year when the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—climbed by roughly $2,500,000,000 to a new high of $26,524,000,000.

Total national income increased to $20,900,000,000 from $18,774,000,000 in 1954. Consumer spending rose to $16,811,000,000 from $15,776,000,000.

WARNS OF WEAKNESS

But despite the great post-war growth in the domestic market, The level of exports remains a strategic factor in Canadian economic prosperity," Mr. Harris said.

Exports of goods and services exerted a "great stimulus" on the economy in 1955, rising by $560,000,000 to $5,600,000,000. But imports made even more rapid gains, increasing by $785,000,000 to $6,347,000,000.

Thus, in 1955 Canada's deficit in foreign trade of goods and services increased to $651,000,000 from $426,000,000 in 1954.

More than three-quarters of the increase in imports came from the United States. Remainder of the increase was drawn largely from western Europe, Latin America and Japan with only a moderate increase in imports from the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries.

The U. S. also was responsible for more than half of the rise in exports, with sales there gaining 10 per cent from 1954. Sales to the U. K. and other Commonwealth countries, however, increased nearly 20 per cent and those to western Europe rose 11 per cent.

BOOM IN SPENDING

The export rise was mainly concentrated in shipments of base metals, forest products and iron and iron products. There was a $60,000,000 boost in export of iron ore and a $30,000,000 rise in export of crude petroleum. Wheat exports declined.

The white paper said the upswing in imports came in response to Canada's increased business activity last year. The largest single rise was in the import of auto parts.

On the home front, the big rise of more than $1,000,000,000 in consumer spending showed up in a "striking increase in purchases of passenger cars as well as substantial increases in expenditures on home appliances and furniture."

There also was major spending for housing, food and other goods.

But the country still managed to save. The three levels of government—federal, provincial and municipal—showed combined savings of $260,000,000 in 1955 compared with $18,000,000 in 1954.

CONCEALED INCREASES

Savings by persons increased by $352,000,000 to $1,474,000,000 from $971,000,000. Gross savings by businesses, including depreciation allowances and undistributed corporation profits, rose by $315,000,000 to $3,588,000,000 from $3,073,000,000.

Mr. Harris observed that in 1955 consumer prices were relatively unchanged from the previous year, but there was a two-per-cent increase in overall wholesale prices and this "concealed very large increases in some of the components."

Prices for non-ferrous metals showed the biggest rise—almost 18 per cent. Prices for industrial materials increased by eight per cent and those for building materials rose between three and four per cent.

Excise Tax Yields Show Increase In Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The government reduced the 15-per-cent excise tax on automobiles by one-third a year ago but, despite the cut, high sales boosted tax yields from this source by $8,000,000.

Excise tax yields also rose on petroleum products, television and radio sets, soft drinks and cosmetics, though they declined slightly on candy and chewing gum.

Revenues from the sales tax, excluding the two per cent allocated to the old age pension fund, rose to an estimated $640,000,000 in 1955-56 from $572,200,000 a year previous, Finance Minister Harris reported in his white paper tabled Monday in the Commons.

Yields from excise taxes rose to $260,000,000 from $252,000,000; from customs duties to $475,000,000 from $397,000,000, and on excise duties to $245,000,000 from $226,500,000.

When Mr. Harris reduced the automobile excise tax in his budget last year, he estimated the cut would cost the treasury $28,000,000 in the 1955-56 fiscal year. But high sales instead increased revenues by $8,000,000 to $31,000,000.

Some other estimated excise tax yields for 1955-56 with 1954-55 yields in brackets: soft drinks $8,700,000 ($8,200,000); candy and chewing gum $9,200,000 ($9,900,000); cigarets, cigars and tobacco $122,500,000 ($114,500,000); television sets, radios, tubes and phonographs $23,000,000 ($21,500,000); cosmetics $5,600,000 ($5,200,000).

Madoc Junction

EGGLETON Y.P.U.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Tuesday night the regular meeting of the Eggleton Y.P.U. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges, with 18 present.

The president, Marilyn Reid, presided over a program which had been prepared by Thomas and Paul Bridges.

After the opening hymn, Grace Clarke led in a lively sing-song.

Next meeting to be held on April 5th.

Plans discussed for holding a box social at the school on Friday evening, April 13th, under the auspices of the Eggleton Y.P.U. and the "Sigma C" boys' group, with a variety concert.

Annamae Clarke read a poem, "If I Had Prayed."

The devotional period was taken by Thomas Bridges as leader with each member assisting by reading a verse of Scripture.

A piano solo by Joanne Reide was much appreciated.

A merry recreational period was then conducted by the convenors, Norma Wooden and Annamae Clarke.

Bountiful refreshments were served.

Yugoslavia Asks For More Time To Pay Debt

OTTAWA (CP)—Yugoslavia has asked for more time to pay for a big cereals purchase of Canadian wheat made in 1954.

Officials said Monday that Yugoslavia was to have paid for the shipments, worth an estimated $10,000,000, last year but sought and was given a year's extension because of financial difficulty.

The Canadian government authorized the shipment, guaranteeing payment under Section 21 of the Export Credits Insurance Act. Under this section the government can ask the crown-owned Export Credits Insurance Corporation to act as its agent in issuing insurance policies for larger amounts or longer periods than this corporation would normally consider.

POLICIES IN FORCE

The corporation, in its annual report tabled in the Commons Monday estimated policies of this type in force last Dec. 31 totalled $22,625,640, including the amount outstanding for Yugoslavia.

The corporation reported exports guaranteed by the government under Section 21 were worth $6,567,063 last year. Officials said later this figure referred to a shipment of wheat to Communist Poland. The government guaranteed 85 per cent of the price of the shipment, the first of a series of wheat sales to Russia and her satellites.

Approximately $55,000,000 of such government-guaranteed deals have been insured over the last 10 years without any claims, the corporation said.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was opening his mail at breakfast saying to me This is an imposition I wont pay it.

We can't afford to pay anything we dont owe that's a certainty ma said. What is it William? she said and pop said They claim I'm in arrears on my income tax and they want to explain why the deficiency. Some smart Alexk in the treve than the expensive expert Revenue Bewro thinks he knows that made out max tax return. Let them wate for their money he said.

Now William, the government knows best, ma said, and pop said, That's what King Looey said just before the Frenich revolution. I wont pay it. By golies somebody has got to make a stand, and I'll be the one. I'll fight them in their own courts, he said.

Goodness, dont get in trubble, William, ma said, and pop said, Let them come and get me. I hope they confiscate my werldly possessions and throw me in jail, he said.

Well I dont, ma said, and pop said, It will cause such a popular uprising that the government will have to retreat its methods. I'll be a hero and you'll be a heroine for being my wife. You'll be congradulated right and left every time you show your face in public, he said.

Oh my, wont that be nice? ma said. I'm sure their words of praise will warm my hungry bones while I gather my shivering rags about me, she said, and pop said, I never thought of that. After all, the discrepancy only amounts to 3 dollers and 8 cents. Maybe I better grin and bear it and just pay up, he said.

Which he probably will.

RAWDON

Y.P.U. Sponsors Variety Show In Mt. Pleasant Church Hall

RAWDON — On Thursday evening the postponed Variety Show was held in Mount Pleasant church hall sponsored by Rawdon circuit Young People's Union.

The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, welcomed the large attendance which almost filled the hall to capacity. Besides Rawdon circuit folks there were guests from Smithfield, West Huntingdon, Marsh Hill, Belleville, Stirling, Moira, Carmel, Foxboro, Springbrook, Kenrose, and Trenton.

The program lasted almost two hours and was most varied and the guest artists were all applauded for their efforts.

Mrs Lulabelle Matthews and her brother, Arnott Matthews of Burnbrae, gave two vocal duets, one of which was "Memories". Lulubelle also contributed two violin selections. Mrs. Will Matthews was the piano accompanist.

Miss Linda Ring, Stirling, gave three selections on her piano accordion.

Misses Shirley Broadworth and Marion Broadworth, gave four vocal duets with Mrs. C. A. Bateman as accompanist. Their numbers included, "I Wonder How the Old Folks are at Home" and "Where Could I Go But to the Lord"

Miss Carol Welsh, Moira, gave three recitations, "Bath Hour", "A Poem by Edgar Guest," and a monologue, "In the Shoe Shop."

Wayne Campbell, Marsh Hill and Francis Rose, Belleville, gave a tap dance duet with Mrs. Don Rose as accompanist, and later, Wayne Campbell delighted with a tap dance solo.

Miss Heather Rodgers, Stirling, sang "Bonnie Lassie" and "This Ole House", with K. P. Mayberry as accompanist and the latter also sang in the last number.

Two brothers, Sam and Carl Dayman, of Smithfield, entertained with three vocal numbers.

Piano solos were rendered by Miss Joan Campbell, Marsh Hill, and Mrs. Lindsay Sills, of West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth contributed three sacred vocal duets with guitar accompaniment, one of which was, "There's a Heaven for Each One to Share".

Miss Gail Jeffs read a humorous selection and Mr. Craig Watson conducted a sing-song with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist, when several old favorites were enjoyed.

Mr. K. P. Mayberry sang a couple of numbers and played his own guitar accompaniment.

Francis Rose, Belleville, sang two selections and played his guitar accompaniment by his mother on the piano.

The program closed with two vocal selections by Miss Heather Rodgers with piano accompaniment given by Miss Betty McConnell.

The artists were given a vote of thanks.

The young people then served sandwiches, pickles, pie and coffee and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The affair was most successful and Rawdon Y. P. U. will have over $60 for their efforts.

The president of Rawdon circuit Y.P.U. is Miss Betty McConnell.

Pay Increases For Members May Be Considered

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says it has learned the Ontario government will appoint a select committee to look into the question of granting pay increases for legislature members.

"Many private members have been urging the premier to increase their present indemnity of $2,600 and a tax-free expense allowance of $1,200," the newspaper says. "But the premier has withstood the pressure of his own colleagues and is convinced any increase should not come this session."

The story says the matter of higher indemnities "has been discussed behind closed doors by a number of the veteran members of the legislature."

Eisenhower Asks $4,859,975,000 For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday asked Congress to vote $4,859,975,000 for United States foreign aid, with $3,640,000,000 in military assistance earmarked for the Middle East and Asia.

"Serious risk of aggression still exists" in the areas, he said.

Along with his request for a big increase in appropriations, Eisenhower asked for new flexibility in administration of the program. Particularly he asked for power to make commitments of up to 10 years.

In a special message, Eisenhower said: "We cannot now falter in our quest for peace."

HELP NEEDED

The need for the mutual security program he outlined was urged because:

1. "There are still nations that are eager to strive with us for peace and freedom but, without our help, lack the means of doing so."

2. "There are still forces hostile to freedom that compel the free world to maintain adequate, and coordinated military power to deter aggression."

3. "There are still peoples who aspire to sustain their freedom but confront economic obstacles that are beyond their capabilities of surmounting alone."

Under the program he set out, $3,000,000,000 would be set aside for purely military aid.

The military help he proposed would support the objectives of various military defence pacts, including the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, to which the U.S. is a party.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Reid, Mrs. Hannah King spent a recent Sunday afternoon and tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Andrews, at Redmayville.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ravelle, Buffalo, N.Y., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw.

The L.O.L. 2590 held its regular meeting in the Orange Hall on Monday night, with a good attendance.

The Ladies' Aid of the Point Anne United Church held its regular meeting on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Fred Macdonald.

The Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lee Bradshaw.

Friends of Mr. Alfred Marcle, Jr., are pleased to see he is home from Par Belleville General Hospital feeling some better.

Sympathy of friends and neighbors is extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Dunlay and Mr. and Mrs. Lafelle and families in the death of their son, Charlie Dunlay, who passed away last week.

David Akey spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, at Camniffon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Akey had dinner on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey, at Camniffon.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down and the fellows say—wish your diet—yet years rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can live fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling that so often signal kidney disorders, that often develop after fifty. For more than 50 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 24

While Habs Rate Heavy Favorites, Path To Stanley Cup Wont Be Rosy

Sport Slices

Rare, Medium, Well-Done

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

FOR THE FLAME

A season or two ago, or was it last year's puck-chasing scribe, sports editor Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon Herald and Laurie Brain of the Galt Reporter frequently cross-columned rapiers anent the puck-prodding calibres of senior and junior "B" clubs. Stratford had its senior "A" Indians and Galt's junior "A" (now defunct) Black Hawks.

The raillery, good natured, rippled to and fro. Chick boosted there was not a junior "A" club extant which could "man senior "A" requirements, or words to that effect, while Laurie naturally was a stalwart defender of the beardless wonders. The question never settled to their mutual satisfaction and the argument ended "no contest" or did it?

All of which leads up to the possibility of a fiery feud between Whitby Dunlop manager Wren Blair and an Ottawa journal sportswriter named Bob Mellor.

Mellor covered the Dunnville-Junior Canadiens exhibition tilt Ottawa and made no bones of his low opinion of the ability of the Dunlops, and his high regard for the Junior Habs who tilted twice with the Dunnies over the weekend and whamped them 6-3 in Ottawa and 6-1 in Whitby.

Wrote Mellor: "Montreal's Junior Canadiens who are flitting in a period of inability while waiting for the Memorial Cup playdowns took on a Whitby senior club last night which afforded them a workout but no great strain on their hockey ability.

Dunlops came up with a good second frame, they couldn't skate with the juniors and the rest of the game bogged down with repeated penalties and penalties. Incidentally the Dunnies drew seven of the nine penalties imposed, one a misconduct to Williams.

He does not mention that the Dunnies outshot the Habs 9-8 in the second period and had the "umpires penned up several times."

We cannot buy Meller's nostalgic story of the Dunnies being a workout horse for his Junior Hab pets. The little Canadiens played an exhibition tilt with the NFL's hero early in the season and going all out eked out a 6-5 win over the Tecumseh, Ont. St. Catherine's Terrors. The demonstrated their wares here and edged our side by an 8-6 count or some other two-goal margin. Taking the performances of both Senior clubs as played here, our six bits would have gone on the Terrors.

That was early in the season. As of now the Junior Canadiens have walloped the best junior "A" talent Ontario possesses in trophy and exhibition play, and down-east experts hail them as the 1956 Memorial Cup champions. Coach Sammy Pelnick must have wrought miraculous changes in his charges since their early-season appearance here.

The records show that the baby Habs form a smooth-working hockey machine, and by the same token we are the Dunnies. The latter seem to be put out on exhibition tilts especially when both clubs have high stakes to shoot at. But at that, the Ottawa gaps developed in a rough boisterous battle especially in the third, period when the heavier Dunnies, as Mellor says, started throwing their weight around.

And that's the kind of going any junior "A" team we have seen in action reveals in. These high-flying youngsters do not spare the horses and we doubt if any senior club can ditch it out as rendered with as slight a provocation as can these boarding-house puckaroos.

Anyway the whole thing ended in a regrettable nelpe with the Dunnies Eddie Redmond suffering a critical injury to his windpipe. He is still in an Ottawa hospital reserving satisfactorily but it is doubtful if the colorful hockey-baseball star will don the skates again this season.

With the senior "A" title safely tucked away by the Chatham Maroons gossip along western Ontario rifles turns to next season's activities.

Murph Chamberlain's phenomenal success in piloting the Maroons to ship safely past the Ontario senior "A" barriers, and pointing the prow towards the Allan Cup, has put the former pro in the "much wanted" category. Naturally Chatham wants to retain the "Monk" next year, and accordingly no one source have offered him a three-year contract at $8,000 per. This, after the Windsor Bulldogs dangled a one-year $11,000 parchment under the Hardrock's nose.

That's money up in the tobacco and beet country. The hockey gardens of Eastern Ontario do not raise lettuce of that type. Apparently there's more sugar up thataway than they take from the beets.

Another report states that Wren Blair, Whitby Dunlops has sounded out the Windsor, Chatham and Owen Sound bosses with regard to entertaining the Dunlops next season, and all three clubs put out the welcome mat. Stratford is not sure of an entry in the 1956-57 campaign.

And the withdrawal of the Pembroke Lumber Kings from the Northern senior group makes the suggested interlocking schedule between north and south senior groups a strong possibility. The Lumber Kings withdrew after suffering a season's setback of $41,000. That aint hay, brother!

FISH AND GAME

Don't forget the regular meeting of the Belleville Fish and game Association tonight at the YMCA starting at eight o'clock. Some mighty useful films will be shown while a highly interesting discourse on Indian lore will be given by the Rev. A. Squires, of Consecon, a gentleman who knows whereof he speaks. It should be good.

AMERICAN WINS

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Bob Perry of Los Angeles turned back Roger Becker of Great Britain 7-5, 6-1 Monday in the second round of the Alexandria tennis championships.

Lewis Hoad of Australia defeated Jon Pottinger of Germany 6-3, 6-2. Torsten Johansson of Sweden won over Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt 6-0, 7-5, and Sven Davidson of Sweden downed F. Toetia of Egypt 6-0, 6-1.

TOWEEL LOSES

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Willie Toweel, who drew with world bantamweight champion Robert Cohen last year, Monday lost his South African featherweight title without throwing a punch.

At the weigh-in for his fight against challenger Hubert Zeakov in Johannesburg Monday night, Toweel was 3½ pounds over the 126-pound featherweight limit. He forfeited the title and will campaign as a lightweight.

Youth Duels With Experience In Leafs, Wings Tournament; Rangers Silent Over Outcome

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DETROIT (CP) — The age-old battle of youth versus experience begins all over again tonight as the revenge-seeking Detroit Red Wings meet Toronto Maple Leafs in the opener of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

Wings, who for seven straight years occupied the National Hockey League's top rung, were knocked from that pedestal this season by Montreal Canadiens. Wings finished second, 34 points behind Montreal.

They want a crack at Canadiens in the final for the Stanley Cup. To do that, they must whack Toronto from the playoffs in this series while Canadiens advance to the best-of-seven final at the expense of New York Rangers, who ended the regular season in third place.

ADDED INCENTIVE

There's an added incentive for Leafs in this series. After finally squeezing into the fourth and last playoff berth Sunday by shutting out Wings 3-0, Leafs have a record they are jealous of and want to keep.

That's their three straight Stanley Cup victories—1947-48-49. No other team has ever duplicated that feat but Red Wings could do it this year. They've taken hockey's highest prize the last two seasons.

Wings' general manager Jack Adams figures experience and depth will give the playoffs to Detroit in seven games. General King Clancy, whose Leafs held Detroit on even terms through the 70 games the teams played in the regular schedule, said his team-ing is going to be right close, too.

Clancy calls Leafs "the youngest team ever to represent Toronto in the playoffs."

HAVE HANDS FULL

Wings will have their hands full keeping Leafs' power line of Ted Kennedy, Sid Smith and George Armstrong in check. That unit has scored 13 of the 26 goals Toronto has counted against Wings. Detroit chalked up 32 against Leafs.

Wings were just as difficult a job in coping with the Ted Lindsay-Gordie Howe-Earl Ingarfield "production line" of Wings.

The series will be a battle between bitter and frequent playoff rivals. This meeting will be the fifth in the last 15 years between Toronto and Detroit in either the semi-finals or finals of Stanley Cup play. Leafs have managed to win only one game out of the last five playoff contests with Wings. That was two years ago.

Detroit coach Jimmy Skinner refused to look past the series with Toronto. "We're not looking ahead," he said. "We still have to beat Leafs."

Howell Awarded Red Tilson Memorial Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Howell, 20-year-old hockey defenceman with Guelph Biltmores, ended a 10-year reign by forwards to win the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy.

Howell received recognition as the "most valuable and gentlemanly player" in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A after the closest voting in the award's 13-year history.

Results of the voting, released by the OHA Monday, showed Howell edged out Stan Baluik of Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks by one vote.

Sportswriters in the league's six cities gave Howell 34 points, compared to 33 for Baluik. Howell is the first defenceman to win the trophy since Doug McMurdy captured it in 1944.

The honor perpetuates the memory of Red Tilson, an outstanding player with Regina and Oshawa junior teams who was killed in the Second World War while on active service with the Canadian Army.

Howell, a star backchecker with Hamilton Tigers in the Big Four Football Union, played in 49 of Guelph's 54 games during the regular schedule. Because of his football activity, he was unable to join the club until once he did, he was credited with sparking Biltmores to a second-place finish.

He scored 21 goals, assisted on 40 others and placed fifth in the league scoring. It was the third straight season he led the league's defencemen in point scoring.

Howell went up to New York Rangers of the National Hockey League after Biltmores were eliminated from the playoffs by Toronto St. Michael's. He is to sign a contract with Rangers, he will join his uncle Harry, who captains Rangers, in one of the rare NHL brother defence combinations.

Baluik, a native of Fort William completed his junior career this season by leading the league in scoring with 31 goals and 73 assists for 104 points.

Howell Awarded Red Tilson Memorial Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Howell, 20-year-old hockey defenceman with Guelph Biltmores, ended a 10-year reign by forwards to win the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy.

Howell received recognition as the "most valuable and gentlemanly player" in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A after the closest voting in the award's 13-year history.

Results of the voting, released by the OHA Monday, showed Howell edged out Stan Baluik of Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks by one vote.

Sportswriters in the league's six cities gave Howell 34 points, compared to 33 for Baluik. Howell is the first defenceman to win the trophy since Doug McMurdy captured it in 1944.

The honor perpetuates the memory of Red Tilson, an outstanding player with Regina and Oshawa junior teams who was killed in the Second World War while on active service with the Canadian Army.

Howell, a star backchecker with Hamilton Tigers in the Big Four Football Union, played in 49 of Guelph's 54 games during the regular schedule. Because of his football activity, he was unable to join the club until once he did, he was credited with sparking Biltmores to a second-place finish.

He scored 21 goals, assisted on 40 others and placed fifth in the league scoring. It was the third straight season he led the league's defencemen in point scoring.

Howell went up to New York Rangers of the National Hockey League after Biltmores were eliminated from the playoffs by Toronto St. Michael's. He is to sign a contract with Rangers, he will join his uncle Harry, who captains Rangers, in one of the rare NHL brother defence combinations.

Baluik, a native of Fort William completed his junior career this season by leading the league in scoring with 31 goals and 73 assists for 104 points.

Nashua Showing At Gulfstream Unexplainable

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nashua's poor showing in the Gulfstream Park Handicap was brushed aside Monday as unexplainable and his owners laid plans to give the colt more chances this spring to become the world's biggest purse winner.

He will be shipped to New York Thursday. He has been nominated for the Campbell Memorial at Bowie, Md., in April.

The race horse, which has captured the public fancy as few other animals have done, wound up fifth in the handicap.

Nashua's owner, Leslie Combs II, trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons and jockey Eddie Arcaro were all at a loss to account for Nashua's poorest showing in three years of racing.

Combs said the horse "will race all year, or as long as the handicappers let him."

Wolves Game Away from Title

IROQUOIS FALLS (CP) — Sudbury Wolves, who climbed from last place to the top of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern group in one season, are one game away from the NOHA championship.

Wolves defeated Iroquois Falls Abitibi Eskimos 5-1 Monday night to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series. It was the first game in the set in which the visiting team had won.

Wolves won the first games at Sudbury and then Eskimos took the next two here. The sixth and what could be last game is scheduled for Sudbury today.

Yesker Flynn, Lennie Speck, Billy Watson, Frank D'Grady and John Gillis scored the winners' goals. Tom Mousseau fired the lone Abitibi marker.

The winners of the series will play Chatham Maroons for the all-Ontario title. Maroons are champions of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

NEW SPORTS EVENT

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Lawn Tennis Club today announced inauguration of a new, major Canadian sports event—an annual indoor international invitation tennis championship. Top-ranking stars have already been invited to the first tourney set Sept. 3-8.

The tournament is under the auspices of the Canadian and Ontario Lawn Tennis Associations. It is sponsored by a Toronto brewery.

Marlene Edges American Ace To Win North-South Amateur Golf Crown

Brilliant Rallies Feature Tight 18-Hole Final Duel; Canadian Steady Under Fire

By KEN ALYEA

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Pert little Marlene Stewart, the Canadian amateur golf champion, edged Wanda Sanches of Baton Rouge, La., 1 up, Monday and won the North and South amateur tournament in a surprisingly tight 18-hole final duel.

Marlene, out-driven consistently, combined more accurate shots to the green and her opponent's mistakes to gain her margin.

The Canadian girl, whose home is in Fonthill, Ont., led by two holes through the sixth and, when Wanda missed golden opportunities on both the seventh and eighth, it seemed she was in for a decisive defeat.

But, showing the same determination and compact desire that made her a star softball pitcher and basketball player before she gave up those sports for golf two years ago, Wanda won the ninth hole with a par three and birdied the long 10th to go even.

AGAIN IN FRONT

After two halves, Marlene, a 22-year-old senior at Florida's Rollins College, grabbed the next two holes to again step out front. On the 13th, after Wanda had chalked up well past the 200 yard mark with a one - over - par five, Marlene barred a six-foot putt for a eight-foot putt, declining a concession by her 26-year-old rival.

Par was good enough for the Canadian girl to win the 14th as Wanda wandered into the rough with her second and, hitting from a downhill stance, just got to the fringe of the green. She used a putter and sent the ball to the center cup for a par three and victory with a six.

Two easy pars with four to go Wanda again showed her mettle on the par three 15th. Marlene was short and Wanda's ball rolled to the side of a bunker. Standing to the side of the hill, she dropped the ball 12 feet from the pin and missed the six-footer for a half and was only 1 up.

PRESSURE TELLS

Pressure told on both as they halved the last three holes, each going one over par on the last two. Both were trapped on the 17th, but Marlene, with the easier shot, came out well, only to miss a six-footer that would have ended the match.

Marlene was trapped with her second on the 18th while Wanda was off the green to the right with her second. A good trap shot left Marlene 35 feet from the hole, Wanda chipped short, about 200 feet away. Marlene's putt was four feet shy of the mark and Wanda's slid past a couple of feet. Then Marlene made her putt and conceded Wanda's for a half.

Marlene won the first hole with a par as Wanda was in the rough off the tee, but the tall Louisiana girl birdied the long fourth, her third shot stopping less than two feet from the hole.

Marlene, who stands only 5-1, birdied five and parred six to go two up and got a bid break when Wanda missed a four-footer for a win on No. 7 and chipped badly when in position to win the eighth.

PLAYING STATISTICS

Marlene's medal was 38-39—77 and Wanda's 41-40—81 for the No. 2 course of the Country Club. Women's par is 74 and the yardage 6,000. Each had 32 putts. The sun ducked back of the clouds through out the day, providing little relief from the week-long cold spell.

After the match, Marlene remarked of Wanda: "She's a tough one. I'd hate to play her next year. After she has had more experience. I never thought I had her, even when I was 2 up. She kept sinking those putts and worried me. I think my irons were never better than this week and my putting wasn't bad for me anyway."

It was only her second—and most important—victory in a U.S. tournament. Last year she won the Rochester, N.Y., Country Club Invitational.

She leaves today to return to Rollins where she'll "hit the books" until June commencement. A number of Canadians, among the Pinehurst winter visitors, followed her through the day's round, as during previous matches, and cluttered about to offer congratulations.

The cards:

Par out	444	533—37
Stewart	454	543	554—39
Sanches	554	455	555—41
Par in	444	533	534—37—74
Stewart	544	354	545—39—78
Sanches	443	563	545—40—81

(Stewart wins, 1 up)

Kerbawy said the players had to play for the team which had drafted them. Commented Chief Justice McEuser: "It sounds as if the players are like chessmen on boards. They have nothing to say about their future."

TV DROP

Dubin said the $100,000 decrease in Lions' profits last season was caused by a drop in revenue from television and increased expenses.

Under examination by Dubin, the Lions' president said Dubinski had been traded to Baltimore Colts of the NFL in 1953.

Dubin asked: "You wrote off Dubinski in 1953?"

Reid Anderson: "We desperately needed a good fullback. We were forced to do it but the trade didn't work out and Dublinski returned to Detroit."

Detroit had to spend $10,000 and trade two players to the Washington Redskins of the NFL to get quarterback Harry Gilmer as a replacement for Dubinski.

Dubinski, now a salesman for a Toronto electrical firm, set a Big Four passing record last season when he completed 16 of 18 passes during a league game.

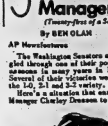
DERBY WINS

LONDON (Reuters) — Derby county regained the leadership of the northern section of the Football League's third division by defeating Oldham Athletic 2-0 Monday night.

In other floodlight soccer matches West Ham United edged Bury 3-2 in the second division and Coventry City and Southend United played to a scoreless tie in a third division southern fixture.

DYNAMOS CAN'T COME

WINNIPEG (CP) — Moscow Dynamo Football Club will be unable to accept an invitation to play a series of exhibition soccer games in Canada this year because of other commitments, it was reported Monday.



The Soviet Football Association, however, has offered to send another team, the Lokomotiv, for an early-August tour.

The Washington Senators struggled through one of their poorest seasons in many years in 1955. Several of their victories were of the 1-0, 2-1 and 3-2 variety.
Here's a situation that enabled Manager Charley Dressen to help

Dublinski Suit Breach-of-Contract Action May Affect Other Agreements

TORONTO (CP)—An American football executive said Monday the outcome of a $10,000 breach-of-contract suit involving a National Football League quarterback could seriously affect the legal status of contracts between professional teams and players in the United States.

Edwin J. Anderson, president of Detroit Lions of the NFL, testified during the first day of a civil action against Tom Dublinski, quarterback for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union.

Lions seek $10,000 in damages plus costs and an injunction restraining Dublinski from playing football for any other team until next May 1.

Dublinski, leading passer in the Big Four last year, joined Argos in 1955 after the season as second-string quarterback with Lions. The Detroit football club contends he was under contract to it when he signed with Argonauts.

ASKED WHY

Charles Dubin, Dublinski's defence counsel, asked if Lions were sought to restrain Dublinski from playing football until May.

"There's no football going on now. Are you trying to make an example of Dublinski?" he asked Mr. Anderson.

Anderson said the team has nothing personal against Dublinski. The club wanted to establish the legality in Canada of the U.S. contract.

The outcome of this case is important because if we can't prove our case our contracts won't be worth anything," Anderson said.

Professional players in the U.S. would be able to go to any team which made the best offer. Coaches wouldn't know their pre-season lineups until the player actually showed up for training.

INTRODUCED EVIDENCE

In its opening submission P.B.C. Pepper of Toronto, appearing for the Detroit team, introduced evidence that Dublinski signed a contract July 23, 1954 which extended to May 1, 1955. It was for $17,750. The contract included an option on the 26-year-old quarterback's services for the next year.

Anderson said he offered Dublinski $14,000 to stay with Detroit but he turned it down and went to Toronto for $17,500.

The Detroit executive said Lions, who finished last in its NFL division last year, made $100,000 less in 1955 without Dublinski. Lions would have won "at least three more games" with Dublinski in the lineup.

Hunter Ramsey, assistant Detroit coach, said Detroit won three and lost nine times last season.

WOULD HAVE WON

"I think if Dublinski had been there, we would have won four, at least some, if not all of those games."

"There was no doubt after the 1954 season he was No. 1, first-class quarterback," he testified.

Anderson said the team had a "tremendous investment" in Dublinski and he "began to blossom as one of the top players in the league."

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer

Junior Canadiens Defeat Chatham By 2-0 Score

NORTH BAY (CP) — Montreal junior Canadiens Monday night added another victory to their exhibition record by defeating Chatham Maroons of the Ontario senior A 3-0.

The game was the Canadiens' 57th of the season. They have lost eight and tied 10. Chatham is waiting to meet Ahtitti or Sudbury in the provincial final.

Alouettes Sign Sarnia Stars

SARNIA (CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union Saturday signed Robert Hurlock, tackle and Dave Burk, halfback, both Sarnia Imperial football squad last year, to try out contracts.

Dowsett, who alternated as half and quarterback during the 1955 season, said he signed the tryout contract but that he would play here "if Sarnia has a football team."

Hurlock, 20, a rugged tackle who played his first year in 1955 with the Imps, will report for spring training in Montreal.

Sarnia's future in the senior ONFU this year still remains uncertain. The franchise is being held by a temporary executive named to the Sarnia Football Club. It is expected a permanent executive will be established later this week.

Y Hoopsters Win Over Peterborough

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. Youth basketball team defeated the Peterborough Youth basketball team Saturday night by a 78 to 72 score. Bill Dickey led the Belleville 8, Hollingsworth 5, Clarke 5, Crocrew scoring 38 points. Russ Walmsley played a steady game, holding the team together both on defensive and offensive. High scorers for Peterborough were Vincent, Dinsdale and McCarther with 22, 17 and 14 points respectively. The return game in Belleville will be played the first week in April.

Teams:

Belleville 78 — Dickey 28, Starr 18, R. Walmsley 11, Green 4, Calnan 3, L. Parkhurst 8, R. Parkhurst 2.

Peterborough 72 — Vincent 22, Dinsdale 17, McCarther 14, Scorie 8, Hollingsworth 5, Clarke 5, Crocrew 38 points. Many Distinguished Programs On TV Shown in Past Week

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — We have just completed a week of distinguished television.

On Sunday, March 11. NBC-TV presented the American premiere of Sir Laurence Olivier's great British film, Richard III, a three-hour production which attracted many million more viewers than did everything else combined on the screen in those hours.

On Tuesday Edward R. Murrow's See It Now (CBS-TV) offered an excellent, fair-minded study of the Egyptian-Israeli crisis.

On Wednesday came The Twisted Cross on NBC-TV, a documentary of Nazi Germany.

Last Sunday Hallmark gave an excellent dramatization of Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew on NBC-TV. On the same day CBS-TV presented a searching and dramatic study of the nature of mental illness, a documentary film entitled Out of Darkness.

Not all are equally popular with the public, but holding in mind the weaknesses implicit in all TV audience ratings, a measure of the popular success of the first three is available. At this writing there are no returns on the two latest Sunday programs.

Richard III was a tremendous success, according to the Trendex returns. Murrow's study trailed in third place compared with regularly scheduled programs on either networks.

But the next evening The Twisted Cross on NBC shot far ahead of its competition, which included a couple of popular regular programs.

Why was a documentary film of Nazi Germany more popular than Murrow's commentary on the crisis in the Middle East? It was spectacular, I think. The Twisted Cross came out strongly against the sin of narzidom and dictatorship in general. The Israeli-Egyptian study was a carefully balanced analysis of a subject which had to be treated delicately on television. People always have enjoyed condemnation of a universally accepted sin.

Taken as a whole, this week should give pause to those detractors of the medium who treat it with disdainful superiority.

Merrill Back For Race Season

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Merrill Jr., leading horse trainer in North America last year, will be back on Ontario racing tracks this season. Merrill took over the training of the Maine Chance Stable of Mrs. Elizabeth Graham recently in Florida for the winter months. Merrill says he has not resigned from Ontario racing and will "be around when the 1956 season opens properly.

Race for Cubs' Outfield Jobs Tighter Than Shut Bank Vault

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Hands you work over can be adjusted to your particular style or bidding. With a sound system, however, the rules you've shown should fit every deal you run across.

Take the spread you see here:

NORTH
♠K J 7
♥ 6 4
♦J 7 5 3 2
♣K 8 6

WEST
♠10 9 8 4
♥J 10 9 8
♦ 9 8 4
♣A 10 7 5 2

EAST
♠Q 6 5
♥7 6 5 4 3 2
♦K Q
♣Q J

SOUTH
♠A Q 8 5 4 2
♥K
♦K 10 6
♣9 4 3

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 Spade	2 Diamonds
2 Hearts	4 Spades
4 No-Trump	5 Spades
6 Spades	Pass

Why is the first north response not a jump? An immediate jump takeout promises six tricks with two sure tricks among them. North counts only five tricks and has only one sure.

Why did the second north response a jump? Any second round jump does not guarantee sure tricks. It promises only tricks enough for a game. With four as trumps, north sees enough for game.

The opening bid by south promised five tricks. His second bid is not a raise and still promises no more than five tricks. If so, to see game there, north must show five tricks; as the jump promised.

With a count of seven tricks, five in the hand of partner, south knows there will be in the pair. Hence his bid of four no-trump; the convention for asking partner how many aces and kings he has.

Five spades in reply is Gordon convention for showing one ace and two kings. With one ace now known to be missing, a small slam is the limit that this pair should consider.

Opening lead from west was the jack of hearts. Given a chance to study the danger, south made the contract with a careful plan.

The plan is before you. Pick it up.

Canadiens Sign Teeps' MacDonald

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens Monday announced the signing of Alvin McDonald, 20-year-old left winger who played this season with St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A division.

McDonald, who hails from Winnipeg, joins Canadiens immediately and will be eligible for the Stanley Cup playoffs. He will be something of a surprise package left winger, in case of injuries, and will practise with the team and make the road trips in the playoffs.

McDonald, who is six feet, two inches and weighs 192 pounds, was third in scoring in the OHA Junior A League. In 48 games he had 48 goals and 44 assists, for 92 points. His 48 goals were topped only by the 51 scored by Walter Bradley of Kitchener, who is also Canadiens property.

Howie Lee Joins Barons

CLEVELAND (CP) — Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League were bolstered today by the addition of Howie Lee, 25-year-old defenceman who played this year with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

Lee wanted to join the Barons as soon as the Dutchmen returned from the Olympic Games, where they finished third in the hockey tournament, but the Ontario Hockey Association ruled he would have to stay with his club until it finished its season. Kitchener-Waterloo was knocked out of the playoffs by Chatham Maroons.

Lee is expected to play for the Barons Wednesday night when they take on Buffalo Bisons in a battle for third place.

Competition for regular outfield jobs with Chicago Cubs is tighter than a bank vault after closing time. Cubs are seeking to improve on their sixth-place finish of last season, have almost as many outfielders as some teams have pitchers.

Manager Stan Hack stated that once the outfield derby is straightened out "this team might cause some trouble in the National League."

Hank Sauer—Veteran slugged to .311 last year but can hit long ball.

Jim Klein—Batted .311 .256 for Cubs in 1955.

Gale Wade — Also fleet-footed. Batted consistently .310 for Los Angeles a year ago.

Bob Speake—Sensational until July, 1955. Broke leg. Faded to paltry .218.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL

There is talk in Eddie Miksis, tabbed for utility, as well as Ted Tappe, a first baseman in 23 games for Cubs last season.

Some of the experts are giving the nod to Sauer, Drake and Moryn.

Drake and Sauer got one hit apiece and Irvin and Moryn went hitless Wednesday as Cubs snapped Giants' three-game winning streak 5-2. Rookie third baseman Don Kaddy clouted a two-run home run for Chicago.

Cincinnati Redlegs also hoping to move into the National League's first division, banded the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers' only fourth defeat in five starts, 6-3. Redlegs scored all their runs in the sixth inning.

YANKS SPLIT

St. Louis Cards also came up with a big inning, scoring five times in the third to beat Detroit Tigers 7-4.

New York Yankees had good and bad news for their fielders. The regulars bowed to Boston Red Sox 2-0 while the "B" team nipped Pittsburgh Pirates, also 2-0.

Red Sox got four-hit pitching from Bob Porterfield, Frank Sullivan and Jerry Casale. Tommy Byrne was a wild man for Yanks, walking five and four and was charged with the loss.

In other games, Bobby Shantz sent Kansas City's stock up a bit by turning in a one-run job while three innings although Athletics bowed 5-2 to Milwaukee Braves. Rookie catcher Earl Averill homered in the seventh inning to give Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over the visiting Baltimore Orioles and Washington scored nine runs in a six-inning rally sparked by Julio Becquer's bases-loaded triple to beat Philadelphia Phillies 10-6.

At The McCarthy

"Three Coins in the Fountain" Broadway and Hollywood meet in "Three Coins in the Fountain," the Twentieth Century-Fox Cinemascope hit in new color by Delux now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, seven though the film was made in Rome and Venice. They meet on the matter of style, many of the people involved given to sharing their footlight and camera activities.

Clifton Webb, a Broadway veteran of musicals like "Three's a Crowd" and plays like "Present Laughter," has been on a straight film diet, but threatens to go back one day. Dorothy McGuire was last in New York in an adaptation of a French play, "Legend of Lovers." Louis Jourdan just completed a successful season in a drama based on the Andre Gide novel, "The Immoralist." Maggie McNamara owes her fame to the Broadway and screen versions of the comedy hit, "The Moon is Blue." Supporting players Howard St. John, Rossano Brazzi and Bibi are stage veterans. He was in "Jane" to good effect, she a favorite of the London stage as well, a staple Broadway product in "The Cocktail Party," "Gigi" and now in "Sabrina Fair."

Scripter John Patrick's latest play in the New York and London hit, "Teahouse of the August Moon," David Wayne stars in N.Y., Eli Wallach in London.

Second outstanding hit on the same program is "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing", featuring William Holden and Jennifer Jones.

Adelene de Walt Reynolds at 93 Still Performing in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Adeline deWalt Reynolds can recall as a girl seeing soldiers pass her farm en route home from the American Today, at 93, she's still performing in movies, and must certainly be the world's oldest regularly employed actress.

"People think you're supposed to fold up because you've passed the 90 mark," she says. "I don't believe in that."

She backs up her words by leading an active life. She goes to night school twice weekly to learn Spanish and also does roles in movies and TV films, her most notable one recently being The 10 Commandments.

"I was one of the children of Israel crossing the Red Sea," she recalled in her Hollywood bungalow. "They gave me a tall, weeklooking actor and said he would help me across. He was so weak I had to help him across!"

BACK TO SCHOOL AT 64

Mrs. Reynolds married a magician who "trotted off to heaven" when their four children were still young. But she managed to rear her children and send them out into the world. Then she decided to do the things she had always wanted. She enrolled at the University of California at 64 and graduated with high honors.

"Then I decided to try acting. I had always wanted to be an actress but on the stage."

"My trouble was that I was brash. So I decided to try the movies to earn enough money to go to New York."

She visited the agents in Hollywood and was "practically thrown out of their offices." Finally she found one who would handle her. She started her acting career at 77 in Come Live With Me with James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr. Mrs. Reynolds has played dozens of roles since then. Her most notable was as Barry Fitzgerald's mother in Going My Way. But her favorite was as a native woman in Tuttles of Tahiti with Charles Laughton.

She has even taken dancing lessons—because I lost a role with Gene Kelly when I didn't know how to dance."

Rotterdam—Werner Handke, 147, Germany, stopped Wim van Kleeren, 146½, Holland, 5.

Lumsdon Wants To Challenge Fuca Winner

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP) — Cliff Lumsdon, $25,000 winner of the Lake Ontario marathon swim last summer, wants to challenge pudgy Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., to a race across the Juan de Fuca strait.

The proposal was made in a letter from Gus Ryder of Toronto, coach of the 24-year-old swimming instructor.

"Lumsdon is anxious to swim out there in the straits," Ryder said in a letter, "but of course he would like to make something out of it—a match between him and Thomas for a purse."

Thomas, husky former United States marine, is the only conqueror of the 18.5 mile strait between Victoria and the Washington coast.

Beavers Win Maritime Title

AMHERST, N.B. (CP) — Saint John Beavers won the Maritime senior hockey championship Monday night by outskating and outchecking Amherst Ramblers for a 6-4 victory.

Beavers, who finished first in the Atlantic Coast Senior Hockey League schedule, won best-of-nine series 5-1 over second-place Amherst.

The Citizens'-Hockey Club, sponsors of Beavers, has decided they will enter Allan Cup play if they get sufficient financial support before the March 30 start of the opening round.

Vinegar Bend Back With Cards

By—JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— On a spring night in 1949, Wilmer Mizell graduated from high school, signed a St. Louis Cardinal farm contract and stole away from Vinegar Bend, Ala., without going home to frame his diploma.

Seven years later the strapping young man was winning 10 baseball games in the National League. After a 13-11 record in 1953, he went into the army and Eddie Stanky, then Card manager, went into deep mourning.

Now Vinegar Bend," 25, is back at St. Petersburg. The pitching poor Cardinals have greeted him with open arms.

Vinegar Bend played winter ball in Cuba, and his Havana record is written in big letters in the record books for he struck out 166 batters, best in Cuban League history. He finished with a 12-9 record.

In batting practice now, the hitters complain they can't see his fast ball, let alone hit it.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Wednesday, March 21, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Though some things seem impossible, don't hesitate to try them if they seem worthwhile. Activities "off the beaten track" could prove highly successful.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't be so sure of yourself that you miss out on opportunities to achieve by ignoring others' suggestions. No curtsies!

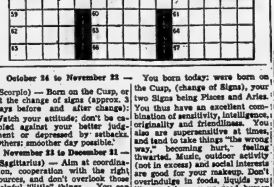
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — It's time to release one person; don't be brusque with another; show due respect for the opinions of all. And realize that a gentle, gracious attitude promotes harmony.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A smiling, confident attitude will speed you forward in a happy manner, and you can accomplish a great deal of good along the way.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Where you have a bright idea, use it to help someone to step upward or onward. Your generosity will be repaid one-hundred-fold. Today is a boon to the giver.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Don't shy at the unfamiliar. Many achievements can be made today, steps taken which may not have been taken before. But, as per usual, don't be oversure.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — It is not for anyone to say whether he will or won't cooperate, when cooperation is the one sure way to good results. Follow duty, as Librans innately do, even when living true to their better selves.



October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Born on the Cusp, or at the change of signs (approx. 3 days before and after change). Watch your attitude; don't be cajoled against your better judgment or depressed by setbacks. Others: smoother day possible.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Aim at coordination, cooperation with the right sources, and don't overlook those helpful "little" things. You can make this day a big one if you try.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Stop to take stock; are you getting too critical as you grow older — no matter your present age? Every day we pick up a new habit or strengthen an old one. Better double-check now.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Don't let domestic problems (and we all have them) become hazards to your business or worry you into making errors. Some people are bound to irritate you; ignore them.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Give and take but do not "take" too much — if it is oppressive or from dictatorial sources. You can make a stride forward in some special way now.

Little Benny's Notebook

The mailman came while we were eating breakfast, and ma said, "Here's a letter from Uncle Sylvester." I was trying to pop, I know who this is from, sad to relate, I know her stationery and her writing, I call it by the posimark. It's a letter from Flossie Filbert to tell me that she and Bertie are planning a trip to town. They only get here about every 3 years or so.

So do the flu epidemicks, pop said. Well, I will have to have them for dinner one evening, he said, and ma said, I'm afrid so, what will we do with them.

Nuthing. we're cornered, pop said. Mine is the only normal kid in a social sense, and this is what comes of it. The last time we had them there I was never sure the whole evening whether he was asleep or awake. The only sounds that came out of him were grunts, and his eyes were closed the whole time, he said, and ma said, well, Flossie was diffrent, I'll say that for her. She babbled and carried on the subject of canasta without a pause or a break, and the more I reminded her that I dont play the game, the more she carried on about it like a living brook. But as you say, William, we cant shut them out from our friends, even if we wish we had never met them, she said.

And the specifications to be obtained at the City Engineer's Office, Belleville. Quote per square yard to be submitted with tender.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Acting City Clerk.

START PRIVATE TALKS

MONTREAL (CP) — A federal conciliation board will start private discussions Friday in an attempt to effect settlement between five railways and 150,000 of their employees on a 24-hour basis. The three-man board, which began closed sessions Jan. 30, Thursday heard the last formal submissions from the railways and the 16 non-operating unions, locked in a collective agreements dispute.

WILL BOOST AID

NEW DELHI (AP) — Informed sources today said the United States, in a move to counter the Soviet economic offensive and boost American relations with India, has decided to increase aid to India "substantially." The sources said that the state department probably will give India a record $70,000,000 to $75,000,000 for economic development during the 1956-7 fiscal year. This would be about 50 per cent higher than the allocation this year.

STRIKERS DANCE TO KEEP WARM

On strike and threatening to stage a foodless sit-down on the premises of the Mail Tool company, employees dance on the company factory floor to keep warm. The strike began when 24 persons were fired as soon as a union organization drive was started in the Etobkinke, Ont., plant. Owner A. Mail of Chicago personally fired all the strikers and ordered them from the premises then cut off all the electric power for the machines.

PICTON

Family Forced To Flee Home Due to Blaze

PICTON.—Cpl. and Mrs. Ted Williams and their children, Dora 5, and Tommy 2, were forced to flee from their home in the early hours, Sunday morning as flames swept through the dwelling on Mill Street. Starting near the kitchen stove, the fire ignited a three-gallon can of oil used in connection with the cook stove and the interior was quickly a mass of flames and smoke.

The fact that they had friends visit them until one o'clock is credited by Mr. and Mrs. Williams with saving their lives. Otherwise they would have been in bed and asleep.

Noticing the outbreak was beyond control, the couple ran for the children asleep in bed. Mrs. Williams grasped Dora and carried her outside. As it was Icy, Mr. Williams assisted her down the steps. They then noticed that Tommy was not with them. Unable to re-enter by the door, Mr. Williams smashed a window with his fists and crawled into the fire and smoke-filled house. Tommy answered his call and he was able to locate the lad and carry him to safety through the window. The boy suffered scorched ears and singed hair.

Picton fire department was called. Nearby buildings were not seriously endangered. An old drum outside the house was removed. No insurance was carried.

Cpl. Williams is a cook with the RCASC at Picton camp. Mrs. Williams was formerly Dora Beasley. They are at present staying with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Beasley.

The Salvation Army, Picton Camp and friends are aiding the stricken family.

Vimy Signals Oust Flyers; Meet Napanee

Kingston Vimy Signals advanced into the next round of the OHA Intermediate "C" playdowns last night by trimming Trenton RCAF Flyers 8-3 in Kingston. The victory gave Vimy the best-of-seven series, with the first game scheduled for Napanee tonight. The second game is also in Napanee on Thursday evening and the third in Kingston, either Friday or Saturday night, depending on the outcome of the Cornwall-Kingston Senior "B" series.

Napanee have defeated Wellington, Frankford and Marmora in this district to qualify for further OHA playdown competition. RCAF is the only team Vimy have met to date. They won the first two games of the series but lost the next pair before taking two more to capture the series.

$150,000 DAMAGE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A roaring, three-alarm fire destroyed a 2½-story building in suburban Kenmore early Monday, causing damage estimated at $150,000. The Brown auto sales and Brown appliance store and two apartments were in the frame-and-brick building. Two firemen were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation, but residents of the apartments were away at the time of the fire.

Spring Training Notes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There may not be a Ted Williams or a Robin Roberts among the freshman ballplayers currently showing their wares in exhibition games.

But from the likes of Pat Scantlebury, Jack Taylor, Jim Piscel, Ken Esposito, Norm Siebern, Bob McKee, Floyd Ross and Bob Tettlebach is liable to come the lading candidates for this year's rookie-of-the-year citations.

Scantlebury, a lefthander who won 13 games and lost 9 for Havana in 1955, gave up Jim Piscel, in five innings and Taylor, 17-11 for High Point-Thomasville of the Carolina League, yielded two in four frames Monday in pitching the Cincinnati Redlegs to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Taylor allowed both runs, which came on Dale Long's seventh inning homer.

Piscel, the Texas League's leader in runs batted in last year with 118, slammed two home runs, a double and a single to lead the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-6 triumph over the New York Giants.

BREAKS UP GAME

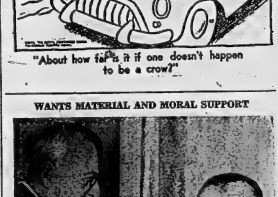
Esposito, former baseball and basketball star for Indiana University, slapped a score Jim Rivers and give the Chicago White Sox a 14-13 decision over the Kansas City A's. This game was a weird one as the A's rallied for eight runs in the ninth to tie the game only to have Esposito spoil the comeback. Sam played third base for Memphis in '55 and batted .281.

A returning serviceman, Siebern continued to impress New York baseball manager Casey Stengel. He hit one of the Yanks' three home runs as the American League champions clobbered the Milwaukee Braves 11-1. Joe Collins and Bill Skowron got the others.

McKee, a second baseman for Des Moines were he hit .278 with 14 home runs, landed one of four Cubs' homers as the Cleveland Indians went down to their first defeat in eight games 9-5. Frank Keller, Monte Irvin and Ernie Banks also found the range for Chicago.

Ross, a lefty who was 10-13 for Chattanooga, worked four scoreless innings for the Philadelphia Phillies as they edged the St. Louis Cards 4-3. Jim Westlake and Marv Balylock homered for the winners, while Stan Musial hit for Kenny Boys connected for the Cards.

LEADS SENATORS



Tettlebach, acquired from the Yankees in the Mickey McDermott deal this winter, got two singles and a double in leading the Washington Senators to an 8-6 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Tettlebach, an outfielder, hit .309 and had 95 runs batted in for Denover last season.

Dick Williams, up from Fort Worth where he hit .317, slammed a three-run homer for the Brooklyn Doggers as they downed the Detroit Tigers 13-10.

"About how far is it if one doesn't happen to be a crow?"

WANTS MATERIAL AND MORAL SUPPORT

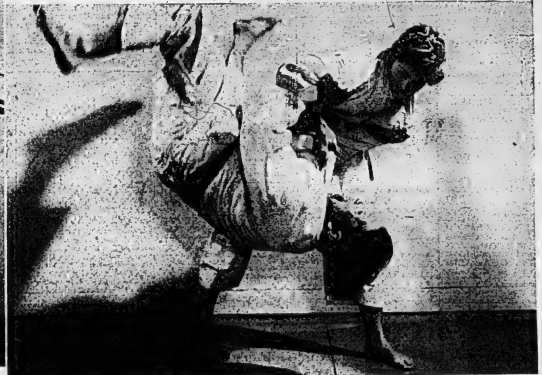
Judo = Self-defence with Ceremony

Judo, the ancient Japanese art of self-defence without weapons, has become a modern-day sport that today finds a wide following throughout the world. In clubs in Australia, Britain, France, Canada and even remote Afghanistan, the white-garbed members practice the art of turning an adversary's strength against himself. (Top photo) In Toronto's Hatashita Club, judo classes are attended by over 200 members. Sport has large following among younger element. Here (lower left) two six-year-olds observe pre-combat ritual under watchful gaze of instructor Frank Hatashita. (Lower right) Demonstrating tactics against an armed attacker, Marie Demers, of Windsor, uses armlock to disarm opponent.



National Film Board Photos by Chris Lund

In familiar, pyjama-like judo garb, students Patsy Hatashita and Edward McDermott are typical of many youngsters attracted by the sport. Belts signify degree of proficiency in sport; classifications range from the novice's green belt (worn by these youngsters) to the coveted black belt, judo's highest rating.

O-Uchi, a double back hook, is used by Patsy Hatashita to throw her father. Judo is streamlined version of ancient Japanese jujitsu, with lethal aspects of throws removed. In higher classifications, a member's social conduct is carefully scrutinized by governing body in Japan before being awarded the black belt rating.

Largest judo club in Canada, Toronto's Hatashita Club was formed in 1947 by Vancouver-born Frank Hatashita, who is himself a four-time Canadian black belt champion. Today the club has over 200 members, ranging from grade-school students and stenographers to doctors, lawyers and college professors. Says Hatashita: "Judo is as much a state of mind as a technical accomplishment." Hypnotism is sometimes used in advanced stages of the sport, and the "ke-ai-i", or yell, is used to release energy-giving adrenalin and to unnerve the opponent. Judo is popular among young women, with more than 20 girls enrolled for classes at this club.

Fires in Montreal Area Cause More Than $4 Million Loss

MONTREAL (CP) — Fire struck three times in the Montreal area Monday, causing damage estimated at more than $4,000,000 to an airplane hangar, a nursing home and a prison building.

There were no injuries in any of the fires.

A blaze which was discovered about 2:30 p.m. EST destroyed a section of the federal penitentiary in St. Vincent-de-Paul, about 10 miles north of Montreal, half an hour after the prisoners had been returned to their cells for the night.

The fire broke out in a room where prisoners change clothes and was brought under control at 7 p.m., after the two-storey stone building had been gutted. The roof of the building collapsed at the height of the blaze, damaging some heavy laundry machinery stored inside.

NO PRISONERS NEAR FIRE

There are 1,300 prisoners in the penitentiary but none was near the scene of the fire. Another 225 youths are confined in the federal training centre, located outside the stout wall.

Arthur Julien, secretary of the penitentiary, said he could not estimate damage but "it was not extensive." He said the building which is separated by about 50 feet from one of the main sections of the prison was to have been demolished "in a year or two, anyway, because it was very old."

Mr. Julien declined to comment on the possibility that the fire had been deliberately set.

"That's up to a federal investigating committee to determine," he said. "However, all prisoners had been returned to their cells a half hour before the fire was spotted."

HANGAR DESTROYED

Monday morning a spectacular fire destroyed the RCAF's giant No. 6 hangar at Montreal airport at Dorval. Damage was estimated at more than $3,000,000.

Two aircraft were also destroyed and 40 automobiles parked nearby were either destroyed or badly damaged and two adjacent RCAF office buildings were wiped out.

Five planes were towed or pushed to safety by RCAF men working frantically against time as brisk winds fanned 100 - foot flames.

Firemen from Montreal, Dorval, Lachine and Pointe Claire joined the airport brigade in preventing the flames from spreading, although Trans - Canada Air Lines' main hangar, where maintenance work is done on Super-Constellations, was damaged on one side and on the roof.

The planes destroyed were a four-engine North Star and C-119 Flying Box Car.

Air Transport Command said no major interruption to work of the transport units is anticipated.

EVACUATE HOME

Two hours earlier, firemen were called to a nursing home in suburban Cartierville. Twenty elderly women were safely evacuated by police before flames swept the home. One woman, a kitchen employee, suffered burns.

The women were taken to St. Mary's Hospital where some had to be treated for shock.

Forces Clash On Punjab Border, Soldier Killed

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian and Pakistani forces clashed Tuesday night on the Punjab border and were still exchanging heavy fire Monday morning, the chief Indian Punjab minister announced Monday.

The firing was reported to have ceased about noon Monday, after one Indian soldier had been killed and 12 hurt. Official sources here said Monday night the Indian government had protested to Pakistan, alleging that the Pakistanis had made an unprovoked attack and that the Indians had fired only in self-defence.

Jin Karachi, Prime Minister Chaudhri Mohamad Ali told Parliament that 10 Pakistanis were killed and 18 hurt when Indian troops fired on a Pakistani border outpost during the night).

SKINNED HER KNEES

Blizzard-Beaten U.S. Digging Out After Two Gales

NEW YORK (AP)—The blizzard-battered northeastern United States fought today to dig out from under a crippling mass of snow on the first day of spring.

A blizzard born in West Virginia Sunday whistled up the New England coast early today. It was expected to end in Maine before noon.

The storm followed in the tracks of another which had swept the same area Friday night. The double assault was blamed for at least 135 deaths in 14 states—most in traffic accidents or from over-exertion.

Up to 20 inches of new snow tumbled down on parts of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut during the winter's last weekend. New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine had less than 10 inches.

Thousands of commuters were stranded, whole communities were isolated and coastal lowlands flooded by high tides. Drifting snow and stalled automobiles blocked roads throughout southern New England.

Rail transportation in New England was limited, and much bus service was at a standstill, but public transportation in the New York area was improving. New York airports hoped for normal operations today.

New Jersey's rural counties and eastern Long Island were still buried this morning under huge drifts. A state of emergency was declared in some communities. A country-like quiet settled over the snow-choked streets of New York.

In Massachusetts, Cape Cod suffered the hard force of both storms. More than 100 persons were evacuated at Barnstable because of high tides. The islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket were cut off from transportation to the mainland.

SERVICE CANCELLED

Stranded commuters and other travellers bedded down in hotel rooms in many cities rather than fight through drift-blocked suburban roads.

A state of emergency was declared in New York's Suffolk county, where drifts up to 14 feet deep cut off the eastern tip of Long Island. Several communities by this morning had gone without food or fuel deliveries for nearly 48 hours.

New York City schools were closed again today. Many schools also shut their doors in other states.

The 13.5-inch snowfall in the New York City area on Sunday and Monday was the heaviest since Dec. 19, 1948, when the city had a fall of 16.5 inches. The all-time record was 25.8 inches on Dec. 26-27, 1947.

LOSS IS $60,000

BOMBED EMBASSY

OSLO (Reuters) — Four Norwegian boys, aged 18 and 19, were found guilty Thursday of exploding a home-made bomb in the garden of the Russian embassy in Oslo last November. Their ringleader was sentenced by the Oslo court to a reform school for an indefinite period. One boy was sentenced to 90 days imprisonment, and the other two to 30 days imprisonment each but were released on probation. The boys said they did it "for the thrill of it."

UNVEIL NEW PLANE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The United States Air Force today took the wraps off a new version of the Northrop Scorpion known as the F-89H. It is the first operational plane to be equipped with the new Falcon air-to-air guided missile. The new all-weather interceptor, which will be assigned to continental air defence command, also is equipped with air-to-air folding fin rockets. Missiles and rockets are carried and fired from wing-tip pods.

Three Killed In CNR Crossing Crash

Stewart Lasher, Daughter Brenda, Brother Karl Die

Diesel Plows Broadside Into Car on 2nd of Sidney

An unemployed father of two small children, his 17-year-old brother and five-year-old daughter were killed late Tuesday afternoon in a level crossing accident on the second concession of Sidney township two miles west of the city.

Dead are Stewart Lasher, 27, of Centenary, his daughter Brenda, and younger brother, Karl Lasher, R.R. 1 Ameliasburg township, who was visiting at his brother's home for the day.

All three persons were thrown from their car as it was struck broadside by a westbound diesel engine travelling deadhead out of Belleville. The little girl was believed to have died instantly, Karl Lasher died on arrival at Belleville General Hospital, while the father died two hours after the accident.

Mr. Lasher leaves his wife and a daughter Patricia, aged two-and-a-half, both of whom were home at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Lasher said that her husband with his brother and daughter Brenda had left home about three o'clock to go to Belleville and apparently were on their way home when the accident occurred. The tragedy occurred within a mile of the Lasher home, which is along the new 401 highway right of way.

The second concession of Sidney runs parallel with the C.N.R. double track, then makes a right angle turn across the railway. Lasher apparently had made the turn across the track without seeing the diesel engine coming up behind him.

MOVED INTO NORTH DITCH

The car was caught broadside and was shoved 75 feet down the track and came to rest in the north ditch facing south. The 1037 model car was completely wrecked.

All three occupants of the car were thrown clear. Mr. Lasher was found in the ditch behind one of the car seats, which had been thrown clear. The little girl was found west of the wrecked car, while Karl Lasher was thrown across the ditch against a wire fence.

Engineer of the diesel was Lambert Daugherty, 189 Dundas Street, Belleville, and the fireman was George McGhee, 110-A Donald Street.

The engineer of the diesel ran to the nearby home of Lawrence Hubble, where he called for an ambulance and police.

Mr. Hubble returned to the accident scene with the engineer and assisted the ambulance men.

"All three occupants of the car were thrown out and were found lying in the ditch and against the fence," Mr. Hubble said. "I'm almost certain the little girl was dead, but Mr. Lasher still had a pulse."

Just as the three accident victims were placed in the ambulance Ned Lasher, brother of the two male accident victims, happened on the scene. He thought the car looked familiar, then went to the ambulance and cried "why, that's my brother."

He followed the ambulance back to the hospital.

The Lasher family had lived in the Centenary neighborhood for the past year and a half, and were living in the former Fred Radford house which was moved when the 401 highway was cut through.

Although arrangements had still not been completed this morning, it was believed that a joint funeral would be held for the three accident victims.

Mr. Eldon Lasher, of Ameliasburg, father of the two dead men said "they would go that way."

Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott said that an inquest would be held. The accident was investigated by Provincial Police Constable John Fullerton.

Residents in the neighborhood said the last fatal accident at the crossing was about 18 years ago when a man driving a truck was killed.

BORN AT NEWBURGH

Stewart Nelson James Lasher was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lasher and was born at Newburgh, 27 years ago. Massey's on the Cold, Cold Ground After Stormy Flight in Far North

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RESOLUTE BAY, Baffin Island (CP) — Governor-General Massey flew into this Arctic base in a blizzard Tuesday night and Old Man Weather gave him a disputed passage in this northland tour.

The sudden blizzard that lowered visibility sharply at this base, on the southern end of Baffin Island near Hudson strait, was in marked contrast to the warmth of the welcome that the governor-general met in the first day of his flight which will take him across the roof of Canada.

Wing Cmdr. W. G. Miller, pilot of the four-engine North Star viceregal plane, knew no chances and made two approaches to the field after his preliminary run before landing more than 15 minutes late.

Several hundred white folk and Eskimos waited anxiously in the drifting snow and temperatures of 16 degrees "above zero for the plane to land in safety.

Mr. Massey arrived here after a 1,200-mile flight from Ottawa, with a stopover at Great Whale River on Hudson bay, featuring by their colorful northland costumes, gazed upon the vice-regal party with wide eyes.

Great Whale river is some 700 miles north of Ottawa on the eastern shore of Hudson bay.

At a reception in Great Whale River, Mr. Massey was presented with a ring, fashioned from a walrus tusk, by Simeonie Kopapik, an Eskimo chief from Fort Harrison. In a brief speech in his own language, Solomon told the governor-general that his people thought of him as "a friend" and "coming to see us."

Visibly touched, Mr. Massey said Canadians "of many racial origins are working together as a team in the northland. This makes me very proud."

Speaking in English and French, his words were interpreted into Eskimo and Cree by Charlie Tulugarjuk, 26-year-old native truck driver.

"Intervals."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: Cooler air moved into northern Ontario Tuesday and is expected to move southeastward to threaten southern sections Wednesday afternoon. This will bring to an end, in northern Ontario, the current mild spell which is favoring the province. A few showers are being forecast in advance of the cooler air, and some snowflurries can be expected over northern sections on its passage.

CCF OPPOSES CHANGE OF NAME OF LOAN COMPANY

Says Word Beneficial Is 'Deceptive'

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF spoke to block an attempt by Personal Finance Company to obtain Parliament's permission to change its name to Beneficial Finance Company.

"I object to using a name which is as deceptive as the name which the company seeks to use," said CCF leader Coldwell Tuesday.

He moved that a bill to bring about the name-change be given a six-month's-hoist—technical device to kill it for this session.

Mr. Coldwell spoke in the Commons with other CCF members in opposition to the principle of the bill, sponsored by J. Eugene Lefranois (L—Laurier).

He suggested this name for such companies:

"The Predatory Loan Companies, for such indeed they are."

Debate on second reading of the bill was adjourned.

Earlier, the Commons heard criticism of the government's farm loans-board by Liberals as well as opposition members in debate on second reading—approval in principle—of government-proposed amendments to the Canadian Farm Loans Act.

The amendments would boost the maximum first mortgage loan to $15,000 from $10,000 and increase the base on which loans are made to 85 per cent of a farm's assessed value instead of 60.

Henry Hamp (L — Qu'Appelle) said the loan base should be raised to 75 per cent of the land's value. Te supported similar views expressed by Gage W. Montgomery, Saskatoon (CCF); H. A. Olson (CCF—Hornbold-Melfort) and L. Eleaze Cardiff (PC—Horn).

Colin E. Bennett (L — Grey North), parliamentary assistant to Veterans Minister Lapointe, Quebec) J. M. Forgie (L—Renfrew North) urged steps to speed processing of loans by the board.

Hayden Stanton (PC — Leeds) said the maximum loan should be raised to $20,000 in view of the high cost of farming.

E. G. Huffman (L—Kent, Ont.) said there always is power-packing applications for loans, mainly due to restrictive regulations which sometimes are not followed, suggested that the regulations be liberalized.

H. A. Hosking (L — Wellington South) said the farm loans board's function is to help people who is accessible and hard to find, especially to farmers from remote areas. He suggested Guelph, in his constituency, would be a more central location for the regional board office.

Time Bomb Found in Bedroom Of Governor Sir John Harding

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A time bomb was found this morning in the bedroom of governor Sir John Harding. It was announced.

The bomb was removed and later detonated harmlessly.

An official statement said that the time bomb was found during troops.

Kefauver Defeats Stevenson In Upset in Minnesota Vote

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — Minnesota's primary election has provided political fireworks—an upset of Adlai Stevenson by Senator Estes Kefauver in a "popularity poll" which could influence the Democratic party's choice of a presidential candidate.

The Tennessee senator swept the Minnesota vote Tuesday, though Stevenson ran with the endorsement of the party state central committee and the active assistance of Senator Hubert Humphrey and Governor Orville Freeman.

Kefauver led Stevenson 202,481 to 137,441 on returns from 2,240 of 3,868 polls. This gave Kefauver 56 per cent and Stevenson 44 per cent of the total.

Before the election, Kefauver said he would be pleased with 30 per cent of the vote, but expected to get more.

Mrs. Clara Shirpser, vice-chairman of his national campaign "for the nomination, described Kefauver's victory as an astounding political phenomenon. Combined with his New Hampshire sweep, she said, it "shows that the senator's strength is national, not sectional."

In Los Angeles, F. Joseph Donohue, Kefauver's national campaign manager, said: "I think the inescapable conclusion is that Senator Kefauver is the only candidate who can successfully run against and beat President Eisenhower. If the Democratic bosses don't realize by now that they need Kefauver, they're going to be out of business."

Stevenson won only one district in Minneapolis—and this morning held narrow leads in only two others.

Indian and Pakistani Forces Are Locked in Border Battle

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Firing was still going on today in a border clash between Indian and Pakistani forces which began late Tuesday night at Wagah, near Amritsar in India.

Late reports said firing was continuing along a 10-mile front. The Indian news agency PTI reported that a meeting between the Indian and Pakistani police commanders had been arranged for today.

It is the fifth border clash between the two countries in 12 days.

Prime Minister Nehru said here today that the incidents happened because of "trigger-happy people." He intervened during question hour in Parliament when a member asked if Pakistan had a co-ordinated plan in the border incidents, pact.

replying: "So far as we know there is no co-ordinated plan. These happenings usually are trigger-happy people at the border."

The Indian news agency said the clash which started when Pakistani police "trespassed into Indian territory at Naushehra Dhali, about 20 miles from Amritsar, and opened fire on an Indian patrol."

The agency said it was believed in Amritsar that the Pakistanis were trying to take possession of a strip of land which it had been agreed in 1947 belonged to India.

It added that Indian police believed the automatic weapons used by the Pakistanis included some imported from the United States under the American military aid pact.

'SILK STOCKING' BANDITS RAID LICENCE OFFICE

Bind Night Watchman, Steal $12,000 in Cash

TORONTO (CP)—Three bandits masked in silk stockings and armed with a revolver, a weapon and night-watchman in adhesive tape early today, attacked and bound open a safe and escaped with $12,000 in cash, mostly from the sale of vehicle and drivers' licences.

The robbery occurred at the W. A. McDowall, Ltd., automobile company's offices on Bloor street west, where most of the money had been collected during a hurriedly-organized registration rush Tuesday—deadline for final use of 1957 markers and permits.

The bandits wore nylon stockings over their heads and the third a black mask. They cut through a screen door to the office and smashed a rear window to enter.

They tied night watchman Alfred Zentsch, 55, bound his legs and arms with rope and covered his mouth and eyes with adhesive tape.

Police said they think at least one of the men is familiar with the plant.

Then the watchman pleaded: "Don't shoot me, I have a wife and family," one man growled: "You haven't got any family."

The watchman is married but has no children.

FORCE SAFE OPEN

While the armed man guarded Mr. Zentsch in a downstairs room, the other two forced a safe into a closed office and forced it open with a screwdriver.

Most of the money was in small denominations.

Mr. Zentsch wriggled loose an hour after the men left and called the plant superintendent.

Mr. Zentsch first saw the men as he was cleaning out an office.

"I thought it was a joke when one of them said 'Hello' but then they jabbed a gun in my side and tied me up.

"When they left one of them told me in German to keep quiet for 20 minutes."

About $1,500 of the stolen money belonged to the company.

Northeast U.S. Has Cold Spell

NEW YORK (AP)—The snow-covered northeast United States busy digging out from the costly and blustery storms of the weekend, was hit by a cold wave today.

Frigid air extended over New England.

Temperatures were near or below freezing in the Carolinas and Georgia, and in the 40s in Florida.

No precipitation was forecast immediately for the area from Ohio to Maine struck by the late winter season's worst snow storms. The death toll was set at 166, while insurance losses in 38 states, individuals and property was hundreds of millions of dollars. In New York City, business loss alone was estimated at $150,000,000, and the cost of removing the tons of snow was put at $2,500,000.

Special-Use Goods Freed From Sales Tax By Minister

Harris Sees $113,000,000 Surplus from High Revenue

Finance Minister Harris' Tuesday night snipped a mere $12,000,000 from government income sources in a budget which will collect anticipated record-breaking revenues from a booming economy.

The snipping is done by freeing a scattering of special-use goods from the 10-per-cent sales tax.

Mr. Harris offered no change in the existing levy on personal and corporation income tax and sales tax and estimated a peak national production of $28,000,000,000 will yield a $113,000,000 surplus and unprecedented revenue of $4,763,000,000 in the fiscal year starting April 1. Budget spending would total a peacetime high of $4,650,000,000.

MAGAZINE TAX

The minister's budget...speech to the Commons also contained a stiff new excise tax on one type of foreign periodical to help protect Canadian magazines whose longterm future, he said, "appears to be in jeopardy" from foreign publications.

J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative financial critic, uttered the first Commons comment on the budget: It meant there would be no election this year. He also said a heralded thrift campaign by Mr. Harris has not materialized.

FORECAST DEFICIT

Only a year ago the 32-year-old Mr. Harris, in his first budget, lopped $100,000,000 from high rates in personal and corporation income taxes—in the fiscal year ending March 31. He then forecast a deficit of $160,000,000 now expected to be $31,700,000.

Only reductions of any substance in his new budget are in the exemption of gold and in the manufacturer's level for about 20 types of goods, ranging from use in manufacturing, agriculture and construction. The exemptions are effective immediately.

The exemptions account for the $12,000,000 reduction. Various minor other taxes changes won't affect revenue appreciably.

Mr. Harris's estimated goods were exempted from the sales tax, also unchanged, include levies on such goods as automobiles, radios, beer, liquors, cigarets, tobacco, soft drinks and candy.

PRUDENT RESERVE

On the over-all picture, Mr. Harris said the forecast surplus is not much more than a prudent reserve against unforeseen circumstances.

The revenue and expenditure forecasts do not take into account the $40 monthly universal old age pensions to those over 70, paid from a fund financed by special income and sales taxes that is in the coming year the special tax revenues are expected to total

Oscar Night in Movie Capital Will Be Tinged With Sadness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tonight is Oscar night in the movie capital, and for the first time this tiresomely gay celebration will be tinged with a little sadness.

Never before in the 30-year history of the academy awards has a dead man been one of the favorites. Then too, it is expected to be the last Hollywood appearances of Grace Kelly, a movie queen soon to become a real princess.

Many in Hollywood feel that if the late James Dean doesn't win the top acting award, the academy should give him a special oscar. The brilliant young actor, nominated for "East of Eden," was killed last September in a car crash.

Dean could well win. He's the choice of many, including Frank Sinatra, who nominated himself for "Man With the Golden Arm."

But Hollywood is a practical town. Most of the voters want to see an Oscar go to someone who has had some good out of it. That makes Ernest (Marty) Borgnine the favorite.

Among the girls, it's a down-to-the-final-gun race between Italy's Anna Magnani and Brooklyn's Susan Hayward: Miss Magnani, one of the world's great actresses, scored in "Rose Tattoo."

Miss Hayward, in the character role of "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

Woman Becomes Mother 2 Hours After She Died

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Margaret Carter, 34, became a mother Tuesday nearly two hours after she died from a fall in the street.

An event boy, due to be born in June, was taken from Mrs. Carter's body in Nottingham General Hospital—but four hours later the baby lost a battle for his life despite efforts of surgeons to save him.

The rare post-mortem Caesarian operation can only be performed when the life-lung between the mother's death and delivery does not too great to deprive the child of the necessary oxygen.

Mrs. Carter slipped while getting off a bus. She died of a fractured skull in an ambulance.

Driver Surrenders After Woman Dies

TORONTO (CP) — William Dibirch, 22, of suburban York Tuesday gave himself up to police following an accident Monday night in which a 72-year-old woman was killed.

Dibirch was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of Mrs. Alberta Clark. He was released on $500 bail to remain at the scene of an accident.

$336,000,000 and payments $779,500,—000 in the first quarter of 1958. Harris said he sees no chance of getting the eventual total below his budget forecasts.

In the year ending March 31, 1957, gasoline taxes such as expected $4,437,100,000 and indicated revenues will be $4,765,400,000—— an increase in peacetime to the 1953-54 total of $4,356,300,000.

Three Killed In CNR Crossing Crash

Stewart Lasher, Daughter Brenda, Brother Karl Die

Diesel Plows Broadside Into Car on 2nd of Sidney

An unemployed father of two small children, his 17-year-old brother and five-year-old daughter were killed late Tuesday afternoon in a level crossing accident on the second concession of Sidney township two miles west of the city.

Dead are Stewart Lasher, 27, of Centenary, his daughter Brenda, and younger brother, Karl Lasher, R.R. 1 Amelisburg township, who was visiting at his brother's home for the day.

All three persons were thrown from their car as it was struck broadside by a westbound diesel engine travelling deadhead east of Belleville. The little girl was believed to have died instantly, Karl Lasher died on arrival at Belleville General Hospital, while the father died two hours after the accident.

Mr. Lasher leaves his wife and a daughter Patricia, aged two-and-a-half, both of whom were home at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Lasher said that her husband with his brother and daughter Brenda had left home about three o'clock to go to Belleville and apparently were on their way home when the accident occurred. The tragedy occurred within a mile of the Lasher home, which is along the new 401 highway right of way.

The second concession of Sidney runs parallel with the C.N.R. double track, then makes a sharp single turn across the railway. Lasher apparently had made the turn across the track without seeing the diesel engine coming up behind him.

MOVED INTO NORTH DITCH

The car was caught broadside and was shoved 75 feet down the track and came to rest in the north ditch facing south. The 1937 model car was completely wrecked.

All three occupants of the car were thrown clear. Mr. Lasher was found in the ditch beside one of the car seats, which had been thrown clear. The little girl was found west of the wrecked car, while Karl Lasher was thrown over the ditch against a wire fence.

Engineer of the diesel was Lambert Doe, Daughters, 168 Dundas Street, Belleville, and the fireman was George Mellon, 110-A Donald Street.

The engineer of the diesel ran to the nearest home of Lawrence Hubble, where he called for an ambulance and police.

Mr. Hubble returned to the accident scene with the engineer and assisted Bush's deadhead crewmen.

"All three occupants of the car were thrown out and were found lying in the ditch and against the fence," Mr. Hubble said. "In almost certain the little girl was dead, but Mr. Lasher still had a pulse."

Just as the three accident victims were placed in the ambulance Ned Lasher, brother of the two main accident victims, happened on the scene. He thought the car looked familiar, then went to the ambulance and cried "why, that's my brother."

He followed the ambulance back to the hospital.

The Lasher family had lived in the Centenary neighborhood for the past year and a half, and were living in the former Fred Radford house which was moved when the 401 highway was cut through.

Although arrangements had still not been completed this morning, it was believed that a joint funeral would be held for the three accident victims.

Mr. Eldon Lasher, of Amelisburg, father of the two dead men said "they would want it that way."

Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott said that an inquest would be held. The accident was investigated by Provincial Police Constable John Fullerton.

Residents in the neighborhood said the last fatal accident at the crossing was about 19 years ago when a man driving a truck was killed.

BORN AT NEWBURGH

Stewart Nelson James Lasher was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lasher and was born at Newburgh, 27 years ago. He is survived by his wife, the former Alsdon Brant and one daughter, Patricia, age 2 1-2 years; four brothers, William and Fred both Belleville, and Keith and Lorne of Amelisburg, and three sisters, Mrs. Arthur (Dorothy) Coulton, Amelisburg; Mrs. Evan (Jean) Chafe, Belleville, and Miss Mary Lasher at home.

Brenda Leona Lasher is survived by her mother, one sister, Patricia, and her grandparents.

Karl Lasher was also born at Newburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Lasher and is survived by his parents,, four brothers and three sisters.

'SILK STOCKING' BANDITS RAID LICENCE OFFICE

Bind Night Watchman, Steal $12,000 in Cash

TORONTO (CP)—Three bandits masked in silk stockings and armed with a revolver, swathed a night watchman in adhesive tape early today, smashed open a safe and escaped with $12,000 in cash, mostly from the sale of vehicle and drivers' licences.

The robbery occurred at the W. A. McDowall, Ltd., automobile company's offices on Bloor street west, where most of the money had been collected during a last-minute registration rush Tuesday—deadline for first use of 1956 markers and permits.

Two bandits wore nylon stockings over their heads and the third a black mask. They cut through a heavy wire fence and smashed a rear window to enter.

The night watchman Alfred Zentsch, 55, bound his legs and arms with rope and covered his eyes and ears with adhesive tape.

Police said they think at least one of the gang is familiar with the plant.

Then the watchman pleaded: "Don't shoot me—think of my wife and family," one man growled: "We haven't got any family."

The watchman is married but has no children.

FORCE SAFE OPEN

While the armed man guarded Mr. Zentsch in a downstairs office, the other two dragged a safe into a closed office and forced it open with a sledge-hammer.

Most of the money was in small denominations.

Mr. Zentsch wriggled loose an hour after the men left and called the police superintendent.

Mr. Zentsch first saw the men as he was cleaning out an office.

"I thought it was a joke when one of them said 'Hello' but then they jabbed a gun in my ribs and tied me up.

About $1,500 of the stolen money belonged to the company.

Northeast U.S. Has Cold Spell

NEW YORK (AP)—The snow-bound northeastern United States busy digging out from the costly and blustery storm of the week-end, was hit by unseasonable cold today.

Frigid air extended over New England.

Temperatures were near or below freezing in the Carolinas and Georgia, and in the 40s in Florida.

No precipitation was reported immediately for the area from Ohio to Maine struck by the late winter season's worst snow storms. The death toll was set at 21 by New York City, business loss alone was estimated at $150,000,000, the cost of removing the tons of snow was put at $2,500,000.

Oscar Night in Movie Capital Will Be Tinged With Sadness

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tonight is Oscar night in the movie capital, and for the first time this traditionally gay celebration will be tinged with a little sadness.

Never before in the 28-year history of the academy awards has a star of the calibre of Clark Gable died.

Then too, it is expected to be the last Hollywood appearance of Grace Kelly, a movie queen soon to become a real princess.

Many in Hollywood feel that if the late James Dean doesn't win the the top acting award, the academy should give him a special oscar. The brilliant young actor, nominated for two awards, died last year when he was killed last September in a car crash.

Dean could well win. He's the choice of many, including Frank Sinatra, nominated himself for "Man With the Golden Arm."

Hollywood is a practical town. Most of the voters want to see an Oscar go to someone who will turn up some good work in the future.

Among the girls, it's a down-to-the-final-gun race between Italy's Anna Magnani and Brooklyn's Susan Hayward. Miss Magnani, one of the world's great actresses, scored in "Rose Tattoo."

Miss Hayward, in the charmed circle for the fourth time, is up for the Lillian Roth story "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

Special-Use Goods Freed From Sales Tax By Minister

Harris Sees $113,000,000 Surplus from High Revenue

Finance Minister Harris Tuesday night snipped a mere $12,000,000 from government income sources in a budget which will collect an anticipated record-breaking revenues from a booming economy.

The snipping is done by freeing a scattering of special-use goods from the 10-per-cent sales tax.

Mr. Harris offered no change in the existing levy on personal and corporation income tax and sales tax and estimated a peak national production of $28,000,000,000 will yield a $113,000,000 surplus and unprecedented revenue of $4,763,000,000 in the fiscal year starting April 1. Budget spending would total a peacetime high of $4,650,000,000.

MAGAZINE TAX

The minister's budget-speech to the Commons also announced a stiff new excise tax on one type of publication designed to help protect Canadian magazines whose long-term future, he said, "appears to be in jeopardy" from imported publications.

J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative financial critic, uttered the first Commons comment on the budget: It meant there would be no election this year. He also said a heralded thrift campaign by Mr. Harris has not materialized.

The budget's $12,000,000 tax paring amounts to one-fourth of one per cent of government revenue for the year. An estimated $378,000,000 extra revenue, however will flow into government coffers from the increase in taxable goods available in a swelling economy.

BIG FORECAST DEFICIT

A year ago the 32-year-old Mr. Harris, in his first budget, lopped $247,000,000 from personal and corporation income taxes—in the fiscal year ending March 31. He forecast a deficit of $160,000,000 now expected to be $31,700,000.

Only reductions of any substance in his budget-night are in the exemption from sales tax at the manufacturer's level for about 50 types of goods, mainly for use in manufacturing, agriculture and construction. The exemptions are effective immediately.

The exemptions account for the bulk of a net cut. Various minor other taxes changes won't affect revenue appreciably.

No day-to-day consumer goods were exempted from the sales tax, thus unchanged are levies on such goods as automobiles, radios, beer, wines, cigarets, tobacco, soft drinks and candy.

PRUDENT RESERVE

Despite the overall tax picture, Mr. Harris said the forecast surplus is not much more than a prudent reserve against unforeseen circumstances.

The revenue and expenditure figures do not take into account the $40 monthly universal old age pensions to be doled over by the federal government to those over 70, and from a fund financed by special income and sales taxes.

In the coming year the special tax revenues are expected to total

Woman Becomes Mother 2 Hours After She Died

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Margaret Carter, 24, became a mother Tuesday nearly two hours after she died from a fall in the street.

A five-pound boy, due to be born in June, was taken from Mrs. Carter's body in Nottingham General Hospital—but four hours later the baby lost a battle for his life despite efforts of surgeons to save him.

The rare post-mortem Caesarian operation can only be performed when the breathing between the mother's death and delivery are not too great to deprive the child of her accustomed oxygen.

Mrs. Carter slipped while getting out of a bus. She died of a fractured skull in an ambulance.

Driver Surrenders After Woman Dies

TORONTO (CP) — William D. Birch, 32, of suburban Scarboro Tuesday gave himself up to police following an accident Monday night in which a 52-year-old woman was killed.

Birch was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of Mrs. Alberta Clark. He was also charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

$236,000,000 and payments $279,500,000 — leaving a surplus of $3,700,000 will be included in the following year's budget as the $155-56 shortage of $50,000,000 will be charged against the coming year's spending.

The forecast budget spending of $4,650,000,000 will be at a rate expected only in the Second World War. The Commons already has been asked to authorize $4,500,000,000 of expenditures. Mr. Harris said he sees no chance of getting the total below the budget target forecast.

In the year ending March 31, 1957, spending will reach an expected $4,437,100,000 and indicated revenues will be $4,352,400,000—second in peacetime to the 1953-54 total of $4,396,300,000.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT, MACHINE HITS CAR

Fred Pepke, 73 Emily Street, escaped with a few bruises and scrapes Tuesday evening, when he was thrown from his motorcycle as it collided with a car on the Foxboro highway just north of the city limits.

Pepke was riding north with an unidentified passenger on the motorbike, when he turned out to pass a car proceeding in the same direction. As he did so the car slowed and turned left, the motorcycle crashing with its left front corner of the car. The car was driven by Jack Palmer, 228 North Front Street.

DANDELIONS BACK

Dandelions are back!

Confession can observe two minutes' silence for Spring's official return before they start gnashing their teeth again.

Yellow gold of the season's first flower was picked at noon today by Donald and Mrs. Tommy Taylor, 174 Burnham St., on his way home from school. He found it on Bleecker Hill School.

Master Taylor discovered two dandelions on the south-ward-facing lawn of the Dominion Public School. The pair of weeds had both nipping a scourge in the bud, so to speak, but took only one home.

The other one? He gave it to Kathy Benson, neighbor and pal, also of Burnham St.

E. J. ALLAN

CAMPBELLFORD— The passing of R. J. Allan on Sunday, in Campbellford Memorial Hospital was a shock to the residents of the community where he had spent the greater part of the past 50 years. He had been in poor health for some time although he continued work until two years ago.

Mr. Allan came to Campbellford in 1906, where he first worked with the late W. J. Armstrong. After travelling for a drug'ting firm for a short time he returned to Campbellford, where he made his home.

For a time he was in partnership with the late James Caskey in the grocery business. Caskey and Allan, later having established a real estate and insurance business. For some years he was employed with the late W. J. Armstrong. For a short time he was treasurer of the town of Campbellford and later became bailiff and clerk of the Division Court.

He was a Conservative in politics and had served on the executive of the party as county president and in other capacities. He also sat on the municipal council for a time.

He was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, where he had been a member of the Board of Managers and the Session.

He was an ardent Mason, having been initiated in Madoc Lodge more than 50 years ago. He was a past master of Golden Rule Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Campbellford, and a past principal of Ionic Chapter, R.A.M., Campbellford.

Mr. Allan was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Allan of Madoc, where he was born more than 73 years ago. In 1910 he married Jennie Armstrong, who also with two daughters, Mrs. Williamena, R.N., of Cochrane, and F/O Elmer of the RCAF, No. 3 Fighter Wing in France, survives. Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. William (Olive) Brown of Madoc, and three brothers: Field of Madoc; Mac of Stockton, Wyo., and David of California.

Funeral services were conducted on Thursday afternoon from Mr. Allan's late residence on Dorset Avenue, interment was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

MRS. ANDREW PATON (Trenton)

The funeral of Mrs. Janet M. Paton, widow of Andrew Paton, 19 Carrying Place Road, Trenton, was held Monday, March 19th, from the Weaver Funeral Home. Rev. K. Hatchard conducted the service.

Bearers were Merion Brinklow, Stephen Novroski, Russell and Gordon Hutchinson, William Brooks and Fred Hutchinson.

Interment took place in Mount Evergreen cemetery.

The deceased was born in Trenton, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Russell, and lived in Trenton all her life. She died in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Friday, March 16th, after having been ill for five weeks. She was in her 66th year.

The late Mrs. Paton was an Anglican.

She is survived by two sons, Alex and Andrew, of Toronto, and three granddaughters. She was predeceased by a daughter, Mrs. Harold (Annie) Twigg.

Also surviving her are a sister, Mrs. H. (Catherine) Hutchinson, of Toronto, and three brothers, William Russell, of Belleville, and Thomas and Robert Russell, both of Trenton. She was predeceased by a brother, Alex Russell.

Seventeen New Canadians Given Citizenship Papers

Seventeen new Canadians hailing from nine different countries received their citizenship papers in the Hastings County court house Tuesday afternoon at a special hearing in ceremony before His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson.

Concluding the program the new Canadians were guests at a tea in the court house law library sponsored by the Argyle Chapter of the I.O.D.E. with Mrs. J.S.A. Bennett, Chapter 1s Mrs. E. S. Fairman.

The seventeen new Canadians, proudly holding their brand new citizenship papers were officially welcomed to the county and the locality by Warden Elmer Wood and Mayor Jack Forrester. Bibles for the new citizens provided by the Upper Canada Bible Society, were presented by Prof. J.S.A. Bennett, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association and Father T. Murphy.

FOLDERS PRESENTED

Special I.O.D.E. folders reminding of the duties of citizenship were presented to the new citizens by Mrs. Fairman.

Forming the reception line for the official welcome of the new citizens to the I. O. D. E. tea in the law library were Mrs. Fairman, Warden Elmer Wood, county clerk treasurer Eric S. Denyes, Mayor Jane Forrester, Mr. E. Gus Porter, president of the Hastings County Law Association, Rev. J. S. A. Bennett, Father P. Murphy, and Rabbi M. Lewin. Trenton, Yugoslavian.

'Man from Schweppes' Makes Appearance at Sales, Ad Club

That enigma of North America's commercial world of the fifties, "The Man from Schweppes", last night put in a definite appearance in Belleville.

Perhaps his word definite needs qualification, if you don't scrutinize newspaper and magazine advertising as thoroughly as you should.

The Man from Schweppes' that tall, bewhiskered, obviously-British gentleman who is found —by those who read advertising as they should—in the most ludicrous situations for a man of breeding. Yet, no matter what the location, his appearance never changes. You may have seen him gazing wryly at you from a helicopter over Niagara Falls, from amid a scatter of beauties beside a swimming pool or dashed in the bitter wastes. All this smacks of adventure and, coupled with near-astronomical, has built for The Man from Schweppes a following that numbers countless within three short years of advertising that took the Scarlet Pimpernel as the outlet for introduction to achieve.

Who, then, is Schweppes, as any of the Belleville Sales and Advertising club can tell you, he is none other than Commander Edward Ward Whitehead, president of Schweppes Limited and general manager of Schweppes (Overseas) Limited, who appeared as a guest at the club meeting.

That he is an enigma to most American businessmen should not be doubt.

He is one of the few heads of business in the part of the world to take a one hundred per cent plunge in the advertising of his product: his behavior suggested by the advertising is unexposed as far as Schweppes are concerned—particularly as far as Americans are concerned—as personally, is as famous, if not slightly more so than the product he sells. He also has pushed sales of a product virtually unknown in America to unexpected proportions wherever he has set about marketing it.

Take, for instance, one of three years.

Looking back on his past history it is rather difficult to place him in focus as The Man from Schweppes.

SERVED IN NAVY

Until World War II he was associated with one of Britain's leading insurance companies. During the war he served with the Royal Navy and afterwards in the post-war government in a top administrative treasury post. He joined Schweppes in 1950 coming to North America in 1953.

The legend that surrounds him first started here as a result of an advertising executive's idea to push sales of the company product, which up to that time had a restricted market in the U.S.

"As a result I have lost all privacy," said the commander, admitting the price he has to pay for selling his product is a high one.

"Fortunately, I was born with a vestige of a sense of humor—necessary to most people's ideas of an Englishman," he added wryly.

However, that he did hit upon something that set even America's businessmen back on their heels, is evidenced by the fact that he has had publicity offers (one of $350,000) to associate himself with other products. When he cut radio commercials they turned out so unexpectedly popular that disc jockeys were playing them for free. Better still, other companies proceeded to copy his technique. Viewing imitation as the highest form of flattery the commander says no action was taken in any one instance.

"One manufacturer of manure started off with the words 'I am Commander Whitehead's garden-er . . .' Of course we took out an injunction against him."

The commander's hobbies are a result of something more serious in the commander's make-up. At the outbreak of war he ceased shaving, vowing not to resume such activity until the end of victory. And, ever, he added, that day did not arrive until 1945 and by that time he had become quite attached to his beard.

Summing up, he told the club he believed at heart he was an eccentric, adding he believed in eccentrics.

The commander was introduced by Phil Flagler and thanked by Jack Bond.

Two new members were welcomed into the club last night. They are George Hume, manager of the Credit Bureau, and William L. Turner, manager of the Belleville branch of F. W. Woolworth Company.

The promotion of Mr. G. A. Wishart to the position of vice-president, manufacturing, Mead Johnson & Company of Canada, Limited, is announced by Mr. D. M. Menzies, president of the company. Mr. Wishart was formerly works manager of the company's manufacturing plant.

William Gault President Of Curling Club

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors for the Quinte District Curling Club W. C. "Bill" Gault was the unanimous choice of the members for the post of president. Mr. Gault, along with many others, has been most interested in the building of new curling club in the city and the Bonne given of being the first president of the active club was most deserving.

Under J. C. Anderson was named vice-president, Don Mar-Kinnon as secretary and A. F. E. Gault as treasurer. Honorary-president J. B. Creegan, a most enthusiastic curler, was named chaplain of the new club. Jack Yanover was named chairman of membership; J. C. "Pat" Houston, chairman of building and property and J. E. McArthur as chairman of finance. Other members of the directorate are Don Stanton, John Wilson, W. N. Ellis, Fred Colquharson Jr., L. Sheppard and Geo B. Collins.

Through the kindness of the Kingston Curling club the members of the new club will be able to enjoy an evening of curling in the spacious Kingston rink. The entire facilities of the club have been placed at the disposal of the Belleville club for that occasion, and it is expected a pick-up quiet form of curling for invited guests is extended to those, who will be starting their first curling season and a short period of instruction will be given before the real curling starts.

Preparations are going forward on the plans for the building that is proposed for the club grounds. The detailed plans will soon be submitted for government approval and once this is completed tenders will be called and the work proceeded with. The purchase of an artificial ice plant and curling stones also will be completed in the near future so that the full curling season can be enjoyed.

Fish and Game Club Hears Story Of Indian Village

How nine years of patience paid off in an unexpected way last night was told the Belleville Fish and Game club.

Speaker for the evening was Rev. A. P. Gowanlock, of Toronto, who has been responsible for the unearthing of an old Indian village and remains of an early, pre-Indian settlement, on the shores of Consecon lake.

Both discoveries were accidentally stumbled upon.

Mr. Squire told the club his interest in what turned out to be a near-decade of work, first was sparked by a reference in an old volume. An artist, he was interested in painting murals of historic scenes along the Bay of Quinte. Scouring through a number of books for references he found mention of the site of an Indian village of the Iroquois Confederacy that is now Lake Consecon. Mr. Squire, who owns a farm on the lake shore at once set upon finding the probable location of the site. After a series of deductions as the physical features of the land which might have been attractive to Indians, he decided to investigate an area on his own land. More detective work on pin-pointing the situation followed in the unearthing of Indian relics and stream. Digging down to the stream he found evidence of Indian settlement which fired his enthusiasm further so that he decided to follow the course of the water. While digging along the stream he unearthed several artifacts which led to the pre-dated Indian settlement in this part of the country.

A carbon dated check by a federal geologist showed his theory to be correct. The site is now actually were links with the Laurentian period of culture dating back some 3,000 years.

Once more he returned to the search for more Indian village and his patience finally was rewarded. After some nine years of search, research and hard labour he had finally unearthed the remains of Iroquois Indian village.

To date some six or more fire pits of Indian lodges have been unearthed, he said, not including many other relics of the long-buried settlement.

Work still continues at the site, he told the club.

A pocket house also saw two highly entertaining films on wild life. They were "The Story of a Beaver," and an exciting documentary on "Caribou Hunting."

Chairman of the meeting, in the absence of club president Don MacKinnon, was Bruce Smith.

Five Paintings Will Be Placed In Exhibit
Five local amateur artists will have a chance to match their works against those of over 60 other artists in Eastern Ontario.
A contest organized by the Belleville and Crafts Club under the sponsorship of the city's recreation commission, has invited artists to file the prize artists being chosen for entry in the travelling Eastern Ontario Amateur Art Exhibit.
They are: Mrs. Doily Caln, with a prize-winning study of a potted plant; Miss Marjy Moull, who painted a landscape across the contest; Mrs. William Berscht, for a self-portrait; Barbara Wheeler, with a study of the CN "A Tree", and Mrs. J. E. Mastine for her water-colour "Coral."
Judges of the entries in the contest were Alan Cameron of Carrying Place, Ontario, artist and Warrant Officer J. A. McCaffrey, RCAF, Trenton. As all they judged over thirty different works.
It was held in the arts and crafts club rooms in King George school.
The travelling exhibit will go on show east from Oshawa to Kingston and north to Haliburton and Lindsay.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Industrial issues edged up to a new high during first-hour stock exchange dealings today. The current bullish mood of the market persisted following Tuesday's "no change" budget presented by Finance Minister Harris.

Gold stocks showed a mild improvement after the budget announcement that restrictions on the purchase and export of gold would be removed. Observers said the concessions would have little effect on the Canadian gold mining industry generally, but had produced an "understandable optimism."

Banks were a strong feature of the industrial list. Bank of Montreal advanced $1.25 at its high for the year of $53.25. Bank of Nova Scotia and Bank of Commerce each gained $1. Most of the traded papers, utilities and refining oils improved.

A budget tax on advertising in Canadian editions of foreign periodicals boosted Canadian publishing stocks. Consolidated Press A climbed 70 cents to $3.

Prairie climbed 20 cents at $5.80 in western oils.

Town Clerk Warns Council Of Rising Costs of Education

TRENTON. (Special.) — Town clerk and treasurer O. W. Larry warned council last night that the increasing cost of education was threatening Trenton's financial structure. He pointed out that education was responsible for 7.5 per cent of the town's capital debt. He emphasized that the municipality was in a spot. In as much as they had to meet demands of the Board of Education and are obligated to raise money when they are asked for it. Mr. Larry said an analysis of Trenton's debt makes the situation more alarming. He wondered if the federal government would be induced to give assistance. He proposed making certain recommendations to the provincial government and distributing counties to other municipalities in the province in an effort to stimulate enthusiasm and a body accomplish something. "It is certainly something the entire council is consider," he commented.

Councillor Bert Strong mentioned that while everybody has different thoughts on the question and responsibility he considers the province should be responsible. Dr. J. V. Byrne, chairman of the board, who was present sitting in at the meeting informed council that the cost of educating a child in the separate school now amounted to $140 per year. "The educational costs come from the house in the district of least return," he remarked. clerk Larry assuring council he was in no way casting any reflections.

In making his report the treasurer seemed to be disturbed by mounting costs of education. He revealed that 33.6 per cent of the town's current liabilities were created by schools. He expressed the belief that some place along the line there has to be other means of raising money. The mayor and council agreed.

Council listened to a complaint by Eben James, general manager of Trenton Cold Storage, that raw sewage from town's disposal system was being dumped on his property and advised by letter that unless the condition is corrected by May 1 a writ of injunction will be issued against the town.

MAYOR MAKES REPLY

Mayor Burtt replied pointing out that every move council made there was a threat of litigation. "Threats don't scare me," he declared, explaining that council was trying to remedy the trouble as fast as possible.

Councillor Grant Gooding observed that the only way to solve the problem was to put in a complete sewage disposal plant. "I don't know if we can do that by May 1," he added.

Later Mr. James told council that it was not the intention of his company to make trouble with the town but something had to be done in—pear future because the raw sewage was a threat to public health. The problem is very deadly particularly when we are handling perishable products in the warm weather. Mr. James explained that the discharge from the sewer was trapped behind the pier running out into the harbor east from bayshore park.

Former councillor Gerald Weaver proposed trading five feet five inches on Front Street for five feet five inches of property belonging to the town on Murphy Street, the pieces approximately the exact dimensions. Councillor Van Lange asked for the solicitor to investigate the legality of making the proposed exchange. Observed town solicitor Rod Campbell specially about the strip covered by town sidewsil: on Front Street: "The sidewalk might have been down there long enough to make the land public property."

Mayor Burtt said he would investigate a bill for $500 submitted by former town solicitor, H. Ramsay Park, who made the claim for work in the Clerdome not coming up for hearing soon. The mayor is going to find out how Mr. Park could work for the town and the Parks' Board defendants in the same suit. He said he would see both the parks' commission and the town get itemized accounts from Mr. Park.

Central Bridge engineers reported that an expenditure of $13,000 would put the town high-way bridge on Dundas Street in good shape for many more years of service. The repair job is under consideration.

Mrs. John Mitts Celebrates 90th Birthday

Birthday congratulations on attaining the 90th anniversary were received Tuesday evening by Mrs. John Mitts of Ivanhoe as approximately 75 relatives and friends gathered to pay her tribute.

Mrs. Mitts received many congratulatory messages and was presented with a rocking chair, heating pad and other gifts. The birthday party was held at the home of her son, Roy Mitts, with whom she lives.

A lifelong resident of Huntingdon township, Mrs. Mitts was the former Elizabeth Lidster being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lidster. Still active and in good health despite her years, Mrs. Mitts is an avid reader and does not use glasses. A member of Fullarton United Church, she formerly attended regularly but now attends only during the summer months.

"She gets around every day and does a lot of the housework," her son Roy said.

Mrs. Mitts had two sons, Roy and James, both of Ivanhoe, and four grandchildren. Her husband died in 1914.

Daley Maintains Labor Legislation Is Satisfactory

TORONTO (CP) — Labor minister Daley, in reply to an opposition demand for Labor-Act changes told the Ontario legislature Tuesday present laws are "satisfactory."

Arthur Reaume (L, Essex North), during debate of labor department estimates, renewed a battle he opened a month ago to have the labor relations act revised completely.

Mr. Daley replied the act is doing a satisfactory job. It had brought good to both labor and management and would stand comparison with labor legislation anywhere in the world.

KEFAUVER

On the Republican side, returns from 2,815 polls gave President Eisenhower 170,439 votes to 2,774 for Senator William Knowland, of California, who made no campaign but was unable to get off the ballot after Eisenhower's announcement he would be a candidate again.

Kefauver's victory was his second in a row, following his sweep in New Hampshire. The Minnesota primary was the first head-on contest between Kefauver and Stevenson, who did not file in New Hampshire.

Primary elections are held in each state to elect candidates from both parties for the Senate, congressional and other contests coming up in the November elections. The presidential and vice-presidential nominees are chosen at the summer party conventions, but their standings in the primaries are regarded as an indication of their chances.

Stevenson's supporters blamed cross-over voting by Republicans—possible in Minnesota because there is no party registration—for Stevenson's defeat.

Gerald Heaney, Democratic national committeeman, said Republicans apparently voted as Democrats "in whatever kind" to defeat the candidate they thought would be strongest in November.

CNR Has No Property For Commuter Line

OTTAWA (CP)—The CNR has no excess railway right-of-way that it could make available to Toronto for municipally-operated commuter services, CNR President Donald Gordon said Tuesday.

He told the Commons railway committee that the publicly-owned railway requires all its Toronto properties for future expansion over the next 20 years. The railway had no land in the Toronto area that it did not plan to use.

Eight Caught With Old Markers On Motor Cars

The March 20th deadline for 1956 markers means just that insofar as the Belleville Police Department is concerned.

Yesterday was the last day for 1955 auto markers and this morning at just after midnight a mobile police checked their first car bearing last year's license and the driver was accordingly charged. By eleven o'clock this morning eight summonses were ready to go out to as many motorists checked for driving with last year's markers.

And judging by the lineup at the office of Fred T. Symons, local license issuer, there are a lot of motorists who have not yet purchased their markers. All morning there was a long lineup at the office with the line on the sidewalk occasionally extending several doors down the street.

Police officials said that all vehicles bearing last year's markers would be checked.

Three Inmates Flee Hospital

THORNHILL (CP) — Three youthful inmates, forcing a guard to hand over his keys by threatening him with billiard cues Tuesday night, quietly escaped from the Ontario Mental Hospital at nearby Langstaff.

Ontario police have been warned that the youths are dangerous.

They were identified as: Roy Browning, 18, of Belleville; George Westlake, 17, of Windsor, and Albert Elson, 17, of Toronto.

Police said the trio slipped across a field and disappeared before a cordon could be thrown around the district.

Guard John Donaldson said the three approached him branching the billiard cues and threatening to beat him up unless he gave them the keys.

The three appeared this morning in Belleville at the home of Browning's sister. She told police they were riding in a cream-and-red car. After stopping briefly they went on.

COMMONSENSE BEST GUIDE

Whenever there is a change in the Communist "party line" we are deluged with "interpretative" articles by experts.

The definition of an "expert" in this field appears to be anybody who has ever been in Moscow, talked to a commissar, been a Communist sympathizer or taken part in an anti-Communist campaign.

The qualifications for posing as an expert varying so widely, it is not surprising that the experts' opinions should vary just as much.

Experts contradict each other. The man who makes no claim to any expert knowledge finds that he must choose between the experts. There is no substitute for commonsense in attempting this task. Much assistance, however, can be derived from those few, who, in the past, have shown some evidence of understanding the motives behind Communist aggression. One of these men is Eddy Gilmore, for many years the Moscow correspondent of the Associated Press. Gilmore laughs at suggestions that the bloodbath of Stalin's native Georgia idealize his memory and rioted in protest against Khrushchev's denunciation of his rule. If what we have read of Stalin's methods is correct, as Khrushchev's confession, as we believe, is well founded in fact, does it sound reasonable that Georgians would resort to violence to protest this criticism? Gilmore says the Georgians only have raised the criticism as an excuse for riots against the Russians but that they do not love Stalin. His explanation fits well with commonsense.

There are some other statements which have been made, critical of Stalin, which strain our credulity. For instance, we are told in one breath that Stalin was subject to phobias about the supposed treachery of his associates, and in the next that he placed such faith in Hitler that, when German troops first attacked Russia, Stalin ordered the Russian troops not to return the German fire, thinking that Hitler would curb a breach of discipline by his forces. Is it common sense to suppose that the suspicious Stalin placed implicit trust in Hitler? Stalin was a bloody tyrant, but there is no evidence to suggest that, in some strange fashion, he was also a babe lost in the maze of Nazi duplicity.

WORLD'S MOST NEEDY REFUGEES

Years have given rise to refugees, but the Second Great War outdid all previous conflicts, not alone because of its scope, encircling the globe, but also because of the ferocity and deliberate cruelty of many of the combatant nations.

Many of these refugees have now found new homes and new countries. But some have still to find a haven and to their number little wars and the Communist persecution have added new refugees.

CARE, "Co-operative for American Remittances" to Everywhere," is dedicated to the task of aiding refugees. Of the miserable, who are the most miserable? CARE, which has launched a campaign to raise a million dollars to help the free world's neediest refugees, lists five groups:

1. East German and satellite-country escapees in Berlin and West Germany.
2. Chinese refugees in Hong Kong.
3. North Korean refugees in South Korea.
4. Arab refugees in the Near East, in Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.
5. Refugees who flocked to Vietnam and Laos from now-Communist parts of Indo-China.

Except for the Arabs rendered homeless by the establishment of the new Jewish homeland of Israel, all these groups of refugees have been created by Communist expansion, by war or subversion.

DISTURBING FIGURES

Premier Leslie Frost and Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver combined in the Legislature the other day to defend the Ontario school system from criticism by CCF leader Donald MacDonald.

Most Ontario citizens will agree with the leaders of the older parties. Nevertheless, figures quoted by Mr. MacDonald should cause concern and result in appropriate action.

Mr. MacDonald said that of every 100 students in 1950 only 97 completed grade 6, 90 grade 7, 84 grade 8, 58 grade 9, 46 grade 10, 31 grade 11, 21 grade 12 and 13 grade 13.

Most people will be surprised to learn that only 13 per cent of students complete the secondary school course. Such disturbing figures, though, are those regarding completion of public school. Surely, in this day, public school education is the absolute minimum on which to build a useful and useful life in the workaday world. If 16 per cent of our young people are not completing their public school studies, something should be done to remedy this situation.

Is the teaming of Sir Lawrence Olivier and Marilyn Monroe in a new movie the last word in art and architecture?

OUR COUNTRY

Our country has it for you, whatever joy you love;
The great wide sea before you, the great blue sky above;
I would you choose the mountains, the rugged peaks and tall,
Where race the streaming fountains, our country has them all.

Our country holds your pleasure, whatever that pleasure be,
Within her bounteous measure the world's rich charms you'll see.
Southward the palms are swaying, inland her white lakes shine;

What ground choose you for playing? 'Tis here by God's design.
Would you hear forests singing, the anthems of the trees,
Or see the wild ducks winging across the lake in V's?

Or would the partridge whirring, or would a moose's call
Set drowsy pulses stirring? Our country has them all.

With all she gives of splendor 'tis little that she asks.
From tyranny defend her; be faithful to your tasks.
Whatever joy your country holds, 'tis here where men are free—
Then let not freedom perish, but live for liberty.

Charles A. Metz, city engineer, who has been very active during the flood, has contributed an enquiry from Archie B. Crossman.

The enquiry concerns Moira Lake, asking how the town now stands with regard to the level of the flood; he understands the engineer in charge of the construction work at the lake and was recently informed in connection with the proposed raising of the dam. Mr. Metz has not yet received a reply to the enquiry, but has made a survey of the situation and declared his findings to the effect that the lake is not affected at present.

No help is required by Government in City Delegation. A Canadian Press despatch from Toronto says: "The Provincial Government of Ontario and the local governments would not be asked to contribute to relief," Health Minister Dr. J. Citizens are urged to obtain free supply of chloride of lime to cleanse premises. Applications for the disinfectant may be made at the city office, Mayor Bleecker Hill agent Fielder B. Stories from Life of Jesus

By April Oursler Armstrong

THE SECOND BOX OF OINTMENT

It was now the time of the passover, the greatest of all celebrations in Israel.

From far and near, from the caravan roads of mountains and deserts by ships and camels and walking barefoot, travellers by the thousands turned their faces to Jerusalem. This was the great Passover Feast in memory of the night centuries before when the Lord destroyed the first-born children of the Egyptians who had conquered the Jews, and passed over the houses of the children of Israel.

Everyone who could possibly do so wanted to go to the Temple in Jerusalem for the Passover Feast each year. For seven days they would join in the prayers, offering up the holy paschal lamb to God and eating the special unleavened bread.

Soft spring lay over the city, and the cuckoo sang and the new little flowers bloomed. But in the council room of the Pharisees and the high priests there was only cruelty and hate. These men had heard that Jesus had brought Lazarus back to life, and made him rise from the dead, and they were afraid.

WHAT ABOUT JESUS?

"What will we do with this Jesus? He works many miracles, and the people love Him and believe in Him. And if we leave Him alone, soon everyone will believe in Him, and the Roman rulers will come to us and take away our jobs and our power and our wealth because we did not stop this One called Jesus."

Caiphas, the high priest, stroked his long and perfumed beard. "You know nothing!" he said, with a scheming smile. "It is better for one Man to die, than for a whole nation. . . ."

And from that moment the chief priests and the Pharisees began to plot exactly when and where to kill Jesus. And they were sure their chance would come at Passover, when Jesus would come to Jerusalem.

Six days before the Passover, Jesus and the twelve came to Bethany, the town of Mary and Martha and Lazarus. But this time, Jesus did not stay at their house, but in the home of a man called Simon the Leper—one of those healed by Jesus.

For the past weeks the disciples had grown steadily more frightened. They had heard whispers of the plots to kill Jesus when the Master came to Jerusalem. They had heard Jesus Himself tell them that He would suffer.

TO BE BETRAYED

Jesus had said: "The Son of Man shall be betrayed to the chief priests and to the scribes and to the ancients. And they shall mock Him and spit on Him and scourge Him and kill Him. And the third day He shall rise again."

Terrifying words from the Master they loved!

Still, as the days passed, the disciples began to breathe easier. Jesus seemed neither worried nor alarmed. He was planning to go to Jerusalem, they said to themselves, and would He do that if there were really danger that He would be killed?

By the time they all sat for dinner together in Simon the Leper's house, the disciples had practically forgotten their fears. Martha, who was, after all, the best cook in town, served the dinner, an excellent dish of braised lamb and garden vegetables. And with them was Lazarus, eating as heartily and as happily as if he had never been buried for three days—living proof of the Master's power.

Mary, the other sister, was mysteriously absent.

Suddenly she came through the doorway and knelt at the feet of Jesus—just as years ago the red-haired woman in the Pharisee's house had done. In Mary's hands she carried an alabaster vase. In it was a pound of spikenard, a very expensive ointment. When Lazarus had died the sisters had bought this ointment for his burial, and had spent every penny of their savings for it.

ANOINTED JESUS

Silence fell as the guests watched Mary.

She knelt and lifted one foot of Jesus and began to rub His instep and toes with the ointment. Then she took the other foot and rubbed it too with the sweet-smelling paste. And then, again like the other woman before her, she dried the Master's feet with her long dark hair.

Then Mary broke the alabaster jar and poured the rest of the ointment on the top of the Master's head and rubbed it in with strong slender fingers. And the room was filled with the odor of the ointment.

Judas Iscariot could no longer be still. With a scowl and a sigh of impatience he whispered to Martha:

"What a waste of this ointment! It could have been sold for three hundred pence! It cost much more than when you bought it for your brother Lazarus, who as things turned out, did not need its sweet smell. Your sister could have sold it all, and given it—tib—to the poor!"

And all at table, except Jesus Himself, began to mutter among themselves, and threw dark glances toward Mary. All twelve apostles, and Simon the Leper, even Lazarus, frowned at her with her extravagant alabaster vase in her hands. But the dark-est glances of all came from Judas.

CARED MORE FOR MONEY

For a long time Judas Iscariot had been the treasurer of the apostles. He kept the purse, and handed out the money for the few things they needed to buy. But Judas cared more for the money than he did for Jesus, or for the poor. He was a thief at heart, and often he took the coins that were meant for the poor and kept them secretly. Judas would actually have snatched the alabaster box and what little was left of the ointment from Mary's hand, if Jesus had not spoken and stopped him.

"Let her alone," commanded Jesus, "that she may keep it against the day of My burial."

The apostles fell into shocked silence, and Jesus continued:

"Why do you trouble this woman? For she has wrought a good work upon Me. For the poor you have always with you, but Me you have not always.

"And she in pouring this ointment upon My body has done it for My burial.

"I say to you, wherever this Gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which she has done shall be told for a memory of her."

And indeed after nearly two thousand years, in which it has been told day after day, here it is being told again!

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Enjoys St. Patrick Social

A St. Patrick's social time was held on Monday evening, when the Evening Branch of Christ church met in the parish hall with a fine representation of the members present.

The first portion of the evening included the showing of the interesting hospital film, "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps", by the Contact Club, after which all enjoyed games, which included the naming of Irish cities; slogans from well-known products; the bursting of balloons, and the drawing in the dark of the pauvershal pig, not omitting the curl in his tail, all of which were under the direction of the program committee: Mrs. T. Clark, Mrs. E. Smith and Miss F. Reid.

Refreshments, in charge of the refreshment committee, Mrs. J. Lang, Mrs. C. Ling, Mrs. J. Ling, Mrs. C. Fuzzen and Mrs. A. Cherry, were served from a pretty shamrock St. Patrick's table centred by a lovely large shamrock plant.

Thanks for the fine showing of the homecooking and its successful sale on the market on Saturday were expressed by Mrs. A. Cooper, to those who had had charge of this project.

Pr. Ed.-Belleville Club Enjoys Travelogue

The cozy atmosphere of the Y. M. C. A. and the warm welcome from the president, Mrs. Wannamaker — contrasted sharply with the cold blustery day for the meeting of Prince Edward - Belleville Club.

After the usual opening with Mrs. Lent at the piano — the secretary and treasurer each gave reports, while Mrs. McCoy reported cards sent out and thanks received.

The program was in charge of Mrs. D. Moxam and her group — but owing to the illness of the leader, her co-convener, Mrs. H. Cunningham, presided.

Every number savoured of the happy Irish sentiment and the spirit of Saint Patrick. All joined in a medley of Irish songs with Mrs. K. Wensley at the piano and Mrs. Insley leading.

Mrs. Baird, with true Irish accent gave a humorous reading, "Jest a Second"

"But George, this isn't our baby. You've got the wrong carriage." "Shut up! It's a far better carriage."

Mrs. Kingston delighted all with her guitar selections. Mrs. Insley sang, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen" accompanied by Mrs. Wensley who also favored with a piano solo.

BRITISH ISLES TALK

Mrs. Wannamaker introduced the guest speaker, Miss Nellie Merry, of Belleville, who for many years had been a most popular and beloved teacher in the collegiate.

Miss Merry has recently returned from her trip to the British Isles and the continent and who, in a delightful informative talk, held the rapt attention of her audience, as she led them through the various lands. She particularly dwelt upon her impressions of the people, their homes, customs and standards of living.

Mrs. S. Anderson graciously thanked the speaker and others on the program — which closed with a few more Irish songs.

A social time was spent with Mrs. Mosher's group serving — Mesdames H. Cunningham, Davidson, Anderson, Wannamaker, Fisher, Clegg, Armstrong, Insley, LaRue and Percy Parliament. The refreshments featured a huge St. Patrick cake, decorated in green shamrocks.

Women's Institute

MARMORA W. I.

MARMORA — The March meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Prentice with 11 members and two visitors. Mrs. H. P. Nayler was in the chair.

Letters of appreciation and other correspondence were read and dealt with. The sheet courses were discussed and final decision was left over until the April meeting. It was decided that the Institute's buy advertising space in the salad carnival program to take place on March 23rd and to donate $5. to the Penny Roundup. Members were asked to return slubs and unsold tickets of the Easter hams by March 26th.

The program committee, with Mrs. Ethel Noble in charge, took over. Miss Grace Warren gave a humorous Irish reading on "How to Start a Club". Mrs. Percy Gordon put on a guessing contest which was written on Shamrock leaves and Irish hats. Mrs. R. Neal won the contest, Mrs. Nobes gave a memory test on pictures of a car and Sarah Mr. H. P. Nayler was the most observant. Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Wells.

FAREWELL DINNER

The Teen-Age club of Tabernacle church, recently held a farewell dinner in the New Queen's Hotel, in honor of Mrs. Ilean Pogue and Mrs. Lela Redner, who are leaving the city, the former to reside in Hamilton and the latter in Marmora.

They were presented with lovely tokens of esteem by the club members.

Hastings-Pr. Ed. W.A. Exec. Meets at Bridge St. Church

The spring executive of the Hastings and Prince Edward Women's Associations of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was held in Bridge street United Church parlors on Tuesday commencing at 11 o'clock with over 40 attending.

Mrs. N. Pyear, president, opened the meeting and she extended a hearty welcome to the executive and the many presidents from various Women's Associations in the counties.

Minutes of the autumn executive were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. T. Elliott. Mrs. Howard Adams gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Wilson Crawford gave a gratifying report of literature sold including 366 Topics of "Worship". She had on display and introduced some splendid new literature and many of those who availed themselves of the opportunity of obtaining same.

The "box" luncheon proved a time of fine fellowship when members were better acquainted and were brought closer together in service of the Master and His church.

Mrs. Pyear opened the afternoon session with a brief but beautiful Easter devotional.

The reports of seven semi-annuals was widely discussed and approved by the executive but it was unanimously voted to bring this matter to the annual meeting which will be held on May 8th in Tabernacle Church, Belleville.

Mrs. M. S. Davidson was elected delegate to the annual meeting of Dominion Council. The president and vice-president, (Mrs. J. E. Marsh), will also be attending.

The Nominating Committee, composed of the three immediate (president) past presidents was appointed and Mrs. Davidson, chairman, appealed to the Associations throughout the counties to forward names of women with executive ability to her to lighten the burden of this committee.

This being Mrs. Pyear's final executive meeting, she warmly expressed her thanks and appreciation to those who have served with her and who have been of inestimable help during the past two years of her presidency.

CNRA Ladies' Aux. Completes Euchre Plans

The regular monthly meeting of the CNRA Ladies' Auxiliary was held recently at St. George's Sunday school, Station Street, with president, Alice Storms Jr., presiding.

The president welcomed and introduced four new members, and the secretary, Doris Clark, read the minutes of the last meeting. Treasurer Jessie Dawson gave her financial report, and outlined the system she is using in keeping the finances straight.

The president announced the appointment of 1st vice, Luella Urch, as chairman of "Auxiliary Supplies" with a committee of two.

After a brief discussion, this committee was granted permission to purchase 120 cups and saucers for Auxiliary use.

2nd vice, Peggy Ronsky, reported the membership campaign successful to date, and promised a full report on membership at the May meeting.

The members were reminded to send helpers and sandwiches to the cemetery, for CNRA Memorial dance.

In the absence of Myrtle Cross, convener of the "Spring Tea", the president reported the tea to be held in May. There will also be homecooking, candy and apron booths. A meeting of all the convenors will be held in the near future to complete plans.

Gladys Fitzgerald, convener of the euchre to be held in April at St. George's Sunday school, Station Street, gave a full report of her progress on this event to date.

Plans were also completed for a lovely luncheon to be served after the euchre and donations were promised towards a hamper of groceries to be drawn for the same evening. Tickets are on sale now from any member of the Auxiliary or can be had by calling ticket convener Kay Young at WO 8-5585.

All members are asked to make their returns as soon as possible before April 15.

Following the distribution of Auxiliary News Sheets the meeting was adjourned.

The remainder of the evening was turned over to Kay Young and her committee, and games and contests were enjoyed with prizes awarded to Mrs. R. Riley, and Dorothy Anderson.

Refreshments were served with lucky cups held by Cora Rutter and Lillian Meagher.

All members voiced their appreciation to the committee in charge for a most successful meeting and with the promise of 100 per cent cooperation on the euchre another successful fundraising event to a close.

The next general meeting will be at St. George's Sunday school on May 8.

This - - - and That

Going shopping!

It seems that there exists an argument as to whether today or yesterday should be called the first day of spring, but there exists no doubt (at least as far as the ladies are concerned) that Easter lies "just around the corner." The sun, it is recorded, crossed the equator at 10.21 a.m. E.S.T., Tuesday, March the 20th. Not many ladies may have been aware of this important event but how many of them are unaware of the approach of the Easter Parade?

You have a special spring feeling when you see Easter bunnies in candy and picture, gaily decorated chocolate Easter eggs, and bright baskets to hold them all. The jelly bean Easter eggs — the kind children taunt one — are in all sizes with the jumbo size, the largest we have ever seen. The bright songs and ballads for St. Patrick's Day send us off with a lilt as we approach the colorful expectations of Easter, a short few days away from now.

Those women who love to sew and can sew, must be thrilled when they see the materials in the Belleville stores just now. Cottons especially are to the fore, and have added new richness. The Oriental designs shot with gold are particularly attractive. In ready-to-wear, the tailored dress seems to be a special feature for wearability and economy. For the traveller, the loose sportswear as well as that durability required in travelling clothes.

Did you know that the "middy blouse" is back in the junior mind? To the junior miss, the look will be completely 'new,' but for those of us of another generation, the middy is 'back.' Changed, mind you, but the simplicity and youthfulness are there.

For the festive Easter dress nothing catches the feeling of spring as the prints do; bright and beautiful, ever and rustly over the still popular crinoline. We are told that 'pawn ivory' is the newest shade for shoes, bags and gloves. It is a very pale ivory-shell beige and a happy choice for accessories since it may be worn or carried in harmony with practically any color.

And for the gentleman, we were shown a garment of the new white terylene tricot shirts. It is said of this material that it does not become yellow after repeated washings; that excepting for a touch to the stiffened collar and cuffs, no ironing is necessary. Terylene is the new cotton means, simply, that the 'air will penetrate freely, making it a cool garment for summer wear.

For the folk who love strawberries and cannot wait the three months for our own, the imported strawberries have reached us. Of course, the delicious articles are a rarity yet and although delectable, rather expensive. It may be difficult to persuade yourself that this is malon-setting weather, but we have seen some honey dew melons on the shelves or counters. And while we have not decided the matter of expensive treats, we are happy to notice that the Easter displays all over this continent has so far not increased the price of staple, imported vegetables. There is a sour rumor to the effect that the price of celery will be up, for a time.

Specials in lamb continue while other meat prices seem to hold fairly steady. It is well to remember that the surprising grocer, housewives who must stick to a rigid budget do not have to buy the most expensive cuts to obtain equality in nutritional values. For health's sake, we do not want to overlook good values in liver and heart.

Have you tried the new grape-flavored gelatin dessert? It has the true fruit flavor, and should become a favorite.

Good shopping!

Cooking is really and truly a sport for many housewives but whoever heard of cooking being a problem for the menfolk? Nevertheless, the kitchen enters the realm of sport every year really and very importantly. We thought you would be maybe amazed, at least interested in the following item in the Canadian Sport Games to be held at Melbourne, Australia this year. The team is dubbed Sydney, February 23 — "a message from home says the 40 Italian chefs turned up at the Australian reception there yesterday to offer their services at the Olympic Games in Melbourne next November. The organizers intend to bring more than 100 foreign chefs to Australia for the Games so that the visiting athletes will be able to get the food they are accustomed to at home."

The head of one of Australia's biggest firms, Henry Carlyon, is now in Rome to engage 13 chefs to represent Italy. Mr. Carlyon said: "They will be the first time it would certainly be an unusual first for our Olympics, down-under. We certainly hope Mr. Carlyon finds 100 very fine chefs.

Avondale H-S Assoc. Spends Happy Evening

A gala evening was enjoyed by youngsters and oldsters alike at St. Patrick's celebration on Saturday evening at Avondale School, sponsored by Avondale Home and School Association.

First on the agenda was an auction sale with almost any type of knick-knack available, Mrs. Jones and Mr. J. Musgrove proved to be excellent auctioneers, and a hilarious hour was spent on this event which was enjoyed by all but especially by the children.

The homecooking table was a great attraction laden with cream puffs, tarty pies; cakes and candies, as was the white elephant table with its odds and ends, and its St. Patrick adjuncts.

The spirit of the day was accentuated with decorations of small children cut outs in Traditional Irish costumes and Shamrocks throughout the classrooms.

Sandwiches, coffee and soft drinks were sold in abundance. In one section of the school the popular game of bingo was in progress while euchre and bridge were played in still another.

Prizes were won by Mr. R. Rosser, Mrs. Gary Oliver, and Mrs. Ivor Hall.

The lucky draw on a basket of groceries was won by Mr. J. Musgrove while a beautiful doll dressed in typical Irish costume was won by Mrs. L. McDougall.

After a most delightful evening spent together with the greatest thoughts of having enjoyed the celebration in memory of the good Saint of the Emerald Isle.

FORGOT POSTAGE

SEATTLE (AP)—Somebody forgot to put a postage stamp on a package mailed to New York, and an estimated $2,500 worth of mail piled up under the police handkerchief. Detectives said the package, on which a postal employee neglected to put the stamps after they were paid for, contained three pounds of the illicit stuff. It reached police after it had been returned to the false address listed for the sender.

Last year more than 13,000 how stalled veterans participated in the Arts and Crafts program of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Women's Activities

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was hostess to the ladies of White's Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance of members and three visitors.

Mrs. Irvin Glydon, 1st vice-president presided.

Mrs. George Bilham was in charge of the devotional service. Mrs. Leonard Young read "He Walked on the Waters" from "The Stories of the Life of Jesus". Mrs. Bilham closed the worship service with prayer.

A vote of thanks was tendered to all who had donated towards the cradleroll party. There were two donations to the birthday box and one member paid dues. The cent-a-day fund was collected and it was decided to cancel the talent money for this year. A box of cookies donated by Mrs. Leonard Young was sold to Mrs. Casey Ketcheson for $1. It was decided to have a bake sale on Saturday, April 21st, on Belleville market, with Mrs. A. Hockaday, Mrs. L. Young, Mrs. R. Ketcheson and Mrs. W. Jeffery in charge. Mrs. Casey Ketcheson offered to collect the baking along the highway and as many as possible are to take their donations to the home of Mrs. B. Westover on the next WA meeting.

There was considerable discussion regarding the hot supper at White's church on Wednesday, March 21st, at 6.30.

Mrs. Lorne Hunt was in charge of the program. Readings, "Bread is Never Enough", "Call From Around the World" and "Faith" were given by Mrs. Everett Hitchcock, Mrs. George Bilham and Mrs. Lorne Hunt.

The topic of words beginning with "den" was won by Mrs. Jack Glydon who received a pot-holder as prize.

Mrs. W. Jones moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Earle (MOTHER OF 5)

"It's unfair to expect mothers to find words and true when it comes to your baby because there just isn't one child in the world exactly like any other. That all-too-common neighborhood custom of comparing baby achievements can be upsetting for you and harmful for your child. So try not to be either envious or "boastful" of baby's accomplishments are concerned. If he's temporarily outdistanced, he'll catch up. If he's ahead of the game, chances are he'll level off. Discipline and character for what he is and he'll thrive in his own sweet, individual way.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FIVE GOOD DAY-BY-DAY QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Should a woman rise when being introduced to a minister? 2. Should a woman rise when she is being introduced to an older woman?

3. When leaving after just being introduced to someone, what is the correct thing to say? And which one should say it first, the man or the woman?

4. What is the correct thing for the patient to say to a minister who has visited him or her in the hospital and offered a prayer?

5. Does a wedding announcement call for a gift? — Lucy

1. Yes . . . a woman rises when she is being introduced to a minister. Shows her courtesy and respect.

2. Yes, a courteous woman rises when she is being introduced to an older woman. The woman of grace makes this a natural and charming gesture, not at all seeming to even regard the age-theme.

3. When a man and woman have just been introduced, the one who is taking leave usually says only "Good-by," and the other responds with a "Good-by." If there is any reason to say more . . . that is, if there has been a bit of a chat about something of mutual interest, or if it is an introduction made by a friend who thought the introduction would be a mutual pleasure, or if either one wants to be particularly friendly, either the woman or the man may say, "Good-by, I'm very glad to have met you," or "Good-by, I hope we shall meet again (or "again soon")."

4. It is proper and gracious for the patient to say to the minister, "Thank you, so very much, for coming this afternoon. It was very kind of you, and your visit and your prayer have been a great comfort to me." Or "It was kind of you to come, Mr. Goodhart, and thank you for your visit and for saying the inspiring prayer."

5. A wedding announcement does not, generally speaking, call for a wedding gift. However, naturally, that depends on circumstances. For example, if there was no wedding or a very small one to which only a few relatives and friends were invited, a friend might very well wish to send a wedding present, in response to the announcements.

WHEN TO INVITE WEDDING ATTENDANTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When is the proper time for my fiance and me to invite the people we wish to be the attendants at our wedding? I know it will be an expense for them, but I don't want to ask them too soon.—Prospective Bride

I don't follow your last sentence. However, the proper time for you to invite your attendants and for him to invite his best man and ushers is as soon as possible after you have made your definite decisions. Since there is, of course, an expense involved as to the attire which each attendant must provide for herself or himself, being invited early means more opportunity to provide for this expense.

SCIENCE DEVELOPS A NEW TREATMENT FOR BLACKHEADS

It's getting so that it's almost impossible for a woman not to be beautiful any more. One by one the scientists are conquering the things that used to make the difference between a beauty and a non-beauty. The latest to fall before scientific research is blackheads—that age-old bane of a beautiful skin.

Now a famous New York skin specialist has just brought out a three way medicated treatment that actually rinses away blackheads in 15 minutes. This will be joyous news to the teen-ager who feels her whole future life is ruined if she discovers a blackhead lurking in her young skin.

Three are three steps to this new treatment which comes as a cleanser, a medicated masque and a penetrating astringent all in an attractive carrying case.

For the first step, smear on the laboratory - developed, whipped pore cleanser, covering your face well with it. Then wipe it off. No matter how well washed your face was before you began the treatment, you'll be amazed at the grayness of the tissue. For this cleanser goes more than "skin deep". It liquifies and actually floats out the soot and grime that has been caked in your pores.

After the pores are thoroughly cleansed there comes the second step when you apply the delightfully scented mint masque. Now you are in for a series of sensations. During the first few minutes your skin will feel wonderfully stimulated. Next your whole face will seem first "hot" and then "cold". After this will come a wonderful sensation of utter relaxation. Finally your skin will seem to grow tighter and tighter. Meanwhile, through all these changes, that special absorbing ingredient in the masque, Argilla, will have been at work, gradually drawing out the whiteheads and the blackheads, until your skin feels clean, smooth, refreshed.

Now for the final step when you quickly douse your face with the penetrating astrigent which tightens pore openings and leaves an invisible film that will protect your skin for hours against dirt.

The whole treatment will not take more than 15 minutes and what a difference even the first will make. In about two weeks, if you follow this treatment every day faithfully for 15 minutes, all your annoying blackheads and enlarged pores should have disappeared and your friends will be remarking on your improved looks.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU'RE SERIOUS, GO AT IT IN A PRACTICAL WAY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

As far back as I can remember, I always wanted to be a movie star. I am now 18 years old and have been thinking about it quite a lot.

I have lived in a very small town all my life and I have never gone any place where I could have a little independence without my family. That is why I'm scared to tell my parents about my ambition, because they would think it too foolish. I sing quite a lot around the house and my older brother teases me about it and tells me I think I'm big, so I can just imagine what he would say if he ever found out about my wanting to be a movie star.

I hope you don't think I'm stuck on myself, because I know most movie stars are very pretty and I'll admit I'm not. But maybe a lot of make - up, lights and camera would improve my looks.

I realize that a movie star's career isn't all peaches and cream, for I've had work and that while making a picture you hardly have any time for yourself. But I'm willing to go through with it. If I could only do a real dramatic play to prove to myself that I'm capable of acting! Oh, I wish so much that I could express to you how much I want to be an actress!

Do you think this is a wise choice for me to make, and where, and to whom can I go to learn how to act? Also, how can I tell my parents about this? — H.C.

Dear H.C.:

If I were you, I wouldn't say a word about all this to your parents right now.

What I would suggest is, that if the school you go to puts on plays now and then, you try out for them and see if you can't get a part in one of them. You don't have to "do a real dramatic play," or go to Hollywood to act with "make-up, lights, and cameras," to find out whether or not you may possibly have the makings of an actress. You can find out very readily if you have any dramatic talent by getting a chance to appear in a school play and seeing how well you do, and how much enthusiasm the dramatic teacher and the audience can generate over performance.

Perhaps in your town, too, there is some club that puts on plays occasionally. If so, get in touch with the leader and have a talk about the possibility of your getting some small part in one some-time.

I suggest also that you go to your public library and get out some books that will tell you something about the lives of some of our famous actresses. You should get really useful information that way. Also, write to one or two schools of acting and find out what the conditions of enrolment would be.

Go quietly about the whole thing, talk about it only to those who really know about these things and can give you some helpful advice, and don't imagine you can get to be a starlet over night. If you are really serious about acting, you will realize that it will take years of hard work to reach the point where anyone of importance will notice you. So try to make realistic plans, instead of indulging in a lot of glamorous daydreams as you are doing now.

If, by appearing in some school or other local plays, you can show your parents and others that you actually have some talent along those lines; and if you can also show them that you have made a practical, commonsense approach to plans for a dramatic career by learning everything you possibly can about it in advance, you may be able, at the proper time, to win your parents over to the idea of letting you go to a professional school of acting.

PRINTS IN SEASON

In keeping with the emphasis on spring prints, silk shantung goes in for pretty colors and designs. Black and blue or black with brown is the color scheme used for a neat geometric print on silk shantung. It is used for a nice dress and bolero twosome. Young, attractive. The dress has high open square neckline and short sleeves. The brief bolero has a notched front and is collared and lined in black peau de sole.

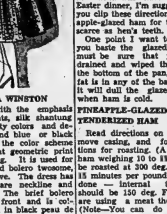
Pineapple-Glazed Ham for Easter

By Mary Moore

A letter which came at exactly the right time for my purposes asks for "pineapple ham the way you can buy it. I have tried the brown sugar and pineapple over it but the finished product doesn't taste like the bought. . . can you use tenderized ham with same results as other ham? I find pineapple ham much more costly than tenderized but do like the flavor. —Doris B.

Since we should be such good cooks that we can compete with the manufacturers and since almost every second or third home in Canada will have a ham for Easter dinner, I'm suggesting that you clip these directions for pineapple-glazed ham for they are as scarce as hen's teeth.

One point I want to make: If you baste the glazed ham you must be sure that you have drained and wiped the fat from the bottom of the pan, for if this fat is in any of the basting liquid it will dull the glaze—especially when ham is cold.



PINEAPPLE-GLAZED TENDERIZED HAM

Read directions on casing, remove casing, and follow directions for roasting. (A pre-cooked ham weighing 10 to 14 lbs. should be roasted at 300 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes per pound to be well done — internal temperature should be 150 deg. Fahr. if you are using a meat thermometer.) (Note: You can do this glazing with a regular uncooked smoked ham. A 10 to 12-lb. ham requires 25 minutes per lb. at 300 deg. Fahr. Remove rind and much of the thick fat layer.) Then either tenderized or regular ham has had its major baking period and should be thin fat layer to 1-4 inch depth with sharp pointed knife into diamonds, by slashing diagonally both ways at 1-inch intervals. Stick whole cloves where diagonal lines intersect or if desired, small pineapple dice or chunks held in place with halved toothpicks.

Cook together for 3 or 4 minutes 1 cup canned pineapple juice (sweetened or unsweetened) and 3-4 cup white sugar (white makes a clearer glaze than brown.) Place ham on trivet in clean roasting pan and pour some of the glaze over exposed surface of ham and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for another 20 to 40 minutes—basting with remaining glaze twice, until it is used up. You may want to turn on top burner for the last five minutes to make the glaze bubble a bit.

VARIATIONS:

(1) Canned crushed pineapple may be used with brown or white sugar in same proportions as above. (2) A 5-oz. tin apricot purees (baby food) may be heated with 1-4 cup water and 3-4 cup white sugar for a glaze. (3) Place thin slices unpeeled or peeled oranges over surface of ham and baste with glaze of orange juice and sugar in same proportions as above.

Tax Reductions Will Be Scarcely Noticed Concensus

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—For Mr. and Mrs. Canada it was an itsy-bitsy budget Finance Minister Harris presented Tuesday night.

He forecast record-making revenues but tax reductions amounted to only $100,000,000 and their effect will scarcely be noticed by the general public unless you happen to be importing a 100-year-old violin. That will now be free of sales tax.

There are minor tax concessions for manufacturers, industrial boilers and farmers but no personal income tax changes.

Indeed, Mr. Harris slipped by this point rather rapidly with these gloomy words:

"It is not possible for me to recommend to Parliament any reduction in the general level of income tax this year."

NEW AUTO TURNOVER

The budget proposes several new exemptions from the 10-per-cent sales tax. Among these are boxes for farm wagons, identification tags for livestock, the quality of foodstuffs, the mineral varnicelite, used for poultry litter, and steel walls for the safe-deposit vaults imported for exhibits, such as violins.

Don't be disheartened because you don't need a box for a farm wagon, a food identification label, some vermiculite or a steel silo as well.

There are exemptions on other items—such as skylights, roofing for trade directories and agricultural or horticultural poisons.

There is some good news for convention delegates and bad for buyers of cheap costume jewelry.

For 1955 and onward, convention delegates who are professional persons, can deduct, for purposes of income tax calculation, expenses for two conventions annually in Canada. This will apply chiefly to travelling and hotel expenses.

INCLUDING FARMERS

Officials said later the exemptions will apply to such groups as doctors, lawyers and farmers when attending professional or trade conventions.

It will not take in employees of companies attending conventions, who normally are on expense accounts covered by their firms. To become eligible for the exemption, a taxpayer must attend a convention connected with his particular profession or occupation.

The proposed change will have no special application to delegates attending labor conventions, officials said, since as a rule their expenses are covered by their unions.

The Exchequer Court of Canada ruled recently that under the law up to now convention expenses are not deductible from taxable income. Mr. Harris said the income tax act will be amended to permit this.

A 10-per-cent excise tax will be levied on articles of ivory, coral, jade, semi-precious stones and so on where the manufacturer's selling price is less than $1 each or on jewelry, cut glassware or china when the selling price is less than 50 cents each.

Federal Government Extends Tax Concessions Offer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Dominion government has extended a delayed-action concession to the provinces on sharing taxes. It may or may not pay off in cash.

In any case it is the central government's final yielding to provincial demands, Finance Minister Harris indicated in his budget speech Tuesday night.

The federal proposal—already in the hands of provincial premiers and to be tabled in the Commons today—would place a higher floor under revenue guarantees offered to the provinces at the last federal - provincial conference here March 8.

At that time the Dominion offered to guarantee that no province would get less than 90 per cent of the average of the two preceding years. The new offer boosts this to 95 per cent.

It would put nothing into provincial coffers except in case of a recession in which provincial tax potentials slipped.

Premier Frost of Ontario immediately criticized the proposal. He said it ignores the needs of provincial governments and municipalities.

Ontario is not looking for a floor under revenues, he said at Toronto. It wanted headroom.

"Ontario has not received a single cent from the new proposal. We are asking, but Ottawa is ignoring, our plea for justice and fair play."

Mr. Frost, talking to reporters after making public in the provincial legislature the gist of the federal offer, added it would not cost the federal government anything to "roll over in bed and give us what we are entitled to."

Premier Hicks, telling the Nova Scotia legislature of the concession, was non-committal.

At all events, Mr. Harris said in the Commons that the federal government feels it won't give the provinces a deeper cut of central revenues than it now has offered.

"We cannot see how we can go further," he said.

"Under all the circumstances, we believe that our offer is eminently fair and that it is reasonable and realistic in the light of federal and provincial responsibilities."

Major basis of the federal plan as outlined to the provinces at conferences here:

1. The federal treasury will make equalization payments to the provinces to lift all up to the average level of Ontario and British Columbia, the two wealthiest, in part of the income and corporation tax and succession duty fields.

2. The federal government will allow provincial taxpayers deductions against federal taxes to give provincial governments leeway in imposing their own taxes.

These proposals would replace taxental agreements between the federal government and nine provinces—all except Quebec—expiring March 31, 1957.

PC Financial Critic Sees No Election in 1956

OTTAWA (CP)—First Opposition comment on Finance Minister Harris' budget: There won't be an election this year.

J. M. Macdonnell of Toronto Greenwood, Progressive Conservative financial critic, said: "I don't think there ain't goin' to be no election this year."

Rejoined Mr. Harris: "I'm sure the honorable member for Greenwood is happy."

Mr. Macdonnell, speaking in the budget debate, said he was more surprised than ever at Liberal applause following Mr. Harris' budget speech. He didn't know why the Liberals would applause expenditure of $5,000,000,000. There was nothing else to applaud.

Mr. Harris had been represented as the "harshest boy from Markham" who was going to introduce thrift and saving in government.

HAD SAID WAIT

Last year he had given the excuse that he hadn't had a chance to come to grips with the problem and had said "wait till next year."

"This is next year and none of the promises has been carried out. The spenders have got hold of him."

Mr. Harris was good only at addition and multiplication and not subtraction or division. Trade Minister Howe was spending by the billions and people said "Good Old C. D."

Mr. Macdonnell said there is nothing to discuss in the budget. Mr. Harris' biographer would not refer to it fully.

He referred to the forecast gross national product of $28,000,000,000 for 1956, and said "you can't eat it, you can't wear it." It would not mean much to Canada's unemployed.

The federal tax-sharing offer to the provinces was a step in the right direction but only another temporary measure.

It was alarming to see Canada's trade with the U.S. regularly showing a deficit. Everyone knew what happened when spending exceeded earnings. A boom could not be relied upon to continue forever.

Suggest Shifting Sales Tax to Wholesale Level

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering a special committee recommendation to shift the 10-per-cent sales and excise tax from the manufacturer's price and applying it to the price charged by wholesalers. The recommendation also suggests that the tax be reduced.

The committee headed by Toronto accountant K. Lem. Carter, made the proposal to Finance Minister Harris.

It also urged that the minister's wide discretionary powers in levying the taxes be replaced by fixed laws or cabinet regulations and that these biger changes be made.

The controversial issue of whether big retail outlets carrying specially-branded goods are retailers or manufacturers for tax purposes be settled by defining them as manufacturers.

2. The former tax appeal board and the tariff board should be combined into a tax appeal board to hear tariff, income and sales tax appeals.

DOESN'T KNOW

Mr. Harris, in tabling the committee's 8,000-word report during his budget speech Tuesday night, told the Commons he doesn't know how far he can go this session in adopting the recommendations. They must be considered carefully because they involved fundamental changes in law structure.

He agreed with the need for greater simplicity and certainty in the Excise Tax Act. In line with this need, he announced a number of exemptions from the 10-per-cent sales tax, ranging from tar and asphalt roofing to dust-clearing systems in factories.

The three-man committee, which includes A. E. McGilvray of Oshawa, and Raymond Dupuis of Montreal, was established by Mr. Harris last July to study an overhaul of the sales-excise tax structure. It held a number of confidential hearings and made trips to Washington and Australia.

The committee evidently was impressed by what it found in Australia. The proposed shift of the tax base to the wholesale from the manufacturer's level is in line with Australian practice.

Canadian Gold Marketing Free Of Restrictions

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian gold marketing now is free of all government restrictions.

Whether this will result in a free gold market depends on Canadian gold mines. First reaction to the final lifting of the restrictions, effective immediately, would have little effect on the industry.

Removal of the restrictions was announced Tuesday night by Finance Minister Harris in his budget speech.

Canadian mines now will have the choice of selling and exporting gold freely or turning it over to the Canadian mint to collect federal subsidies on the cost of their operations. Previously they had to obtain export permits from the government.

LOSE THEIR CLAIMS

However, mines exporting gold to the world market lose their claims to federal assistance against their production costs. The subsidies now totalling $10,000,000 a year, are due to expire next December unless renewed.

Federal officials foresaw little likelihood that many subsidized mines will switch to free gold exports and lose subsidies.

They said the price for gold on the free world market now is not much higher than the official price of $35 an ounce U.S. funds, set in 1934 by the United States.

At least one of the large mines operates without federal aid and may benefit from the move. However, if the world price should rise, more mines might decide to change to free marketing of gold.

HAS REPUBED

The U.S. has consistently refused to raise the pegged price, which Canadian producers have said should be increased. The U.S., the world's main gold buyer, says such a move would be inflationary.

Mr. Harris said that Canadians and foreigners will be free to buy gold for export or for safekeeping. Export permits no longer would be necessary.

There was little export incentive five years ago when the government gave gold mines the option of exporting to the world market under permit or capitalizing for federal subsidies. At that time, the free market price was dropping.

However, lifting of safekeeping restrictions means Canadians or foreigners now could buy gold and hold it for unrestricted export later, should world prices increase. Canada placed controls on gold exports in 1931 when it and the United Kingdom went off the gold standard. The Canadian mint bought Canadian production at the official price.

The International Monetary Fund, of which Canada is a member, showed concern over the private hoarding of gold after the Second World War. In 1946, Canada blocked exports of gold that had been imported to prevent the use of this country as a haven for hoarders.

Three years later, it was found impracticable to expect uniform gold controls in all member countries and Canada relaxed rigidly-controlled gold exports.

Pay Increases Due

OTTAWA (CP) — Some pay increases are about due for civil servants, Finance Minister Harris said in his budget speech Tuesday night. But he couldn't estimate what they would be.

However, a general one-per-cent boost would cost about $30,000,000, including the required lump sum payment to the federal pension fund. In view of this, the increase may involve a "very considerable sum."

Last February, Prime Minister St. Laurent advised civil service organizations that the government is compiling information on which to base decisions on an increase, last autumn.

Special Tax Levied on Some Magazines

OTTAWA (CP)—Foreign publications such as Reader's Digest and Time magazine, with Canadian editions, are subject to a new special excise tax in the budget presented Tuesday by Finance Minister Harris.

In a move designed, the minister said, to ensure that Canadian magazines may have a better chance, the budget imposed a 25-per-cent excise tax effective next Jan. 1 on gross advertising revenues of Canadian editions of foreign periodicals containing Canadian advertising.

The tax will not apply to foreign magazines sold in Canada without change in their advertising or editorial content.

DEFINES TYPE AFFECTED

The tax resolution tabled in the Commons described a Canadian edition of a foreign periodical as:

A periodical printed in or outside of Canada for publication in Canada.

1. Containing editorial matter at least 25 per cent of which is the same or substantially the same as editorial matter contained in a non-Canadian periodical whether in the same or some other language.

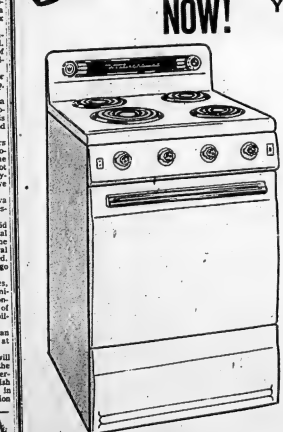
2. Containing any advertising material that is not contained in such non-Canadian periodical.

Mr. Harris said the long-run future of Canadian magazines "appears to be in jeopardy" from foreign periodicals.

Increasing inroads by these outside periodicals in both circulation and advertising sales had resulted in a number of Canadian magazines being abandoned and others reducing the number of their issues.

Mr. Harris said publication of magazines by Canadians, for Canadians, is a matter of public concern and what they have to sell, "seems to us a basic and essential thread in the fabric of our national life."

Explaining the government's decision to levy the tax, he said the diversion of advertising revenues from Canadian magazines is "far more serious" to Canadian publishers than the expansion of the foreign magazines' circulation.



The regulations, it is understood, also will apply to the Canadian editions of Better Living, Everywoman's, Family Circle, Parents' Magazine, Woman's Day, and three business magazines — the Canada Shoe Office, Canadian Farm Chemicals and Cleaning and Laundry World.

Time, printed in Chicago, has a Canadian circulation of 164,611. The English and French editions of Reader's Digest are printed in Montreal and have a combined circulation of 854,825.

Fiscal Highlights

OTTAWA (CP) — Highlights of the economic portion of Finance Minister Harris' budget speech to Parliament:

Canada's gross national production could near $36,000,000,000 in 1956, against the estimated $35,634,000,000 last year.

Canada's objective should be to maintain a steady economic growth without inflation of its stability.

While evidence points to a continued upswing in the economy, the 1956 rate of growth probably will not equal that of 1955.

The British United States economy was the biggest single factor in expansion of Canada's 1955 economy.

A major 1956 element in Canada's growth was a sharp increase in new capital expenditure.

Average individual consumption increased by four per cent in 1955, the biggest increase in the post-war era.

Finance Minister Forecasts Further Rise in Canadian Gross National Production

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris, Tuesday night forecast a further rise in the Canadian economy for 1956 but emphasized the need for economic restraint to prevent inflation.

In his second budget speech to Parliament since he took office in mid-1954, he predicted gross national production — value of all goods and services produced—will increase by five per cent in 1956 to a new high of almost $28,000,000,000.

This rise would be atop the big 19-per-cent increase in 1955 when the economy outpaced Mr. Harris' highest hopes and expanded by some $2,500,000,000 to $26,000,000,000. In his last budget he forecast the 1955 gross national product at $25,250,000,000.

"The blessings of an economy operating at a high level are pleasant indeed," said Mr. Harris, "but they bring with them new responsibilities for all of us.

"The objective should be to maintain a steady growth in economic activity without the process of expansion giving rise to inflation and instability.

"Consequently, in times like the present when private expenditures are expected to rise still further, the federal government itself has a special responsibility to see that its fiscal policies continue to be directed towards economic stability.

"The use of the flexible instruments of monetary policy is also being directed towards this objective. But careful judgment and wise spending policies are not solely matters of concern to public authorities. They are the normal responsibility of each one of us, regardless of his role in the economy."

Mr. Harris' prediction of a five-per-cent rise in the gross national product is based on the assumption there will be stable prices, average crops and no "untoward events."

RATE WILL DROP

If it materializes, it will mean a tapering off from the unusually high 10-per-cent rise of 1955, bringing the rate of climb down to the average of recent years. Normally a growth in national production enhances the government's potential tax yields.

"By virtually every standard, 1955 was a year of exceptional economic advance," said Mr. Harris, estimating the main factor that swung Canada out of the 1954 recession was renewed growth of exports led by the "briskness" of the United States economy and its demands for goods.

"Looking now to the year ahead, I feel that the evidence points to a continuation of the progress that the economy enjoyed in 1955.

"Both in the U.S. and overseas, the economic situation remains favorable so that we can anticipate a further growth in exports. Within Canada itself there are many indications that 1956 should be a year of further expansion. The present investment intentions of industry, business and governments are much higher than they were last year. . ."

LIVING COSTS STABLE

Mr. Harris observed that other countries besides Canada made economic gains in 1955, but inflation gathered at the heels of many of them. It was "highly encouraging" to see monetary and fiscal policies—rather than restrictions and controls used to counter these inflationary pressures.

As for Canada, the average cost of living remained fairly stable and of the 10 per cent increase in national production almost nine per cent represented a sheer increase in production volume, bringing a "significant" increase in the wealth and welfare of most Canadians.

Employment, wages and consumption increased through some sectors of industry and agriculture did not fully share the rate of progress. Wheat farmers had a better than average crop but deliveries in the first half of the crop year lagged.

"However, this has changed materially since the session began and sales have greatly improved."

Consumption of the average Canadian increased by four per cent, the biggest annual rise in post-war years.

But the demand for goods brought some scarcities. The Bank of Canada swung from an easy money policy to one of neutrality and then of restraint.

Besides the rise in exports and consumer spending, a large program of capital investment, including housing, was undertaken in 1955. The possibility of shortages developed for such items as steel, cement, building materials and of certain types of labor.

And so Bank of Canada policies bulked larger in shaping the economy. Its operations were increasingly directed, said Mr. Harris, towards moderating the rate of expansion in the use of credit.

Reciprocal Tax Arrangements Being Sought With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has taken two steps which may increase Canadian participation in Canadian and foreign-controlled corporations operating in Canada.

It has opened negotiations with the United States for an expansion of reciprocal tax arrangements under which Canadian subsidiaries of U.S.-controlled companies may offer more of their stock to Canadians without tax penalty.

It also has eliminated curbs on the portion of pension plan money that can be invested in common stocks.

The two steps were announced in Finance Minister Harris' budget Tuesday night.

HEARD APPEALS

The Gordon royal commission surveying Canada's economic prospects recently heard repeated appeals that the government take steps to increase Canadian participation in the growth of Canadian companies. However, finance officials say there is no link between the government moves and the report of the commission.

Under Canadian law, the tax payable by foreigners on dividends from Canada is 15 per cent. It is only five per cent on a foreign corporation owning all the shares of the company operating in Canada.

Under a reciprocal deal with Sweden, Ireland and Denmark, a company can obtain the preferred rate of five per cent if it owns more than 50 per cent of the Canadian operation. The government is currently trying to negotiate similar deals with South Africa, Australia, The Netherlands and West Germany.

But the parent firms of most foreign-owned companies operating in Canada are in the U.S.

Six years ago negotiations with the U.S. gave the preferred tax rate to U.S. companies controlling 95 per cent of the shares of their Canadian operations—instead of 100 per cent. Canadian companies operating in the U.S. got the same break.

FURTHER PROPOSAL

The Canadian government has proposed a further lowering of U.S. ownership at the preferred dividend tax rate — presumably to about 50 per cent of the stock, though Mr. Harris did not give a specific figure. The minister said he has reason to hope the proposal will be accepted in "due course."

Trustees of pension plans have been restricted by federal law to a maximum of 15 per cent of pension money which can be invested in common stock.

Mr. Harris said urgent representations were made for removal of the ceiling. He decided to eliminate it "so that trustees will be able to govern their own investment policies in the light of the particular pension requirements of the plans under their administration."

Continued Taxation at Current Rates Brings Flood of Criticism

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians, in initial reaction to Tuesday night's budget, brushed aside its story of mounting prosperity to express criticism of continued taxation at current rates.

Pre-budget warnings that few changes might be expected didn't entirely dim the hope that the Easter-season budget bunny might after all produce a gay colored egg of tax cuts—though they did help to cushion the disappointment.

T. A. Rice of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said the "conservative" cuts of 1955 have proved that a reasonable reduction in corporate and personal income taxes had little effect on government revenues.

CITES INDEX

Mr. Harris apparently had been won over by the argument that tax cuts are necessarily inflationary, said Mr. Rice, but the steadiness of the consumers' index in the last year denied the validity of this argument. In view of the minister's prediction of a $28,000,000,000 gross national product, the association felt a further tax cut was indicated.

E. C. Bow, president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, said it was difficult to understand why the excise tax on automobiles had not been reduced or eliminated. Last year's reduction to 10 per cent from 15 per cent had been followed by increased sales and increased tax revenue.

"The record shows," he states, "that this special tax is not only inequitable but economically unsound."

William A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, said: "We believe removal of this tax would help stimulate sales and maintain production and employment."

A spokesman for Ford Motor Company of Canada said the budget was "no surprise"—in the light of pre-budget statements no concessions were expected.

Francis Gregory, chairman of the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco, disappointed that there was no reduction in the 13-cents-per-pack tax on cigarets and termed the tax "unfair and antiquated."

E. H. McAteer, chairman of the Canadian stock exchange, said removal of restrictions on the sale and export of gold was "a constructive step that will be acclaimed by gold producers."

However, neither he nor V. C. Wansbrough, managing director of the Canadian Mining Association, thought the action would have much immediate effect on the gold industry.

WOULD HAVE WELCOMED

A few years ago, when gold commanded high prices on free markets, the budget action would have been greeted with cheers. Today, however, the free-market is close to the official price of $35 (U.S.) an ounce.

Few Canadian producers, it is thought, will wish to give up present emergency assistance from the government in order to sell in the free market.

Nevertheless, some felt, the feeling of the yellow metal may bring interesting—though not sensational—developments, and on a longer-range basis may have important results.

Commendation came from the magazine field for the decision to tax advertising in Canadian editions of foreign periodicals.

George Mansfield, manager of the Periodical Press Association, said the type of competition presented by these Canadian editions was of a type which did not exist anywhere else.

HELPS EQUALIZE

The 20-per-cent tax on advertising revenue would go a "fair distance" toward equalizing production costs between the foreign magazines and Canadian periodicals, but he thought a 30-per-cent differential would be closer to the mark.

Floyd S. Chalmers, president of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company, publishers of Maclean's and a number of other magazines and periodicals, said the government "has recognized the importance of Canada's own native literature in the development of our national economy and our spirit of nationhood." He hoped to see more first-rate Canadian magazines established.

Ireland's 5th Anniversary and OPEN HOUSE

The finest lines of Canadian manufactured furniture are offered by Ireland's in their new 3rd. floor furniture department open to the public for the first time this week. The entire third floor is devoted to the last word in living room furniture, featuring handsome, colorful chesterfields, comfortable davenports and chesterfields that will convert into a bed for the unexpected overnight guest. A sample of the bright furniture offered by Ireland's in their new third floor furniture department is shown above.

It's anniversary time at Ireland's Appliances and to celebrate five years of operation, the Belleville appliance store has completed an expansion program adding two additional floors to its Front St. store. From a rather modest beginning just five short years ago in the J. T. Warren building at the lower end of Front street, Ireland's have now expanded until the store has close to 9,000 feet of floor space and offers practically everything needed for the modern home. Pictured above is a section of the main floor of the store which offers a full line of appliances, living room furniture and a brand new record bar for the music lover. On the second floor is a separate department for the exclusive showing of bedroom furniture.

Albury

ALBURY — Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese spent the tea hour on a recent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, Wellington.

The Albury Ladies' Aid held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Earl Bonter with 22 in attendance. The president, Mrs. Dulven, took charge. Mrs. Cole read the Scripture reading. Roll call was answered. Ways of making money were discussed. An auction sale took place with Miss Marjorie Peck as auctioneer with nearly $10 being realized. The hostess served cookies and tea.

The Rednersville W.I. sponsored a euchre on Wednesday evening with 12 tables being in play. The prizes going to: ladies, 1st, Mrs. Earl MacKay; 2nd, Mrs. Roy Wanamaker; low, Mrs. C. Dempsey; men, 1st, Clarence Vancleef; 2nd, Eugene Yorke; low, Earl MacKay. The door prize, Mac Wallbridge. Tickets were sold on a travelling alarm clock with Mrs. Don Spencer the winner, with $39.50 receipts on the clock, $12.75 at the door. Refreshments were served.

A number of Masons, their wives and guests attended "Ladies' Night" at Amelissburg on Thursday evening. The evening was spent playing euchre with prizes given. Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, cake and ice cream, were served. Much credit goes to the program committee on the excellent program.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurter spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Earl Weese.

The Albury Juniorettes held their meeting on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lorna Bowerman with Mrs. Smith, the home economist, being present. The president, Vivian Bowerman, welcomed Mrs. Smith to the meeting. Mrs. Smith helped the girls with many suggestions which will be helpful to them, and also demonstrated the making of "bound buttonholes."

CAMPBELLFORD

Lions Club Holds Social Evening

CAMPBELLFORD— The Campbellford Lions Club were hosts to a number of Lions Clubs from the district on Wednesday evening, when a successful social night was held at the Legion Hall. James Clark, president of the local club, was in the chair.

Due to the poor driving conditions, some of the clubs from eastern points were unable to attend. They included the Napanee, Deseronto, Odessa and Trenton clubs. However, a good representation from the Belleville, Frankford and Brighton clubs attended.

The group enjoyed community singing and three movies were shown by Irene Spencer of Brighton. Don Baldwin of Campbellford led the community singing and Donna Sharp accompanied at the piano.

A draw was held for six prizes donated by the various organizations.

Lion Marshall Sills played a number of selections on the marimba, accompanied by Miss Donna Sharp at the piano, Don Baldwin also sang a number of timely comedy Irish songs.

The evening proved to be such a success that other similar social evenings are being planned for the future.

The girls showed Mrs. Smith their record books and sleeping garments. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clyesdale and Douglas of Hastings, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese.

SOFTBALL CONFAB

It is expected that some three hundred delegates representing all parts of Ontario will converge on the King Edward Hotel Easter weekend for the annual Ontario Amateur Softball Association's annual convention.

The get-together bids fair to not only be the largest collection of softball dignitaries to gather under one roof in the history of the association, but its agenda indicates plenty of work ahead for the delegates.

The host club, the Metropolitan Toronto Softball Association, has left no stones unturned to make the occasion a very enjoyable one. There will be a ladies' theatre party; reception and refreshments; a men's stag party; a buffet luncheon apart from the general banquet slated for Good Friday noon. There will be a civic welcome extended at this function which will be under the competent chairmanship of friend Bunny Morgansen, Yairyrus "Sports Slants" columnist. In the "argument" ball some 29 amendments and additions to the constitution and rules will be presented for adoption or rejection, and some of them appear mighty important.

The association executive has a proposed bylaw change demanding membership fees in all categories be doubled. The present bylaw calls for senior, $35; senior "B", $15; intermediate series each $10; minor series $5.00 and girls $10. The Toronto branch has entered a proposed change calling for increases of senior, $35; senior "B", $25; intermediate "A" and "AA," $15; industrial, $15, and junior "A" and juvenile "A" $10.

Hamilton District Association wants umpires playoff fees upped to $10 each umpire; intermediate series, $6.50 each; junior and juvenile series $4.00 each; midget; bantam and peewee $3.00 each umpire.

The executive committee also wants to delete the rule affecting championship playoffs which calls for "bantam and peewee series shall consist of home and home games within the zones with zone winners meeting in a central place for the provincial championship in a tournament competition."

Toronto wants all players of a team to be garbed in identical uniforms and that includes the pitcher. Hamilton wants to eliminate the wearing of white or cream shoes or gloves by pitchers.

Toronto will ask for elimination of the rule that a penalty for a balk is a called ball by the umpire and all play is dead. Instead it wants every runner to advance a base in case of a balk. It also wants a base-running rule changed to fit all series, which reads: "A ball leaves the pitcher's hand, runners may advance at their own risk."

Hamilton Umpires Association wants officials to call interference whenever a defensive player obstructs a runner unless he is attempting to field a batted ball or has the ball in his possession. All runners shall be permitted to advance a base, but can advance further at their own risk. The present rule calls for the runner affected to advance with others dead or at their own risk.

These are but a few of the proposed changes and amendments so it looks like a real hot old-fashioned argumentative session.

Not the least important will be the election of officers. One important post to be filled is that of the secretary. Frank Fearn, who has held the position efficiently for the past thirteen years has announced his retirement and claims have been received for the job, among them sports editor pal George H. (Soup) Campbell of Oshawa.

President John Brady of Oshawa will start the second year of his two-year term. Four have been nominated for the first and second vice presidencies. And there should be quite an election battle for the third vice job. Seven nominations have been accepted for the position with Eastern Ontario represented in Don Lee of Brockville and H. Dunbar of Peterborough. Both these gentlemen have also been nominated for re-election to the executive proper.

Lee's nomination marks the first attempt of Eastern Ontario east of Oshawa, to enter the seats of the executive mighty in the number of years. And with softball expanding down thisaway at a highly appreciable rate, it is felt the area should have representation in the vice-presidential ranks. Lee is said to be the logical choice and will likely get the support of delegates from this area including Prince Edward and Kingston. Representatives of the district should make it a point to attend the convention and throw their entire weight behind their district nominees.

In all thirty-one men have been nominated for four-teen positions. The only acclamation goes to treasurer Lloyd Aigaire of St. Catharines, who has served in that capacity since 1934.

Gary McLeod of Toronto, who has been nominated for the secretaryship, has been appointed to the executive of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. The OMHA veteran secretary Jack Christie is said to be retiring this year and likely McLeod will be favored for that position.

Belleville District Softball League is sending President Cy Barrage, vice penny Bill Berschi, and "Rod" Carson as official voting delegates. This department will go along to view the proceedings from the press tables.

Rocket Explodes for Three In Near-Perfect Offensive; Detroit Scores Trio in 3rd

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The master-minding contest between two rookie coaches getting their baptism in Stanley Cup hockey stands 1-0 in Toe Blake's favor today, thanks to the near-perfect offensive of his Montreal Canadiens and the explosive power of the amazing Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

With coach Phil Watson looking on almost-in disbelief at what he saw, New York Rangers absorbed a 7-1 lacing in the opening game of their cup semi-final Tuesday night.

The man who led the rout and all but mopped up the Rangers single-handed was the fiery 34-year-old Rocket, who scored three goals with ease. Blair he has shown through the 14 long seasons he has toiled in the National Hockey League.

DEFENSIVE MISTAKE

Watson and his Rangers were licked virtually from the start when they decided to play defensive hockey against the powerful Montreal machine. The tactics paid off only briefly. It was apparent to the 13,611 fans that it was only a question of time before something happened. Then the New York strategy was blown sky high.

Along with Richard's hat trick came a new record night in the (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and singles by Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau, the latter a scoring champion this season.

Defenseman Jack Evans scored New York's goal after Canadiens had set up a 2-0 lead. It came at 6:45 of the second period on a perfect goalmouth pass by Danny Lewicki and Evans' hard, accurate shot.

The crown was puzzled to see the Rangers unwilling to play it wide open—suddenly fall back into the old kitty-bar-the-door style at the opening of the first period.

They took no chances. They lobbed the puck back into the centre ice area time and again, waiting for breaks. They paid closest attention to Beliveau, keeping centre Dave Creighton shadowing Beliveau's every move.

DROVE AHEAD

Canadiens kept driving in, barging through the packed Ranger defence and winging 13 shots at goalie Lorne Worsley in the opening period. The Rangers had only four shots on Jacques Plante in the Montreal net—two of them long lifts.

When the pressure on the Rangers, and particularly Worsley, became too steady, the New Yorkers calmly iced the puck deliberately and dropped back again.

Geoffrion was the man who finally beat the little goalie, and the Rangers had only their licing tactics to blame. Directly from the faceoff in the New York end, Beliveau got the draw from Evans. The puck went straight to Geoffrion's stick and he let fire for the first goal at 13:46 of the first period.

The Rangers stuck to their defensive strategy when the second period opened but the Canadiens drive was steadily gathering momentum and it took them only little more than four minutes to take a 2-0 lead on the Rocket's first goal. He swept in fast to score on Gump Worsley's rebound.

HOOKING PENALTY

Evans got the Rangers back into the game temporarily at 6:45, but when Bill Gadsby drew a penalty for hooking Geoffrion late in the period, the Montreal power play struck swiftly for two goals.

Geoffrion slapped in Beliveau's rebound at 17:48 and the Rocket backhanded Moore's pass high into the net at 18:20.

That was enough of defensive style for Watson. With his team down three goals he let them open up in the third period. But it was too late. Their offence couldn't get rolling against the smart forechecking and back-checking of Canadiens and the New York defence was still no better than it was in the earlier periods.

DETROIT (CP) — Detroit Red Wings, the deposed National Hockey League champions, terrified their supporters for two periods Tuesday night before wrecking Toronto Maple Leafs in five devastating minutes of third-period play to pull out a 3-2 victory in the opening game of their Stanley Cup semi-final.

The Wings, solidly favored on the strength of their second-place finish as opposed to the Leafs' last-ditch appearance in the fourth and last playoff spot, were trailing by two goals and deserved the deficit before they came to life.

It was the familiar combination of right winger Gordie Howe and defenceman Red Kelly that started the Detroit comeback as the perennial Red Wing scoring ace slammed home Kelly's pass from behind the net before the third period was a minute old.

TWO PICTURE PLAYS

After that Alex Delvecchio took over with two picture plays within 42 seconds, one setting up rookie Johnny Bucyk for the tying goal, the other producing the game-winner at two-foot range.

George Armstrong and Ron Stewart had produced the two key goals, one in each of the first two periods.

The Wings, blanked 2-0 by the Leafs in the opening night's game that boosted Toronto into the playoffs, were the more aggressive in Tuesday night's early going.

Given a break when veteran Leaf defenceman Jimmy Thomson took a minor penalty for hooking the puck, Detroit couldn't get a shot at the Toronto goal while they had the two-man advantage.

When Thomson returned, the Leafs put the pressure on goalie Glenn Hall and were rewarded at 11:37 when Armstrong deflected Dick Duff's drive past the Detroit netminder with both teams a man short.

CAROM SHOT

In the second period Toronto defenceman Marc Reaume caromed a 30-footer into the net of the leg of Stewart, giving the Leaf winger credit for his first goal in three years of Stanley Cup competition. That brought Detroit to life, but Leaf goalie Harry Lumley bolstered their best efforts.

The Howe-Kelly goal in the third period was the deciding point. After Lindsay was robbed of another tally by the Toronto goalie, Delvecchio drove down the length of the rink and fed Bucyk a perfect pass at point-blank range.

The game-winner was even faster. Metro Prystai lifted the puck loose from a goalmouth scramble and fed it to Delvecchio, who stickhandled until he found an opening and drove it home at point-blank range.

Boxer Testifies Told to Throw Three Fights

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former lightweight boxer Tommy Campbell testified before the governor's special investigating committee on boxing Tuesday that he was told to throw three fights, one to Art Aragon here and the other two to Del Flanagan in Minneapolis.

He lost by a knockout to Aragon May 16, 1950, but beat Flanagan June 21, 1951, and drew in a rematch on July 19, 1951.

Aragon is the biggest drawing card in Los Angeles boxing and Flanagan has been a favorite in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

Campbell, who fought out of Rock Island, Ill., followed Babe McCoy, fight promoter of Los Angeles' Olympic Auditorium, to the witness stand. Campbell testified McCoy gave him instructions to lose the Aragon and Flanagan instances.

Then McCoy was on the stand he denied telling Campbell to "take a dive" in the Aragon bout, denied he told Campbell he was to fight Flanagan, and denied he told Campbell to ground for Aragon-Flanagan bout following the Campbell-Flanagan fight.

About the Aragon fight, Campbell testified:

"The deal was arranged by George Moore, my manager, and Babe McCoy at a meeting shortly before the bout."

Earlier he had said: "We got the details after McCoy took me I could have a good pay day with Flanagan the..."

Campbell testified that shortly before the fight he told his manager Moore he "didn't like the deal. Let's try to beat them."

He said Moore and McCoy met with him and Moore said "I couldn't try to win because he's already guaranteeing we'd lose. I was told to make it look good the first seven round and I was to get hit and that was to be all... I had him down in the second round and then went down in the third."

In the Dressing Rooms

MONTREAL (CP) — Rocket Richard, who scored three goals, came up with the best crack of the night after Montreal Canadiens had mopped up New York Rangers 7-1 in the opening game of their Stanley Cup semi-final.

"It has been a long time since I score in a playoff," said the colorful right winger without cracking a smile.

Just a year ago the Rocket didn't even get into the playoffs—the decree of president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League. The Rocket was sidelined for a wild outburst in Boston in the final week of the regular NHL season.

LOST STITCHES

Richard came out of Tuesday night's game minus two of the five stitches that were put in his head last Thursday when he came a cropper in a game against Chicago Black Hawks.

"My head doesn't feel sore so I'll get the rest taken out now," he said. "I lost two of them somehow in a scramble."

Toe Blake—a rookie coach this season just like Phil Watson of the Rangers—said he thought the game was "a little too easy" and that he was sure of that. "It'll be tougher for his players.

"It wasn't like a playoff game," said Blake, "but I'm not taking anything for granted. The Rangers can and will be tougher than they were tonight.

"They tried something—that defensive style—and if they had got a couple of breaks and goals to go with them it would have made a big difference."

WATSON DOWNCAST

Coach Watson obviously was downcast at the licking his team took but said "We're not quitting, you can be sure of that."

Since he took over the Rangers this season Watson's team has absorbed eight straight defeats on Montreal ice—seven of them in the regular season.

Asked about the defensive style of play he came up with, Watson said:

"Well, we had to try something. We couldn't play like the Canadiens here all season. I don't know what we will try in Thursday's game. I'll have to think about it tomorrow."

SET TRAP'S DATES

CALGARY (CP)—The first Dominion trapshooting championships will be held here June 28 to July 2. The shoot is expected to become an annual event. This year it will also be considered the qualifying match for Canada's two - man Olympic team.

DETROIT (AP)—General manager Jack Adams shook his head Tuesday night as he contemplated his Detroit Red Wings after their 3-2 come-from-behind victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in the opening game of the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

"This is a funny club," he said. "They look very ordinary out there and then all of a sudden they get mad—and there goes ball."

And there the Leafs were. With two periods gone, their two-goal lead looked safe enough.

BACK ON HEELS

But in the space of five minutes the Leafs were back on their heels, scrambling unsuccessfully to catch up after Detroit's savage three-goal outburst.

"Brother, do they make you sweat before they win," said Detroit coach Jimmy Skinner. Adams joined in: "That certainly was a terrific comeback. Gordie Howe was the spark they needed to get going."

The Toronto dressing room was quiet, as expected. The Leafs had been on top and on the way. Now they were once more underdogs and even more of an underdog to wrest back the series from the Wings.

ROCKY ON TOUR

COMPLETES SQUAD

NEW YORK (AP)—The eastern squad for the annual East-West college all-star basketball game at Madison Square Garden March 31 was completed Tuesday with the addition of a towering University of Kentucky centre and a star North Carolina State guard.

The newest additions are Bob Burrow, 6-7 tiln who has been Kentucky's top offensive man for the last two years, and Vic Molodet, a 5-11 playmaker who is one of N.C. State's smallest performers.

Penstroke Could Have Averted Dublinski's Legal Headaches

TORONTO (CP)—A lawyer says football star Tom Dublinski could have saved himself a lot of trouble with a simple stroke of the pen.

P.S.C. Pepper of Toronto told the Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday Dublinski, 26 - year - old quarterback, knew what he was doing when he signed with Detroit Lions of the National Football League and must have realized Lions had an option on his services for a second season.

Dublinski left Lions to join Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union last season. Argonauts gave him a two-year agreement at $17,500 a season.

"There's no question here of his not knowing what he was signing in Detroit," Mr. Pepper charged during the second day of a $10,000 breach-of-contract suit against the ace quarterback.

COULD HAVE DELETED

He said if Dublinski didn't like the option clause in the 1954 contract with Lions he could have deleted it.

"It would only have taken a stroke of the pen," the Detroit counsel said.

Lions started proceedings against Dublinski in order to have the validity in Canadian courts of the option clause recognized in United States agreements. They seek an injunction binding him to the Detroit contract until next May 1.

The case is being heard by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer. If the court upholds the validity of the option clause it could have far-reaching effects in Canadian football.

MADE COMPARISON

Earlier in the day Chief Justice McRuer compared American football contracts to 19th - century slavery conditions.

"It is the element of trading in human services that is bothering me," he said. "I thought that was done away with in 1863."

The chief justice referred to a section of Dublinski's 1954 Detroit contract which states the team may assign the services of a player to another club in the 12-team NFL.

Mr. Pepper said the "analogy to slavery" is not quite accurate since players could not be compelled to play for any football team.

Nick Kerbawy, Lions general manager, said Dublinski told him early in 1955 that he had been talking contract with Argos.

"I told him we had an option on his services," Kerbawy said. He quoted Dublinski as replying: "Options aren't legal—they told me that in Toronto."

Kerbawy said that in order for a player to become a free agent he had to notify his club he intended to leave the team and then play out the option period of his contract.

He admitted the option was "a theoretical thing" because the player always accepted a new contract.

"Without the option, professional sport would be in a state of havoc," Kerbawy said. "The option clause gives the ballplayer the opportunity to make himself a free agent rather than the himself for life to our club or any other club."

'Quare Times' Scratched from Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Quare Times, favorite for the Grand National Saturday, will not run in the race, his trainer announced Tuesday night.

Quare Times won the big race last year. The Irish-trained gelding who is 10 years old was listed as 8-to-1 favorite in the most recent betting callover Monday.

His odds had come down from 100 to 8 because of fear that a bruised foot could have hurt him in the practice miles, 880 yards of the steeplechase over 30 jumps.

Quare Times is owned by Mrs. Cecily Welman of Ireland.

Next favored in Monday's betting callover were the Queen Mother's Devon Loch and Mrs. G. Kohn's Sundew, both at 10 to 1. Then came Mrs. W. L. Pilking-ton's Royal at 100 to 8.

A second horse also was withdrawn Tuesday. Ben Alsop turned up with a leg injury and the trainer, Ken Maudsley, said he would not be able to get the horse ready in 200-to-1 outsider.

There are two scratches left astield of 35 still in the picture. Only about 30 are expected to run.

Burkemo Leads Seminole Tourney

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Walter Burkemo fired a 70 to win the professional division of the Seminole golf tournament in 279 winds Tuesday, finishing two strokes ahead of Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Most of the second day scores in the 36-hole tournament were considerably higher because of the erratic winds. Burkemo's two-day score was 65-70—138. He won $1,-800.

Jack Fleck, United States Open champion who had matched Burkemo's 65 in the first round, shot a 72 and slipped to a tie at 141 for third place with Ed Furgol of St. Louis, Mo.

Kroll and his partner, Herbert Schetter, a New York amateur, won the pro-am best ball division with a score of 62-62—124. Kroll earned $1,000 for his performance in addition to another $1,000 for taking second in the professional division.

Sam Snead and William G. Curran, Detroit, were second in the pro-am tournament with 65-63—128. They received $500 plus $112.50 for a 75-71—146 in the professional division.

Shamrocks Whip Porkies 6-2

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Shamrocks had too much power for South Porcupine Combines Tuesday night as they dumped the visitors 6-2 in a penalty-studded eastern Canada Memorial Cup hockey quarter-final opener.

Second game of the best-of-five series, in which all games will be played here, is slated for tonight and the third on Friday.

Shamrocks grabbed a 3-0 first period lead on markers by Tony Lesnick, Guy Beauregard and Ron O'Neil. The Combines came back to make it 3-2 after about a minute of the middle stanza but Shamrocks added one more before the period ended and sank two lone counters in the third.

Lions Sign Canadian Players

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Tuesday signed their first new Canadian players for the 1956 season.

Both are linemen. They are Bill Kushnir, high school teacher and football coach in New Westminster, B.C., and Calgary Stampeder lineman Ron Atchison, 24, and Ken Arkell, 24-year-old two-way tackle and defensive end who is a native of Bayfield, Ont.

Arkell played with Western in 1953 and 1954 and is now attending Waterloo College.

Judge Refuses To Continue Santee Injunction

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a brand-new ball game, under any flag, Riverside Santee had his innings, then the American Athletic Union came on for relief and today the contest is deadlocked.

At the moment Santee, No. 1 U.S. miler, is out of Saturday's Chicago Daily News relays. Jim Ucles Walter A. Lynch saw to that Tuesday in New York Supreme Court when he refused to continue a temporary injunction which barred the AAU from enforcing its lifetime ban on Santee.

The jurist, however, can—and probably will—make a ruling in the case before Saturday. If he decides in Santee's favor and grants a permanent injunction, then the skinny marine corps lieutenant is free to run anywhere, anytime.

RAN COULD CONTINUE

If he rules in favor of the AAU, the ban—imposed by the executive committee in 1953 after the body found Santee guilty of accepting excessive expenses—goes back into effect for good.

Then Santee's only redress would be an appeal to the AAU board of governors, the supreme power in the organization.

Justice Lynch heard arguments by Charles P. Grimes, Santee's attorney, and Louis Pizer, representing the AAU. When he called a halt to the proceedings, he said: "I don't hear from you please today. It is possible that he will make his decision today."

Tuesday's action brought the AAU up even with Santee, who had won three other court battles. After he was suspended, Santee obtained an injunction and ran in a couple of races. The AAU was handed down by the appellate division when it sought to have the injunction set aside. Then, last week, another New York judge granted Santee a stay of the injunction.

Yank Trackmen Favored in Montreal Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — A strong American contingent will be featured in many of the top events at Friday night's Canadian indoor championships sponsored by the Province of Quebec Track and Field Association.

Despite the array of Americans, three Canadians stand good chances of taking titles. They are Dick Eastend of the University of Toronto, who will compete in both the 50-yard sprint and the 300-yard run; John Moule of Hamilton in the mile, and Rolland Michaud of Montreal in the two-mile.

Harding, who ran a close second to Andy Stanfield of the United States in Hamilton last week, looks about the pick for the sprint Friday.

Thomas Ready To Accept Swim Challenge

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Bert Thomas, Tacoma swimmer who conquered the Strait of Juan de Fuca last summer, is ready to accept a challenge by Toronto's Cliff Lumsdon for a match race across the strait this summer.

"I consider it an honor to be challenged by Lumsdon," Thomas said Tuesday. "He's one of the outstanding swimmers in the world and I accept."

Lumsdon, 24, was the only challenger in the Lake Ontario marathon swim last summer and collected $25,000.

Thomas said the news came as a surprise to him and that he has received no letter with a formal challenge. "It was a pleasant surprise, though," Thomas added.

The swim would more than likely be in July, Thomas said. He added that he phoned Victoria and was told that efforts were under way to raise $15,000 for the race.

"I know those waters, 7 Thomas said. "I know I can make it across from north to south this time."

Ryder Urges Race Across Fuca Strait

TORONTO (CP) — Swimming coach Gus Ryder Tues. proposed a winner-take-all race between Toronto's Cliff Lumsdon and Bert Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., over a course to be tricky Juan de Fuca strait.

Thomas, husky former United States marine, is the only conqueror of the 18.5-mile strait between Victoria and Fort Angeles on the U.S. coast.

Lumsdon last year won the Canadian National Exhibition's marathon swim over a special course after choppy waters prevented the customary open - lake course in Lake Ontario.

Vimy Defeats Napanee 9-3 In 'C' Playdown

NAPANEE. (Special) — Larry McKegan's three goals paced the Kingston Vimy Signals to a 9-3 victory over Napanee here last night, to give the army squad a 1-0 game lead in the second round of the intermediate 'C' playdowns and the Eastern Ontario title.

The second game is being played in Napanee Thursday night with the third tilt scheduled for the Kingston Community center with the date to be announced.

Bob Joyce with three goals and five assists and Jack Aitken with two and two helped linemate McKegan spark the Vimy offensive. The line accounted for sixteen scoring points. LaRoche and Hamilton scored the others.

The winners scored three goals in each period with Napanee getting two in the first frame and the third in the second.

Billy Strahan accounted for two of the Napanee goals with Timmy Williams getting the other.

Referees Art Casterton and Stan Scrutton handed out eleven penalties with seven going to the winners.

Referee Denies Tossing Punches

SUDBURY (CP) — Basketball referee Carlie Prince says he didn't exchange blows with anyone in a confusing climax to a basketball game here Saturday night between Sudbury Merchants and Toronto YMHA.

A CP story from Sudbury Sunday night reported that a fight developed after the game between Prince and guard Bob Kuttner of YMHA. Kuttner said in Toronto Monday that he didn't get into a fight with anyone although he called Prince a "lousy referee."

Prince Monday confirmed the player's story, saying there was a lot of shoving and confusion at the end of the game but he didn't exchange blows with Kuttner nor anyone else.

Sudbury won the game 69-67 and took the best-of-three series for the Interlo senior B title 2-0.

Babe Zaharias Back for Checkup

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Babe Zaharias, woman athlete of the half century, said Tuesday night she is "feeling today" in Galveston, Tex., hospital for a checkup.

The famous womas golfer, who is battling a second attack of cancer, disclosed her plans in an interview with Sol Fleischman, WDAE sportscaster. She said her wig is gaining her and she expects to be gone three or four weeks for x-ray treatments.

"I hope and pray," she said, "that by the end of the year I will be able to get back on the golf circuit with the girls."

Spring Training Notes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the spring a young man's thoughts turn to many things. Some of the older guys are concentrating their efforts on finding jobs in major league baseball.

Ellis Kinder, 41, is trying to find a new life with the St. Louis Cardinals. Sal Maglie, 38, is out to show Cleveland he still has something left in his right arm. Howie Pollet, 35, is being given a tryout with the Chicago White Sox after being released by the Cubs. And Wally Westlake, 35, is bidding for an outfield spot with the Philadelphia Phillies after getting the pink slip from Baltimore.

Now comes Max Lanier, forty years old last Aug. 18, the southpaw pitcher is being given the once-over by the Phillies. Out of baseball last year, Lanier made his appearance of the spring Tuesday, pitching two innings as the Phils trounced Washington 7-1. Max gave up one hit and a run in two innings.

FOUR HOMERS

In other games, the Chicago Cubs, with home runs by Ernie Banks, Hank Sauer, Walt Moryn and Ed Winceniak, walloped the Indians 14-7. The Cincinnati Redlegs nailed down a 13 hits to beat Pittsburgh Pirates 10-3 behind the effective pitching of Dusty Minacin and Tom Acker. The Kansas City As rallied for three runs in the ninth, two on Harry Simpson's homer, to edge Milwaukee Braves 5-4.

St. Louis Cards snapped the five-game winning streak of New York Yankees 3-2 on an unearned run made possible by two errors by Yanks' pitcher Johnny Kucks. Dusty Rhodes slammed two homers and a double to lead New York Giants to a 9-5 victory over Baltimore. And Brooklyn Dodgers Sandy Koufax held the Red Sox to a row, clubbing Detroit Tigers 8-2.

MAY BE FINISHED

MELBOURNE (AP) — Shirley Strickland, Olympic 80 - metre hurdles champion, may be finished as a hurdler according to Tuesday's Melbourne Argus.

"I have a deep-seated injury in the right thigh and can't raise a leg over the hurdles," Shirley is quoted as saying.

Scorecard Error Changes Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Failure of referee Frankie Brown to check his scorecard during Monday night's 10-round bout between Frankie Campos and Joey Benson is "was quite a stupid thing," a spokesman for the California State Commission said Tuesday.

Brown, sole official for the bout, turned in a card scoring at 54½ to 54½ and the decision was announced as a draw. Most of the crowd had left San Francisco Garden by the time ring inspector Al Sandell re-totalled the card and discovered Benson actually was the winner, 55½ to 54½.

"A good referee would have gone back and checked his card between rounds. In a close fight like that," said Willie Ritchie, former welterweight champion who now is chief inspector for the athletic commission's northern section.

Ritchie said it was virtually impossible that Benson would be given a decision.

Loses $32,000 TV Winnings

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert Bennett, 40-year-old Georgia store clerk, has failed in a bid for the grand prize on "The $64,000 Question."

He thereby loses his winnings of $32,000 piled up over the weeks by answering questions about Abraham Lincoln on the CBS television show. He received an expensive automobile as a consolation prize.

Bennett lost out Tuesday night by not knowing how much Lincoln offered to compensate the states per slave for voluntary emancipation. Bennett guessed $2,000. Master of ceremonies Hal March said $400 was the figure.

Bennett was the first contestant on the show to gamble for the grand prize and lose. Three have won the $64,000 prize.

Right before your eyes can be the winning play in solving a difficult contract. It may elude you in a hasty survey. But the answer can be with careful study in the early play.

You will find a good example of this in the deal shown here:

NORTH

♥Q 4
♦J 7 5 3 2
♣K 8 6

WEST
♠9
♥J 10 9 8

SOUTH
♠A Q 8 5 4 2
♥A
♦A K 10
♣9 4 3

South was declarer at a small slam contract of six spades. If the opening lead from west had been a small club, south would have had momentary jitters. But the result could have been the same.

However, the opening west led was the most natural, his heart jack; top of the sequence. With such a lead the declarer gets a moment to catch his breath and plan what to do.

If a diamond finesse is successful west has the club and the contract is in. Because south can dump a club on the good second diamond in dummy. The plan is not the best to try.

Establishment of a suit for sluffing is a safer play than the taking of a finesse. So, dummy won the heart with his heart and led heart queen on which the south diamond was sluffed.

A trump from dummy was won by south who cashed the ace and king of diamonds. Dummy was entered with a trump to the jack.

A third diamond was ruffed by south and dummy was entered with a trump to the king.

The four remaining dummy diamonds were now set up. On them south jumped with two of his spade trumps. And now it matters not who has the heart clubs because only one club trick can be lost.

The opening lead from west might have been the ace of clubs. In that case it might have taken a load off the declarer faster. But in that case, too, the plan that was used would apply.

Chances are two to one that five unseen cards split three-two. Chances are even that a finesse will work. A good bridge player will select the play with most chances in his favor. Take the edge.

Canadian Army Radio Station Goes on Air

WERL, Germany (CP) — "The Voice of the Canadian Army in Europe" goes on the air Wednesday.

The army radio station, located at Fort Pepys near here, will broadcast programs designed specifically for the 10,000 Canadian soldiers and their families in Germany.

The programs will include all major CBC music and drama shows, with delayed airing of Canadian news and major sports events.

It will provide a close link with home for the troops, members of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group.

Construction of the 250-watt radio station and transmitting tower overlooking the Ruhr river was originally to have been completed last Christmas, but construction delays caused postponement.

Operation of the station has been delegated to two members of the CBC. They are Jack Craine of Montreal, formerly of CBC's international service, who will be station manager and program director, and Andre Hebert, former Montreal television announcer, who will be chief announcer and station producer.

The staff will include German technicians and clerks, with Canadian volunteer announcers and operators selected from the troops.

Construction was carried out by German contractors under the direction of the Royal Canadian Engineers.

TO HONOR TROTSKY

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Russian government plans to pay special homage to the memory of Leon Trotsky, who was assassinated in 1940, his former private secretary said Tuesday. Trotsky came here in 1937 after being forced into exile during his struggle with Stalin for power after Lenin died. Felipe Alvahuante, his secretary for the three years, now says Russian diplomats are inviting Trotsky admirers to attend the Nov. 7 Red revolution ceremonies in Moscow.

Does Public Care Who Won 'Emmy' Awards? Asks Writer

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Does anyone care who won the "Emmy" awards presented by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences?

Certainly the winners care, as do their fiercest partisans—fans, close friends, agents, networks and sponsors. But does the public?

First of all, it's doubtful how widely the public has been informed. There were 41 categories of winners, a much longer story than I think many newspapers could find the space to print. And, powerful as television is as a communications medium, most people still learn what's happening in TV only through their papers.

The academy put an additional crimp in publicizing its awards by selecting late Saturday evening to begin announcing the winners—and then dragging out the announcement interminably in what was almost the duliest 90-minute program of the year as viewed on NBC-TV. It seems unlikely that much of the public stayed with that program.

So it ended up with television talking to itself. And what incredible bores some witty people turned out to be as they appeared on that tiresome 90-minute program. I stuck with it, but only through a sense of duty. At the end of the ordeal, only 25 of the 41 winning categories had been announced.

This was chiefly because a lot of sharp wits had been conned into writing a lot of prepared stale jokes. George Gobel, Jimmy Durante and Sam Levenson were quenched by an avalanche of glacial indifference from the bored audiences gathered in New York and Hollywood. Only Phil Silvers struck sparks; it appeared that he threw away his script and went it alone. He well deserves the three Emmys awarded him and his show.

It's difficult to see how one could make much of a quarrel with the awards themselves. In voting, the academy membership—confined to members of the industry—selected outstanding performers and performances. There simply were so many categories that the total result made the total effort seem a bit silly.

The reason, of course, was that the academy has been split by east- and west-coast factions. The only means of healing the wounds appeared to be to answer all complaints by creating more categories.

One hopes that the number can be cut down next year.

Stanwyck and Cagney Fine Team in 'All Our Yesterdays'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Whether they're on a baseball diamond, a tennis court or a movie stage, it's wonderful to watch the pros at work.

Two of the best are working together out at MGM these days on Barbara Stanwyck and James Cagney, playing in All Our Yesterdays. Together they know just about all there is to know about film acting.

They went through the rehearsal of a long scene with utter precision. Yet despite their familiarity with the scene, there was nothing mechanical about their work. As I watched them, I couldn't help comparing their craftsmanship with the new "T-shirt and tantrum" school of acting.

Afterwards, I collared Cagney and asked him what he thought about these young actors.

"Well, it seems to me it's all a difference between the subjective and objective schools of acting," he replied. "These kids believe acting is all subjective. They bury themselves in the character actor and get so wrapped up that they don't let the audience in on it. I think that's a mistake.

"I still think acting is a matter of projection. You work out a character, then you project it to the audience. That's all there is to it."

Sounds simple, doesn't it? But it becomes an art when practised by a James Cagney. The Cagney well be rewarded for it with another Oscar tonight. He was nominated for his deftly shaded role as "the Gimp" in Love Me or Leave Me.

Even his selection of a limp in that picture illustrates Cagney's craftmanship.

"I talked to a dozen different friends of Ike Snyder's," Cagney related. "They gave me 11 different versions of what his limp was like. So I had to devise my own.

"I decided right off that I didn't want to use a mechanical device. I saw what happened to John Derek, who wore one in Run For Cover. It bothered him all the time. I wanted something that would characterize him, but would not be the star of the story."

He finally achieved the affect by swinging his body out and slapping it to the ground. That's not how the intense young performers would do it. They'd probably strap

U.S. Contractor Will Man Radar Warning Line

OTTAWA (CP)—The DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic will be manned and operated by an American civilian contractor.

Under reason for this decision is that Canada hasn't enough technicians for the job, officials say. Some 1,200 men will be required to man the Canadian section of the 3,000-mile line. Canada Greenland line when it goes into operation, possibly next year.

Paul Hellyer, parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister Campney, said Tuesday in the Commons that Canada and the United States have agreed that the DEW line, being built along the 70th parallel by the U.S., should be manned and operated by a civilian contractor selected by the U.S. government.

A Canadian-American military group will be located at each main station in the DEW line and will have control over its purely military functions, he said.

SUBMITTED TENDERS

Outside of Cominoss, it was learned Canadian and American firms submitted tenders for the DEW line work and that a U.S. company won the contract.

A Washington report said it was learned the Federal Electric Co., a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., was selected for the contract.

It is to run for three years. Canada reserves the right to take over manning of all or any part of the line in this country after expiration of the three-year period.

Mr. Hellyer also announced the government is considering the possibility of a civilian contractor maintaining and operating the $170,000,000 mid-Canada radar warning line being built under RCAF supervision along the 55th parallel.

This was another indication that Canada will use armed forces technicians in the telecommunications and electronics field. American servicemen help in man the $328,000,000 Pinetree radar network in southern Canada.

PASS EXTRA FUNDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives Tuesday passed a bill allowing an extra $72,000,000 for construction of the radar warning system known as the "DEW line." The action, increasing the total appropriation to $778,837,000, sent the measure to the White House.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, March 22, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Sturdy matters, sound investments, profitable buys in real estate, all things valuable are under fine Jupiter rays. Saturn's aspect favors hard work, mining, rail-roading, mechanics, trades.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You can enjoy and profit this day. Engineering, building, carpentry, handling tools, machinery highly favored and you are gifted in these lines. Finances sponsored if properly handled.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A good day for important undertakings, starting new business, if cautious about personal conduct, sound, for seeking counsel of lawyers, judges, physicians, etc. Financial matters encouraged.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Florists, farmers, agriculturists, plumbers, psychanics can advance with Saturn's augmentation. Achievement can be made in your specific interests. Shift, artistry high today.

July 24 to August 23 — (Leo) — Progress may be slow in some undertakings but day is generally favorable to business gains, money matters, mechanical and industrial trades. You can fit in solid and benefit.

August 24 to September 22 — (Virgo) — This should be a stimulating day for matters pertaining to property, leasing, building, science. Stars are also friendly to conservative financial dealings and mental activities.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Your Venus' position is cautious about personal conduct, selfishness, excesses of all kinds. Otherwise day should be favorable for sound business and work matters, repairing, rebuilding and the like.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio) — Saturn is a friendly planet to Scorpios, and Saturn is well aspected now, as is Jupiter, which favors ambitions and advantageous day for difficult, useful and personal interests.

November 24 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Good influences in your Jupiter sector (hobbies, money interests), but you must be careful nevertheless, to benefit and not lose out through recklessness. Use logic.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Be optimistic but sensibly so. Examine day's schedule carefully and don't fear failure but resolutely attack what you must. Good going.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Uranus' position does not advise quick and unexpected decisions or moves. Do not take too long over unimportant details, however. Day's returns can be good if you do your best sincerely.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Many interesting and new subjects, perhaps new clients, conferences to aid business deals indicated, now. Unusual dividends for you who step out profitsensily and do not fear defeat.

You born today have many desirable attributes, talent galore; are usually modest, considerate of others. You may have to prod yourself on or perhaps one of your loved ones may have to urge you to show your ability and accomplish as you can. You know your own capability but often fear to extend yourself enough to gain as you should. It is just, right that you push forward for the sake of yourself and your family. Study, keep developing all sound possibilities. Birthdate: Sir Anthony Van Dyck, Flemish painter.

Seventy Tunisian Rebels Killed In Bloody Fighting

4,000 French Soldiers Being Used in Battle

TUNIS (Reuters)—Seventy Tunisian rebels were killed today in the bloodiest fighting of the last three years in the former French protectorate as nationalist leader Habib Bourguiba returned from Paris after the solemn proclamation of Tunisian independence.

French fighter planes were tonight sweeping low over the rocky desert near Medenine, southern Tunisia, machine-gunning remnants of a band of 200 rebels which French troops have been pursuing for the last 10 days.

About 4,000 French soldiers are involved in the battle against the rebels.

Riot police in Tunis used tear gas to break up a demonstration by 2,000 supporters of Salah Ben Youssef, ousted Tunisian secretary-general of the Neo-Destour party who fled to Libya after leading the opposition to last year's home rule agreement with the French.

Firemen sprayed the demonstrators with colored water so that police would be able to identify them.

NEW ORGANIZATION

The demonstrators, organized by local trade unions, tried to march on the French high commissioner's office carrying a Tunisian flag and the flag used by rebels now fighting the French in Algeria.

Turned back by riot police, they crowd met after the offices of the Neo-Destour party, were turned back again, and finally dispersed.

Thousands of cheering Tunisians welcomed Bourguiba when he arrived today by air, and thousands more lined the route to Carthage, where he went to report to Sidi Lamine, bey of Tunis.

Bourguiba told reporters at the airport: "I am happy to return to my country, now free and independent after the long years we have really lasted 75 years. I am particularly happy that all France has brought about by friendship with the French."

Claims Health Authorities Know Fluorine Unsafe

DETROIT (AP)—A radiologist says the United States public health service is "misleading the public" in its reports on the value of fluorides in drinking water.

Public health authorities say "now it isn't safe," Dr. F. B. Exner of Seattle told a medical conference sponsored by the Physicians Committee Studying Fluoridation Wednesday night.

He claimed that excessive use of fluorides can cause a bone ailment known as osteo sclerosis, as well as rheumatoid arthritis, and "there is evidence that higher tooth loss can occur with the use of fluorides in drinking water."

The American Dental Association has endorsed fluoridation to reduce tooth decay in children. It has also been endorsed in some Canadian areas.

A statement by the committee said surveys published by the U. S. public health office on fluoridation contain "statements that abound in contradictory data."

Pearson States Middle East Was On Disaster Brink

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday the Middle East was on the "march of disaster" about two weeks ago.

"Our recent forebodings, thank God, were not fulfilled," he added but the situation there was still "very, very serious".

Mr. Pearson, speaking on the CBC television program Press Conference used the expression "march of disaster" to, referring to the dismissal of Sir John Glubb as commander of the Arab Legion and mounting incidents about the same time between Israel and the Arab states. He said he feels the tension has eased somewhat in the last few days.

Former Premier Denies Charge Before Court

PARIS (Reuters) — Former premier Pierre Mendes-France denied in court today that he had ever received "leaked" French national defence secrets.

Mendes-France, prime minister of state, was testifying before a military court trying four men accused of divulging war secrets. Allegations were made earlier in the trial that he had received some of the divulged information.

Mendes-France said Tuesday, "it has been said that some of the leakages were handed to me by de la Vigerie, or from some other unnests to me.

Emmanuel d'Astier de la Vigerie is director of the pro-Communist newspaper Liberation and a pro-Communist deputy in the National Assembly.

"In no circumstances and at no time did I receive from d'Astier de la Vigerie or from any other persons, documents or information coming from the national defence secretariat," Mendes-France said.

Today's Chuckle

"Have you seen Ruth's new evening gown?"

"No . . . what does it look like?"

"Well, in most places it looks quite a lot like Ruth."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cooler air is moving across southern Ontario this morning and will cover the province by evening. Friday will be mainly sunny with temperatures some five to 10 degrees colder in southern Ontario. In northern Ontario which is now relatively cold, colder air aloft are already clearing and Friday promises to be cold and clear.

ASK UN TO SEND HAMMARSKJOLD ON PEACE MISSION

U.S. Wants Secretary To Visit Middle East

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States is asking the United Nations Security Council to assign Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to a peace mission aimed at keeping Israel and her Arab neighbors from each others' throats.

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate, put in a resolution Wednesday night calling on Hammarskjold to confer urgently with both sides and secure adoption of measures to reduce tensions along the Red Land armistice lines.

The resolution specifically proposes:

1. A general pull-back of forces from the frontiers.

2. A ban on use of movement for UN observers in border areas.

3. Local arrangements between Israeli and Arab commanders to prevent incidents and detect armistice violations.

ASKED TO REPORT

Hammarskjold was asked to report to the Council on progress within a month after adoption of the resolution.

If the council approves the resolution, Hammarskjold is expected to leave for the Middle East capitals he visited on a world tour earlier this year and confer with governments directly on the inflamed border situation.

Lodge's action on the resolution only a day after he had called for an urgent council meeting on the Israeli-Arab crisis. The council is expected to meet early next week.

MILITARY ACTION

(The New York Times in a dispatch from London says Britain has completed a plan for "effective" military action within 36 hours should an Arab-Israeli war break out. The object of the plan would be to keep the conflict from spreading beyond the Middle East.

(The Times says Britain would use her army, navy and air forces now concentrated on Cyprus and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean area. They would act under the three-power declaration of 1950 pledging the U. S., Britain and France to maintain Israel's existing frontiers in order to prevent the outbreak of war in the Middle East.

(The Times adds that Britain also has launched intensive diplomatic efforts in Washington over government in the Middle East that are centered in the area could touch off a third world war.)

Says Russia Makes New Nuclear Test

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese atomic expert said today that Russia's latest nuclear test explosion was exceptionally powerful.

Prof. Yasunuke Nishiwaki of Osaka University was unable to locate the site of the test, but he said the recent rainfall over Japan had been radioactive, and radio-activity tests made at the university had given the highest count since last November.

Daily Mirror Lectures Royal Family On Heavy Outlay for Transportation

LONDON (AP)—The Daily Mirror has come out with something unusual in the British press—a sharp lecture to the Royal Family on economy.

The tabloid which claims the world's highest week-day circulation—more than 4,500,000—calls itself independent, but generally favors the Labor party.

Mirror columnist "Cassandra" declares that far too much money is going for royal sea, air and rail comfort at a time when the government is trying to cut down on inflationary spending. He says the nonstop flight to transport is getting "ludicrously more expensive," and gives this list:

1. "The royal yacht Britannia cost £2,200,000 to build. It has been renovated several times, and has recently been refitted. The bill was £1,100,000. The Britannia must be refitted at a cost of £2,500 a day to run, and is used for less than a month a year by the Royal Family.

2. "There is a new move afoot to replace the four Vikings of the Queen's flight — £50,000 each, silver by a Viscount, or Viscounts, at an estimated cost of at least £400,000 each. A bolder idea is to buy a Britannia, which, although it would be more expensive, is faster, above the clouds and the waves, would cost £1,000,000.

"The Duke of Edinburgh already has a de Havilland Heron which he has at the taxpayer back by £100,000.

"As with regard to the touchdown and takeoff point in the royal lounge at Northolt airport, the Duke of Edinburgh has personally protested that the comforts of the accommodation there are not good enough. The result of this regal grouse is that the VIP room at London airport is being religged at a cost of £40,000.

4. "Added to this there arrives the news of the special royal diesel train. The new train now being finished at Wolverton. It is the most luxurious railway coach ever built

City and District News

BOARD TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital will be held in the nurses' residence, Friday, March 23rd, at 2.30 p.m. The public is invited.

Reports of 1955 operation of the hospital and all its committees will be presented. Bound copies of committee reports will be available.

Members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary will serve tea in the nurses' residence following the business portion of the meeting.

MOVIE ENJOYING GOOD BOOKINGS

"The Sentinel That Never Sleeps", a 30-minute movie in color and with sound, produced by the Belleville General Hospital, is enjoying good bookings in Belleville and district. It tells the story of this hospital at work.

To date the film has been shown three times in the city and has been booked for 10 additional showings in the city and district in the next two months.

On April 2nd, it will be shown by request as one of the features of the annual meeting of the Owen Sound General Hospital.

CHOSEN PAINTINGS FOR ART EXHIBIT TO BE ON VIEW

Art enthusiasts among the general public will have an opportunity to inspect the prize-winning studies chosen for the Kingston Ontario Travelling Art exhibit tomorrow night.

The five paintings by local artists, chosen for entry in the exhibit, will go on general view in a special art show at King George school tomorrow night.

Commercial Area In Thurlow Twp. Being Planned

Construction of a commercial shopping area in Thurlow township immediately east of the city is being planned by an undisclosed firm, it was learned today. Plan details and the number of stores to be constructed was not known.

However, between five and six stores have been purchased for development of the supermarket and it understood that a permit for construction has been issued by the township.

The firm of W. J. McCormick Real Estate handled the sale of the property and when plans are finalized will arrange for construction of the supermarket through and will handle the rental of the store until following completion.

Further details as to construction plans are expected to be available in a month or six weeks it was stated.

Police Blotter

City police are continuing their clampdown on motorists who have been tardy in securing their 1956 licences and summonses are going out to any found driving with last year's plates.

The police check last night resulted in the apprehension of two Cobourg district youths whom police say switched identities as they were about to be questioned. Police said one youth was found to have been driving on the other's temporary driving permit.

Check of another car bearing 1955 markers resulted in the finding of a part bottle of liquor and LCA as well as HTA charges were preferred.

A Trenton juvenile was apprehended on Front Street following a complaint from the Queen's Hotel that a cheque had been stolen from the lobby desk.

Little Theatre Of Deseronto To Present Play

The Quinte district's latest theatrical venture, the Little Theatre of Deseronto, Friday night makes it bow in this area.

For its debut the group has chosen a provocative program for its audiences. Plan of the presentation will be "Sorry, Wrong Number," the well-known thriller-with-a-difference. Among the difficult leading role in this production is young Beverley Reynolds of Deseronto. Others in the play are Jean Graham, Sally Mashintowk and Norma McKay.

The second presentation of this initial venture will be George Kaufman's one-act comedy, "If Men Played Cards as Women Do." Featured here will be Vincent Watters, Dick Timoshenko, Stu Woods and Beverley Reynolds.

Mr. Watters has a dual association with the group's debut. Well-known in the theatre movement in Eastern Ontario, he also is director of both plays.

The plays will be presented in the Legion Hall at Deseronto with curtain-time scheduled for 7.30 p.m.

Theatre Guild Members Meet

Maynard Robinson, Toronto actor, delivered an address on "Theatrical Management" at the regular meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild in Queen Victoria public school last night.

Mr. Robinson, scheduled to speak on "Technical Techniques," postponed this address by request and re-scheduled it when the series of lectures he is giving Guild members.

He discussed choice of play, methods of ensuring maximum ticket sales, advertising and publicity and house management. He was thanked by Stuart Robb.

Guild vice-president, Court Miller, producer of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which played last month, paid tribute to director Syd Rose, the cast and stage crew. He felt that television was to blame for the rather small audiences even though the play was a comedy and a success.

It was announced that the Guild was hoping to present an evening of one-act plays in Queen Victoria school in the near future. Mrs. Joan Tanner, president-elect of the newly-formed Belleville branch of the National Ballet Guild, spoke briefly about the aims of the branch.

Gilmour Storekeeper's Tip Aids Police in Recapture

Because they "looked a bit suspicious" to a Gilmour general storekeeper when they stopped to purchase soft drinks and potato chips, three inmates of the Ontario Mental Hospital at Langstaff were escaped Monday night are today back in custody.

The three young men, George Westlake, 21, Windsor, Roy Browning, 24, Belleville, and Albert Elson, Toronto, were apprehended Wednesday afternoon in a summer cottage near Gilmour by provincial police from Bancroft.

They were lodged in Hastings county jail at Belleville and last night were returned to Toronto. Police said the trio offered no resistance when they were apprehended at the cabin.

The general store keeper at Gilmour, 50 miles north of Belleville, said three "suspicious looking" men had entered his store about 10.30 Wednesday morning to purchase soft drinks and chips.

NOTICED CAR NUMBER

He noted their licence number and brought it to the notice of the incident until he heard a radio broadcast asking for escaped inmates of the escape of the three inmates from Langstaff. Thinking that his visitors might be the escapees he notified police at Bancroft 23 miles away.

Police found the men's abandoned 1953 model car on a sideroad two miles from Gilmour, then following tracks two miles further along a trail found the men in a cabin on the shore of Little Pine Lake, owned by Gordon and Ken Hinchliffe of Belleville, had been forcibly entered.

Wednesday morning the three escapees had stopped briefly at the home of a relative of Browning in Belleville and were also reported to have purchased gasoline at a local service station.

Police in the Belleville area were alerted to be on the lookout for the three men.

Clarkson Woman Suffers Back Injury in Crash

Mrs. Ortwin Meyer, 31, of Clarkson, Ontario, suffered back injuries early this morning when the car in which she and her husband were riding skidded on a sheet of pavement on highway No. 3 and rolled over. She was taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance.

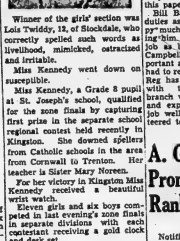
The accident occurred about seven o'clock five miles west of the city when the small German model sloid out of control while driven by Mr. Meyer went out of control when it struck a slippery spot.

The vehicle rolled over once then skidded the shoulder of the highway coming to rest near the ditch. The vehicle was almost completely wrecked.

Provincial Police Constable Harry Mackenzie of Belleville, investigated.

Blame Hot Ashes for $1,000 Blaze in Home

Still hot ashes which had been raked onto the back kitchen floor with the thought that they were dead, were blamed for a fire which last night caused close to $1,000 damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keller, 23 Russell St.



Firemen said the blaze was confined to the back kitchen although the room was badly gutted.

A second alarm to the McFarlan Wood and Iron Sidney street was answered by the city fire department. The blaze was in a sawdust bin and although firemen had difficulty in extinguishing the blaze no damage was reported.

Maureen Kennedy Finished Second In Spelling Bee

Maureen Kennedy, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, 185 Hastings Drive, finished second in the eastern Ontario zone finals in the Ontario spelling bee held in Peterborough last evening.

Winner of the girls' section was Lois Twiddy, 12, of Stockdale, who correctly spelled such words as livelihood, mimicked, ostracized and irritable.

Miss Kennedy went down on susceptible.

Miss Kennedy, a Grade 8 pupil at St. Joseph's school, qualified for the zone finals by capturing first prize in the separate school regional contest held recently in Kingston. She downed spellers from Catholic schools in the area from Cornwall to Deseronto.

Teacher is Sister Mary Noreen.

For her victory in Kingston Miss Kennedy received a beautiful wrist watch.

Eleven girls and six boys competed in last evening's zone finals in separate divisions with each contestant receiving a gold clock as an award.

Boys' winner was Joseph Callaghan, of Picton-Corbyville, who correctly spelled camouflage, gaudily, chrysanthemum and public. Runner-up, John Holt, also of Peterborough, was runner up. He erred in intaxicable.

Winners each received wrist watches and the right to enter the provincial finals in Toronto April 5th.

Obituary

CHARLES MEYERS EMERSON

Charles Meyers Emerson, 360 Sidney Street, died in Belleville General Hospital on Thursday, after having been ill for five months. He was 86.

The deceased was born in Roslin, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas William Emerson, and lived in Roslin prior to moving to Belleville 52 years ago.

He had been employed as a blacksmith with the Grand Trunk Railway until his retirement.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sleper, of Belleville. He never married.

The deceased is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 27 Campbell Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. W. R. CASEY
(Thurlow Township)

Mrs. Lydia Jane (Jessie) Casey of R.R. 6, Belleville, on the 3rd Concession of Thurlow township, died at home on Thursday, after a lengthy illness. She was in her 77th year.

The deceased was born in the 4th Concession of Thurlow township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Irvin Way, and lived her life in Thurlow.

She was a member of Bethany United church, a life member of the Woman's Missionary Society, life member of the W.C.T.U., a member of the Woman's Association and an active worker in church affairs when health permitted.

She is survived by her husband, William Russell Casey; one son, Horace William Casey, of the 3rd Concession of Thurlow township; a daughter, Mrs. Perry (Eva) Brownscombe of Madoc; two brothers, Blake Way of Thurlow; Garnet Way of Redvers, Sask., and four grandchildren.

Legion News

(By C. F. LEGGAT).

At the last general meeting Roy Madden, the treasurer, mentioned that there are still a few members in arrears. The steward has now retired to Trenton please get your dues in and make Roy happy.

Everett Liddle is to be recognized by the provincial authorities for the Perfect Attendance. This is of course is their way of thanking Liddle for the 100% attendance of last year's work and includes everybody connected with this worthy cause.

Mr. Campbell will look after Frank Daniels' duties as sick chairman. Frank himself is on the sick list, we hope not for long.

Bob Blair is very optimistic regarding sports but is still having trouble getting members to give their names in for cribbage. Maybe they are shy Bob, keep trying you'll get them.

The president, Bill Heasman, has appointed Gordon Costello as the executive. He is an expert on V.L.A. matters. Any ex-service men having housing problems will find Monty well informed and anxious to help. His friendly approach to difficult questions makes him a valuable asset to the branch.

F. McFadden must like work. He is the membership chairman and is keeping the secretary busy writing to new members.

According to Secretary Leslie the Trade Fair is sure of success. Bob Berry has an entertainment program which will please everybody. Watch advertisements in this paper for dates.

Bill Bailey finds that his duties as Poppy Chairman keep him much of his time, preventing him from doing justice to his job as building chairman. Ken Campbell has accepted this important appointment. Roy Hawkins had to resign because of ill-health. Reg has been a tremendous help and he now has a committee. The branch wish his speedy recovery and hope he will be able for a job well done. Bill Slater volunteered to take his place.

A. Gordon Stout Promoted to Rank of Corporal

Notification of promotion to the rank of corporal with the Ontario Provincial Police was good news yesterday for Constable A. Gordon Stout of the Belleville headquarters, but the officer felt he had better news for Kingston police.

This morning the provincial police officer received word from Kingston that he was the father of a bouncing baby boy. It is the second child for the corporal and Mrs. Stout.

Today Gordon promptly took a day off to go to Kingston to see the new arrival.

A native of Kingston Cpl. Stout joined the O.P.P. nine years ago and received seven years at Scarbrook before coming to Belleville two years ago. Inspector A. McDougall said that prior to his promotion which is retroactive to February 1st, Cpl. Stout was the senior constable in No. 8 district.

He is a veteran of the last war with 5½ years service in the RCAF as wireless air gunner. He served 3½ years overseas in England, India and Burma.

ESCAPES TAR POT

NORTH BAY (CP)—A 42-year-old workman escaped injury Wednesday when a 300-gallon tar pot tipped over, spilling hot tar which burst into flame on contact with the ice-covered ground. Sylvio Houle, a construction worker, was filling a five-gallon pail with tar when the pot overturned.

Square Dancing To Be Featured At Trade Fair

A new feature with a highly local flavor this year will be incorporated into the presentation of the annual Belleville Trades Fair.

It is a square-dancing competition, presently being organized for production on the three nights of the fair starting April 4th.

In all, four teams are expected to compete, two each night, with the final bout being staged the last night of the fair to decide the champion team.

The Canadian Legion here, which sponsors the fair, plans to make the competition an annual event for district folk-dance groups. Organization of the initial event next month is in the hands of Ray Homan, assistant city recreation director.

Besides a special trophy emblematic of the square-dancing territory, individual awards also will be made.

Among other things the contestants will be judged on their accuracy, timing, rhythm, ability and knowledge of square-dancing by a special board of judges. Elected to this year's board are Mrs. Cameron Bunnett, Phil Flagler and Len Taylor, district commander of the Canadian Legion in this area.

The caller will be Clinneron Bunnett while the orchestra of Harold McFee and Percy MacPherson will provide music for the competitors.

New Men's Club Formed in Bridge St. Church

Belleville's latest club, the AOTS of Bridge St. United Church, last night received its charter.

Some 80 members were present in the church building for the event, at which Canadian AOTS club officiated.

The letters AOTS stand for the motto "At One that Serves." Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Charles Payton who, in the course of his address reminded the members that Christianity was started by 13 men — Christ—and his 12 disciples — and that men are needed to work for the Church if the church is to succeed in its ministering.

The speaker was thanked by T. K. Franklin, while Cliff White led the members in a rousing singsong.

Officers of the new Club are:— Bryson Leslie, president; Joe Demers, vice-president; Art Clare, secretary; Jim Seekings, treasurer.

Head of Russia's Secret Police Visits Britain

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Gen Ivan Serov, head of Russia's secret police, stepped from a Soviet jet airliner here today into one of the most violent campaigns ever launched in Britain against a foreign visitor.

Here to arrange safety measures for next month's visit of Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, Serov was fenced around on arrival by the tightest security precautions ever known at London airport.

British newspapers heralded his visit with editorials describing him as "the Jackal of Moscow," and "Ivan the terrible." Police feared demonstrations against him by eastern European refugees who blame him for mass deportations from Poland, East Germany and the Baltic states.

Growers Hear Address on Soil Conditioning

The value of soil conditioning as a means of increasing agricultural production was impressed on members of the Hastings County Vegetable Growers' Association at their annual banquet held Wednesday night at the Carmet United Church Hall.

Guest speaker for the banquet program was Paul Fisher of Burlington who, at the request of the late Mitchell Hepburn, formed the first marketing board in Ontario back in 1934.

Admitting that Ontario farmers took better care of their soil than agriculturists in many other countries, Mr. Fisher nevertheless stressed there was still room for improvement in soil care and growing techniques. The speaker was introduced by Bruce Martin, past president of the association, with thanks being expressed by Roy Sills.

Carl Thompson, manager of the Canadian Canners plant at Foxboro, spoke on canning problems and how growers could assist them in reducing costs and thereby pave the way for better returns. Clearing fields of stone thus reducing possible breakdowns of harvesting machinery was one way which farmers could co-operate.

PRICES REMAIN SAME

Also heard was Roy Shortt, Picton, director of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board. He explained the negotiated prices for this year and terms of agreements, which are much the same as for last year.

Association president Thomas Kellty, well known Tweed district potato grower, acted as chairman for the banquet attended by approximately 175 members and their wives.

Mrs. Kelly presented Mrs. Fisher with a lovely bouquet, while Clayton Ritz on behalf of the Association presented the guest speaker with a case of canned tomatoes.

The Garrison quartet consisting of three boys and a girl delighted with several vocal numbers which were much enjoyed. A sing song was led by Ralph Swan with Fred Porter of Tweed acting in the role of pianist.

Free Fishing Tug

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A 20-foot American fishing tug with four men aboard was freed early today from the ice in Lake Erie.

The United States Coast Guard received a ship-to-shore telephone call at 8 a.m., saying the ranch K. was stranded in the ice about eight miles northwest of Erie.

It dispatched an icebreaker to free the tug. The tug then proceeded to Ashtabula, Ohio.

2,216 Dogs, Cats Vaccinated In This City

Over 2,000 anti-rabies vaccine shots were administered animals in the city during the two-day clinic here which ended yesterday.

The federal department of agriculture said today a total of 2,216 animals were vaccinated with the serum. A breakdown of the figures show that on the first day of the clinic at No. 1 firehall on East Dundas some 1,035 cats and dogs received the shots while at the conclusion of the clinic last night a further 1,181 animals had been vaccinated at No. 2 firehall.

A special battery of veterinarians, supervised by Dr. H. M. Youngbuhand of the department of agriculture here, administered the shots.

Theatre Manager Defies Bandits

TORONTO (CP) — Two masked bandits early today broke into a downtown movie house, tied up six employees, including two women and threatened to shoot the manager if he did not open the safe.

When the manager refused to open the safe, police said, the bandits got scared and walked out. It is not known how much money was in the safe.

A seventh employee found the six tied up, released them and called police.

Police said the men broke into the Rio Theatre, which shows three features at cheap prices, during the night and waited for the staff to arrive in the morning.

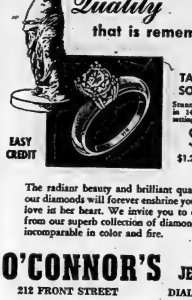
Old Mulock Home Will Be Razed

TORONTO (CP)—A relic of Toronto's era of gracious living is to fall victim soon to the city's building boom.

The rambling Cawthra-Mulock mansion on Jarvis street, once the hub of Toronto society, stands empty and forlorn, awaiting the crash of wrecking hammers.



Canadian and United States interests will build a 400-suite apartment block when the rubble has been cleared away.

Sir John A. Macdonald was a frequent guest in the oak-panelled dining room of No. 536 — when ar'vle was a street of millionaires.

William Cawthra built his mansion 75 years ago. It was later taken over by his nephew, Sir William Mulock.

Sir William's c h i l d r e n once played on its spacious front lawns. They hid in nooks and crannies of third-floor quarters for 30 servants. A coach house in the rear was a lg ger than the average home.

Mrs. M. C. Ward Leads Discussion Group on Macbeth

At the Great Books discussion group held in the Corby library on Tuesday evening, Macbeth by William Shakespeare was analyzed.

Although this was a familiar play, it was interesting as the basic conflicts in the play were discussed, the conflict between Macbeth and those who opposed his march to the throne, between Macbeth and Lady Macbeth, and between the hero (or villain) and fate or destiny. Whether the play is a particularization of the struggle between good and evil in the world, or the inner conflicts that go on in the minds of the characters was a matter for argument. Shakespeare wrote for entertainment and it was agreed that a tragedy on a stage can be entertaining, serving to release emotions.

The function of the witches in the play as agents of fate, symbols of man's ambition or representative of forces of evil in the world provoked some lively debate. The purpose of comic relief as supplied by the porter was also discussed.

Dr. John Martin was chairman for the evening, and the discussion was led by Mrs. M. C. Ward.

Negroes Tell Of Mistreatment

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Defence counsel appeared ready to call final witnesses today in the trial of Rev. Martin Luther King involving this city's boycott of buses by Negroes.

Rebuttal testimony and final arguments could delay a verdict by Judge Eugene Carter, who will decide on the accused Negro minister's guilt or innocence.

King and 89 other Negro leaders still facing trial on charges of violating Alabama's anti-boycott law have all exercised their right to demand non-jury trials.

The defence Wednesday presented witness after witness who told of mistreatment or embarrassment as passengers on segregated city buses.

KEFAUVER'S VICTORY

As far as the United States is concerned, there is really no such thing as "domestic" politics.

The policies followed by the richest and most powerful nation in the free world are so important to almost every other country, whether in the west or the east, the north or the south, whether Communist, socialist or capitalist, whether slave, satellite, colony or free, that all have a deep and vital interest in the internal politics of the United States.

Of no nation is this truer than of Canada, which adds to the common world-wide interest in U.S. affairs its own special concern derived from the fact that the United States is both our neighbor and our chief supplier, our most important customer and our most formidable competitor.

Canadians, therefore, have almost as much interest in the presidential election this year as have residents of the United States themselves. Indeed, it is conceivable that the results of a U.S. presidential election might have a much greater effect on Canadian affairs and our economy than any Federal election in Canada. At present there does not appear much prospect that the policies of the Democratic party, whatever the candidate or platform they may be, will differ so widely as to influence Canadian prosperity to any great extent; but the possibility that our destiny may, to a large degree, be determined by an election south of our border still exists.

With these facts in mind, we think that most Canadians should be greatly interested by the results of the Minnesota primary elections. President Eisenhower amassed an overwhelming majority in the Republican primary, but as it is already a foregone conclusion that he will be the Republican nominee this is only of passing interest. The results of the Democratic primary, however, are not merely interesting but surprising. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate in 1952, was not backed by the party's machine in the state and had been practically conceded victory. His opponent was Senator Estes Kefauver, who had a claim to fame on only this side of the border, in that he headed a congressional committee probing crime in the U.S. It had been stated that if Stevenson did not win all the districts, it would be a severe reversal. He not only did not sweep the state, but had it swept from him by Kefauver.

Many Canadians, we suspect, will not consider Kefauver's satisfactory majority over Stevenson a man whose statesmanlike utterances impressed us during the 1952 campaign and who has since added to his stature. Between Eisenhower and Stevenson they were unwilling to choose; indeed any choice might well be based on the nature and quality of their associates rather than of the men themselves. Kefauver is the unknown quantity. It is not likely to appear in the same class, ranking more as a politician than as a statesman. Yet Kefauver has defeated Stevenson in Minnesota and this defeat almost certainly means that Stevenson, a defeated presidential candidate in 1952, has but slim hopes of again receiving the Democratic nomination.

How will Kefauver run against Eisenhower? The answer to that is probably that he will not run at all, because he will not be nominated. The popular vote appears to be with Kefauver, but the party machine is with Stevenson. In circumstances such as this compromises are customary. A possible compromise candidate would appear to be Governor Averell Harriman of New York State.

AN AMAZING INFERENCE

The Ontario Court of Appeal has ruled that the metropolitan Toronto by-law authorizing fluoridation of water is invalid.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup says that he can find nothing in the Public Health Act, the Public Utilities Act or the Municipal Act that confers on municipalities any local board the power to add anything chemical to a pure and wholesome water supply."

The Toronto Star says that legal opinion is that this ruling not only means that fluoridation programs in other communities may be questioned, but that the putting of chlorine in water may also be open to challenge.

This strikes us as an amazing inference.

We suspect that Mr. Justice Pickup chose his words rather carefully. He said that he can find no authority for adding a chemical to a "pure and wholesome water supply." Fluorine is added to water which has been made pure and wholesome, by filtration and chlorination. But chlorine is added to water which is already pure and wholesome. The difference between the two processes should be clear —one is tempted to say "even to a lawyer" but what one should say is "especially to a lawyer."

If it is argued that water is sometimes added to waters which is already pure and wholesome, that it is just an additional precaution, the answer would appear to be that such precaution is the part of prudence and that this procedure to prove that the water was pure and wholesome before chlorination. That is going to be difficult, for water will be free from pollution one day and may urgently require chlorination the next day.

BEST NICKNAME

Many Ontario municipalities have become almost as well known by their nicknames as by their post office designations. Toronto is the Queen City; Peterborough, the Liftlock City; Brampton, the Limestone City; St. Catharines, the Garden City; Fort Arthur and Fort William, the Lakehead; the Sudbury complex, the Nickel Belt; Hamilton, the Ambitious City; Sarnia, the Chemical City.

Belleville calls itself the Friendly City and we happen to think it the best nickname of all.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1956, Edgar A. Guest)

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE LITTLE "HELLO"

Sweetest word I know,
Just a little girl's "Hello!"
And a little funny smile
Fresh from selfishness and guile,
And the twinkle of an eye
To a fellow passer-by.

Doesn't know your name or care
What the raiment that you wear,
What your place or station be
Or the depth of your veneer.
But she sees you come and go
And is glad to say: "Hello!"

Which is all that she could do:
For a kiss if he should pass
Where she stands upon the grass.
This is all that he would know
Just that glorious "Hello!"

Lord, I thank you for the child
Who just wanted "Hello" and smile!
For the children who abide Still unspoiled by sham and pride;
But for them I'd seldom know
Such a genuine "Hello!"

Relief Queries

The Belleville Municipal Band and the Belleville Men's Chorus will give a benefit concert in the auditorium in the Collegiate and Vocational School on the evening of March 26. The concert is for relief purposes and for the benefit of citizens who suffered loss during the recent flood here. The admission will be offerings of canned goods and such other articles as are needed by victims of the flood. The Board of Education has granted the free use of the auditorium for the holding of the concert.

The Board of Education will ask the city council for the sum of $80,000.00 for an addition to Queen Mary School.

The Kingston Rotary Club has advised the Rotary Club here that a cheque for the sum of $100.00 is being sent to the club here to assist in the flood relief work. The Rotarians of the Kingston club have shown a fine spirit and are to be highly commended for their desire to help.

This has been a bad year for floods in Canada and the United States. The following newspaper headlines give some idea of the havoc wrought: 250,000 homeless and 168 are dead in floods in the United States. Seven communities isolated in Many Parts of the East. Emergency Stations Filled with Refugees of Disaster. In Quebec and New Brunswick there has been severe flood damage. The huge halt mile bridge at Fredericton, N.B. over the St. John River was carried away by ice floes. The bridge was built in 1884. The loss of this bridge cuts off the New Brunswick capital and all from the rest of the province. The provincial parliament buildings are surrounded by water and legislators reach the buildings in boats. Many people have had to leave their homes, especially in Quebec and there has been some loss of life.

Plucky Citizen Stops Runaway Horse. William Day, well known resident of this city, stopped a runaway horse on Front Street shortly before six o'clock last evening and thereby saved a little boy from serious injury. The horse broke away on Mill Street with only the small boy in the sleigh. One of the bolts which held the shafts fell out and they came in contact with the horse's heels; this greatly increased his fright. When opposite the Ritchie Store, at the footbridge gangway, Mr. Day saw the runaway coming and seizing an opportunity he jumped into the sleigh and took the lines from the boy's hands and soon brought the horse to a standstill. The many spectators who witnessed the act of Mr. Day have loud in their praises of his plucky act.

Mr. Jack Roblin is spending a few days in Toronto.

This has really been an old fashioned winter and we hope some of the old timers are satisfied. However, it will soon be over — there are only a few days left in March.

Scientific Chaperon

(New York Times)

The head of the house recently found himself in an uneasy situation. All his family, it was well known to be absent, and thus unable to give him help, the telephone brought a request that he help chaperon a dance. This situation was accepted in his behalf, a matter which led to a good deal of discussion. He noticed among reference books, that chaperonage is conducted by an "older woman" and not by by a owner, who incidentally happens to retain a youthful outlook. He spent a good deal of time over that word "older," as must be that chaperone version soon resembled the wrangling between lawyers. Nevertheless, by "reading in" the position he went to the dance — just as Mary found her lamb, he discovered, however, as a scientist. In his neat, blue suit and best Christmas tie he seemed more like a host than a presentable chauffeur for an older woman. Both these extremes as he was a sociologist on the prowl. Under that blue suit lurk of the leading revolutionaries of during the evening would find out what the younger set thought of him is all about. He took a pocket notebook with him, and two sharpened pencils.

* * *

That notebook now contains jottings for a scientific report that is almost entirely unreworthy. Nevertheless, it is a record of the time, that dance should have resembling a gathering of the devout preceding the fall of Babylon. For music there could be no proceeding up from that level, refined in the honky-tonks of Chicago, with its blaring saxophone trumpets. For dancing — well, the jitterbug wouldn't have been a form of the old-fashioned waltz, with a full-fledged riot for the seating at the table. Those matters were checked on arrival, switch kissing stopped, and the band referred to the suit coat pocket, and these would be welded at intervals near the end of the dance. Punch would be spiked, by the zang leadership of the host, but the punch jar sang, each dungaree doll would be attached to her steady with a kiss, and all would be well.

* * *

That notebook sets rather a bizarre story, perhaps one of the failure of an investigator. The notes fail into a sequence, as each event were played during the dance's first half hour. Then, for Two, Three Moon, "Talk of the Town," "Can't Give You Anything But Love," "Sweet Sue," and "Avalon." Granted that these titles may be imperfect, for there's matched to the stretches from where? From another day, like and possibly not. Then was a sedate, three-piece orchestra (no unmusical trumpet) playing quieter music, and the crowded and dreadful teen-agers were dancing. Nor was it the "Blue Danube" but the second encore a riot. "That waltz was beautifully played all," another scientist remarked. "I understood they didn't do it any more."

Then came the time when the band played, the punch remained weak and nothing was served to eat. A single paper clip a student could borrow to hold his notes together.

* * *

As the evening wore on, the scientist found himself sitting out the stairs, speculating. He had passed beyond the melancholia into a mood of anger. The whole affair was bristly alert. Today's teenagers get a very bad press. They stand accused of the Twenties. Simple mathematics show that the parents of today's teen-agers are those dreadful people from back there—and from "Yes for Two," first time up. Is it that parents now are mad about something, about prosperity like not wanting to grow old, and taking that out on the young? Is it that the teen-agers would bring that up at dinner one night soon, when it would be certain to cause acrimony.

Letter To The Editor

Must Beware of Reds When Changing Bait

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

To the ruthless and cunning communist nothing is sacred. Not long ago I read a small mention ing Stalin so Canadian born communists and watching their eyes light up at the sound of his name precisely as those of the devout Christian do at the mention of Deity.

Stalin, in the opinion of no less an authority than the Archbishop of Canterbury (with whom we have no connection) was "the man was the "architect" of "the modern age."

Inspired by their great leader millions of communists throughout the world became so fired with party tasks a sense of dedication and initiative that unquestionably seemed to many Stalin had even before his death.

Now, the new leaders out of Moscow that this saintly communist leader was nothing but a blundering murderer. Even Canadian communists must ask themselves what is to be made of the words of the most powerful man in the communist orbit, who seeks to destroy the Stalin myth, or their own convictions?

Khrushchev probably would do well to recognize that cold war propaganda must be considered to be a two-edged sword that it says, but more particularly, why it is used.

Does this dramatic new tactic of Mr. Khrushchev not seriously indicate that the Kremlin has modified its overall objective of world domination? Is it not in fact but merely a tactical change in order to lull the free world into a false sense of security? Is the communist proven by his deeds that he desires to coexist peacefully? Does the free world we will be the first to grasp his hand in friendship? Cunning tactics, meanwhile, must be understood for precisely what they are, subtle communist lures to get the western alliance into a false sense of security, while increasing pressure to bear on the wedge they have ready and waiting to drive between the United States and Washington.

United unity is the prior requisite and solid hope of the free world. No foreign tactic, no domestic outbursts of communalism, and no short-sighted private interest must be allowed to be exercise us to lose sight of this fact. On more than one occasion Sir Winston Churchill has spelled this out to us. May we guard and faithfully perform our trust for the vision and wisdom of our own great leader of this century.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE POWER OF ADVERTISING

Advertising today is big business. What with newspapers, magazines, radio and TV, a business can get quick contact with millions of prospective buyers and clients. The power of advertising is tremendous. Take away all the mediums of advertising and business would come to a standstill.

I don't mean to imply that anything out of college, as an advertising man was financed by me. One major for whom I worked originated what now is common practice in the field of mass psychology in advertising. Know your client and talk your message to him in a manner that will appeal to his needs and he will respond.

Why is it that so many publications feature a picture of a beautiful woman on their covers? It's because we all like to look at a beautiful woman — men and women alike. That makes us buy those publications. They have been such beautiful designs in book covers, fabrics, linens and again, sells the book. Collectors of first editions pay more if the jacket is left on!

Truthfulness in an advertisement is highly important and it should make the one appealed to want that product. Advertising that is misleading demonstrates right into the home. You see the product. Misrepresentation has often made news out of the products shown.

Honesty is always the best policy in advertising as in everything else. Tell your story simply and sincerely and you will not want for buyers. Much would have to be the ways, and let the reader decide. Leave nothing in doubt behind for the reader to think about. All good advertising should be able to create a desire for the thing advertised.

Longfellow's Review Rule

(Montreal Gazette)

The American critic, William Winter, once laid down a rule about Longfellow's way of avoiding the unpleasant.

All manner of reviews and articles were written about him and his poetry. Much would have offended him distress. But he made it a rule never to read anything about himself that was written in an unpleasant spirit. "If after reading a few lines", he told William Winter, "I find that the intention is to injure, I throw the paper into the fire, and that is the end of it."

Such immunity to criticism may have been one of the secrets of Longfellow to go through life, unharmonized by the resentments and recriminations that have devoured some other writers.

Trout Copy Siamese Fish

(St. John Telegraph-Journal)

Nature has got out of kilter pretty completely at Cavan Lake, which is 15 miles east of Medicine Hat, Alta. Barney Allen, Cavan, informs us, of 12-pound to 15-pound trout—but 7,000 of the pesky critters—have been taken out of sport fishing.

So for the first time in Alberta commercial fishermen are going to be allowed to go after these huge fish. Then, the smaller trout will fill nets. The hope is they will breed enough fish to improve the fishing.

* * *

It will be hard for most of us to understand this. The situation is entirely contradictory to a well known law of Nature—that whatever we want is scarce and what we don't want is plentiful.

Porcupines, which we don't want, run into the forests; moose, which we do, are lackadaisical about increasing in number. A gardener can always be sure of one thing: Grass will always thrive more persistently in his driveway, where he doesn't want it, than on his lawn.

The 'mums and phlox which he carefully plants and nourishes in his garden don't stand a chance of flourishing there like the wild goldenrod, which he just as carefully tries to keep out; presumably it's England, where goldenrod are cultivated as garden flowers, they change character and will at the

And trout, because we want them, have a habit of being crowded out by fish we don't want, spiney-backed perch, sunfish, eels and other coarse varieties which like nothing better than swapping the hopeful angler by becoming thick enough to walk across the lake on.

That's what's puzzling about the trout in Cavan Lake. Four years ago 15,000 fingerlings were poured in to stock it. Speed evolution proved an ideal, the despatch says they reached two to three pounds in weight the first year. Now packets of 15-pound monsters are interfering with the angling of only hardy-nized trout by making sport fishing monotonous, and, evidently, biting on the steel.

It's only a guess, but just possibly the Cavan trout have been reading some of those recent startling stories about the Siamese weather fish, the totally unreal multiplies like calculating machines in rice paddies and even muddy ditches, as fast as the prolific shmoos in an L'il Abner comic strip.

Some people were very worried about all the talapia publicity; it seemed possible, given a chance, that fish might crowd them right off the earth.

Tonsillectomy ... Time is Here Again

Never before in my experience have I been asked by my personal health service has the proportion of queries about tonsillectomy been so small as it is now.

I like to flatter myself that perhaps some of the things I have so strongly may have made some people more reluctant to subject their children to the great hazards of a major operation when actually only a minor operation (instantaneous tonsillectomy) or none at all is necessary.

The chief difference between tonsillectomy and tonsillectomy is that tonsillectomy is a major operation involving all the dangers of major surgery—hemorrhage, shock, etc., while tonsillectomy is a minor operation no more dangerous than extracting a bad tooth.

Tonsillectomy, as the trick specialists contend when they boast of no one present knows enough to question the claim, "cuts" every bit of tonsil, whereas tonsillectomy merely slices off a portion of tonsil.

The truth is, that no matter how prolonged the dissection, portions of tonsil remain in the throat after tonsillectomy in most instances.

Moreover, the whole beast of the ever-ready operator only begets urge for tonsillectomy. As a sophomore medical student knows or will presently learn, tonsil tissue is a very useful organ. So extensive dissection of the throat is the attempt to "get" every bit of tonsil tissue constitutes a kind of malpractice which, I fear, the profession as a whole still gives tacit approval.

In many instances tonsillectomy may be necessary — carcinoma or epithelioma of tonsil—but, say, six hundredth (a very sore of syphilis), when there is reason to believe the disease is not limited to the tonsil.

I want to assure all grandpas, aunts, uncles, uncles, aunts, big brothers and big sisters of kids actually enough tonsil to pass medical inspection.

If surgery must be done for tonsil tonsils let it be tuberculous tonsillectomy, which is as quickly as safely done as painlessly done as extraction of a tooth.

For infected tonsils in adults (seldom are tonsils infected in children most often in people of age) diathermy (electrocoagulation) is the method of choice. The effects of diathermy treatment are in my opinion at least as good as those of tonsillectomy. And besides, tonsillectomy has its death rate, while diathermy has not. I have never killed anybody, so far as I am aware.

Think long and hard about it before you subject a child to the tonsillectomy atrocity.

Strength for The Day

CURE

In the seventh chapter of his Epistle to the Romans Paul speaks about the conflict which continually raged in his life. The things that he would do, he could not, he cannot do, and the things that he would not do, he does. He found himself doing against his will. In other words, he had—before his conversion—little control of his actions. Theoretically (that is, in his mind), he admired the law of God, but actually he violated it. Try as he would, he was unable to steer his course and he was caught in a turmoil of temptation.

Just recall that this is Christianity's greatest saint describing what had gone on in his life before he became a Christian! Those things were the best. He had been brought up in a fine home. He had been taught to do right and flee from wrong. But he found he was powerless in the face of temptation. He knew what was right in the law or a process which worked inflexibly. He knew, too, that he called this the law of sin and death—that is, sin leading to spiritual death. But after he came to realize that the presence of Jesus Christ was in the world in a personal revelation, he observed another law or process. He found that the law of Christ Jesus, who he said this overcame or neutralized the law of sin and death.

This beneficient law still continues to operate. We still have the conflict, but we can all have the cure.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Allergies are not only the subject of tireless medical research but also the source of endless humor in modern life. A man in my acquaintance was a fine, sturdy youngster until the age of ten, when he was stricken with asthma, hay fever and all the other symptoms of the delicate. A delicate youth who had to be pampered and taken care of. He was a member hotel from June to September. He was a semi-invalid when he married.

No sooner was he married than his asthma vanished. And he became, in no time at all, a new man in every respect, healthy, a new life began for him.

After twenty years, however, his wife developed allergies. She is now, he was living in the West. Out of a blue sky her asthma, that in full force, came down upon him, and the misery and gloom of his first youth appeared to have fallen on him again into its grip. When his doctor was consulted, he came to the house and enquired minutely into anything strange or new that might have been added to the home.

"Yes," was the reply. "We've had some new radiator covers put built."

"Of what?"

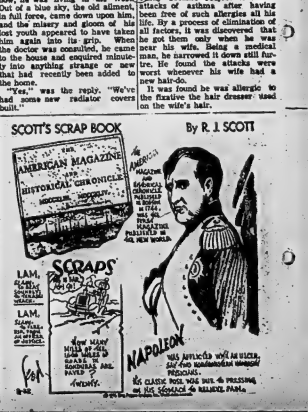
"Wood."

"What kind of wood?"

"Cherry."

"Was that it," asked the doctor, "any cherry wood in your old home, when you were a boy?"

He couldn't, remember, so they had a look and found some and called mother. Yes, said mother, the bedroom of my youth was panelled with cherrywood.



How old was I when we moved into the new house?

"Ten," said his mother.

So they had the new radiator covers, and the asthma was gone before bedtime.

The Canadian surgeon recently became subject to violent attacks of hay fever after having been free of such allergies all his life. By a process of elimination of all factors, he discovered that he got them only when he was near his wife. Being a medical man, he narrowed it down still further. He found the attacks were worse whenever his wife had a new hair-do.

He also found he was allergic to the fixative the hair dresser used on the wife's hair.

Stories from Life of Jesus

By April Oursler Armstrong

PALM SUNDAY'S TRIUMPH

The roads leading to Jerusalem were clotted with pilgrims, families from all parts of the world hurrying to celebrate the Passover Feast at the Temple. Inside the city the narrow cobblestoned streets were crowded with thousands of other pilgrims.

One question filled the air:

"Where is Jesus?"

In the bazaars, the marketplaces, the courts of the Temple, the people asked:

"Isn't the Master coming to celebrate the feast with us?"

And in the dark council rooms of the Temple, the Pharisees and chief priests who hated Jesus asked the same question, for a different reason:

"Where is Jesus? We cannot destroy Him until we find Him! Is He afraid?"

Jesus was on His way. As the sun climbed in the clear spring-blue sky that Sunday morning, He was coming with His twelve apostles.

The wind whirled the sky green leaves of the olives. The world seemed new with that dawning, after days of sodden chill rain.

WORE LONG FACES

But the apostles wore long faces, and their eyes were dark-circled. Only the night before Jesus had spoken of His death, death that would strike Him in Jerusalem. They were afraid for Him, and for themselves.

"We will follow Him, even to death!" they said. "But why insist on going headlong into danger? Why does He lead us to Jerusalem?"

"And why — why — does He smile this morning?"

At the foot of the Mount of Olives, in sight of Jerusalem, Jesus paused. He called two disciples, and with a mysterious smile said:

"Go into that village. And there you shall find a colt tied, upon which no man has yet sat. Bring him here!"

Bring him here? Without paying? Or asking, Lord?

"If any man ask you: 'Why do you loose this colt?' you shall say to him: 'Because the Lord has need of his service.'"

Obediently the disciples went. Down into the valley they hurried, and through the gates of the town.

LORD NEEDS DONKEY

There by the gate stood an ass, a farm beast used to the yoke, and her baby colt. The farmers who owned the beasts, lounged idly by.

Nervously the two disciples untethered the young donkey.

"Hey — what are you doing, untying that colt?" asked one farmer. "It's mine, you know!"

"The Lord has need of him," answered the disciples.

And that was enough! Without a question, without objection, the farmers smiled, "Take him!"

The disciples, grinning in amazement, led the little white donkey by the short tether up the slope to Jesus. And when the Master asked them, they laid their extra robes over the donkey's back for a makeshift saddle, and the Master straddled him, and rode slowly down the mountain.

Following on foot they whispered:

"Isn't it strange that after three years of traveling only on foot He suddenly rides? Of course, He should ride— but why now, and why on an ass?"

UNDERSTOOD LATER

Later they were to understand. Then they would remember, the words spoken centuries before by the prophet Zacharias, the words describing the coming of Christ:

"Behold your King will come to you, the just and saviour. He is poor, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt, the foal of an ass."

Slowly Jesus rode, and they followed on the steep path to Jerusalem.

Then, a most extraordinary thing happened.

One moment Jesus and the twelve were travelling unnoticed and unattended. The next, they were the centre of a singing, shouting, glorious crowd, the greatest, happiest parade in history.

"There He is! There is Jesus!" cried a voice from the throngs. "See He rides on a white donkey like a king!"

One voice cried out, and thousands joined it. The pilgrims on the road, dusty and footsore, whirled to face Jesus with joy shining on their faces.

And in Jerusalem the people heard that Jesus was coming, and they ran to welcome Him.

"Hosannah!" they cried. "Blessed is He that comes in the name of the Lord!"

"Hosannah to the Son of David!"

WILD WITH DEVOTION

Hundreds of thousands of people surged around Him, wild with devotion. They threw their cloaks upon the stony ground to spread a carpet for Him. They cut green boughs of sweet-smelling balsam, and spread palms before Him. They strewed the ground with the shining fronds of palms, and wild flowers.

"Hallelujah! Glory to God!" they cried.

"Peace in heaven and glory on high."

"Hosannah in the highest!"

Love and honor shone in their eyes. Here was their Saviour, their Messiah, Son of God, Christ the Prince of Peace. Never did any conqueror ride in such triumph as Jesus, King of all hearts.

Up the hill the procession climbed, up very near to the city with its walls, its tower forts and tall, armoured gates.

And as Jesus came near to Jerusalem, tears sprang to His eyes. Jerusalem, golden city of the ages, where for thousands of years good men had waited for this day when the Son of God would come—was the city where He would die.

On He moved with the joyous crowds. Through the city gate He rode. Mobs from the streets came spilling and mingling, the whole city rushing to ask:

"Who is this?"

And the people answered: "This is Jesus!"

The blind and the crippled, the sick and the deaf and dumb clustered round Him until He reached the courts of the Temple. And there in the shadow of the altar, Jesus healed them.

From the shadowy pillars of the Temple the Pharisees and the chief priests watched in horror.

"He holds the crowds spellbound!"

"The whole world follows Him like a king!"

"With those mobs He could do anything. He is dangerous," said Caiphas, the high priest. "We must stop Him. Destroy Him. Not now, but soon. Listen! Hear how they praise Him and even adore Him. They are saying that He is the Saviour!"

And, indeed, at that moment, children, flocking near the Master who loved them so dearly, were repeating the famous words of the prophets:

"Hosannah to the Son of David!"

TERRIFIED BY IT

The Son of David! Another name for the Saviour, a name from the Scriptures! The sound of it terrified the Pharisees and the sadly unholy chief priests who hated Jesus.

"Hosanna Hosannah

"Hosannah to the Son of David!" chanted the children, heaping bright flowers at the feet of Jesus. The Pharisees and the chief priests angrily shoved the children aside.

"Do you hear what these brats are saying?" they screamed at Jesus.

"Yes!" agreed Jesus. And He too quoted from the Scriptures to them: "Have you never read: 'Out of the mouths of infants you have perfected praise?' "

Ah! They knew what that meant. That, too, was an old prophecy about the Messiah!

Back they went into the shadows, seething with anger.

"This Jesus must not live" they whispered with venom. "He will destroy us all!"

And from the Temple still came the voices of the children, the children who knew and loved Jesus:

"Hosanah to the Son of David!" "Hosannah — and glory to god!"

ORDER HELICOPTERS

PARIS (Reuters)—The French government has ordered a large number of 30-passenger "work-horse" helicopters from the Vertol Company of Morton, Pa., a spokesman for the company said here Tuesday. He said it was the largest helicopter order the French government had ever made. They are planned for use in the struggle against Algerian rebels.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent MacDonald, of Belleville, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Arlene Joan, to Sterling William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Shandrow of Belleville. Marriage to take place in Holloway Street United church, Friday, April 20, at 7 o'clock p.m.

Shannonville H-S Assoc. Changes Date

The monthly meeting of the Shannonville Home and School Association was held on Monday evening with president, Mrs. Kilburn in the chair.

Card convener reported one card being mailed and membership 84 paid members to date.

It was decided the new swings for the playground be purchased for pleasure, and an opening of the playgrounds be held on May 24th, with euchre in the evening and a bicycle race, an electric skillet and hamper of groceries.

It was also decided to shift the monthly meeting one week ahead to enable more parents to attend therefore the meetings will be held every second Monday of each month, April 9th. A euchre will be held March 23, in the local school room.

Conveners for April meetings: Mrs. Walter Brant and Mrs. Ray Reid; conveners for April euchres, Mrs. Jean Kilburn and Mrs. Helen Louis.

The next meeting will also be nomination of officers to act for the coming year.

Mrs. Henderson won the attendance prize with the most parents for the night present.

Mrs. Ruth Stolicker thanked the Home and School on behalf of Terry for the card sent to him at the hospital in Kingston. All hope he will soon be home.

Mrs. Rickman moved that the business part of the meeting be adjourned.

Mrs. Rice, teacher for the Senior Room, introduced Mr. Nelson, as guest speaker of the evening. His talk was much enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by the conveners.

A successful euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nugent on Friday last, with prizes going to Mrs. Helen Louis, Mrs. Betty Louis and Mrs. McTaggart; men: William Conley, Fred Loucks and Gordon Fuller.

The lone hand travelling prize as well as the lone hand prize went to William Conley and the door prize was won by Mr. Fred Louis.

A hearty thank-you goes to Mr. and Mrs. Nugent for the use of their home for such an enjoyable evening.

Energetic Club Views Scenes Of Florida

On Friday evening the regular meeting of the Energetic club of Holloway Street church was held in the church parlors with 56 members present.

Velma and Elgin Moynes' group had charge of the meeting, which was opened with call to worship by the president.

Scripture reading was taken from John 20:11-19 and read by Bill Campbell.

The Rev. S. E. Larman led in prayer. John Ross welcomed the new members and the date for the play was set for early in April, and committees were appointed to make the usual preparations.

It was also decided to hold the paper-drive on April 10.

A most enjoyable travelogue was given by Mr. Larman of his and Mrs. Larman's recent trip to Florida. He showed some pictures, and souvenirs that they had brought back with them.

Bill Campbell had charge of a game.

Refreshments were served and the "Twitler" read by Thelma Townsend, bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

Centre St. United, Club 40 Plan Community Benefits

Centre St. United Church, Hillcrest, and Club 40 met in Centre St. United Church on Monday to formulate plans on a large scale to benefit the community at large, as well as all handicapped and disabled persons of Belleville and district.

Mr. Clifford Belch, acted as chairman and Mrs. E. Ferguson as recording secretary for the evening.

Mr. Belch gave a complete outline of the coming endeavor, and how the Centre St. United Church and Club 40 could unite their efforts.

Mr. C. Belch introduced Mr. Howard Ackerman, representing the Crafts Committee of Club 40, who outlined a complete program, stating there would be special classes for weaving and help would be given to secure materials for all handicapped and disabled persons. There would also be sewing classes and a home repair class for which the ladies from the surrounding community could bring their own sewing. This will be carried on every Friday afternoon with special classes in the evening for Juniors.

For the men and boys, classes in leatherwork will round out the activities of the day. Class hours will be advertised at a later date.

Miss Helen Ackerman, Club 40 director, was introduced by the chairman. Miss Ackerman thanked the committee of the church for the effort it was showing in their coming endeavor, by allowing the use of their Sunday School rooms. Miss Ackerman also stated that by both church and club combining their efforts, much could be accomplished in the community, both spiritually and temporally.

Mrs. Edith Burrows also spoke on behalf of the Belleville handicapped and disabled, and stated that with unity much could be accomplished, promising full co-operation from the Belleville handicapped and disabled persons' club.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Dale Hudgson and Mrs. Clifford Belch.

Mrs. Massey Visits Igloo In Far North

FROBISHER BAY, Baffin Island (CP)—The lone woman on Governor-General Massey's Arctic tour Wednesday made a hit with Eskimo women in their homes.

Mrs. Lionel Massey, wife of the governor - general's son, visited frame dwellings and snow igloos where housekeeping habits are as comparable as they are unusual.

She nibbled on raw frozen Arctic char and with carefree ease accoutrement Mushie, the two-year-old child of Kalonjuo and Petulik, a middle-aged Eskimo couple. Petulik smiled happily when Mrs. Massey sampled her food but Mushie cried, feeling strange with the visitors.

The governor-general meanwhile sat in the igloo where he gained entrance on all fours through a tiny doorway.

Mrs. Massey later had a ride as an Eskimo sled behind 13 huskies and had a hearty laugh at the expense of her husband, who tumbled from his perch on a companion sled.

Wearing a colorful costume made from caribou skins, Mrs. Massey, who has three daughters of her own, chatted with the Eskimo mothers about their children. Cosy in their igloo, the Eskimos sat on their shelf-like snow seats conversing mostly through interpreters.

Christ Church C.C. Holds Two Meetings

Business and pleasure have been the themes of the last two meetings of the Contact Club of Christ church.

The first meeting was held recently and work was begun immediately. Sewing machines had been donated for the evening by several members and a great deal was accomplished. Jean Taylor announced that a dozen layettes are ready to send to the mission in Prince Albert, Sask., and two layettes are to be kept for possible need in the parish.

A short business period followed at which president Catherine Roulet welcomed a new member, Dorothy Green, and welcomed back the club secretary, Win Taylor. Phyllis Hume, who had capably filled the secretarial position in Win's absence, was duly thanked.

Two changes in the executive were announced, Aileen Smith is now sewing machine convener and Pat Herman is the club reporter.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses of the evening.

SOCIAL EVENING

Marjorie Bunnett's group was in charge of the arrangements for the social evening held on March 19th.

The Evening Branch of the W.A. was welcomed by Phyllis Hume, vice-president of Contact Club, who is also a member of the Horsfall Auxiliary. The Roxy Hospital film "The Sentinel That Never Sleeps" was shown and enjoyed by all and the fact that it was concerned with the Belleville hospital made it doubly interesting.

President Catherine thanked Mr. S. I. Button, who showed the film and Mrs. Cooper, president of the W.A., thanked the Contact Club for extending to the W.A. the opportunity of seeing the excellent film.

Games followed with ten tocky members winning lovely prizes. A sing-song was then enjoyed with Ivy Watson's talents at the piano and Win Taylor, a short business meeting was held.

Final plans were made for the reception following the Confirmation service to be held Sunday, March 25th.

Closing the meeting, Catherine thanked Marjorie Bunnett's group for making the evening so pleasant.

SEAL HUNTING GOOD

QUEBEC (CP)—The seal hunt is in full swing in the St. Lawrence gulf Magdalen islands and it looks like a bumper haul. Dr. Aurelien Labrie, deputy minister of Quebec's maritime fisheries, said Wednesday an estimated 20,000 seals have been killed since early March, more than twice the full season's catch last year, with another week of good hunting ahead.

District Women's Activities

MADOC — ELDORADO W.M.S.

ELDORADO — The Madoc-Eldorado Missionary Society held its March meeting in the Madoc Standard Church on Thursday evening with a good crowd in attendance.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. C. D. McCann took charge.

Mrs. McCann read the scripture lesson taken from the Romans 8. Collection showed $18.85.

A get-well card was signed by the society for Mr. Wager, who is a patient in Bermuda Memorial. A collection was also taken to send flowers to Mr. Wager. The Rev. William H. Slobbert gave a talk on the missionary spirit and also sang "I'm Glad I'm a Christian."

A reading by Jean Wager on missionary work and recitation by Sharon Robbins, "Giving to Jesus." A reading by Shirley Rose entitled, "Her Faith Under Cover."

BETHANY W.M.S. and W.A.

The March meeting of the Bethany Woman's Missionary Society and the Women's Association was held at the church hall, with 21 present.

The president of the WMS, Mrs. Clare Sills, was the leader of the meeting for the theme was "The Call to the Mission of the Church Through Evangelism and Mercy." The Scripture lessons were read by Mrs. C. Sills, Mrs. Horace Gay, Mrs. George Sills and Mrs. H. Walker. Each commented on the passage of Scripture they read.

Mrs. Douglas Martin and Mrs. Grant Easton sang a duet, the program. Mrs. Douglas Martin gave a reading "The Substitute", and also led in prayer. Mrs. Gerald Eggleton; Mrs. C. Davis, Mrs. George Bert Martin played a piano duet.

Mrs. Bruce Martin gave an inspiring address, "People Are Just People" comparing the people at the time of the first Easter with the people of today.

Mrs. H. McPherson read "Christ at Easter".

A Temperance reading was given by Mrs. H. Walker and Mrs. R. Ritz read a Stewardship reading, "The One Talent Woman".

Mrs. C. Sills was in charge of the business for the W.M.S. An invitation to an "Open Meeting" at Gilead, on April 4, was read and accepted. A letter of thanks from Mrs. A. Trumpour was read and Mrs. J. Ritz expressed her thanks for the flowers sent to her while in the hospital at Kingston. Mrs. H. Walker offered to prepare the program for April.

Mrs. W. Easton, president of the W.A., had charge of the business. The work of the flower committee was discussed. It was decided to hold a plant and bulb sale in May. Many ordered boxes of cards from Mrs. H. Walker who is in charge of this work for the W.A.

After the meeting closed, a social half hour was enjoyed with the "Third Line" ladies serving refreshments.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD

The March meeting of St. John's Guild, Point Anne, was held at the home of Mrs. Leeming Bradshaw, recently. The Rev. L. Arthur Page, opened the meeting and read an interesting story of a painter and his beautiful hands.

Mrs. Bradshaw, the president, conducted the business which included the reading of the minutes by Mrs. Norman MacDonald; the treasurer's report, by Mrs. Stan Luffman and a report on the bake sale. A discussion was held on the forthcoming Easter tea, which would be held early in April, at the home of Mrs. Robert Hall.

After Mr. Page closed the meeting, Mrs. Luffman presented Mrs. Robert Hutchings with a tatted centrepiece, on behalf of the Guild, as a farewell gift as Mrs. Hutchings is leaving to reside in Belleville, and for which she most graciously expressed her appreciation for the kind remembrance, inviting all the members to visit her.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Page, 37 Sunnywood Drive.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bradshaw, who was tendered a vote of appreciation by the members for her kind hospitality, by Mrs. Robert Hall, and seconded by Mrs. MacDonald for a most enjoyable evening.

THOMASBURG GUILD

The meeting of Christ church Guild, Thomasburg, was held at the home of Mrs. Don Geen.

The president, Mrs. Murray Morgan, opened the meeting.

Scripture lesson was taken from I Timothy 2:1-12.

One visitor was present.

A St. Patrick's contest, given by Mrs. Morgan, was enjoyed by all.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Lorne Carscallen.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

WISHING WON'T MAKE IT SO

It takes constant thought, care, hard work for a girl to be a glamorous beauty.

You wish you were beautiful. You wish you were charming. You wish you were exotic enough to wear the new sheath styles. Well, what are you doing about it? Wishing won't add "inches" to "an" never whittled away an ounce of flesh or made a good skin not acne blemishes. And it never made a harsh voice lovely, or dull hair alive and shining. Also overweight-ise in life, beauty and charm are something to be worked for, not attained without effort.

Of course some people do come into this world better endowed with good looks than others but you'd be surprised how hard some of the most famous beauties work to enhance and keep their beauty.

The will to be beautiful will work wonders for you too. It may not make you a Venus de Milo but it can make you a thousand times more attractive than you are today. The answer is in setting a program for yourself and sticking to it.

If it's reducing that you need, make up your mind to hold to your diet and exercises. Let nothing interfere, let nothing mar your resolution and those extra 10 pounds have disappeared.

You can build your daily charm - beauty program in every other way too. It is the only way for you to arrive at your goal of ultra-attractiveness. For keeping charming and lovely is an off-again-on-again thing. You can't spend one day pampering your self and then forget it for the rest of the week.

Everyday you must watch your diet and your weight, even when you are down to the best figure nature can possibly give you. Every night you must brush your hair until the roots tingle and the hair itself shines. Every night, also, you must clean your face carefully and give your skin loving care—remember it's got to last you a long while. You must give your fingernails a quick go-over, every night. If a bit of polish has chipped or a bit of nail grown out, that is the time to repair it so that it will be perfect for the new day. Always, day and night, you must watch the tones of your voice, for a harsh or strident voice can ruin the whole effect of beauty.

In other words, making and keeping yourself lovely is something you have to work at constantly — wishing won't "make it so."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

ALWAYS INVITE FIANCES . . . ALWAYS INVITE FIANCE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

To settle a discussion we are having, please answer this question: On what occasions would it be proper to invite a man and not his fiances? And on what occasions would it proper to invite a woman and not her fiance? — Group

On all social occasions the man's fiance should be invited with him, even, for example, to a small, intimate gathering of members of family. When he is invited to a wedding and reception, his fiance should also be invited, and when he is invited to any of the pre-wedding festivities (except the bachelor dinner!), she should be invited also. The same rule applies to the fiance . . . he should always be invited with her.

GIFTS TO "OPEN HOUSE"?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

We are invited to an "Open House" and we would like to know if it is proper to take a gift. You see the invitation does not say what kind of "Open House" party it is, whether an anniversary or what. — F.G.

When the invitation reads "Open House," and there is no indication on that the party is being given for a special occasion — such as the dates which mean a Wedding Anniversary celebration . . . it is not customary for the guests to bring gifts.

THIS DRESS NOT APPROPRIATE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have been invited to a formal church wedding at seven-thirty in the evening in the first week in April. I was considering wearing a red-and-white glazed cotton evening gown. Would that be correct? — E.M.

I doubt very much that this dress would be appropriate to wear to a formal evening church wedding in April. There would be no formality in the look of a red-and-white glazed cotton dress — more suitable, I should say, to wear to a very informal evening wedding in the country in mid-summer.

BRIDE-TO-BE HAS SCHEMING MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My dearest girl friend has just become engaged, but has not yet made any plans for her wedding or even set the date of the wedding. Therefore I was certainly surprised today when her mother telephoned and asked me to give the first shower for her as soon as I could. She said this would give the hint to others to begin planning showers for the bride-to-be. I told her that I thought she should give the first shower, but she said she'd pay all the expenses of the shower if I'd give it and not let it be known that it was her idea or that she was paying for it. What is your opinion about this? — Bewildered

"Bewildered" I should think you would be! What a pushing and "mixed up" mother to begin her

A PARTY for your children is never a completely quiet affair, and any near neighbors will hear the noisy fun. If it's not partial to having them in the party, wouldn't it be nice for you and your children to call on them the day before, to "warn" them about your plans?

RYLSTONE W.A.

RYLSTONE — The Women's Association of Rylstone United Church held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Lily Anderson, on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Ray Stewart, was in charge of the following program: Hymn, "Come Let Us Sing of a Wonderful Love"; Lord's Prayer; Scripture Lesson: John 3:1-8; reading: "Love"; by Mrs. Will Rutherford; Hymn: "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross"; reading: "We Live In Deeds, Not Years"; by Mrs. Lyman Keown; duet: "Those Bad, Bad Kids", by Linda Spencer sisters, Lynn and Suzanne; reading: "Do Something", by Mrs. Ray Stewart; vocal duet: "Jagged Cross", by Mrs. Will Rutherford and Mrs. Bob Spencer; reading: "Love, True and False", by Mrs. John Stewart; "Green", contest by Mrs. Will Rutherford; Hymn: "Please Keep Me Near the Cross".

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bob Spencer, on April 11th. Key-word for the meeting will be "Jesus". There will be a special Easter Offering. Devotions will be led by Clarence Thomson and Mrs. Ellis Jones.

"gimmee" campaign so soon and with such deplorable lack of taste. Obviously she does know that it is not courtesy for the mother of the bride-to-be to give a shower for her (or at least to appear to give the shower), so she is trying to give the shower anyway, under the cover of "Bewildered" readers. Please have nothing to do with this plan for it isn't proper and it isn't honest, and I warn you that usually when this scheme is followed, "the girls will out" and you'll feel mighty chagrined and embarrassed!

I advise you to tell the mother graciously but firmly, that you'd prefer to plan to give a shower later after the wedding date has been set, perhaps with a group of other intimate friends of the bride-to-be.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS ISN'T ANY "TREND," GIRLS!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

This may sound like a silly problem for four girls of 25, but I just hate to give up.

Here is the story:

Last fall my girl friends and I attended a dance where we met a crowd of very pleasant fellows to whom we were immediately attracted. Apparently, one of them felt the same about me, because he promptly asked me for a date that same evening.

We girls have continued to attend these dances quite regularly, and each time we go, we run into these same fellows and they always spend all their time sitting with us and dancing with us exclusively.

One of my friends likes one of the fellows more each time she sees him and he seems to feel the same way about her. Two of the other girls feel the same way about two of the other boys. As for myself, although the first fellow I went out with seems to care for me, I have decided I would like to go out with his friend, who apparently enjoys my company because he sits with me and dances only with me.

We're not so crazy about these fellows that we just can't forget about them, but it does present a very interesting challenge. From what I can gather, it might be that they just don't care for a date, preferring to attend these dances with their friends. Perhaps if we could figure out what prompts them to act this way, it might give us a clue as to what seems to be the trend in behavior of the modern "independent male."

We will appreciate any advice you may be able to give us. — SIS

Dear S.H.:

I entirely agree with you—this is a real problem for four young women of 25 to concern themselves with, and I don't quite see where the "very interesting challenge" comes in. Do you mean that you don't understand why these chaps don't ask you for dates and that you feel it's a "challenge" to see if you can't get them to the point where they will do so? At any rate, my advice is that if you enjoy spending your time with these young men at these dances, all well and good. Enjoy their company as much as you can on those evenings.

But, since it has been all of seven months now that they've had the opportunity to date you and haven't done so, put them out of your heads as possible dates.

It would indeed be silly to waste any serious time with such men who show no desire to develop a more acquaintance with you into a nice friendship.

I'm sure their behavior has no significance as a "trend."

The Canadian Red Cross advises that serum albumin has replaced plasma. It is a blood fraction produced from human blood.

Saturday Night Snacks

By Mary Moore

Some of you regulars — and Grayce B. who made the request —will remember that I promised last week to give out with some Saturday night snacks that were not sandwiches.

My mind instantly turned to Chili con Carne with rye bread and cole slaw but that is an old favorite that is served often to Saturday night snackers.

Naturally, I don't know how much trouble you will go to or how much time you have to fuss. So I'll muddle along in my guessing way and give you snacks which have not appeared here before, and it is my guess that your guests will not have met up with them either.

If you do not take to any of these ideas you know you can resort to a generous assortment of cold cuts with cheese and dillies and with sliced rye bread you can let your guests make their own selection—and sandwiches if they like.

CHEESE CUPS

One 8-oz. package white cream cheese (room temperature), 1 tablespoon onion juice or grated onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-3 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 2 egg yolks, salt and pepper, bread cups (see below), 1-2 cup melted butter or margarine. Mix all ingredients but bread cups and butter together. Bread Cups—Slice a full-size loaf of unsliced bread into thick 1-inch slices. Cut each slice into 4 even quarters and remove crusts. If desired trim off corners to make them round. Remove centres to make a deep depression but don't go through to bottom. Brush tops, sides and bottoms with melted butter. Fill with cheese filling, having it piled a little. Cover and refrigerate until serving time. (Note: These may be frozen—but not longer that two months.) Bake 5 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. serve piping hot.

HOT MUSHROOM MERINGUES

Wash well and chop fresh mushrooms finely and measure 3-4 cup. Saute gently in 2 tablespoons butter until limp. Add 1-4 teaspoon each salt and garlic salt (less if desired) and pinch of pepper. To 2 beaten egg yolk add 2 tablespoons cream, and stir this into the hot mushrooms. Stir over extremely low heat until thickened—about 5 minutes. Spread on 1 1-2 inch rounds of unloasted bread, sprinkle with a little Parmesan cheese. Beat the left over egg whits until very stiff. With spatula spread a little on each canape and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 to 12 minutes. Do not broil.

Note—If prepared in advance do not beat or add egg white until last minute. These are delicious and unusual and amount of filling will make 10 or 12.

CLAM DIP

To serve with potato chips or crackers.

Canned clams may be used in place of crab meat. One 3-oz. package white cream cheese, tablespoon mayonnaise, 1 6-oz. tin crab meat, 1-4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 8 teaspoons grated onion, 2 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 1-2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 3 drops Tabasco sauce. Mix well and chill.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The Western Area Conference held at Port Hope was attended by over 400 Scouters and Leaders. Many subjects on Scouting were discussed and it was agreed by all that the Conference was most successful.

District Commissioner Dr. W. T. Beatty of Port Hope and His Worship the mayor welcomed the visitors. Regional Commissioner Mr. A. S. Lewis made the opening address followed by four Conservation experts.

After lunch, groups were formed of Scoutmasters, Akelas, Mothers Auxiliaries and Committee men. Subjects of particular interest to these groups were presented by their own members and very lively discussions resulted. Quite a number of Belleville Scouters took part in this.

The speaker was Rev. A. S. McConnell, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville. His talk was on "Left handed Leaders" and liberally spiced with Irish wit was interesting and entertaining. Canon McConnell is always on hand where Scouts are concerned, the willing and cheerful manner in which he accepts extra duties endears him to the hearts of all who know him. To meet him is to like him.

All the District Commissioners and their wives were there. Two Rawson buses conveyed most of the Belleville contingent which included District Commissioner O. C. Owen and Mrs. Owen, A.D.C. and Mrs. Phil Allcorn, A.D.C. Don Allen and many other Scout leaders.

TEN YEAR MEDAL GIVEN

The Regional Commissioner presented Mr. Phil Allcorn with his ten-year medal, and remarked on the long and faithful service Mr. Allcorn has done for Cubs. The healthy and steady growth of Cubbing in Belleville reflects favorably on the A.D.C., for Cubs and his leaders.

At the Local Association meeting A.D.C. Phil Allcorn stated that the Cub camp will be held at Quinte Isle and will be a full camp, in fact he may have to operate on a quota system. The Cubs will leave Belleville on August 11th returning August 17th. Again the difficulty of getting male leaders is a cause of worry making it conditional for groups to supply at least one male leader. Belleville will hold their own Cubaree, or, equivalent, this year. There is a refresher course for Akelas at Blue Springs every five years and the Local Association will provide the usual assistance to qualified applicants.

Mr. R. D. Arnold, president, suggested that Scoutmasters submit ideas on the tree planting project with a view to the possibility of Cubs participating.

The Local Association are of opinion that the film, "The 8th World Jamboree of New Horizons" donated by Eaton's of Canada, should be shown to as many people as possible and are planning towards this end. A Scout Troop has been formed by the 12th (Holy Rosary) Group.

Mr. A. S. Lewis gave a resume of the Western Area Conference.

The Badge Chairman Mr. Bob Munro reported the following badges qualified for recently.

Entertainers: Scouts Peter Wilson, Dorian Robinson Edward Burtt, all of the 8th. Reasoners: Scouts Peter Wilson Edward Burtt of the 8th. Jim Churchill of the 1st. Foxboro. Air Apprentice: Scout Bob Weese of the 8th. Swimmers: Cubs Roger Day of the 1st. Leroy Lake of the 2nd. Allan Daley of the 3rd. Brian McBride of the 5th. John Bunnett and Jay Kaufman, of the 10th, and Billy Augers of the 11th. Tailors: Scout Dorian Robinson of the 8th.

WELLINGTON

Ladies' Auxiliary Enjoys Roast Beef Dinner

WELLINGTON — Despite one of the worst storms of this winter about 80 people sat down and enjoyed a delicious roast beef dinner in the Canadian Legion Hall on Friday evening.

This dinner was sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion. The hall looked pretty with its green decorations in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

After dinner Mr. Lyn Greer, (who had so kindly given the Auxiliary a case of strawberries a short time ago, and on which the ladies had sold tickets) was asked to draw out the lucky number. This happened to be the same number held by Mrs. Murray Wilton, so she carried home the strawberries.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prest were: Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw, and Wayne Shaw; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Brett, David and Richard, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. W. Ewald, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wood, Stirling, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, Coopr, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray.

A basket of red roses was placed in Beulah United Church Sunday evening by Mrs. A. Timbrell in loving memory of her mother, Mrs. Donald Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mitts, Miss Dorothy Mitts attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Martha Mitts held at Sioco, on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Gordon MacMillan, Toronto, spent the weekend with his sister, Mrs. Burton Reid.

"12 years of asthma—Without a decent sleep"

Do you gasp for breath with asthma, wheeze and cough with chronic bronchitis at night and blow with hay fever? Then read this case history from Mr. W. J. A. MacKenzie, 756 Jarvis St., Toronto. "For 12 years I suffered from asthma, hay fever and chronic bronchitis, with sneezing and frequent attacks of violent coughing. Often I had dreadful bouts of sneezing, watery eyes and a terrible tightness in eyes and ears. It was a fortunate thing when I learned of Templeton's RAZ-MAH. The very first night I had quite satisfactory relief from my symptoms that I got my first decent sleep in over 12 years, and my other symptoms greatly improved!" Discover for yourself how much Templeton's RAZ-MAH can do for bronchial asthma and hay fever. Only 75c and $1.50 at drug counters. B-119

Here's How to Win!

Get Free Check List at any Dominion Store.

Find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $4,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calling you will win the Grand Prize of $3,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS $1.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand", you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Although 40 phone calls were placed to all parts of Ontario Saturday night in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE HUNT, no one answered with the correct words to win the $3,000 Grand Prize or the $1,000 Bonus Prize. However, there were five consolation prizes of $100 each awarded to the following: Mrs. W. Pickering, 162 Hastings Avenue, Toronto; Mr. C. G. Kappey, 61 Dunspaula Park Avenue, Toronto; Mr. F. Morris, 778 Eastcourt Avenue, Toronto; Mrs. M. Brooks, 61 Olive Riverside; and Mrs. I. R. Lambert, 258 Roseberry Street, Belleville.

MARSH HILL — "Open house" was held Monday night at Marsh Hill public school, when parents and friends of the pupils and their teacher, Mrs. John Good, were given an opportunity to hear and see some of the work being done by the pupils.

Byron Aide performed the duties of chairman, giving everyone a hearty welcome.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Chorus by the Junior girls, "Six Little Milkmaids, Brenda Ross, Betty Sine, Kathy Sine, Gwenda Pelton, Monica Sine and Linda Finkle; A tap dance number by Annette Conegillo; recitation, "The Willow Cats", by Harold Finkle; piano solo, "Little Burlesque," Marilyn Finkle; music by grades 1, 2, 3, "Betty's Kitchen", "Little Jack Frost" and "Good Morning, Merry Sunshine"; tap dance number by Wayne Campbell; recitation, "The Wagon in the Barn", by Raymond Finkle; two-part musical number by the seniors "Chapel Bells"; play, "The Hare and the Tortoise", by Elizabeth Finkle, and Sheila Slater. Barbara Ann Vardy as the reader; recitation by Paul Smith, "The Little Turtle"; a musical number by John Slater and Linda Finkle, "Daisy"; recitation by Marilyn Finkle, "Jonathan Bing Does Arithmetic"; grades 1, 2, 3, recited, "Tick Tock", "The Farmer went Trotting", "The Milkman's Horse", "Where are you going" and "Skipping is Fun"; recitation, "Mice", by Barbara Ann Vardy; radio program, "Canadian Round-up", with Byron Aide as the commentator, with the following taking part, Annette Conegillo; Marilyn Finkle; Bruce Coulter; Ralph Deller; Paul Hannah; and Wayne Campbell.

The parents were given an opportunity to look at the pupils' work, after which refreshments were served by the ladies.

Mr. Edison Sine, member of the board, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Good and the pupils for their fine program.

The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close an enjoyable evening.

Because at last has developed Children's Own Tablets for your child's privation — no stronger in grip

Many using harsh laxatives don't know the tender walls of your child's intestines, mucous membranes, are irritated by harsh laxatives. Large, harsh, adult-strength laxatives. They work, but they cause irritation and soreness in the intestines. Medical science has at last developed Children's Own Tablets — absolutely-safest for children's tender tissues. Children's Own Tablets are a mild laxative, yet thorough, too. So try Children's Own Tablets today — made by makers of Baby's Own Tablets. See if they are not the answer to your child's problem.

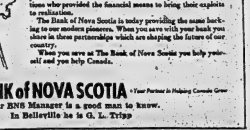
This ambitious 19-year-old Scot came to Canada in 1845. Versatile, adaptable, he conquered problem after problem.



In 1851, Fleming designed the first Canadian "Adhesive postage labels." His three penny was the original "Beaver" stamp.

As Chief Engineer, he directed laying of the Intercolonial Railway and the transcontinental C.P.R., completed in 1885.

In 1876, Fleming pioneered a world time system—Standard Time as we know it today. At first he got no support, but finally in 1884, at a 25 nation conference in Washington, his proposals were accepted.

Fleming who was knighted in 1897, then turned to another bold opening of distance—a cable under the Pacific Ocean completed in 1902. The Prime Minister of New Zealand cables him!

A remarkable and energetic man—a true nation-builder—Fleming was Chancellor of Queen's University for 35 years.

Sen. Muriel Fergusson Wants Special Treatment for Women Housed in Federal Prisons

OTTAWA (CP)—Prisoners should be removed from the cell blocks of the stone-walled federal prison for women at Kingston, says Senator Muriel Fergusson.

The Liberal senator from New Brunswick said Wednesday the women should have, instead, a cottage-type institution or else be placed in provincial institutions closer to their families and friends.

The Kingston prison never held more than 100 women. They were from all over Canada and seldom saw relatives while serving their sentences.

"It seems cruel to take women prisoners so far from family and friends for so long," Senator Fergusson said.

REFORM MOTION

She spoke on a motion sponsored by Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) which urges reform of Canada's "antiquated" penal system, especially in the field of probation.

Senator Fergusson said the few women prisoners at the Kingston penitentiary do not present a custodial problem. Yet they were confined in a maximum - security prison, in cell blocks that did not permit segregation of first offend ers from hardened criminals.

They had not even the advantages of men prisoners in federal prisons, who could take vocational training during working hours. The women could have such training only on their own time, after spending all day in a laundry or a hot kitchen.

"I believe it will be well worthwhile to set up a program that will give women, during their working hours, the same opportunities given men to become proficient in a trade for which they have some aptitude."

SUGGESTS STERILIZE

Speaking on the same motion, Senator W. Gershaw (L—Alberta), a doctor, proposed sterilization of parents in selected cases of psychopathic illness as a means of preventing birth of criminal psychopaths.

Senator Gershaw, a practising physician from Medicine Hat, said psychopaths are mentally - sick persons, unstable, hostile, unpredictable and dangerous.

"I want to say that I think there is nothing wrong in the sterilization of some parents in selected cases," he said. "It is done in quite a few mental institutions."

"I happen to know of parents of two families who are mentally defective. They have sick children, not one of whom is anywhere near normal."

He also said psychopaths, including sexual perverts, should be confined until they are cured. It might take a short while or a lifetime, "but that is the only way society can be protected from these people."

Five Years More Needed Gordon Tells Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—About five more years will be needed to complete the CNR's program of switching from steam to diesel locomotive power, President Donald Gordon of the CNR said Wednesday.

He told the Commons railway committee an initial five-year program will be finished this year and the next stage will extend four years after that.

Mr. Gordon, making his annual appearance before the committee, also informed it that the publicly-owned line is planning system-wide centralized traffic control for trains. This enables movements of all trains in a railway division to be controlled electronically from a single point.

Mr. Gordon also said the CNR management is not considering a change in the name of its $20,000,000 Queen Elizabeth Hotel being built in Montreal. He added that it has been announced previously that, when appropriate, the hotel may be called "La Reine Elizabeth."

Massey Takes Bouncing Ride Behind Huskies

By JOE MacSWEEN

FROBISHER BAY, Baffin Island (CP)—An Eskimo dog sled carried the banner of Canada's governor - general Wednesday as Vincent Massey took a bouncing ride behind 12 huskies.

With the vice-regal pennant fluttering in the breeze, the long, slim sled whisked over ice and barren snow carrying Mr. Massey and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lionel Massey, while Eskimo driver Moosesey cracked his caribou-hide whip.

This was one of the interludes that the governor-general termed "fascinating" on the second day of his Arctic tour in which he travelled to the various sections of this $10,000,000 base 1,200 miles north of Montreal.

Friday, Mr. Massey's plane will take him to Hall lake, on the northernmost tip of the Canadian mainland north of Hudson bay. The 10,000-mile tour will take him over the North Pole and to places never before visited by a governor-general.

Wednesday, Mr. Massey visited a continental defence base in the vicinity, where men constantly on the watch for polar invasion keep in practice by following the movements of aircraft on DEW radar line supply work.

He toured RCAF installations and chatted by radio with personnel who assisted the vice - regal plane in landing safely during a blizzard Tuesday night.

Earlier, in an igloo, he munched on frozen caribou meat and Arctic char seal, terming the snack a delicacy. He also visited more modern Eskimo frame dwellings.

In mild temperatures, members of the vice-regal party found little use for their Arctic gear, wandering about barbecued during the strenuous program.

Govt's. Tax-Sharing Offer Will Remain Same Says P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)—No more federal concessions will be made on the government's tax-sharing offer to the provinces, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated Wednesday.

A letter he wrote Monday to premiers and tabled in the Commons Wednesday, giving revised federal guarantees of revenue to provinces said the government's current proposals are being embodied into legislation for Parliament.

That suggested finality, and Mr. St. Laurent also said the government feels federal taxes should not be increased to raise more money to be spread among the provinces through tax-splitting.

The latest federal concession, it became known Wednesday, contained a factor that would mean about $865,000 a year improvement for British Columbia from the previous offer and $80,000 to Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Costain a two-way rise in federal floors on revenues available to the provinces under a formula laid down at a federal-provincial conference last year and modified earlier this year.

The new guarantees:

1. In shifting from the current tax rental agreements expiring March 31, 1957, no province would get less than what it would have received had the agreements been extended into the following five years.

2. No province in any single year under the proposed five-year formula arrangement would get less than 95 per cent of the average for the preceding two years. This is a protection against a slump in provincial funds that might be caused by a recession, and has no cash value.

The No. 1 guarantee would benefit only B.C. and P.E.I., whose relatively-high per capita intake from the tax rental agreements would have been reduced under the federal formula.

Klaus the Crow Is Missing At Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Klaus the crow is missing and the Rasmussen family and their three dogs and two cats are in mourning.

Klaus could sing "How much is that doggie in the window?" He danced to radio music. He could meow like the Rasmussen cats.

But such a bad little bird. Not long ago he took the lid off the potato pot and filled it with soapy powder. When Mrs. Rasmussen accused him of the crime he cried: "Mickey did it, Mickey did it." Mickey's a dog.

"He turned our oil heater off," said Mrs. Edith Rasmussen, who came to Winnipeg from Denmark six years ago with her family. "And he ate all my potted plants."

"He was the first one to eat dinner. If he sat on the chair first you couldn't get him off. Oh, he was the boss in the house but he was so funny, so funny."

Klaus was rude to the neighbors. One day he cried "Oh, shut up" to the man next door. The man called back "Shut up yourself." After that whenever the man appeared Klaus greeted him with: "You is a bad man."

Million Dollar Treasury Note Still Missing

NEW YORK (AP)—The million-dollar U.S treasury note missing from the Chase Manhattan Bank still has not turned up—but the bank got its money back Wednesday.

An official said the bank had entered a claim for the loss with 18 insurance companies acting as surety and that they had paid $1 million to the bank.

"Nobody will lose any money over it, though," a bank spokesman said. "The insurance companies eventually can get their money back from the government."

The bank discovered March 8 1947, that the treasury note was missing. Diligent search failed to reveal any trace of it. The note is negotiable by anyone—theoretically. But anyone trying to cash it would face extensive questioning.

Western Growers Want to Sell Grain Direct

OTTAWA (CP) — There's too much red tape snarling western sales of feed grains to eastern feeders, a Saskatchewan farmer said Wednesday in the Commons.

H. A. Bryson (CCF—Humboldt-Melfort) asked the government to consider some method of eliminating difficulties which prevent a western grower from selling directly to users of feed grain in the east.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner reminded him there are Canadian wheat board regulations which must be observed. A western feed grower had to deliver his grain to the board if he wanted to receive an initial payment on it. The board then sold the grain to eastern feeders.

There would be great bookkeeping difficulties in including direct sales as part of a farmer's quota.

WELLINGTON

St. Andrew's Jr. Aux. Holds St. Patrick Party

WELLINGTON — An enjoyable St. Patrick's party was held in the town hall on Thursday evening by the Junior Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church. Thirteen members were present and a guest were present. Mrs. Roger Crook and Mrs. Murray Willis, who are the leaders of the Junior group, welcomed them all.

The party started by the singing of several hymns, slides of Jasper's were shown and a number of games were played.

About eight o'clock a delicious repast was served with Mrs. Spriggings helping to serve. The highlight of the refreshments was a beautiful cake made and decorated by Mrs. Goerzen. This cake was decorated with the J. A. colors, green and white with a gold cross.

Favors were given out to the ones sitting on the lucky chair, having lucky plates and also for birthdays. These were won by Cheryl Goerzen, Barbara Shortt, Velma Vanderwater, Catherine Dean.

Mrs. Crook and Mr. Willis wish to express thanks to the mothers of the J. A. members who provided the refreshments to Mrs. Goerzen for the beautiful cake, and to Mrs. Spriggings for her donations and help at the party.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. McClinton, of Toronto, were visitors on the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. L. McGinnis and Mr. McGinnis.

Mrs. Wallace McIvor, of Bonnieglen, visited her mother, Mrs. W. Grant, on Monday.

The reverend J. Mac Dever, of Edmonton, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Mellonas, on Sunday. Mr. MacDever is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Mellonas.

The funeral of the late Charles Kelly of Malone, was largely attended in St. Andrew's United Church on Monday. Relatives and friends were present from Elzevir, Kingston, Peterborough, and surrounding district. The minister was The Rev. William H. Stobbart, of Madoc.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Kelly and family at this time of sudden bereavement.

City Officials Hold up Order Condemning Home

NEW YORK (AP)—City officials agreed today to hold up an order condemning a home for homeless men as a fire-trap, after hearing that more than $15,000 has been collected for repairs.

The decision was a victory for Dorothy Day, the 57-year-old former writer who operates the "House of Hospitality" on the fringes of New York's Bowery.

Miss Day gave up a career as an author 25 years ago to help found the house, which feeds 200 to 300 derelicts every day and has beds for 80.

Originally, she was ordered to vacate the premises by Wednesday because a fire caused by a cigaret smoker three years ago killed one man and injured five others. Cost of renovating the four-story building is estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000.

Post W. H. Auden started the fund raising drive three weeks ago when he donated a $250 cheque into Miss Day's hand as she headed to court for arraignment as a building code violator.

Since that time, she told the court, donations have totalled $15,430, including cheques from as far away as Italy.

George Brady, of the department of housing and buildings, said the vacate order will be held in abeyance while repairs are in progress.

"That's wonderful," said magistrate Jack Micoll, who adjourned the case until April 17.

ANNA MAGNANI

At the time, Lancaster said, "We're making it because it's something we want to make." He added that even if the picture didn't earn a cent it would be profitable as a tax loss against big grosses of Vera Cruz and Apache, putting the producers in a lower bracket.

But Marty turned out to be a sleeper. It won the Cannes film festival and New York film critics awards before getting Wednesday night's Oscar.

As for financial returns on the expected tax loss, Lancaster disclosed: "So far the picture has grossed $2,000,000, and hasn't been put in general release yet."

Hecht and Lancaster tossed a $10,000 party at the Beverly Hills Hotel after the awards.

A happy Borgnine said after receiving his Oscar:

"I felt wonderful, naturally, but I hadn't let my hopes get too high. I figured I didn't start out with anything in this town. If I lost I still was way ahead of the game."

WATCHED ON TV

Four members of Borgnine's family watched the ceremonies on television at New Haven, Conn., and let out a loud howl when his victory was announced.

Miss Van Fleet said she was "numb" when her name was called.

"I never thought I had a chance in the world to win that," she added.

Lemmon, after all the commotion was over, said as his first words to reporters:

"Where am I?"

He said he lost $40 betting against himself. His choice: Arthur O'Connell of Picnic.

Camera man James Wong Howe, nominated for an Oscar for the 10th time, finally won one for his photography of The Rose Tattoo.

BY JERRY LEWIS

The star-studded ceremonies at Hollywood's Pantages theatre were brilliantly conducted by comedian Jerry Lewis. Two stars—Maurice Chevalier and Grace Kelly—stole some of the spotlight from the winners.

The straw-hatted, 68-year-old Frenchman proved he still has plenty of charm. It was Miss Kelly's last Hollywood appearance before she leaves for Monaco and marriage to Prince Rainier III.

The program was nationally telecast by NBC. There were frequent shifts to the NBC century theatre in New York, where some winners received their Oscars. Actress Claudette Colbert, a 1934 Oscar winner for It Happened One Night, and director Joseph L. Mankiewicz presided over the New York ceremonies.

Some disappointment was voiced by stars because no special award was given the late James Dean. An academy official said it was decided to let Dean's performance stand on its merits with the other nominees for top acting.

The honorary foreign language award went to Japanese film Samurai. Scientific and technical awards were given to:

The National Carbon Company, for development and production of a high-efficiency yellow flame carbon for motion picture color photography. The Eastman Kodak Company for Eastman Tri-X panchromatic negative film, 200 Century Fox and the Bausch and Lomb Company for new combination lenses for CinemaScope.

SHOW BRITISH ART

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Masterpieces by Gainsborough, Reynolds and Romney go on display at Moscow's Pushkin Museum today at the opening of the first all-British art exhibition to be held in Russia since the 1917 revolution.

LABOR MINISTER

His son-in-law, the minister said, had served for three years with the air force during the war and started working for the department on his return from overseas. "I'm proud of him," the minister said. "He flew in a bomber, and didn't sit in a safe office in Ottawa the way you did. Why should he be held back because he happened to marry my daughter?"

He wasn't happy when he learned his son-in-law was being considered for the post, but was informed by the deputy minister that Mr. Turton was the most experienced man for the job at hand and had the most seniority.

"Let me know any time you want to settle it on a personal basis," he challenged Mr. MacDonald.

THREE-HOUR SITTING

There was no further reference to the incident during a three-hour evening sitting of the House.

Mr. MacDonald had charged a month ago the government practised political patronage and was told then to prove his charges.

"You asked me for proof," he said to Premier Frost. "Well, here it is." He then told the house about Mr. Daley's son-in-law.

After the assembly adjourned for supper, government members crowded around Mr. Daley, shaking his hand and slapping him on the back.

Several jumped up after Mr. Daley sat down to condemn Mr. MacDonald.

Allan Grossman (PC—Toronto St. Andrew) said Mr. MacDonald is indulging in "yahoo-rousing done on the basis of: anything for a headline." He was doing everything possible to "destroy people's faith in and respect for democratic proceedings."

Mr. MacDonald also roused the ire of Attorney-General Roberts. He said Ontario Provincial Police were used as strike-breakers during a walkout of municipal employees in Wallaceburg a year ago.

Mistaken policemen were sent into the town although there was "no suggestion of violence or property damage." There was no justification whatever for sending the police in.

Mr. Roberts said the police were sent on the request of the mayor of Wallaceburg. At no time were they ever used as strike-breakers, he said.

Two Men Killed

PAPINEAUVILLE, Que. (CP)—Two men were killed Wednesday when their car crashed into a truck on the highway near here. Dead are Gerald Gagnon, 42, killed instantly, and his driving instructor Aurel Desrochers, 35-year-old auto dealer.

Campbell Will Try for 250 MPH Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Campbell, British speedboat driver who has travelled faster on water than any other man, said Wednesday he hopes to try in September for an unprecedented 250 miles per hour on a Texas lake.

The son of the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, himself an auto and speedboat record holder, leaves today aboard the liner United States for London. His famous jet-propelled boat, the Bluebird, is going back to England for certain modifications. Campbell will celebrate his 35th birthday at sea on Friday.

Campbell piloted the Bluebird over Lake Mead, Nev., at an average speed of 218.25 m.p.h. last Nov. 16. That broke Campbell's previous mark of 202.32 made in England last July.

"I hope to return in July for tests and exhibitions, and we have set a target of 250 m.p.h. for 1956," he said. Campbell said the probable record site is Eagle Mountain lake, near Fort Worth.

The lake is about six miles long and a mile wide.

AT THE CAPITOL — Marjorie Main co-stars with John Wayne in Harold Bell Wright's beloved angel story, "The Shepherd of the Hills" in Technicolor, held over at the Capitol Theatre until Saturday, nine more glorious days. On the same program are Twila Carter, Beulah Bondi, Lon Louise Platt, starring Fred MacMurray, Fenny Foeda and Sylvia Sidney.

Will Put Up $10,000 for Swim; Wants TV Licence

VICTORIA (CP) — Bill Rea, owner of radio station CKNW, says he will put up $10,000 prize money for a man or girl strait swim this summer if his application for a Victoria television licence is approved.

The offer was made to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in a telegram Wednesday from Ottawa where Mr. Rea is awaiting a CBC hearing next week on his application and that of Victoria radio station CHUB for a licence to Chosen it.

The swim fund was launched following a challenge by Cliff Langdon of Victoria to Henry Thomas of Tacoma, Wash., for a winner-take-all race for a pot of at least $10,000.

Regina Pats Flip Flin-Flon

REGINA (CP) — Regina Pats, sparked by Murray Balfour, defeated Flin Flon Bombers 9-3 before 4,384 fans Wednesday night to deadlock their best-of-seven Western Canada junior hockey semi-final '3-3."

Balfour fired four goals. Winger Con Collie added two while Murray Mahaffey, Bill Hicke and Bob Whittal each connected once.

Ted Rampone, the Saskatchewan League's record-breaking scorer, Ron Hutchinson and George Konik connected for Flin Flon.

GAIN SEMI-FINALS

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Lewis Road and Jack Arkinstall of Australia gained the semi-final round of the Alexandria international tennis tournament Wednesday.

Young Briton Plays Hookey To Ride Horse

MALPAS, England (Reuters)—Thirteen-year-old Robin Langley was in hot water with school officials today—because he played hookey from school to ride in an important horse race.

Robin, Britain's youngest successful jockey, rode a 66-to-1 outsider, Arta Degree, in the Lincolnshire Handicap Wednesday. The horse finished near the tail end of the field, but racegoers agreed it was a good performance in a career that began when Robin was only 11.

But education authorities whom he had defied to take part in the race did not regard it as a good performance. The local education committee will consider his truancy at its next meeting.

"If repeated, it could have a serious effect on his education," an official said. "It looks to me a bad thing."

A similar situation developed Monday over 14-year-old Steve Donoghue II, kinsman of a celebrated pre-war British jockey. Steve planned to ride in a minor race at Lincoln Monday but stayed at school after receiving a warning from local education authorities.

Queen Mother's Horse Favored At 9-1 Odds

ANTRIM, England (AP) — An Irish horse with an English trainer, a Scottish name and a royal owner is the hottest betting prospect in Britain for the 110th Grand National steeplechase Saturday.

Queen Mother Elizabeth's Devon Loch will be going for the first royal victory over Aintree's rugged 4½-mile course since 1900. The 9-year-old gelding, Devon Loch will carry 158 pounds and was held at 9-to-1 odds Wednesday.

Best Story of Last 24 Years To Be Televised on 'Climax'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the best stories published in the United States in the last 24 years is Pale Horse, Pale Rider by Katherine Anne Porter. Tonight it will be televised on "Climax!" (CBS-TV).

Pale Horse, Pale Rider is a story of a young newspaper woman who falls in love with an army lieutenant during the First World War as it about to leave for overseas. She is stricken with flu and he cares for her until he, too, falls ill. He dies, but she survives. From her suffering she—and the reader—finds maturity and nobility of character in the will to live.

Whether the adaptation conveys the mood and self-discovery and wisdom of the excellent story I do not know; I haven't read the script. And neither has Mitzi Porter, star, on the other day when she came to town from the country house and found it pointless to be completing her first full-length novel.

While pleased at having a wide audience of readers, she writes to satisfy only herself—and only from her own experience. Discussing Pale Horse, Pale Rider, she said:

"I was quite young during the First World War in Denver and I had a job on the Rocky Mountain News. Bill, the city editor, (the city editor of her story is named Bill) put me to covering the theatres."

"I met a boy, an army lieutenant. . . . Our time was so short and we were so much in love. But we were shy. It was one step forward and two steps back with us.

". . . I was taken ill with the flu. They gave me up. The paper had my obit set in type. I've seen the correspondence between my father and my sister on plans for my funeral . . .

"I knew I was dying. . . . But I didn't die. I mustered the will to live. My hair turned white and then it fell out. The first time I tried to rise to a sitting position I fell and broke an arm. I had phlebitis in one leg and they said I'd never walk again. But I was determined to walk and live again, and in six months I was walking and my hair had grown back."

"And the boy, Miss Porter?"

"It's in the story." At the sudden memory she fought back tears—and won gallantly. "He died. . . . It seems to me true that I died then, I died once, and I never have feared death since. . . ."

Sexy-Voiced Virginia Leith Generally Moody, Off-Beat

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—From hat check chick to star—that's the Cinderella story of sexy - voiced Virginia Leith.

Virginia now is playing opposite William Holden in Toward the Unknown. He's her boss, too, since the film is being made for Holden's Toluca Productions. He terms her "a remarkable talent" and tried to sign her for a picture a year. But her studio told him so sale: it has its own plans.

She is shapely, brown-haired, moody and sultry-voiced. After 10 months of vocal training at the studio she could almost make Lauren Bacall sound like soprano.

Virginia's advent to stardom is a curious chain of circumstances. She grew up in Cleveland as a little thought of becoming an actress. Only a "waiter of fact, she wanted to write and even took journalism at Columbia University.

"I flunked out," she confessed. "I'd rarely get through high school. I had one of the highest I.Q.'s in school, but got some of the lowest grades. I was always day-dreaming."

She came to California, but with no intention of trying to act. Her explanation: "I liked warm weather, but I didn't like Florida. So I came here."

Her first job was checking hats in a Beverly Hills restaurant. Then she landed a job as a showgirl in Ken Murray's "Blackouts." That lasted a year and she turned to modeling. One day she got a call for an interview.

"They wanted me for a movie," she recalled. "I was afraid they were going up in the mountains to make some stag reels."

The assignment turned out to be an arty film called Fear and Desire made by the Young Amateurs.

The picture never went far, but caused enough notice to get her a four-page layout in Life magazine. Twentieth Century-Fox saw it. The result: A test and a contract.

Virginia claims she would be hard to get along with — "I'm moody and off-beat." For that reason, too, she hopes to avoid being typed as the dutiful wife.

"I'd like to do roles with character," she said. "That's the only way a girl can get ahead in this town. Otherwise you can go on for years playing the same colorless roles."

"THE AWFUL TRUTH!

God, man, the awful truth about senior baseball in this city has at last leaked out. And it took a Picton sports-writing "diagnostician" to solve the "mystery" and expose the whole thing to the public.

Manager Jack Carson and the Belleville Batas played this department and Devine a dirty trick.

It appears that the Belleville Redmen who a few years ago went to the Central Ontario Baseball League finals against the Brockville Monarchs, and the Belleville Bees in more recent vintage have been but figments of newspaper and radio imagination. That "dual control" of the Ontario hoopball championship shared by the Oakville Oaks and the Batas a couple of years ago, was nothing more than a publicity dream. It even had the Ontario Baseball Association and the Oakville people fooled.

Those records of from 400-500 which supported the Bata in the Hastad League here apparently never existed.

Amnesia is a terrible thing.

But the whole sordid truth is out. We knew now why this city has not had senior baseball for the years, too.

Here it is as it appeared in a sports column under the byline of Ron Sivel in the Picton Gazette of recent date.

"That hardy annual flower, 'senior B' baseball, has, we put, reared its bloom to the bright new spring sun. In a phonecall from Jack Carson, O.B.A. executive member, he frankly hopes to tie into a league with Peterborough, Kingston and Watertown and hopes to work in an interlocking schedule with an American loop. This could be a very interesting league and would prove to be a highly competitive one at that. It would also be mighty expensive we think. It appears to be the same old story of the famed Irish on scrip, off again, gone again variety. It has been a long time since baseball has been stable in Belleville, they start up a one year stand and then drop out for another year stand. Lack of paying customers, lack of money to operate in such ambitious leagues or is it too many players wanting too much to play? Lack of a good strong club sponsor? With the names and addresses players has left the hard-working Belleville baseball people in the rank of senior 'B' baseball in Eastern Ontario."

Shame on you Manager Carson! You gave the press and radio information to the effect that those people who saw the senior games especially in the new grandstand were paying customers. You made us believe the Bata Shoe Company sponsored the club. And you stoutly emphasized the fact that the Batas club was affiliated with a better organization, with the exception of Tony Petitti who would have worked the summer here anyway.

You did not tell us that a lot of good players here-about were baldsots. And where did you get a lot of your out-town safaris? Did you dream up this Oakville series? And who were those guys masquerading in uniforms that bore the names, "Oshawa, Peterborough," and two Toronto clubs? You had this department fooled completely.

And that poor "hardworking Belleville baseball people who have been left in the ruck of senior'B' baseball in Eastern Ontario." What about them? Brother, you've got a lot to answer for.

And what about last year when you said for publication that you had the same team which split the Ontario senior championship the year previous? You added they were all home or district "brewer" and "amateurs" in the strictest sense of the word. And those stories about you and Malcolm Robb travelling to Smiths Falls, Brockville, and such places in an effort to form a league in which Belleville could play? How about those? Were they your pipe dreams, too?

And what about your work in trying to get Kingston and Peterborough interested last season? Brother, with your imagination you should have been a sports writer.

After all it comes as a more or less shock to discover that after 20 years of sports writing on this newspaper, we have to rely on Picton columns to get the "facts."

* * *

In serious vein Carson was in no amiable frame of mind when he read the Picton sports column.

"It's time that people like this should find out the facts," he said. "We in Belleville know the reason we have not had senior baseball here, and our Prince Edward fans should know it too."

The first year of operation the Belleville senior club had lost money, Carson said. "But we have not lost a cent since. And get this. Many of the players on the senior club received a cent, except at the end of the season when the purpose was divided."

The Belleville Batas club was strictly a homebrew team. Keith MacDonald came from Picton and Tony Petitti moved here from Kingston. The rest were city players, Carson pointed out.

"And I can get just as good a club this year, if we can find a league to play in. Last year we had the club fattest and ready to go but there was no league east of Toronto. We applied for entry in a Toronto senior loop but were turned down. They did not want to travel this far."

"I can get as good a club together this year," Carson reiterated, "and for the Picton writer's information I have had requests from county players wanting to know if we were forming a senior club — and requesting a chance to try out."

Government Help For Athletes

TORONTO (CP)—Ross Whicher (L—Sprucedale) would see a day night earlier on the Ontario government scene to give more financial aid to amateur athletics.

He told the legislature during an estimates debate Canada's poor showing in recent winter Olympic Games in Italy was caused partly by lack of proper training facilities. More government aid would help young athletes receive proper training and coaching.

OCF leader MacDonald said the Ontario athletic commission is caught now between feuding provinces. It should be given more power to enforce regulations.

Bell May Split Blues' Posts In Watson Change of Plans; 'Jolly Jawn' Oozes Confidence

By W. E. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadians tonight will find themselves facing reactivated New York Ranger lines and most likely a new Ranger Goalie.

But the opposition is still the New York Rangers, who were pummeled so unmercifully into a 7-1 defeat by Canadiens Tuesday in the opener of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series.

Although the Ranger straigleits still weren't committing themselves definitely early today, it wouldn't be surprising at all to see Gordie Bell between the posts in the Ranger nets.

There are two reasons. Goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley has a damaged right knee, an aggravation of an old injury. Also, Worsley almost invariably has been at his worst when performing at the Rangers in Montreal, his home town.

FROM BENCH, STARTS

There's the good chance, too, that Leaping Lou Fontinato will see most of the game, if not all, from the bench. It's still the talk of hockey — happy Montreal how Rochet Dumas, the man who pulled the hat-trick Tuesday, made leaping Lou look like a lame tabby cat.

Bell has roamed the minor leagues for the wide and finished up this season with Trois-Rivieres Lions of the Provincial Senior League. Wednesday night, coach Phil Watson wouldn't say yes or no about Bell.

He said: "I don't think I'll know until 7:30 hours tonight."

"What's wrong with our club—you tell me?" Watson went on with emotional effect.

"We've got a good club. We almost finished second in the National Hockey League season. We beat the other clubs on their home ice but we can't win in Montreal. But you just wait and see. Mark my words, they may work hard at something you're bound to get it. Sure we're going to change our clubs. We've got to do something, haven't we?"

CONFIDENT KNOW

How about that defensive style he tried against Canadiens Tuesday night? "I don't know yet," said Watson. "We'll see."

It's a good bet that he may try both defensive and wide-open play, depending upon how the scoring goes. He waited two periods before he turned his club loose Tuesday. Then the Rangers did go good.

"I'll tell you this," said Watson. "If we had Terry Sawchuk of the Boston Bruins in goal, this season we would have been battling with Canadiens for first place all the way. Sawchuk is the best goalie in the NHL.

"Don't let that Worsley had a bad knee, torn cartilage. Why, Bill Head (physiotherapist at the Forum) says Worsley will have to have an operation.

"They say he can't call up Johnny Bower from Providence of the American Hockey League because there's no emergency. Why isn't there an emergency? The guy's hurt, isn't he? Somebody is prejudging the case. We haven't even asked if we can bring up Bower. We have got to leave him there in fairness to Providence."

HABS DRAW BYE

Compared with Phil's growing excitement and desperate anxiety to win in Montreal, everything is serene in the Montreal camp.

Coach Toe Blake said all hands were in good shape at Wednesday's light workout. It followed a Ranger practice session.

"That first-game win was a little scary," said Blake. "That puts the pressure on us because the fans expect us to keep right on going at that clip. We've still got to play the Rangers in New York, where we had only one win over them this season."

Ottawa Juniors Wallop Porkies For Second Win

OTTAWA (CP)—Royden Kealey fired a hat trick Wednesday night in leading Ottawa Shamrocks to an easy 12-3 victory over South Porcupine Combines in the second game of the eastern Canada Memorial Cup hockey quarter-finals.

The Ottawa district champions can win a berth in the semi-finals against the powerful Montreal Junior Canadiens by taking the third game of the best-of-five series here Friday.

The winning production line of Kealey, Keith Pettigrew and Ron O'Neil provided most of the scoring punch with O'Neil and Pettigrew scoring two each in addition to Kealey's three.

Pettigrew and O'Neil scored in the first period to give Shamrocks a 2-0 lead. Pettigrew sank a backhander after taking a pass from behind the net at 11:44, O'Neil notched the other at 18:48.

Gil Marks closed the gap to 2-1 for the Combines at 1:14 when his 10-foot shot scored in off a Shamrock defenceman. Pettigrew and Kealey increased Shamrocks' lead before John Yaremko closed out the losers' scoring at 12:12. Lesnick and O'Neil made it 5-2 before the second period ended.

Five-Foot-Two, Plays Hockey Too, But With a Puck, What He Can Do!

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—The old saw about big men always being the only ones able to beat a good little man doesn't hold true in ice hockey, as proved by Ralph (Tiny) Kearns.

Kearns stands exactly five feet, one inch. He weighs a scant 140 pounds. Yet, as centre on the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute team, he was the leading college scorer in the United States this year with 26 goals and 32 assistants for 58 points.

He was largely instrumental in carrying his team through the season with a fine record of 13 victories and 6 defeats.

A sophomore from Peterborough, Ont., Kearns became the butt of a lot of jibes because of his size but he managed to weather them. He became a big favorite with the crowds.

MERELY GRINNED

When he entered the penalty box for the first time this winter, a wit in the crowd yelled, "Get that kid a high chair." Kearns merely grinned.

In a game against Yale, an ISI forward warned him during a heated scuffle: "Get outa my way, runt, or I'll step on you."

"He he didn't," Gary reported proudly.

In another game, Gary was tied up in front of the opposition goal. While still on his hands and knees, he crawled after the puck, hooked it toward him with his extended stick, then leaped to his feet and fired the shot past the amazed goalie.

BEHIND THE GOAL

During nearly every game, the pint-sized centre manages momentarily to escape the defence's attention by crouching behind the opposition goal. When the time is ripe, he tears out from his hiding place for a pass and perhaps a shot at the loose puck.

"Gary turns and spins faster on skates than any college player I've ever seen," says the RPI coach Ned Harkness. "And he probably is the brainiest boy on the squad when it comes to sizing up plays."

Kearns also plays baseball and lacrosse, but his brief venture with basketball proved unsuccessful.

"The big fellows always were stepping on me and the little guys kept hitting me on the top of the head with their elbows," he said. "I got my fill of that."

Nearly 4,000 Kingston Fans See Goodyears Oust Cornwall; Start Whitby Duel Saturday

By Geo. H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

KINGSTON — If ... Goodfellow, Kingston Goodyears reliable up-to-snuff old anything during the senior "B" season to lrk Limestone City hockey faithful, all is forgiven.

Last night, 3,802 paid pewsters, a seasonal record, approached the shrieking stage when Master Goodfellow guided the puck missle into the Cornwall Colts' net at exactly 13.31 of the third period to score the winner in the Goodyear's thrilling 4-3 victory over the down-easters.

The Goodfellow shot that was heard around the Kingston hockey world, was garnished two minutes later by Don Murray's anti-climactic goal. It gave the Casterton crew the semi-final series by four games to two and entry into the group finals against the powerful Blair-laed Whitby Dunlops.

That jousting which promises to be a senior "B" classic gets under way in Whitby Saturday night with the second tilt of the best-of-seven series slated for Kingston next Monday eve. They alternate Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Other dates will be announced.

From the third-row back in a cluttered press box, this reporter delayed by the whimsies of an obstinate automobile that finally rested in a garage somewhere west of Odessa, witnessed a display of hockey that should convince the most biased "A" advocate that senior "B" hockey as it is played in this neck of the woods is good enough for circuit fandom. And nearly 4,000 Kingston fans can't be wrong.

It was the first hockey out-of-town safari for this writer. What we saw more than substantiated what the majority of sports editors of the group have always advocated. That senior "B" is what the group can afford — and satisfy the customers.

The game was a spine-tingler from start to finish. The issue was in doubt from a scoreless first period. In the second heat, with both squads going in desperation all-out efforts, the score was tied at one-all.

That was after Mort Belmore whipped across the goalmouth in a flashing drive to stik crafty Moe Savard's pass.

The Colts' lead lasted some six minutes and in the interim, Brooks and Devaney, Kingston and Cornwall goalies rose to some sort of heights in kicking out what appeared to be labelled pucks.

Then almost 8,000 hearts roared asclaim when Bellringer, in full stride picked a corner from Hub Macey's pass and matters were all even.

Enter Monsieur St. Jean, he of the Cornwall St. Jeans. A colleague M'dcu Fayette slid a neat pass to him ten feet inside the Goodyear's blueline and St. Jean let drive. It fooled everybody including Brooks in the Kingston nets.

But don't go away. Scarcely had the tumult died away than it roared afresh in more deafening thunder. Mr. Toppazzini picked up the disc near the Cornwall blueline, weaved his way past a couple of defenders and hard-pressed, drove a beautiful backhand shot past Devaney, with Senior and Levandoski in on the kill.

Again the contest resorted to its nip-and-tuck status with both cagers hot from puck breezes.

Then Master Goodfellow anointed himself with the laurel wreath. The clock read 13.31 when he took Don Murray's pass from well out and the biscuit scarce left the ice before it nestled in the rigging behind the Cornwall goalie. That was the ball game.

Don Murray took it upon himself to make sure of matters and spearheading a drive with Goodfellow and White slammed home the puck with less than five minutes to go. The Colts swarmed around the Brooks bungalow but that young gentleman held the citadel alright and the Goodies skated off with the series tucked underneath their arms.

Between the second and third periods, Don Bellringer was presented with the Ken Plumb Memorial Trophy awarded annually to the "Most Valuable Player" on the Goodyears' roster. It was presented by Mr. Alf. Plumb, father of the late Kingston hockey star.

Don Murray was presented with the Henderson Trophy, awarded anually to the Goodyears' top scorer. It was presented by Wally Elmer, well-known Kingston sports figure.

Junior Habs Thump Maroons

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Montreal junior Canadiens Wednesday night won their 70th exhibition game of the season, with a 5-3 victory over Chatham Maroons, champions of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Canadiens, the only team left from the now - defunct Quebec Junior League, are playing exhibition games until they will represent the province of Quebec in the Canadian junior championships for the Memorial Cup. They have played 8 exhibition games.

Maroons, who knocked the favored Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen from the OHA senior A finals, are scheduled to play Sudbury Wolves, champions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Boxing Brass Suspends Manager Of Bud Smith

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts boxing commission Wednesday suspended indefinitely Adolph Ritacco who handled lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith when he lost by a technical knockout to Tony DeMarco here March 2.

After Smith was stopped in the ninth round by DeMarco, Ritacco complained in Philadelphia that his fighter was sent into the ring by the commission despite the fact he had an ear infection.

At the March 5 afternoon weighin the commission's examining physician noted an irritation in Smith's ear. The commission then sent Smith to a specialist at the Massachusetts ear and eye infirmary where he was okayed for the bout.

Ritacco remains suspended in all National Boxing Association member states plus New York with which the NBA has a working agreement until Massachusetts reinstates him. Ritacco was in Smith's corner because his co-managers, Carmen Graziano and Anthony Ferrante, already were under suspension.

WINS TKO

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—World flyweight champion Pascual Perez Wednesday night won a technical knockout over Antonio Gomez, a fellow Argentine, who tossed the towel in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Perez weighed 108 pounds, Gomez 113½.

More Livestock Will Be Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Canada will need 1,250,000 additional head of cattle, 10,000,000 more hogs and 10,000,000,000 more pounds of dairy products by 1980 if Canadians maintain their present consumption, an agricultural official said Wednesday.

William Watson, Ontario livestock commissioner, told the annual meeting of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair he hadn't heard of any presentations to the recent royal commission on Canada's economic prospects regarding the country's future food problems. To serve its greatly augmented population, he said, there would have to be an expanded agriculture.

SPARED PRISON SENTENCE

BOSTON (AP)—Arthur E. Martin, 17, who stabbed his father to death and then lived with the body for 30 days, was spared a prison sentence because of his high marks in school. Martin, originally charged with murder, pleaded guilty Wednesday to manslaughter. Judge Daniel J. O'Brien turned him over to the youth service board, a state agency which cares for youths charged with crimes.

"So that's how it was—people kept telling me I looked so much like a guide that I decided to give it a try."

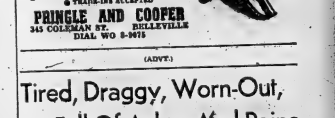
Tired, Draggy, Worn-Out, Full Of Aches And Pains

This Woman Tells of Grand Results She'd Got by Taking Syntona.

"I suffered for a long time and my entire system was run down," said Mrs. Eleanor Farris, 103½ Briscoe St., London, Ont., in a recent statement.

"Almost everything I ate gave me heart distress. I would get bad attacks of headaches. I would get bad attacks of heartburn and a sick, nauseated feeling. Sometimes pains set in my joints, joints and muscles, and many days I just felt tired, draggy and worn out, and full of aches and pains. I would often get headaches.



MRS. ELEANOR FARRIS

So Much Better Now!

"A few weeks ago I decided to try Syntona after reading about it helping other people, and it is almost unbelievable how much better I am already. I've been taking this medicine, I eat better, and feel better, sleep better. My bowels are more regular, I don't have those bad headaches, I don't have those tired, draggy feelings, and I don't feel tired and worn as I did before."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

By FRANCES DRAKE

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1956

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Hold emotions, unreasonable desires under sensible control. Good aspects from Sun and Uranus sanction wholesome and unusual activities, science, travel for good purposes, healthy experiments.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — This day's aspects favor things of a daring nature, activities that are creative and progressive rather than the routine. But don't neglect essential "little" duties.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Favorable rays for stable action. Sound plans carried through with calmness, determination. No jumping from here to there and not finishing any one thing! Grand returns through steady application.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This can be an unusual, interesting period. You may be able to indulge in some activities you don't usually have time for. However, don't forsake regular duties. You may have time for both.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Favorable odds are on your side with the Sun's and Uranus' aspects. These give you opportunity to do some showing off, promoting your salesmanship and other qualities. Make time count!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — While rays are not entirely favorable, there are new advantages, fresh avenues to explore for interesting advancement in activities you may not have thought of before. Be more creative.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may find unexpected temporary business or program: it could prove valuable. Favored are unusual ideas, creations, new methods, materials, machinery. Improve!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Some contrarily influences. Don't delay accomplishment of assigned duties. Be cautious, analytical if commencing something new. An ounce of prevention . . . you know the rest.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — New ideas, properly exploited, can result in gains. Procrastination a possible problem. Determine important items, then concentrate on them till completed. Taboo worry.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Rays similar to Scorpio. Amply prepare to offset waste motion. Tact, diplomacy can counteract irritating tendencies. Association with family, friends relaxing.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Benefic influences should encourage you to perform at "higher capacity" tempo. Carry out essentials with decisiveness. Have an objective worthy of your efforts.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Like Aquarius, good rays predominate. Be alert to opportunities. Finish, if possible, incompleted tasks. Then the week-end ahead can provide some rest, relaxation.

You Born Today are of the brainy Sign Aries (the Ram). You can achieve fine things in this man's world if you develop your versatility plus your natural practicality and apply them to worthwhile undertakings. Aries likes to venture some, too, and many of our outstanding scientists, chemists, inventors come from this zodiacal sector. Control likes, dislikes, impetuosity, and at times a tendency to fitfulness. Don't be over-sensitive to criticism. You are quick of temper but do not retain anger. Birthdate of: Johann Bach, music composer; Joan Crawford, actress.

Wolves Oust Abitibi 7-0; Meet Chatham

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves are the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A champions and opponents of Chatham Maroons in the all-Ontario final. Wolves overwhelmed Abitibi Rangers 7-0 Wednesday night to take the best-of-seven NOHA final series 4-2. Wolves won the first two games of the set here then lost the next two at Iroquois Falls before taking the fifth game there. Maroons, titlists of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A, and Wolves begin their best-of-seven championship round here Friday. The second game is scheduled for Saturday here with the third, fourth and fifth game, if necessary, at Chatham. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be played in Sudbury.

A veteran and two rookies sparked the Wolves to their victory before 4,172 fans. Veteran left winger Nick Tomluk scored a pair of goals and assisted on another. Rookie right winger John Gillis also scored twice.

Other scorers were Vacker Flynn, Tetley McClellan and Armand Lemieux.

UNDER PRESSURE

NEW YORK (AP)—Tenley Albright, the Olympic and U.S. women's figure skating champion, said Wednesday she has been under pressure to turn professional.

"However, I am not even considering the many offers I have had," the Newton Center, Mass., girl added before leaving by air on a pleasure trip to London.

Ding-Dong Race For Top Spot In American Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The red-hot race in the American Hockey League came down to the home stretch Wednesday night, with the announcement of a tentative schedule for the Calder Cup playoffs.

The announcement came from the AHL's board of governors while Pittsburgh Hornets staged a ding-dong battle for first place.

Hornets, defending league champions, scored their 11th victory in 18 starts over the Springfield Indians 4-3 Wednesday night to take over first place by one point from Providence.

The Reds had led the league almost from the start of the season.

Scorers for Pittsburgh were Parker Macdonald, Bob Bollinger, Joe Rickey and Hank Ciesla. Springfield marksmen were Doug McMurdy, Maurice Collins and Walt Atanas.

Ontario recruits meanwhile appeared in the other game which saw Buffalo Bisons edge Cleveland Barons 3-2 to gain a third-place tie with Barons, in the league standings. Veteran Pete Babando fired the winning goal with the other counters by Jack McIntyre, Cal Stapleton and Joe Lund tallied for the Barons.

Stevie Lee of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen appeared as a full-time defenceman for Cleveland, which also broke in Ken Yackel, three-sport star of the University of Minnesota. Buffalo was bolstered by two junior recruits from St. Catharines, Ont., lowertier team. Vasko and Don Carter.

Four teams will participate in the playoffs but it may take the final games of the season to determine in what position they finish. The semi-finals will be two best-of-five series. The first-place team will play the third-place team in the semi-finals while the second-place team plays the fourth-place team.

If Pittsburgh meets Buffalo the first game will be at Buffalo March 27. If Pittsburgh plays Cleveland the series will begin at Pittsburgh March 28. Should Providence play either Buffalo or Cleveland the first two games will be at Providence March 27 and 29.

Irish Defeat Barrie 6-3

BARRIE (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, led by their big line of Frank Bowerth, Pat Mandarich and Frank Mahovlich, defeated Barrie Flyers 6-3 here Wednesday night to force the Ontario Hockey Association junior A semi-final to the limit.

The best-of-five set now is tied 2-2 with the deciding game scheduled for Toronto Saturday afternoon.

The Howarth-Hannigan - Mahovlich trio, anything but impressive when the Flyers defeated the Majors in Toronto Tuesday night, racked up 11 points Wednesday night, including four goals.

A capacity crowd of 4,200 fans saw left winger Mahovlich fire two goals and pick up two assists, right winger Hannigan one goal and four assists and centre Howarth one goal and one assist. Jack McMaster and Gino Ubriaco scored the other Toronto tallies.

Flight wingers Jim Josephson and Billy Forbes and centre Arnold Smith were Barrie's marksmen. The Majors romped ahead 4-1 in the first period, allowed the Flyers the only goal of the second and outscored Barrie 3-1 in the third.

Toronto was tagged with eight of its 13 penalties, including two majors in the third period. Barrie was assessed a pair of majors in the final stanza. Ubriaco scored the Majors' fourth goal in the first period while the Flyers were shorthanded.

France Planning Self-Government For African Lands

Assembly Grants Powers To Lift Racial Barriers

PARIS (AP)—France moved today toward granting self-government to French West and Equatorial Africa and Madagascar along the pattern forced by nationalist movements in the north African territories of Tunisia and Morocco.

The National Assembly, in a session lasting until about 4 a. m., voted 477 to 99 to give the government special powers to make broad political and administrative changes in the overseas areas. Highest deputies formed the only opposition.

The measure now goes to the Council of the Republic, the upper chamber. It is expected to run into tougher opposition there but not enough to give Premier Guy Mollet any real trouble.

Exempted under the measure are Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco. France has recognized the independence of Tunisia and Morocco, subject to a still-to-be-defined relationship of "interdependence" in matters of foreign affairs and defence. Both have been ruled as protectorates.

ELECTION PROMISED

Algeria, long governed as a part of metropolitan France, has been promised elections and negotiations toward self-government as soon as order is restored. Bloody fights in that seething north African area are waging a bloody fight against the rule.

Areas involved under the new measure include a combined territory of 2,371,000 square miles in West and central Africa. These include ruled regions have a total population of 20,398,000. Madagascar, 980 miles off the coast of southeast Africa, is an island of 227,800 square miles with a population of 4,125,000.

The bill gives the government an almost free hand in ending the division in political and civic affairs between European and native populations. It provides for ending the present split of local assemblies into European and native sections. Territorial administrations also may be reorganized, even by decentralization or regrouping.

ALGIERS (Reuters) — French troops have killed more than 150 rebels in the last 48 hours in a drive aimed at restoring order in troubled Algeria.

But the rebels, estimated to be 15,000 strong, are fighting back strongly in the North African territory. Eight of them held out for several hours Thursday in a concrete blockhouse camouflaged as hut, defying bayonet charges and bombardment with "bazooka" anti-tank rockets and 37-millimetre guns.

The blockhouse was finally smashed by 75millimetre guns and the rebels killed.

This is the first time since the rebels began their uprising against French rule in November, 1954, that they have been reported using it carefully prepared concrete defence positions.

SURROUND BIG BAND

Reports reaching here from Setif, eastern Algeria, today said troops had surrounded a band of 1,000 rebels and driven them into hills after attacking the market at Beni Medjaleb on Wednesday, killing 30 rebels.

The increased military action in Algeria comes as Robert Lacoste, French resident minister, flew back to Paris for a meeting today of the French cabinet.

Believe Attempt Made to Derail Two CPR Trains

OSHAWA (CP) — Police today investigated a reported attempt to derail two fast freights on the Canadian Pacific Railway line from nearby Bowmanville.

The trains pulled into Oshawa Thursday with heavy railroad ties caught on the front of the engines. Police say they believe the bulky timbers were deliberately placed on the rails.

The two eastbound trains each pulled about 80 box cars and were travelling about half an hour apart. Freight train operations each speeds of nearly 80 miles an hour on the 10-mile run from Bowmanville.

The engineer of the first train said he felt something was wrong with the engine about 5½ miles west of Bowmanville.

Indian Paid $70,326 for 63-Acre Farm

MONTREAL (CP)—Louis Diabo, old Iroquois farmer who defied Sir Lawrence Arnoldwey cancelled a cheque worth $70,326 to cover his expropriated farm.

Mr. Diabo, 79, his wife, 69, and several other Indians from the nearby Caughnawaga reserve were handed cheques by president Lionel Chevrier of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority for property required in its construction.

They refused to move until they got what they considered a fair price. The dispute turned out to be a 7,000-per-cent profit. Mr. Diabo disclosed Thursday in an interview that he had paid $1,000 for the property 54 years ago when he married. He said his wife have bought a little cottage in the reserve village.

FIRES STAFF

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The entire staff of Greek-Cypriot servants at Government House was fired Thursday by British Governor Sir John Harding at the mystery of who planted a time bomb in his bed remained unsolved. The bomb was found Wednesday, sandwiched between two mattresses. It was removed and exploded harmlessly.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A narrow band of snow, associated with a weak disturbance moving over Chicago, has entered southern Ontario and is expected to progress across southeastern Ontario today. Colder air trying over the Prairies and northern Ontario will be blocked behind this disturbance and bring below normal temperatures to all of Ontario Saturday.

FEDERAL SUPPORT OF BUTTER PRICE WILL CONTINUE

Floor Price Extended For Next Two Years

Agriculture Minister Gardiner Thursday announced to the Commons the extension to April 30, 1958. The price support was due to expire next April 30. Fifty-eight cents is the purchase price the government pays the producers for butter in storage.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, one of several farm organizations which have requested extension of the floor price, greeted the announcement as "good news."

The price support, inaugurated in 1949, was last extended in 1955 for a one-year period.

STABLE RETURNS

"The assurance of stable returns for two years ahead gives producers the kind of minimum security so urgently needed in carrying on their operations," Mr. Hannam said. The price support had the effect of a consumer price ceiling, helping prevent unduly high retail prices.

The seven-year butter-buying program, Mr. Gardiner said last month, likely will reach a total cost of $8,000,000 by May 1.

In reply to a question he said the government still is considering future policy on a government program of buying butter to boost capital and other institutions at 40 cents a pound.

STOCKS HIGHER

In the first year of the plan started in February, 1955, the government paid 6,500,000 pounds at a cost to the treasury of $1,500,000. Government purchases stood at a total of 62,829,000 pounds March 3 but are expected to be reduced by about 36,000,000 by May 1 when dairy production starts in full swing again after the normal winter decline. That would be 6,000,000 pounds more than was held on May 1 of 50,000,000 pounds.

The government in the last year sold 17,000,000 of 81,129,500 pounds of butter to Communist East Germany, Soviet Russia and China and 39 cents a pound in an effort to reduce its surplus stocks.

Sloan Fractures Shoulder Blade, Out of Series

TORONTO (CP) — Ted Sloan star Toronto Maple Leaf forward, fractured his shoulder - blade in Wednesday night's Eastern Professional League Stanley Cup semi-finals at Detroit and will be out for the playoff series, the club announced today.

Sloan, originally boarded by Gordie Howe of the Red wings, was x-rayed in Detroit today on his return from Detroit.

General manager Hap Day said the doctor ordered "complete inability" of Sloan returning to the lineup in the present series for the playoffs. The Red Wings, 3-1 winners Thursday night, lead the best-of-seven series 3-0.

Day said it has not yet been decided who will replace Sloan in Saturday night's game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Grace Will Give Up Movie Career, Prince Hopes for Several Children

LE HAVRE, France (Reuters)—Prince Rainier of Monaco said today on his arrival from New York that he hopes he and his fiance, actress Grace Kelly, will have several children.

The 33-year-old ruler told a shipboard press conference that Miss Kelly "definitely" will give up her movie career after their marriage. He said the decision was "mutual."

Chatting with reporters in the first-class lounge of the liner Ile de France, the prince denied that he had had banned showings of Miss Kelly's films in the five theatres of his tiny Mediterranean principedom. But he added that the timing of her latest picture, "The Swan," originally scheduled to be released in London during next month's wedding festivities, was "unfortunate." The showing has been cancelled.

He said he expects "somebody from England" to represent Queen Elizabeth at the wedding, when more than 2,000 guests are expected in Monaco. Miss Kelly and her family have arrive aboard the liner Constitution April 14. The marriage will take place April 18 and 19.

"We will honeymoon on my yacht," he said, "cruising in the Mediterranean wherever the weather is best," the prince said.

Pakistan Becomes Republic Within British Commonwealth

By ZAMAR SIDDIQI

KARACHI (AP)—Pakistan today formally became a republic within the British Commonwealth, amid joyful prayer and glittering ceremony.

Henceforth the Asian state of 80,000,000—85 per cent of them Moslem—will be known as the Islamic Republic of Pakistan. Like India, it does not pay allegiance to the Crown but accepts it as the symbol of its "free association" with the other Commonwealth members.

In an impressive ceremony at Karachi, Maj.-Gen. Iskander Mirza — until Thursday governor-general of the Dominion of Pakistan—was sworn in as the new republic's first president. A 31-gun salute boomed out for Mirza as he took a golden chair beside his wife, the begum Nahed.

Some 30 special foreign envoys represented virtually every major country at the event. The United States first assistant secretary of diplomatic veteran in the Moslem world who retired at the end of 1954 after being U. S. ambassador to Egypt. The Soviet Union sent Anastas Mikoyan, veteran negotiator for foreign trade contracts and first deputy premier.

T. G. D'Arcy, Canadian ambassador to Japan, flew to Karachi for today's ceremonies. Prime Minister St. Laurent cabled congratulations from Ottawa, saying "We are most happy that Pakistan has expressed its intention to continue its full membership as a Commonwealth country, and we in Canada look forward to many years of friendly and fruitful co-operation. . . .

Throughout Pakistan thanksgiving prayers were offered by Moslems and non-Moslems. Free food and clothing were distributed to the poor, and a number of death sentences were commuted.

The 24 provincial governors' messages poured in from world leaders including President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Queen.

Vancouver Laborite Claims Reds Are in Armed Forces

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor leader Tom Alsbury told an audience of RCAF personnel here Thursday night that Communists are carrying on subversive activities within the Canadian armed forces "at this very moment."

Mr. Alsbury, president of Vancouver and District Labor Council (VDLC) and principal of Fairview high school of commerce, was speaking at the annual RCAF ball here.

"Communists carried on subversive activities in the Canadian Army in the Second World War. Of that we have proof, and I know they are doing it this very minute."

"The Reds have penetrated the Canadian armed service forces where party members are already in uniform, taking instructions directly from the party and reporting secretly their progress and successes."

Mr. Alsbury said these were not merely his opinions, but could be verified in official records. He said the Reds "constantly seek to use their methods to spread disaffection in the armed forces, to break down morale and to turn the service men against their own country."

At Ottawa, a defence department spokesman said he wishes Mr. Alsbury would let the department know and where the evidence is.

He added that the Communists are forbidden to subvert all organizations, but that the department's duty is to watch for subversion in the armed forces. If Mr. Alsbury had any concrete evidence, he should give it to the department.

Russian Instructors Train Egyptians at Polish Base

LONDON (Reuters) — The foreign office said today that Russian instructors, in a secret military base in Poland, are training "large numbers" of Egyptian military personnel to use their newly acquired Communist arms.

About 200 officers and non-commissioned officers attend the training each month at the secret courses, which last year, diplomatic sources said.

The training scheme began soon after Egypt shocked the Western powers by concluding a big arms deal with the Communist bloc.

The Western powers say the subject dealing with Egypt and—and probably other Arab states—with arms competition between the Arabs which they had tried to maintain in the acquisition of arms by the Arab states by the limited supplies forsel on the other.

The Western governments are agreed that this act has brought the turbulent Middle East to the precipice of another war. They now are considering what steps they should take to intervene in the event of a conflict with the aim of suppressing it.

The foreign office spokesman said British believes she would have the support of the United States and France in implementing her plan for swift military action to suppress any new Arab-Israeli war.

The spokesman confirmed officially for the first time that Britain has a plan for "very rapid" action to suppress any Arab-Israeli war, but it into effect is taken.

Following the declaration of 1950, Britain, France and the U. S. are committed to take action through the United Nations to stop Arab-Israeli frontiers by either side.

The spokesman said consultations among the three powers were still continuing in Washington to co-ordinate measures should a new flare-up in the Middle East occur.

Visit by 'Himmler of Russia' Arouses British Papers' Ire

LONDON (AP) — The Kremlin's campaign to win friends and influence people in Britain has been rebuffed in the British press.

The cause: A short, aged man named Ivan Serov, who is the police chief of the Soviet Union.

He arrived here Thursday to check security arrangements for the visit next month by Premier Bulganin and the Communist party boss, Nikita Khrushchev. The arrival set off cries of outrage from British papers which have repeatedly equalled and may have surpassed the vituperation heaped on Hitler, Himmler and other leaders of the dark days of the Second World War.

Many observers consider Serov's trip a major blunder by the Kremlin, which certainly will be aware that he is considered responsible for mass deportations and murders in eastern Europe.

SPARE NO PUNCHES

The Daily Mirror, a pro-Labor paper which claims a daily circulation of more than 4,500,000, voted the first two years today to an attack on Serov by its leading columnist, Cassandra. He writes:

"An odious thug arrived at London airport Thursday. His name is Ivan Alexandrovitch Serov. Mark well, look upon his unlikely face. For this man is the Himmler of the Soviet Union and his business is terror, torture and the grave.

"How does it come that we who refused to receive Goering before the war can now accept this reeking butcher?

". . . I condemn without hesitation this unspeakable and murderous turnkey to British soil."

The Conservative paper Daily Mail called Serov "the architect of political persecution." The News Chronicle said he was "one of the most vicious and ugly past," although it concedes that he has a right to be judged on his crimes of deeds.

Meanwhile, the Russian jetliner which brought Serov to Britain has amazed British air experts.

The commercial twin-jet, credited with speeds up to 500 miles an hour, caused as big a stir as the visitor himself.

"You may whistle," says The Daily Mail, "but Russian jets are a new way, way ahead."

MORE FEDERAL AID FOR HIGHWAY IS ADVOCATED

Trans-Canada Road Subject of Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—Commons opposition members have called on the government to carry a bigger share of trans-Canada highway construction costs.

Members of all three opposition parties Thursday criticized as inadequate a government proposal to increase its contribution to the federal-provincial plan. None, however, opposed the trip.

The Commons today begins debate on the federal budget for 1956-57, introduced Tuesday night by Finance Minister Harris.

The highway proposal would increase the federal government's share in the 4,580-mile highway's cost to a 50-per-cent contribution for up to a tenth of the mileage in each province. Present 50-50 sharing would continue for the rest of the project.

PC COMMENT

"Too little and too late," said C. W. Hodgson (PC — Victoria, Ont.). The highway should be completed in one and the federal government should pay 90 per cent, he said.

H. A. Bryson (CCF—Humboldt-Melfort) said the federal proposal "is not going far enough." It should provide 75 per cent of the total cost, including the building of land for right-of-way, building overpasses and underpasses, and moving power and telephone lines.

These costs now were borne solely by the provinces, bringing their share to about 60 per cent. Even with the proposed federal increase, the sharing would be only about 50-50.

PROGRESS SLOW

Maurice Bourget, parliamentary assistant to Works Minister Winters, said construction progress under the five-year trans-Canada highway agreement with the provinces—all but Quebec—has been "disappointingly slow."

There were 185 miles with no road at all, 1,545 miles unpaved and 1,600 miles built to approved standards of the 2,850 miles of paved road.

The present highway - building agreements expire next Dec. 9. Mr. Winters has described the new federal plan as a step-along measure to complete the highway in the next four years.

The total estimated federal contribution would be increased to $220,000,000 from $160,000,000—the amount set when the trans-Canada road plan was begun in 1949. Estimated cost then was $300,000,000.

Landing Craft Controlled by Remote Radio

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif (AP)—The first controlled landing craft today it has directed a heavy amphibious tank ashore by remote radio control in a beach landing for the first time.

When the giant armored craft roared out of the Pacific to the beach, the crew was in a helicopter hovering overhead.

Officers who witnessed the demonstration said the unmanned craft remote-control may become standard for landing operations. The radio - control driver in the helicopter, they pointed out, had a full view of conditions at sea and beach. Drivers inside low - riding armoured craft hardly see beyond the next wave in rough surf.

After it was guided ashore, the tractor - propelled craft overcame any position where its 105 - mm. howitzer could be trained at enemy locations.

No Kilted Scottie Need You Bruise To Squelch That Piper, Blow a Fuse

OTTAWA (CP)—Automation has invaded the heretofore unassailable domain of the piper. D. M. Sugimoto, a student at Royal Military College, Kingston, Thursday night demonstrated electronic bagpipe developed in the college laboratory.

The device, which he described as a "square wave oscillator" played "Road to the Isles" at a meeting of the Ottawa section of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

The piper, resembling a small-sized mantle radio, was developed as a class project at RMC under Col. G. W. Holbrooke, head of the department of electrical engineering.

Sugimoto, who admitted it lacked the volume of a lusty Highland piper harnessing his lungs to real pipes, said the electronic device "could be used to tune real bagpipes."

Opposition Blasts Welfare Program Of Ontario Govt.

Called Niggardly, Shameful, Irresponsible and off Base

Talking Crow Not Ready Yet To Go Home

WINNIPEG (CP)—Klaus the talking crow isn't ready to come home.

Its anxious owner, Mrs. Edith Rasmussen, summoned to a backyard in suburban St. James where Klaus was performing titmice, Thursday called to her pet: "Do you want to go home?"

"Not -yet." he screeched back. So Mrs. Rasmussen, her husband and daughter Karen, 16, went home without him.

"You're going the wrong way," she called. Then the bird mfeowed like a cat and shouted insults at the neighbors.

TORONTO (CP)—A wall of opposition was launched against the Progressive Conservative government's welfare program in the Ontario legislature Thursday night.

In their first united front this session, opposition members described Ontario's welfare set-up as "niggardly," "shameful," "irresponsible" and "off base."

Provincial Liberal Ross Whicher from Bruce riding said $100,000 was allotted Toronto zoo in Provincial Treasurer Porter's recent budget—"that's $100,000 for monkeys, but not a cent for old people."

When Premier Frost rose to interrupt, Mr. Whicher shouted: "Sit down Mr. Prime Minister. Sit down and take it."

The government should feel ashamed of itself for not giving more welfare assistance, Mr. Whicher said.

OLIVER COMMENT

Opposition leader Oliver started things off by saying Premier Frost's government would have nothing to blame but itself for the federal government for everything.

Welfare Minister Cecile, in presenting his department's estimates earlier, had said the federal government should increase its aid to needy persons.

"Look in your own house before casting doubts on another administration's program," retorted Mr. Oliver, Liberal party leader. "Ontario has every right and opportunity to pay supplementary old-age grants. Other provinces do not."

Mr. Cecile said in his estimates speech he has written the federal government asking for increased social welfare aid.

PAYOR INCREASE

He said he favors increasing allowances to needy persons, but he is against any increase in the payor-to-payee ratio.

There were 185 miles with no road at all, 1,545 miles unpaved and 1,600 miles built to approved standards of the 2,850 miles of paved road.

The present highway - building agreements expire next Dec. 9. Mr. Winters has described the new federal plan as a step-along measure to complete the highway in the next four years.

The total estimated federal contribution would be increased to $220,000,000 from $160,000,000—the amount set when the trans-Canada road plan was begun in 1949. Estimated cost then was $300,000,000.

Mammoth Chunk Of Ice Cleared From Harbor

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Favorable northwest winds have cleared a massive chunk of ice out of Thunder Bay harbor, leaving open water between the city's outside docks and the shipping channel.

The triangle, cut 10 days ago from the main ice field by the icebreakers James Whalen and Ogoki, started moving Tuesday and by Wednesday.

W. E. Mutch, superintendent for United Towing and Salvage, Co. Ltd., estimated that work in open water on Lakehead navigation is about one week ahead of usual.

Missile Master Co-ordinates Air Defence

FORT MEADE, Md. (AP) — A lonely unveiled American anti-aircraft system is said by Army Secretary Wilbur Brucker to be capable of detecting an enemy's "aircraft and missiles," and co-ordinating the firing of Nike missiles against them.

The army calls the complex radar-Nike system "Missile Master." Engineers were shown the first developmental centre which controls Nike-Hercules fire in the Washington-Baltimore area. This army post lies between the two cities.

Current Nike installations include 11 Nike installations spotted over a 30-mile area. Each such installation has eight launchers.

Officials said the Missile-Master can detect individual planes of a mass raid, assign a battery to engage each and keep track ahead and for apmong aircraft in the area.

The army says Missile-Master is a fast integrated system for tying together all elements of anti-aircraft missile defence from target detection to target destruction.

OVER 25-LINE TOT

CHICAGO (AP) — A 3½-year-old girl was fatally injured Thursday against a cab driver accused of running down a passenger who offered a 15-cent tip for a $4.85 ride. The action against Jesse Hamilton, 44, was filed in felony court to conform with a recommendation of the evidence by a coroner's jury. A previous charge of murder, placed by police, was withdrawn.

Morley Bannister, Picton, Killed, Thrown from Car

Morley Bannister, aged 51, of 3 Portland Street, Picton, was fatally injured early today when he was thrown from a rolling car on the Black Creek Road one-and-a-half miles south of Picton.

A passenger in the car driven by Bannister, Edwood Hood, 23, of Milford, was injured.

Provincial Police Constable John Thompson of Picton who investigated the accident, stated that Bannister and Hood were driving north about 3.30 this morning, when the car struck a pothole in the road, skidded on an icy patch of roadway and then rolled over. Bannister was thrown from the car as it rolled and was found beneath the car.

That Union Dues agreement between Canadian National Railway and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was condemned as illegal. That union dues were not negotiated within the bounds of the Labor Relations Investigation and Disputes Act.
Here in part are the final analyses of the presiding Judge: "Considering that plaintiff has proven the essential allegations of his declaration:
Considering that defendants have not established the grounds raised in their respective pleas:
Considering that plaintiff's action is well founded in fact and in law:
For these reasons:
This court doth maintain plaintiff's action with costs against defendants. Doth declare illegal, null and void clauses 1 to 9, 13, 15, 16 of the Union Dues agreement.

Half Objective Of Red Cross Now Obtained

The Belleville Branch of the Red Cross has reached the halfway mark in its campaign for $30,000.

Almost $10,000 has been collected in Belleville in the first four days of the campaign, chairman Jack Ireland reported today. Returns from the house-to-house canvass this year show a marked increase over last year's returns.

The commercial and industrial canvass is still being carried out with returns coming in slowly.

As yet, no returns from Hastings and Prince Edward County municipalities served by the branch, have been received although committees are working diligently in all centres.

Trenton Police Chief Jack Taylor is in charge of the drive in Trenton, with Mrs. Fred Kedey chairman of the campaign committee. In Picton, Mrs. Douglas Porter, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, is directing the Red Cross campaign being conducted by club members.

Chairmen in other municipalities are — Tweed, Art McCarey, assisted by the Tweed Kiwanis Club; Batawa, Mrs. Ralph Simmons, Alex Fraser, assisted by the Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club; Stirling, Robert Hatton; Madoc, Dorian Stuart, president of the Lions and School association.

Monday, Mitts Day, scheduled for Monday, March 26th, is one week later than Mitts Day throughout the rest of the area being canvassed by the Belleville branch.

Queen Elizabeth is shown chatting with Sir John D'Albiac, Commandant of London airport, on her arrival in England, after a Mediterranean cruise in the royal yacht Britannia. The Queen, accompanied by Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh and other members of the family, spent a very informal week sailing in sunny south during which time a visit to Corsica was made. — Central Press Canadian.

301 Charges For Speeding In February

Speeding offences continued to predominate in the No. 9 provincial police district during the month of February with charges for this infraction of the H.T.A. making up more than half of the total charges laid.

During the month there were 301 charges laid for speeding out of a total of 578.

There were 123 accidents reports in the district with one fatality and 43 persons injured.

Vehicles checked on the highway totalled 2,536 with 677 warnings being issued to drivers. Thirty-five charges were laid for careless driving, 17 drivers were found to be impaired and one drunk driver was reported.

Farmers' Union Discusses Lengthy Agenda

The regular monthly meeting of Marysville Local 118 of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held in Marysville Hall on Thursday, with an enthusiastic and faithful attendance participating.

President Harold Murphy, who called the meeting to order and asked the secretary, Charles Brennan, to read the minutes of the February monthly meeting. Following the reading of the minutes, correspondence and announcements from head office were dealt with.

Quite a lengthy business period followed the reports of committees.

The president gave a report on his recent trip to the Marketing conference held in Toronto, on March 6th and 7th.

Refreshments were served.

Kingston Will Televise Rangers, Canadiens Game

Television stations in Barrie, Peterborough, Kingston and Ottawa, which would ordinarily carry Saturday's Detroit-Toronto NHL playoff game, will see televised the game between Canadiens and Rangers from New York. CBC officials announced today. The commentary will be in English.

The reason for the CBC explained, is that the only one microwave circuit is available to Ontario TV outlets east and north of Toronto. This circuit is already committed to carry the Montreal game for distribution from Montreal to stations on the French television network. The Canadien-Ranger game must reach Montreal by way of Buffalo and Toronto since there is no direct microwave link between New York and Montreal.

The Toronto-Detroit game will be carried on one of the stations of the Trans-Canada radio network.

District Governor Pays Official Visit to Club

TRENTON (Special). — District Governor Cecil Hall, Kingston, in charge of the Rotary Club of Trenton here last night called for the government to give more thought to probation of inmates of penal institutions in Canada. He went on to say that the British government experimented with a new policy of probation after the war and found that it worked successfully. As a result the population of prisons in Great Britain has been reduced considerably. He pointed out that there is a good chance of reforming a person who gets into trouble for the first time. He praised the work being done by the Salvation Army and the John Howard association helping rehabilitate the criminal.

Governor Martin was introduced by International Councillor Nostrand Sprague, past district governor Murray Vail Carswell delivered the vote of thanks. Larry McClintock, president of the local club was in the chair.

Morrisburg's Relocation Troubles Over

MORRISBURG (CP) — Federal, provincial and Ontario Hydro planners, in one session Thursday with the municipal council of this seaway valley town, overcame all major obstacles to proceeding with the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Half of Morrisburg is to be flooded. Of its 2,100 population, 1,200 would be affected. Highway 2, main route between Montreal and Toronto, is being moved back from the St. Lawrence shorelines to follow a former CNR right-of-way around the town's northern outskirts.

Highway 31, which stretches north 54 miles to Ottawa, now passes under the right-of-way at a subway. Planners insisted on retaining the subway in rerouting highway 2.

Morrisburg council wanted the highways to intersect at a level, maintaining the intersection would be the town's new business nucleus. If the overpass were kept, they feared their business area would be bypassed.

PROVIDE HOUSING

Seaway planners made these concessions:

1. A level intersection would be provided, the two highways meeting at a traffic circle.

2. Hydro and the province would provide Morrisburg with a new civic building.

3. A housing development of perhaps 100 units and costing perhaps $1,000,000 would be built through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. It would be the first government - sponsored low rental housing project in a town under 3,000 population. Hydro would provide serviced lots.

Settlement of Morrisburg's difficulties would complete relocation plans involving several communities to be flooded along the St. Lawrence.

TORONTO STOCKS
Industrials featured a moderately active first hour's business on the stock exchange today. Base metals were firm, but western oils and golds were down a shade.

Steels, textiles, utilities and refining oils were the leading groups in the industrial advance. Gains were mostly fractional but fairly widespread. Power Corp. was up $1.50 at $57.25. Universal Products and Crown Zellerbach added a point.

Campbell Chibougamau climbed $1 in the mining division. Hoyle, at $2.45, and Nipissing, at $3.60, each added 20 cents. Belcher was up 15 at $1.20. Geco was down ½.

Aldrich was a firm spot in golds with a 15-cent advance to $1.40 by brisk trading. Merrill Pete continued strong in western oils, climbing 50 cents to a new high of $19.62.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was steady with sufficient offerings for a quiet demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: eggs, in cartons: A extra large 48; A medium 47; A small 40; B 38; C 35. Wholesale to retail: A large 53; A medium 52; A small 43; B 43; C 40.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. The dollar's noon rate 89 27-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80¾, down ⅝.

Greek-Cypriot Youths Given Life Sentences

NICOSIA (Reuters) — A British judge today sentenced three Greek-Cypriot youths to life imprisonment for murder and firearms, after pointing out that he was being lenient in not sentencing them to death.

The sentences were imposed under emergency regulations laid down by Governor Sir John Harding who has been fighting nearly a year of anti-British violence by Greek-Cypriots who demand that strategic Mediterranean island be united with Greece.

The three youths were caught carrying arms early last month. They pleaded guilty and were not challenged by British troops, and did not open fire.

Meanwhile, there were new repercussions in Greece and in Britain over the British government's banishment earlier this month of Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, leader of Cyprus' union-with-Greece movement.

In Athens Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis heard appeals from leaders of opposition parties to form a "national union" government devised to deal with the crisis brought on by the deportation.

In London, the Church of England newspaper strongly backed a three-point compromise plan drawn up by the Archbishop of Canterbury for solving the Cyprus problem.

It says that "sooner or later" the British government will have to give some ground in the dispute with Cypriot leaders, describes Archbishop Makarios as "respected by his people so ably" and condemns the "cruelty of forcible deportation."

SHOT AT SOUND

ATLANTA (AP)—A blind man who killed himself after an argument by shooting at the sound of her voice faced a five-to-10-year prison sentence today for voluntary manslaughter.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were uneven, hogs steady to 50 cents a hundredweight lower and sheep and lambs generally unchanged at the Ontario public stockyards this week.

Receipts of cattle were 700 head more than last week and 600 head more than the same week in 1955. Receipts from western Canada were 306 as compared with 116 last week. Westerns were mostly replacement cattle.

Shipments to eastern Canada slaughterers, 56 carloads, were three carloads greater than last week. There were no exports to the U.S.A.

Cautious buying of dressed beef because of the approaching Easter season depressed cattle trade. Also, fed yearlings were offered in numbers too great for the trade to absorb.

Steers sold steady to 25 cents a hundredweight lower.

A BRAND — OF NONSENSE

The Ontario Department of Highways is now issuing special red licences in certain cases to drivers whose licences have been suspended and then reinstated.

This provision for special licences has evoked considerable criticism.

More than one paper has likened the red licences to the practice of branding, to which criminals were once subjected.

The red licences will mean that a police officer will immediately know that the driver has a record when the officer requires him to show his licence.

The court which tries him, if he is charged by the officer, may also be made aware of his former record before his case is heard, if it is agreed. There will be a prejudice against the driver, it is feared.

"The red licence," says one paper, "is only a modification of the long outmoded and pilloried practice of branding for all time to come. Next thing the holder may be required to wear it on his coat lapel or paste it on the windshield like the provincial club emblems."

Newspapers, and individuals, who talk like this, appear to us to be disregarding several facts.

For instance, every driver's licence carries on its back a place for recording past offences. We can think of nothing to prevent a constable inspecting the back of the licence, if he so desires. The color of the licence thus merely calls the attention of the constable to a fact which, in many cases, he should always ascertain from inspection of the licence.

Secondly, while reference to former convictions is not permissible until after a case has been tried and is then only relevant with regard to the fixing of a penalty, magistrates and judges are not machines, but are intelligent human beings, many of them possessing long memories. Many a judge or magistrate knows that the accused person has a record, long before the case is decided. Cases are rarely produced in which a conviction has been registered, and even if the licence was produced prior to this time it would, in many cases, not provide the presiding magistrate with any information which his memory had not already recalled to him. To suggest that a magistrate or a judge would be prejudiced against an accused person if the latter is a driver who is required to exhibit a very low opinion of the magistrate's or judge's qualifications for the office he holds.

The most important fact overlooked by those who oppose the issuance of licences are overlooking is that infractions of the traffic law are seldom as clear-cut as are crimes. Particularly is this the case where drivers have been drinking. Can the ability to drive be impaired? In many cases that is a matter of opinion. The court's opinion is the one which eventually counts. But the traffic policeman must also form an opinion. Moreover, he must consider not only what has transpired, up to the time that he asks to see a driver's licence, but also what may transpire if he should decide that the driver is capable of continuing on his way without endangering the lives of others, and his own life. We see nothing wrong with a red licence calling the attention of a constable to the fact that here is a man who, on at least one occasion in the past, drove in a manner which resulted in his licence being suspended. One may expect a constable to exercise greater caution before permitting this motorist to continue than he would if he stopped a driver whose past record indicated he was always careful and capable of controlling his car.

There is every reason why a past conviction should not prejudice a driver's case on a new charge. But there is also every reason why the driver himself should be assisted in every way possible to make our highways safer. The red licence should never be the basis for a new charge, but it might well be used for the purpose of reminding that the driver let a friend take the wheel, or that he get a cup of coffee before proceeding.

CANADA LEADING MANUFACTURING NATION

Canada, according to a Federal Department of Trade and Commerce press release, is the fifth largest of the world's manufacturing nations in terms of the total value of commodities produced. The five nations which produce more manufactured goods are the United States, the United Kingdom, West Germany, France and Russia, the first four in that order with respect to one another, but with Russia's output not precisely determined.

On the basis of per capita production, Canada ranks second behind the United States but ahead of the United Kingdom, West Germany and France, as well as ahead of Russia.

An interesting point is that most Canadian manufacturers process raw materials produced in Canada, while the United Kingdom, Germany and France depend, to a large extent, on imported raw materials.

It is also worthy of note that Canada, with the second highest per capita production in the world, consumes most of these products herself, exporting only 15 per cent. This is made possible, of course, by the fact that we have our own raw materials to process, and do not have to export the greater portion of the products of our factories in order to obtain raw materials for them to process.

Without in any way subscribing to the theory that Canadians should be "hewers of wood and drawers of water," it might be added that the fact we have more than enough raw materials to supply our own industries makes it possible for us to export only those raw materials and purchase goods which are not produced in Canada, while still keeping 85 per cent of our manufactured goods for our own use.
